The Ontario Highway Transport Board, pursuant to Section 16 of The Ontario Highway Transport Board Act, will review the terms of the certificate, dated June 18th, 1958, which led to the issuance of Class 'D' public commercial vehicle operating licence No. 1338, and its immediate antecedents, to establish if, as alleged, the Class 'F' privilege was omitted from the said licence in the course of re-writing or extending the said licence and/or antecedents, and more particularly if, as alleged, this Class 'F' privilege, reading "For the conveyance of road construction materials" was omitted from the Board's certificate of June 18, 1958.

If it is established that there was a clerical error, creating an amendment, the Board will require a list of the materials transported as road construction materials to satisfy current regulations.

The Board has set Tuesday, the 7th day of January, 1964, at 10 a.m. (E.S.T.) at its Chambers, 67 College Street, Toronto, Ontario, for the review of this certificate.

The Board may amend or revoke the terms of this certificate at the time of the hearing.

A. H. McLAREN,
Secretary.

Application to Parliament
Private Bills

PUBLIC NOTICE

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO

The attention of Municipal Officials, Solicitors and all other persons who may be interested in the preparation of Private Bills for submission to the Legislative Assembly of Ontario is directed particularly to the following Rules of the House governing the submission of such Bills:

RULES RE SUBMISSION OF PRIVATE BILLS

63.—(1) No petition for any Private Bill is received by the House after the first two weeks of each Session nor may any Private Bill be presented to the House after the first three weeks of each Session; nor may any report of any Standing or Select Committee upon a Private Bill be received after the first six weeks of each Session; and no motion for the general suspension or modification of this Rule shall be entertained by the House unless after reference made thereof, at a previous sitting of the House, to the several Standing Committees charged with the consideration of Private Bills upon Report submitted to two or more of such committees.

64.—(1) Any person desiring to obtain a Private Bill shall deposit with the Clerk of the House at least eight (8) days before the meeting of the House a copy of such Bill together with a fee of $150, and if such Bill is not deposited by that time the applicant shall pay $10 for each and every day which intervenes between the said eighth day and the date of the filing of the Bill.

(2) After the first reading of the Bill and before its consideration by the Committee to which it is referred, the applicant in every case shall pay the cost of printing the Act in the Statutes.

(3) The following charges shall also be levied and paid in addition to the foregoing:

(a) When any rule of the House is suspended with reference to a Bill or the Petition therefor, for each suspension, $50.

(b) When a Bill is presented to the House after the first three weeks of the Session and before the end of the fourth week, $75.

(c) When a Bill is presented after the fourth week of the Session, $100.

(4) In the case of any Bill incorporating a company or increasing the capital stock of a company already incorporated, there shall be paid to the Clerk of the House, by or on behalf of the applicant, before the same is reported to the House, the same fee as would be payable to the Provincial Secretary in the case of an incorporation or increase of capital under the provisions of The Corporations Act, less the sum of $150 already paid to the Clerk of the House.

(5) When a Bill is for the purpose of confirming by-laws, bonds, debentures or other securities, or authority is asked to borrow money or to increase borrowing powers, the following additional fees shall be paid according to the amount of money involved:

On amounts less than $10,000, $25; on amounts over $10,000 and up to $25,000, $50; on amounts over $25,000 and up to $40,000, $75; on amounts over $40,000 and up to $75,000, $100; on amounts over $75,000 and up to $125,000, $125; on amounts over $125,000 and up to $175,000, $150; on amounts over $175,000 and up to $250,000, $200; on amounts over $250,000 and up to $350,000, $250; and an additional fee of $50 for every $100,000 over $350,000.

66. All applications for Private Bills properly the subject of legislation by the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, within the purview of "The British North America Act, 1867", shall require a Notice, clearly and distinctly specifying the nature and object of the application and, where the application refers to any proposed work, indicating generally the location of the work, and signed by or on behalf of the applicants, such Notice to be published as follows, viz.:

A notice inserted in THE ONTARIO GAZETTE and in one newspaper published in the Municipality affected, or, if there be no newspaper published therein, then in a newspaper in the next nearest municipality in which a newspaper is published.

Such notice shall be continued in each case for a period of at least six weeks, during the interval of time between the close of the next preceding Session and the consideration of the Petition.

If the application is by a Municipal Corporation for authority to issue debentures, the notice shall set out the particulars of the existing debentures debt and the amount of rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised assessment roll of the Corporation, and in brief and general terms the object for which the new issue of debentures is required.

67. Before any Petition praying for leave to bring in a Private Bill for the erection of a Toll Bridge is received by the House, the person or persons intending to petition for such Bill shall, upon giving the Notice required by the preceding Rule, also, at the same time and in the same manner, give Notice of the rates which they intend to ask, the extent of the privileges, the height of the arches, the interval between the abutments or piers for the passage of rafts and vessels, and mentioning also whether they intend to erect a drawbridge or not, and the dimensions of the same.

68. Before any Petition praying for leave to bring in a Bill for the construction of Railways, Tramways or canals is received by the House, the person or persons petitioning for such Bill shall deposit with the Clerk the following documents:

1. A map or plan upon a scale of not less than half an inch to the mile, showing the location upon which it is intended to construct the proposed work, and showing also the line of existing or authorized works of a similar character within, or in any way affecting, the district or any part thereof which the proposed work is intended to serve. Such map or plan shall be signed by the Engineer or other party making the same.

2. A book of reference in which shall be clearly set out the following information in separate schedules, namely:

SCHEDULE A.—The name of each municipality within which the proposed works or any part thereof are intended to be constructed; the population of each such municipality as returned by the next preceding census; the rateable value of the property within each such municipality, as returned by the next preceding assessment rolls thereof; and this schedule may contain in a separate statement similar information as to the adjoining districts intended to be served by the proposed work.

SCHEDULE B.—A general description of the nature, extent and proposed character of the contemplated works, and an estimate of the probable cost thereof, distinguishing the general items of construction and the cost thereof respectively, as well as the nature, extent and probable cost of all engines and car stock or other outfit or equipment necessary to the use and operation of the proposed undertaking, such schedule to be signed by the Engineer or other person preparing the same.

SCHEDULE C.—An exhibit showing the total amount of capital proposed to be raised for the purposes of the undertaking and the manner in which it is proposed to raise the same, whether by ordinary shares, bonds, debentures or other securities, and the amounts of each respectively.

SCHEDULE D.—An estimate of the probable revenues of the proposed undertaking, showing the sources whence the same are expected to be derived; the annual earnings thereof respectively; the probable annual cost of operation or working expenditure, and the annual net revenue applicable to the payment of interest on the proposed investments.

Such schedules shall be signed by the person preparing the same.

72. When any Bill for confirming any Letters Patent, or Agreement, is presented to the House, the copy of such Letters Patent, or Agreement, shall be attached to it.

74. Every Private Bill, when read a first time, unless it be an Estate Bill or a Bill providing for the consolidation of a floating debt or for the consolidation or renewal of debentures (other than local improvement debentures) of a Municipal Corporation, shall stand referred to the proper Standing Committee, and all petitions before the House, for or against the Bill, are considered referred to such Committee.

75. Every Private Bill, in so far as it provides for the consolidation of a floating debt or for the consolidation or renewal of debentures (other than local improvement debentures) of a Municipal Corporation, when a Bill has been read the first time, shall, without special reference, stand referred to The Ontario Municipal Board for their report; and a copy of such Bill and of the Petition on which the same is founded shall be forthwith transmitted by the Clerk of the House to the Board, in order that the Board may, after an inquiry into the allegations set out in the Bill, and into any other matters which the Board may deem necessary in connection therewith, report to the House whether or not it is reasonable that such Bill or part thereof relating to the matters aforesaid shall be passed; and what alterations, if any, should be made in the same; and the Board shall make such inquiry accordingly and shall sign the same; and the said Report, Bill and Petition shall be transmitted to the Clerk, and the Report shall be read by the Clerk at the Table and shall be entered on the Journals of the House, and the Bill, together with the Report, shall stand referred to the Standing Committee on Private Bills.

76. Every Estate Bill, when read a first time, shall without special reference stand referred to the Commissioners of Estate Bills, for their Report, and a copy of such Bill, and of the Petition on which the same is founded, shall be forthwith transmitted by the Clerk of the House to the said Commissioners, or one of them, in order that they, or any two of them, may, after perusing the Bill, without requiring any proof of the allegations thereof, report to the House their opinion thereon under their hands; and whether, presuming the allegation contained in the preamble to be proved to the satisfaction of the House, it is reasonable that such Bill do pass into a Law; and whether the provisions thereof are proper for carrying its purposes into effect, and what alterations or amendments, if any, are necessary in the same, and in the event of their approving the said Bill they are to sign the same; and the said Report, with the said Bill and Petition, are to be transmitted by the said Commissioners to the Clerk; and the Report shall be read by the Clerk at the Table and shall be entered on the Journals of the House; and the Bill together with the Report shall stand referred to the Standing Committee on Private Bills, which is not to consider the said Bill before the delivery of the said Report, Bill and Petition to the Chairman of the said Committee.

77. In the event of the Commissioners of Estate Bills reporting that, in their opinion, it is not reasonable that the Bill submitted to them shall pass into law, such Bill shall not be further considered.

RODERICK LEWIS, Q.C.,
Clerk of Legislative Assembly of Ontario.

CITY OF TORONTO

Application for Special Legislation

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on behalf of The Corporation of the City of Toronto, application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next Session, for special legislation to provide:

1. That by-laws may be passed by the Council of the Corporation to permit the owner of the lands at the northwest corner of Carlton and Church Streets in the City of Toronto to construct, maintain and use extensions over, upon and under the public highways known as Carlton Street and Wood Street of the building now standing on the said lands and known as Maple Leaf Gardens and to permit the Corporation to enter into an agreement with such owner prescribing the terms and conditions upon which such extensions may be constructed, maintained and used and without in any way limiting the foregoing, for prescribing the duration of such permission, such annual or other charges for the giving of such permission as the Council deems reasonable, the indemnification of the Corporation against any loss occasioned thereby and the giving of security therefor, the provision and maintenance of such parking facilities as may be deemed desirable, the payment of amounts in lieu of taxes in respect of real property and business taxes on the parts of the highways over, upon or under which the said extensions encroach, the payment of the said charges for the permission given and the amounts to be paid in lieu of taxes in like manner as real property taxes and the enforcement of payment of such charges and amounts to be paid in lieu of real property taxes in like manner as the payment of real property taxes may be enforced, the approval of plans of the said extensions by Council and by any Committee thereof, the payment to the Corporation in the manner to be prescribed or to any board, commission or corporation concerned of the cost of relocating, removing or altering any utilities or other public services resulting from or incidental to such extensions and the additional cost of constructing or laying down any such utilities or services in the future when such additional cost is made necessary by the extensions.

2. For the authorization and confirmation of the making of a grant by the Corporation to the Canadian Red Cross for the purpose of assisting in providing relief to the citizens of the City of Skopje.

3. That the Corporation may lease to John Inglis Co., Limited, any part of the lands in the Ordnance Reserve Plan, bounded on the north by the Frederick G. Gardiner Expressway lands, on the south by Fleet Street, on the west by Strachan Avenue and on the east by the west limit of Garrison Road, clear of and free from the limitation for park or industrial exhibition purposes only imposed by Section 10 of An Act respecting the City of Toronto, being Chapter 86, Statutes of Ontario, 1903.

4. For the amendment of Section 4 of The City of Toronto Act, 1960-61, relating to the levying of special charges in one or more defined areas for the capital cost or part thereof of off-street parking lots and the erection of buildings thereon, by the addition thereto of subsections providing in effect that when a by-law has been passed for levying charges as aforesaid, and the Council is of the opinion that lands in any other defined area or areas have begun or may begin to derive a special benefit from such work following the passing subsequent to the said levy of a by-law or amendment to a by-law pursuant to Section 30 of The Planning Act, the Council may by a further by-law passed with the approval of The Ontario Municipal Board levy charges against the lands in the said last-mentioned area or areas of such amounts as would have been charged against such lands if the Council had been of the opinion that the lands derived a special benefit therefrom at the time of the passing of the first-mentioned by-law, and further providing that the charges levied pursuant to the above shall be due and payable in equal annual instalments commencing the year next following the year in which the by-law imposing such levy was passed and shall continue for such term of years as the charges were imposed by the first-mentioned by-law, and shall be a lien upon the land and may be recovered in the same manner as real property taxes may be recovered, and further providing that such charges shall when paid be credited to any portion of the capital cost of the work assumed by the Corporation and to principal and interest payments upon any debentures issued in respect of such portion, and any surplus shall be used for the purposes set out in subclauses (ii) and (iii) of clause (f) of paragraph 67 of Section 377 of The Municipal Act.

Dated at Toronto, this 19th day of November, 1963.

Wherefore any other person having or claiming to have any title to or interest in the said land or any part thereof is required on or before the 2nd day of December, 1963, to file a statement of his claim in my office in the City of Port Arthur and to serve a copy on the said James Richardson & Sons Limited, and in default every such claim may be barred, and the title of the applicant become absolute and indefeasible at law and in equity subject only to the reservations mentioned in Sections 9 and 23 of the said Act.

The address of the said James Richardson & Sons Limited, for service is, c/o Messrs. Petrone & Walneck, Barristers, etc., 22 S. Court Street, Port Arthur, Ontario.

Dated this 23rd day of October, 1963.

W. A. ELLIOTT,
Local Master of Titles at Port Arthur, Ontario.

SCHEDULE 'A'

FIRSTLY:
All and Singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Port Arthur, in the District of Thunder Bay, and being composed of part of Mining Location 7, Herrick's Survey, formerly in the Township of McIntyre, now in the City of Port Arthur, containing 19.39 acres, more or less, more particularly described as follows:

Premising that the west limit of the said Location has a bearing of north 0 degrees 52 minutes 30 seconds west, and relating all bearings herein thereto;

Commencing where a survey post has been planted in the west limit of the said Location distant 100 feet measured southeasterly from and at right angles to the southeasterly limit of the right-of-way of the Canadian Pacific Railway; thence north 51 degrees 30 minutes 30 seconds east parallel to the said limit of the said right-of-way, 464 feet to a survey post planted; thence easterly on a curve to the right having a radius of 461.9 feet, 429.96 feet arc measurement, the long chord being south 88 degrees 30 minutes 17 seconds east, 404.60 feet to a survey post planted; thence south 38 degrees 29 minutes 30 seconds east, 318.3 feet to a survey post planted; thence south 8 degrees, 45 minutes 38 seconds east, 96.79 feet to a survey post planted; thence south 5 degrees 08 minutes 40 seconds east, 75 feet to a survey post planted in the northwesterly limit of the road allowance in front of the said Location; thence in a general southerly and westerly direction following the said limit of the said road allowance to a survey post planted distant 66 feet measured easterly from and at right angles to the west limit of the said Location; thence north 0 degrees 52 minutes 30 seconds west, 293.6 feet to a survey post planted; thence north 38 degrees 30 minutes 30 seconds west, 108.09 feet to a survey post planted in the west limit of the said Location; thence north 0 degrees 52 minutes 30 seconds west along the west limit of the said Location, 486.53 feet to the point of commencement.

SECONDLY:
All and Singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Port Arthur, in the District of Thunder Bay, and being composed of part of road allowance in front of Mining Location 7, Herrick's Survey, formerly in the Township of McIntyre now in the City of Port Arthur, closed by By-law 2857 of the City of Port Arthur registered in the Registry Office at Port Arthur as Instrument No. 19974D, containing 1.06 acres, more or less, more particularly described as follows:

Premising that the west limit of the said Location has a bearing of north 0 degrees 52 minutes 30 seconds west, and relating all bearings herein thereto;

The east boundary of the said portion of road allowance being a line drawn on a bearing of south 5 degrees 08 minutes 40 seconds east from a point distant 578.3 feet measured south 38 degrees 29 minutes 30 seconds east from a point distant 774 feet measured north 51 degrees 30 minutes 30 seconds east from a point in the west limit of the said Location distant 100 feet measured southeasterly from and at right angles to the southeasterly limit of the right-of-way of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the west limit of the said portion of road allowance being a line drawn on a bearing of north 38 degrees 25 minutes west from a point in the southeasterly limit of Water Lot 5-P distant 1006.9 feet measured north 51 degrees 35 minutes east along the said limit of the said Water Lot from the most southerly angle of the said Water Lot.

TOWN OF WESTON

Change of Name of St. John's Road to Clouston Avenue

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of the Corporation of the Town of Weston proposes to pass a By-law to change the name of St. John's Road between Weston Road and Centre Road to Clouston Avenue.

His Honour Judge Denton, of the County Court of the County of York, has approved of the foregoing Notice and has appointed Thursday, the 12th day of December, 1963, at 10.30 o'clock in the forenoon, in the Council Chamber, Municipal Building, Weston, as the time and place for considering the proposed By-law and for hearing those advocating or opposing the change contemplated therein.

A copy of the proposed By-law, giving the reasons for the change, may be seen at the Clerk's Office, Municipal Building.

Dated at Weston this 28th day of October, 1963.

G. H. CLARKSON,
Clerk.

THE BOUNDARIES ACT

Notice of Hearing

TAKE NOTICE that, pursuant to Section 7 of The Boundaries Act, I have ordered a survey and plan to be made for the purpose of confirming the true location on the ground of part of the boundary between Lots 58 and 59, Front Concession of the Township of Sarnia, now in the City of Sarnia.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that a draft plan of survey of the said boundary made by H. Krebs, Ontario Land Surveyor, dated November 4th, 1963, is deposited in my office, 90 Albert Street, City of Toronto, and may be inspected by any party or parties interested therein on any weekday, between the hours of 9.30 a.m. and 4.30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that any person desiring to object to the confirmation of the said boundary as shown on the draft plan is required to deliver to me by registered mail or by personal service on or before the 5th day of December, 1963, a written statement setting forth the nature and grounds of the objection.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that I have appointed the 11th day of December, 1963, at 2.00 o'clock in the afternoon, to hear this application in the City-County Administrative Building, North Christina Street, Sarnia, Ontario, at which time any person or persons who have filed an objection may appear either personally or through their solicitors to present the evidence in support thereof.

Dated at my office at 90 Albert Street, Toronto, this 19th day of November, 1963.

S. SMITH,
Director of Titles.

THE LAND TITLES ACT

In the Matter of that part of Lot 11 in the 9th Concession of the Township of Grantham, now in the City of St. Catharines, more particularly described in registered Instrument No. 38893.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Frank A. Branscombe, in trust, has made an application to the Master of Titles of St. Catharines for a certificate of title to this land of which he claims to be the owner in fee simple free from all encumbrances.

Wherefore any other person having or claiming to have any title to or interest in the land or any part thereof is required on or before the 29th day of November, 1963, to file a statement of his claim in my office at the City of St. Catharines, and to serve a copy on the Applicant.

The address of the Applicant for service is: c/o Cavers, Chown & Cairns, Barristers, etc., 27 Queen Street, St. Catharines, Ontario.

Dated at St. Catharines this 19th day of November, 1963.

H. W. BYRNE,
Local Master of Titles.

THE BOUNDARIES ACT

NOTICE OF HEARING

TAKE NOTICE that an application has been made by Mr. P. Ross for the purpose of confirming the true location on the ground of the boundaries of the lands described in Instrument No. 49897 registered in the Registry Office for the Registry Division of the County of Peel.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that a draft plan of survey of the said boundaries made by William Jackson, Ontario Land Surveyor, dated July 15, 1963, is deposited in my office, 90 Albert Street, City of Toronto, and may be inspected by any party or parties interested therein on any week-day, between the hours of 9.30 a.m. and 4.30 p.m., Monday through Friday, or at the office of the surveyor at 281 Humbercrest Boulevard, Toronto 9, Ontario.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that any person desiring to object to the confirmation of the said boundaries as shown on the draft plan is required to deliver to me by registered mail or by personal service on or before the 3rd day of December, 1963, a written statement setting forth the nature and grounds of the objection and to serve a copy thereof on the applicant.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that I have appointed the 6th day of December, 1963, at 10.30 o'clock in the forenoon, to hear this application in my office, at which time any person or persons who have filed an objection may appear either personally or through their solicitors to present the evidence in support thereof.

The address of the Applicant for service is: Anderson, Sinclair, Walters, Switzer & Associates, Barristers and Solicitors, 2881 Dundas Street West, Toronto 9, Ontario.

Dated at my office at 90 Albert Street, Toronto, this 19th day of November, 1963.

S. SMITH,
Director of Titles.

Sheriff's Sale of Lands

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF a Writ of Fieri Facias issued out of the County Court of the County of Peel, bearing date the 16th day of June, 1961, to me directed, against the lands and tenements of Leo Forten and Elsie Forten, Defendants, at the suit of Palmer Lumber Co. Limited, Plaintiff, I have seized and taken in execution all the right, title, interest and equity of redemption of the said Leo Forten and Elsie Forten in, to and out of:

All and Singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises, situate, lying and being in the Township of Arthur, in the County of Wellington and Province of Ontario, being composed of the south half of Lot Number Seven (7) in the Fourth (4th) Concession of the said Township of Arthur, containing One Hundred (100) acres more or less.

On the said premises are said to be erected a dwelling house and barn.

All of which said right, title, interest and equity of redemption of the said Leo Forten and Elsie Forten in the said lands and tenements I shall offer for sale by public auction at my office in the Court House at the City of Guelph, on Friday, the 28th day of February, 1964, at 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Dated at the Court House, Guelph, this 18th day of November, 1963.

H. CARMAN WAIND,

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF an Execution issued out of the County Court of the County of York, to me directed, against the lands and tenements of Boniface Robust and (Mrs.) Adele Robust, also known as Adele Trudzinski, Defendants, at the suit of The Robert Simpson Company Limited, Plaintiff, I have seized and taken in execution all the right, title, interest and equity of redemption of Boniface Robust and (Mrs.) Adele Robust, also known as Adele Trudzinski, defendants, in and to:

All and Singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the City of Toronto, being composed of parts of Lots 39 and 40 on the south side of Galley Avenue according to registered Plan 727.

On the premises is said to be erected a semi-detached two-storey dwelling containing 6 rooms and a double garage at the rear.

The dwelling is solid brick with hardwood flooring on the first floor and pine floor on the second. It is heated by an oil forced-air furnace.

Municipally known as 175 Galley Avenue, Toronto Ontario.

All of which said right, title, interest and equity of redemption of the said Boniface Robust and (Mrs.) Adele Robust, also known as Adele Trudzinski, Defendants, in the said lands and tenements, I shall offer for sale by public auction in my office, Room 113, City Hall, Toronto, on Wednesday, the 26th day of February, 1964, at 3.00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Dated at Toronto this 19th day of November, 1963.

PHILIP J. AMBROSE,

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF an Execution issued out of the County Court of the County of York, to me directed, against the lands and tenements of Laura Isabel Desrochers and Edward Herbert Charles Brown, Defendants, at the suit of Trans Canada Credit Corporation Limited, Plaintiff, I have seized and taken in execution all the right, title, interest and equity of redemption of Laura Isabel Desrochers, one of the defendants, in and to:

All and Singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Vaughan, in the County of York, known as the easterly half of Lot 30 according to Plan 3205, registered in the Registry Office for the Registry Division of the East and West Riding of the County of York.

On the premises is said to be erected a frame five-room bungalow with no garage.

Municipally known as 120 Crestwood Road, Willowdale, Ontario.

All of which said right, title, interest and equity of redemption of the said Laura Isabel Desrochers, one of the defendants in the said lands and tenements, I shall offer for sale by public auction in my office, Room 113, City Hall, Toronto, on Wednesday, the 26th day of February, 1964, at 2.15 o'clock in the afternoon.

Dated at Toronto this 19th day of November, 1963.

PHILIP J. AMBROSE,
Sheriff, County of York.

THE POWER COMMISSION ACT

O. Reg. 304/63.
Ontario Electrical Code.
Made—November 6th, 1963.
Approved—November 14th, 1963.
Filed—November 15th, 1963.

REGULATION MADE UNDER
THE POWER COMMISSION ACT

SECTION 0 — DEFINITIONS

0-002 In this Code:

1. "acceptable" means acceptable to an inspector;

2. "accessible" when applied to wiring methods means that the wiring is not permanently closed in by the structure or finish of a building and is capable of being removed without disturbing the building structure or finish;

3. "accessible" when applied to electrical equipment means that the equipment may be closely approached because it is not guarded by locked doors, elevation, or other effective means;

4. "alive" or "live" means electrically connected to a source of potential difference, or electrically charged so as to have a potential different from that of the earth; and in this Code "current-carrying" has the same meaning where the intention is clear;

5. "aluminum-sheathed cable" means a cable consisting of one or more conductors of approved type assembled into a core and covered with a liquid- and gas-tight sheath of aluminum or aluminum alloy;

6. "approved", when applied to electrical equipment, means that the use, installation, sale, offer for sale or other disposal of the electrical equipment has been authorized under Section 2 of this Code, and when applied to any other articles, methods or things means that the articles, methods or things are approved by the inspection department for the particular use or purpose to which the articles, methods or things are put or for which they are employed;

7. "approved fire-door" means a fire-door including the hardware which has been approved and labelled by the Underwriters' Laboratories of Canada or Underwriters' Laboratories Incorporated for the location in which it is used;

8. "armour" means a wrapping of galvanized interlocking steel strip or other approved metal, forming an integral part of the assembly of certain insulated cables, wires, or cords;

9. "armoured-cable" means a cable provided with a wrapping of metal tape other than lead, which wrapping forms an integral part of the assembly;

10. "authorized person" means a qualified person who by the nature of his duties or occupation is obliged to approach or handle electrical equipment, or a person who, having been warned of the hazards involved, has been instructed or authorized to do so by someone having authority to give the instruction or authorization;

11. "auxiliary gutter" means a sheet metal enclosure used to supplement the wiring space of electrical equipment and to enclose interconnecting conductors;

12. "AWG" means the American (or Brown and Sharpe) wire gauge as applied to non-ferrous conductors and non-ferrous sheet metal;

13. "branch circuit" means that part of a circuit extending beyond the final overcurrent devices in the circuit;

14. "building" means a structure that stands alone or which is cut off from adjoining structures by unpierced fire-walls or by openings protected by approved fire-doors;

15. "bus" means a conductor which serves as a common connection for the corresponding conductors of two or more circuits;

16. "busway" means metal troughing, including its elbows, tees and crosses, containing conductors intended for use as feeders, the conductors being supported on insulators;

17. "cabinet" means an enclosure of adequate mechanical strength, composed entirely of fire- and absorption-resistant material, designed either for surface or flush mounting and provided with a frame, matt, or trim, in which swinging doors are hung;

18. "cabletrough" means a system of metal troughing, and fittings therefor, to be used as a raceway, so formed and constructed that insulated conductors and cables may be readily installed or removed after the system has been completely installed, without injury to conductors or their covering;

19. "cell" means a single, enclosed tubular space in a cellular metal-floor member, the axis of the space being parallel to the axis of the metal-floor member;

20. "cellular" when applied to a metal-floor or part thereof means that the metal-floor or part thereof is so constructed as to contain one or more cells;

21. "cellular metal-floor race way" means the cells of cellular metal-floors which, with suitable fittings, may be approved as enclosures for electrical conductors;

22. "circuit" means a path usually of metal through which electric current can flow;

23. "circuit breaker" means an electro-mechanical device designed to automatically open a current-carrying circuit on a pre-determined over-current, under both overload and short-circuit conditions without injury to the device;

24. "communication circuit" means a circuit which is part of a communication system;

25. "Communication system" means an electrical system whereby intelligence or signals may be transmitted to or through a central station, including telephone, telegraph, district messenger, fire and burglar alarm, watchman or sprinkler supervisory-system, and other central station systems, which commonly receive the power supply necessary for their operation from central office or local power sources, but does not include radio communication equipment;

26. "concealed" means rendered permanently inaccessible by the structure or finish of a building;

27. "conductor" means a wire, cable or other form of metal installed for the purpose of conveying electric current from one piece of electrical equipment to another or to ground;

28. "connection authorization" means written permission by the inspection department to a supply authority, or any other person or corporation, to supply electric energy to a particular electrical installation;

29. "consumer service" means all that part of the consumer's installation from the service box or its equivalent up to and including the point at which the supply authority makes connection;

30. "contractor" means any person who as principal, servant or agent, by himself or his associates, employees, servants or agents performs or engages to perform either for his own use and benefit or for that of another and for or without remuneration or gain any work with respect to any electrical installation or any other work to which this Code applies;

31. "cut out box" means an enclosure of adequate mechanical strength, composed entirely of fire-resistant and absorption-resistant material, designed for surface mounting and having swinging doors or covers secured directly to, and telescoping with, the walls of the box proper;

32. "dead" when applied to electrical equipment means that the current-carrying electrical equipment is free from any electrical connection to a source of potential difference and from electrical charge or has not a potential different from that of earth;

33. "dead front" when applied to electrical equipment means that the electrical equipment is so constructed that all live parts, except the wells for plug fuses in panelboards and in enclosed branch-circuit cut-outs, are enclosed in such manner as to be inaccessible;

34. "different systems" means systems which derive their energy from different transformers or from different banks of transformers or from different generators or other sources;

35. "disconnecting means" means a device, group of devices, or other means whereby the conductors of a circuit can be disconnected from their source of supply;

36. "dust-tight" means an enclosure constructed so that dust cannot enter it;

37. "duty" means a requirement of service that specifies the degree of regularity of the load; and,

(a) "continuous duty" means a requirement of service that demands operation at a substantially constant load for an indefinitely long time;

(b) "short time duty" means a requirement of service that demands operation at a substantially constant load for a short and definitely specified time;

(c) "intermittent duty" means a requirement of service that demands operation for definitely specified alternate intervals of

(i) Load and no load,

(ii) Load and rest, or

(iii) Load, no load and rest;

(d) "periodic duty" means a type of intermittent duty in which the load conditions are regularly recurrent;

(e) "varying duty" means a requirement of service that demands operation at loads and for intervals of time, both of which may be subject to wide variation;

38. "electrical equipment" means any apparatus, appliance, device, instrument, fitting, fixture, machinery, material or thing used in or for, or capable of being used in or for, the generation, transformation, transmission, distribution, supply, or utilization of electric power or energy, and without restricting the generality of the foregoing, includes any assemblage or combination of materials or things which is used, or is capable of being used, or adapted to serve or perform any particular purpose or function when connected to an electrical installation, notwithstanding that any of such materials or things are mechanical, metallic or non-electric in origin;

39. "electrical installation" means a system or part of a system of wiring installed or to be installed in or upon any land, building or premises from the point or points of delivery of electric power or energy therein or thereon, up to the point or points where the power or energy can be consumed or used therein or thereon by any electrical equipment, and the expressions "work on an electrical installation" or "make an electrical installation" include the installation, maintenance, alteration, extension and repair of the wiring and the connection of the wiring with any of the electrical equipment or with any other part of the wiring system;

40. "electrical metallic tubing" means metal pipe into which it is intended that conductors shall be drawn, and which has a wall thinner than that of rigid conduit and an outside diameter sufficiently different from that of rigid conduit to render it impracticable for threading it with standard pipe-thread;

41. "electric elevator" means an elevator in which the motion of the car or platform is obtained through an electric motor applied directly to the elevator machinery;

42. "elevator" means a hoisting and lowering mechanism equipped with a car or platform which moves in guides in a substantially vertical direction but not including tiering-machines or piling-machines which operate within one storey, or endless belts, conveyors, chains, buckets or similar devices used for the purpose of elevating materials;

43. "elevator machinery" means the machinery and its equipment used in raising and lowering the elevator car or platform;

44. "emergency and exit lights" means all lights required by law for the purpose of facilitating safe exit in case of fire or other emergency;

45. "explosion-proof" means enclosed in a case which is capable of withstanding without damage an explosion which may occur within it of a specified gas or vapour and which is also capable of preventing the ignition of a specified gas or vapour surrounding the enclosure from sparks, flashes or explosion of the specified gas or vapour within the enclosure;

46. "exposed" as applied to live parts means that a live part can be inadvertently touched or approached more closely than is safe by any person and the term is applied to parts not suitably guarded, isolated or insulated;

47. "exposed" as applied to wiring methods means not concealed;

48. "extra-low-voltage power circuit" means a circuit, such as valve operator and similar circuits, which is neither a remote control circuit nor a signal circuit, but which operates at not more than 30 volts and which is supplied from a transformer or other device restricted in its rated output to 1,000 volt-amperes and approved for the purpose, but in which the current is not limited in accordance with the requirements for a Class 2 circuit;

49. "feeder" means a conductor or group of conductors which transmits electrical energy from a service supply, transformer, switchboard, distribution centre, generator, or other source of supply to the branch-circuit over-current devices;

50. "fire resisting" as applied to buildings means constructed of masonry, reinforced concrete, or equivalent materials;

51. "flame-retarding" when applied to a material means that the material will not burn for more than a specified period of time and will not permit flame to travel or extend beyond a specified distance;

52. "flammable" means capable of being easily set on fire;

53. "flexible conduit" means flexible metal conduit into which it is intended that conductors shall be drawn;

54. "flexible tubing" means flexible non-metallic tubing commonly known as loom for the mechanical protection of insulated wires;

55. "garage" means a building or portion of a building in which one or more self-propelled vehicles carrying volatile, flammable liquid for fuel or power are kept;

56. "ground" means a connection to earth of electrical equipment by means of a ground electrode;

57. "grounded" means connected effectually with the general mass of the earth through a grounding system of sufficiently low impedance and having current-carrying capacity sufficient at all times, under the most severe conditions which are likely to arise in practice, to prevent any current in the grounding conductor from causing a harmful voltage to exist,

    (a) between the grounded conductors and neighboring exposed conducting surfaces which are in good contact with the earth; or

    (b) between the grounded conductors and neighboring surfaces of the earth itself;

58. "grounding conductor" means a path of copper or other suitable metal specially arranged as a means whereby electrical equipment is electrically connected to a ground electrode;

59. "grounding system" means all conductors, clamps, ground clips, ground plates or pipes, and ground electrodes by means of which electrical equipment or an electrical installation is grounded;

60. "ground electrode" means a metallic water-piping system, or a metallic object or device buried in, or driven into, the earth so as to make intimate contact therewith, to which a grounding conductor is electrically and mechanically connected;

61. "guarded" when applied to electrical equipment means that the electrical equipment is so covered, shielded, fenced, enclosed, or otherwise protected by means of suitable covers, casings, barriers, rails, screens, mats or platforms as to remove the likelihood of dangerous contact or approach by persons or objects;

62. "header" means a transverse raceway for electrical conductors, providing access to predetermined cells of a cellular metal-floor and permitting the installation of conductors from a distribution centre to the cells;

63. "hoistway" means a shaftway, hatchway, well hole, or other vertical opening or space in which an elevator, escalator or dumbwaiter operates or is intended to operate;

64. "identified" when applied to a conductor means that the conductor has a white or gray covering or separator or has a tracer in the outer braid or has some other approved means of identification indicating that the conductor is a neutral or grounded conductor, and when applied to electrical equipment other than conductors means that the electrical equipment has some terminal distinguished by being tinned, nickel-plated or otherwise effectively marked for identification in an approved manner;

65. "inaccessible" when applied to a room or compartment means that the room or compartment is sufficiently remote from access or so placed or guarded that unauthorized persons cannot inadvertently enter the room or compartment, and when applied to electrical equipment means that the electrical equipment is covered by the structure or finish of the building in which it is installed or maintained or is sufficiently remote from access or so placed or guarded that unauthorized persons cannot inadvertently touch or interfere with the equipment;

66. "industrial establishment" means a building or part of a building in which any manufacturing process, assembling or handling of materials in connection with the manufacturing, preparing, treating or finishing of any goods or products, is carried on;

67. "inspection department" means The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario;

68. "inspector" means any person duly appointed by the inspection department for the purpose of enforcing this Code;

69. "insulated" means separated from other conducting surfaces by a dielectric material or air space having a degree of resistance to the passage of current and to disruptive discharge sufficiently high for the condition of use;

70. "insulating" as applied to non-conducting substances means that they are capable of bringing about the condition defined as insulated;

71. "lamp holder" means a device constructed for the mechanical support of lamps and for connecting them to circuit conductors;

72. "lighting and appliance branch-circuit panelboard" means a panelboard having more than 10 per cent of its over-current devices,

    (a) rated at 30 amperes or less; and

    (b) provided with neutral connections;

73. "liquid-tight flexible metal conduit" means a flexible metal conduit having an outer liquid-tight jacket;

74. "location":

(a) "ordinary location" means a location in which, under normal conditions of use, electrical equipment is not unduly exposed to injury from mechanical causes, excessive dust, moisture, or extreme temperatures, and in which electrical equipment is entirely free from the possibility of injury through corrosive, flammable or explosive atmospheres;

(b) "damp location" means a location which is normally or periodically subject to condensation of moisture in, on or adjacent to electrical equipment;

(c) "wet location" means a location in which liquids may drip, splash or flow on or against electrical equipment;

(d) "hazardous location" means premises, buildings, or parts thereof in which there exists the hazard of fire or explosion because,

(i) highly flammable gasses, flammable volatile liquids, mixtures or other highly flammable substances, are manufactured or used or are stored in other than original containers,

(ii) combustible dust or flyings are likely to be present in quantities sufficient to produce an explosive or combustible mixture, or where it is impracticable to prevent such dust or flyings from being deposited upon incandescent lamps or from collecting in or upon motors or other electrical equipment in such quantities as to produce overheating by reason of the prevention of normal radiation,

(iii) easily ignitible fibres or materials producing combustible flyings are manufactured, handled or used in a free open state, or

(iv) easily ignitible fibres or materials producing combustible flyings are stored in bales or containers but are not manufactured, handled or used in a free open state;

75. "low-energy power circuit" means a circuit, other than a remote control or signal circuit, for which the power supply is limited in accordance with the requirements for Class 2 remote-control circuits;

76. "low-voltage protection" means the effect of a device operative on the reduction or failure of voltage to cause and maintain the interruption of power to the main circuit;

77. "low-voltage release" means the effect of a device operative on the reduction or failure of voltage to cause the interruption of power to the main circuit, but not to prevent its re-establishment on the return of voltage to a safe operating value;

78. "machine tool" means a power driven device not portable by hand, used for the purpose of removing metal in the form of chips, or to press, forge, emboss, hammer, blank or shear metals;

79. "metallic water-piping system" means:

(a) an active, underground, public water-supply system having metallic mains and services;

(b) an active, underground, private water-supply system having at least 100 feet of metal pipe buried in the ground; or

(c) the metallic casing, not less than 3 inches in diameter, of an artesian well;

80. "mill construction" as applied to a building' means one in which walls are of masonry or reinforced concrete and an interior framing of wood, with plank or laminated wood floors and roofs, and in which the interior structural elements are arranged in heavy solid masses and smooth flat surfaces assembled to avoid thin sections, sharp projections, and concealed or inaccessible spaces, but the interior framing may be partly or entirely of protected steel or concrete and the floors and roofs may be constructed in whole or in part of incombustible material;

81. "mineral-insulated cable" means a cable having one or more bare solid conductors supported and insulated by a highly compressed refractory material enclosed in a liquid-tight and gas-tight metallic tube sheathing and the term includes both the regular type (MI) and the light-weight type (LWMI) unless otherwise qualified;

82. "MSG" means the Manufacturer's Standard Gauge for uncoated steel;

83. "multi-outlet assembly" means a surface or flush enclosure carrying conductors for extending one branch-circuit to two or more receptacles of the grounding type which are attached to the enclosure;

84. "multi-wire branch circuit" means a branch circuit consisting of two or more ungrounded conductors having a potential difference between them and an identified grounded conductor having equal potential between it and each ungrounded conductor, and in which the grounded conductor is connected to the neutral conductor of the system;

85. "neutral" means that conductor of a multi-wire system which is maintained at an intermediate and approximately uniform potential with respect to the other conductors of the system;

86. "noncombustible" means incapable of sustaining combustion in air, either when ignited or when subjected to and maintained at a high temperature;

87. "open" as applied to electrical equipment means that moving parts, windings or live parts are exposed to accidental contact;

88. "outlet" means a point on the wiring system at which current is taken to supply fixtures, lamps, heaters, motors and electrical equipment generally;

89. "out-of-reach" means that equipment is located more than 5 feet horizontally or more than 8 feet vertically from any floor, platform or other surface from which it would otherwise be readily accessible;

90. "over current device" means any device capable of automatically opening an electric circuit both under predetermined overload and short-circuit conditions, either by fusing of metal or by electro-mechanical means;

91. "overload device" means a device affording protection from excess current, but not necessarily short-circuit protection, and capable of automatically opening an electric circuit either by the fusing of metal or by electro-mechanical means;

92. "panelboard" means an assembly of buses and connections, over-current devices and control apparatus with or without switches, or other equipment, constructed for installation as a complete unit in a cabinet; and

"enclosed panelboard" means an assembly of buses and connections, over-current devices and control apparatus with or without switches, or other equipment, installed in a cabinet or cut-out box;

93. "portable" when applied to electrical equipment means the equipment is specifically designed not to be used in a fixed position and receives current through the medium of a flexible cord or cable, and usually a detachable plug;

94. "potential":

(a) "extra low potential" means any potential up to and including 30 volts;

(b) "low potential means any potential from 31 to 750 volts inclusive;

(c) "high potential" means any potential above 750 volts;

95. "protected" as applied to electrical equipment means the equipment is constructed so that the electrical parts are enclosed so as to protect the equipment against damage from the intrusion of foreign objects;

96. "qualified person" means a person familiar with the construction and operation of the apparatus and the hazards involved;

97. "raceway" means any channel for holding wires, cables or bus bars, which is designed expressly for and used solely for this purpose;

98. "readily accessible" means capable of being reached quickly without climbing over or removing obstacles or resorting to portable ladders, chairs or similar aids;

99. "receptacle" means a contact device installed in an outlet for the connection of a portable lamp or appliance by means of a plug and flexible cord;

100. "remote control circuit" means any electrical circuit which controls any other circuit through a relay or an equivalent device;

101. "repellent" used as a suffix means constructed, treated or surfaced so that the specified liquid will tend to run off, and cannot readily penetrate, the surface;

102. "resistant" used as a suffix means constructed, protected or treated so that it will not be injured readily when subjected to the specified material or condition;

103. "rigid conduit" means an approved conduit, suitable for threading with standard pipe-thread, into which it is intended that conductors shall be drawn;

104. "separate built-in cooking unit" means a stationary cooking appliance, including its integral supply leads or terminals, and consisting of one or more surface elements or ovens, or a combination of these, constructed so that the unit is permanently built into a counter or wall;

105. "service agreement" means a form of agreement prescribed or approved by the inspection department and pertaining to the labelling or re-examination of approved electrical equipment;

106. "box service" means an approved assembly consisting of a metal box or cabinet constructed so that it may be effectually locked or sealed, containing either service fuses and a service switch or a circuit-breaker and of such design that either the switch or circuit-breaker may be manually operated when the box is closed;

107. "service or filling station" means premises or portions of premises on which are installed pumps or other devices used for the purpose of receiving or delivering volatile flammable liquids to or from vehicles;

108. "supply service" means any one set of conductors run by a supply authority from its mains to a consumer's service;

109. "shock-proof" as applied to X-ray and high-frequency equipment, means that the equipment is guarded with grounded metal so that no person can come into contact with any live part;

110. "signal circuit" means any electrical circuit, other than a communication circuit, which supplies energy to a device which gives a recognizable audible or visible signal, such as circuits for doorbells, buzzers, code-calling systems, signal lights and similar devices;

111. "slow-burning" as applied to conductor insulation means the insulation has flame-retarding properties;

112. "soldered" means a uniting of metallic surfaces by the fusion thereon of a metallic alloy, usually of lead and tin;

113. "special permission" means the permission of an inspector;

114. "splitter box" means a metal troughing or box containing terminal blocks, or bus bars, having main terminals and distribution terminals, with bare live parts supported by insulating material;

115. "supply authority" means any person, firm, corporation, company, commission or other organization supplying electric power or energy;

116. "surface raceway" means a metal channel consisting of a backing and capping for loosely holding conductors and cables in surface wiring;

117. "switch" means a device for making, breaking, or changing connection in a circuit; and

(a) "general use switch" means a switch intended for use in general distribution and branch-circuits and which is rated in amperes and capable of interrupting its rated current at rated voltage;

(b) "indicating switch" means a switch designed or marked to show readily whether the switch is in an "On" or "Off" position;

(c) "isolating switch" means a switch intended for disconnecting a circuit or electrical equipment from the source of supply of electrical power or energy, but does not include a switch intended for establishing or interrupting the flow of current in a circuit;

(d) "motor-circuit switch" means a fused or unfused manually-operated knife or snap switch rated in horsepower;

118. "switchboard" means a panel or assembly of panels on which is mounted any combination of switching, measuring, controlling and protective devices, buses, and connections, designed with a view to successfully carrying and rupturing the maximum fault current encountered when controlling incoming and outgoing feeders;

119. "system" means an electrical system in which all conductors and the apparatus are designedly capable of being readily connected electrically by metallic contact to a common source of potential difference;

120. "theatre" means a building, or any portion thereof, which is used for public dramatic, operatic, motion-picture or other performances;

121. "thermal cut out" means a device affording protection from excessive current but not necessarily short-circuit protection, and containing a heating element in addition to, and affecting, a fusible member which opens the circuit;

122. "underfloor-raceway" means a channel or duct of metal or other suitable material designed and approved for use under floors into which it is intended that conductors shall be drawn, but does not include metal conduit, tile or other like ducts;

123. "volts to ground" when used in connection with grounded circuits means the difference of potential between any given live ungrounded part and any grounded part, and when used in connection with ungrounded circuits means the greatest difference of potential existing in the circuit;

124. "waterproof" when applied to electrical equipment means that the equipment is so constructed or protected that moisture cannot enter in quantity sufficient to interfere with the effective operation of the equipment, and when applied to a substance means that the substance is impervious to moisture;

125. "water-tight" when applied to enclosed electrical equipment means that the equipment is so constructed that moisture cannot enter the enclosing case;

126. "vault" means an isolated enclosure, either above or below ground, with fire-resistant walls, ceilings and floors, for the purpose of housing transformers or other electrical equipment;

127. "wire television distribution system" means a distribution system of coaxial or other suitable cable or wire, together with any necessary amplifiers, which is used in the transmission of television signals;

128. "wire way" means a completely enclosed system of metal troughing, and fittings therefor, to be used as a raceway, so formed and constructed that insulated conductors may be readily drawn in and withdrawn, or laid in and removed, after the system has been completely installed without injury either to conductors or their covering.

SECTION 2—GENERAL RULES

General

2-000 Special Requirements. Sections devoted to rules governing particular types of installations are not intended to embody all rules governing these particular types of installations, but cover only those special rules or regulations which are additional to or amendatory of those prescribed in other sections covering installations under ordinary conditions.

2-002 Inspection

(1) A contractor shall before commencing work on an electrical installation complete and file with the inspection department an application for inspection, and pay the fees prescribed therefor and subject to Rule 2-006, the payment of the inspection fee entitles him to one complete inspection of the installation.

(2) Every contractor who makes an electrical installation is responsible for procuring its inspection by the inspection department before the installation is used for any purpose.

(3) The contractor shall give to the inspection department at least forty-eight hours' notice in writing that the work on the electrical installation has been completed and that the installation is ready for inspection but where the work is being performed in a remote district or is not immediately accessible for any other reason the notice shall be of such greater length as is necessary to suit the inspection schedule of the inspection department.

(4) The inspection shall be made at such time and in such manner as the inspection department determines.

(5) No electrical installation shall be concealed or rendered inaccessible, until it has been inspected by the inspection department and found to conform to this Code.

2-004 Annual Inspection

(1) An annual application for inspection may be made by the owner or occupant of any manufacturing, mercantile or other building where in the opinion of the inspection department electrical installation work of a routine nature in connection with the maintenance or operation of the building or the plant therein is required to be performed at frequent intervals, and where the owner or occupant employs his own electricians for the purpose.

(2) Acceptance of the application by the inspection department shall authorize the commencement and carrying out of such work during the year for which the acceptance is issued and Rule 2-002 does not apply.

(3) The owner or occupant shall as the work is performed record it on a form provided by the inspection department which shall be produced to any inspector of the inspection department at any time and from time to time upon request and the inspection shall be made at such time and in such manner as the inspection department determines.

2-006 Right of Refusal. The inspection department may refuse an application for inspection to any person who has failed to pay any fees or dues owing to the inspection department for a period of more than thirty days or who has failed to remedy defects in any electrical work or installation after having been notified by the inspection department that the defects exist, until the fees have been paid or the defects have been remedied.

2-008 Plans and Specifications. No contractor shall commence work on any electrical installation consisting of:

(a) The installation of a wiring system in any public building, commercial or industrial establishment, apartment house or other building in which the public safety may be involved;
(b) A large light-and-power installation; or
(c) The installation of generators, transformers, switchboards, large storage batteries and similar equipment; or that in the opinion of the inspection department is of special magnitude or nature without first filing with the inspection department in duplicate, or in greater number if required, complete wiring plans and specifications relating to the proposed work and obtaining the written approval of the inspection department thereof.

2-010 Connection Authorization

(1) Where any electrical installation or part thereof to which electric power or energy has not previously been supplied is made in or upon any land, building or premises or where any electrical installation or part thereof has been disconnected or cut off from any service or other source of supply under this Code, no supply authority, contractor or other person shall connect or re-connect the installation of part thereof to any service or other source or supply unless:

(a) The installation and all work in respect thereof have been inspected by the inspection department and found to conform to this Code; and

(b) A connection authorization has been issued by the inspection department in respect of the installation.

(2) Where any electrical installation or part thereof has been disconnected or cut off from a source of supply by a supply authority for non-payment of rates or because of a change of occupancy of premises for three months or less, the supply authority may re-connect the installation or part thereof without obtaining a connection authorization.

2-012 Temporary Connection Authorization

(1) Notwithstanding Rule 2-010 the inspection department may issue a temporary connection authorization authorizing a supply authority to connect its lines for a stated length of time to a temporary electrical installation or to a permanent but unfinished electrical installation and may renew the connection authorization from time to time.

(2) Issuance of a temporary connection authorization does not obligate the inspection department to issue a permanent connection authorization where a contractor has not complied with this Code.

2-014 Re-inspection. The inspection department may at any time re-inspect any electrical installation notwithstanding any previous inspection and acceptance of the installation.

2-016 Defects

(1) Every contractor who has performed work on an electrical installation and has been notified by the inspection department that the installation does not conform to this Code shall remedy all defects in workmanship and replace all electrical equipment that is not approved within such time and in such manner as the notice from the inspection department directs.

(2) The inspection department may by notice in writing require any owner or occupant of land, buildings or premises upon or within which is found an electrical installation in which in the opinion of the inspection department a condition dangerous to persons or property has developed to make such changes in the electrical installation as are necessary to remedy the condition.

(3) Upon receipt of the notice the owner or occupant of the lands, buildings or premises shall cause the installation to be changed in the manner and to the extent prescribed by the notice within the time limited therein.

(4) Where:

(a) A contractor refuses or neglects to comply with a notice given under Sub-rule (1); or

(b) The owner or occupant of lands, buildings or premises refuses or neglects to comply with a notice given under Sub-rule (2), the inspection department, if it deems such course necessary for purposes of safety, may:

(c) Cut off the supply of electrical power or energy to the lands, buildings or premises in which is contained the electrical installation that was the subject of the notice; or

(d) Require the supply authority to cut off the supply, and in either event the supply shall not be re-connected until full compliance with the notice has been made.

2-018 General

(1) No contractor shall perform any work on an electrical installation in any manner contrary to the requirements of this Code.

(2) No contractor in performing any work on an electrical installation shall use therein any electrical equipment other than approved electrical equipment of a kind or type and rating approved for the specific purpose for which it is to be employed.

(3) In any case in which for a given purpose no standard electrical equipment of the exact size or rating required is procurable, equipment of the next larger size or rating shall be used unless permission of an inspector is obtained to use equipment of a smaller size or rating.

(4) If in the opinion of an inspector an electrical installation has been badly arranged or poorly executed, either generally or in any particular, the inspector shall reject the electrical installation.

(5) No contractor shall use wood for plugging for the support of any electrical equipment.

(6) No contractor shall use as a solder any so-called solder consisting of a metallic powder mixed with an adhesive vehicle in the use of which fusion of a metal is not involved.

(7) No contractor shall use for soldering copper, aluminum or their alloys a soldering flux corrosive to those metals.

2-020 Sale or Other Disposal and Use

(1) No person shall advertise, display or offer for sale or other disposal, or sell or otherwise dispose of any electrical equipment unless and until it has been inspected and approved.

(2) No person shall use any electrical equipment until it has been inspected and approved.

2-022 Where an approvals report in respect of any approved electrical equipment requires that a notice indicating the proper and safe manner of use of the equipment be affixed thereto or furnished therewith, no person shall sell or otherwise dispose of the equipment without affixing or furnishing the notice in the manner required by the approvals report.

2-024 (1) Subject to Sub-rule (3) electrical equipment of a regular line of manufacture for which approval is sought shall be submitted to Canadian Standards Association for examination and testing.

(2) The electrical equipment shall be deemed to be approved when:

(a) An approvals report has been issued by Canadian Standards Association in respect of the equipment;

(b) The approvals report has been adopted by the inspection department;

(c) The manufacturer of the equipment or his agent has entered into a service agreement with Canadian Standards Association;

(d) The equipment, if so required by the service agreement, bears an approval label supplied under the terms of the service agreement; and

(e) The equipment meets all standards of design and construction prescribed by the approvals report and complies with all terms and conditions contained therein.

(3) As an alternative to the requirements of Sub-rules (1) and (2), electrical equipment consisting of an assemblage or combination of component parts intended for use solely in conjunction with or as an integral part of any appliance within the meaning of The Energy Act shall be deemed to be approved when:

(a) An approvals report has been issued by an organization designated to test the appliance by section 35 of Ontario Regulation 156/61 as re-made by Ontario Regulation 24/62;

(b) The approvals report has been adopted by the inspection department;

(c) The equipment meets all standards of design and construction prescribed by the approvals report and Canadian Standards Association specifications relating thereto and complies with all the terms and conditions contained in the report and the specifications;

(d) The seal of the organization has been affixed permanently to the equipment verifying compliance with Canadian Standards Association specifications; and

(e) The manufacturer of the equipment, or his agent, has entered into a service agreement with the organization.

(4) Electrical equipment of other than a regular line of manufacture, electrical equipment built to customer's order, electrical equipment manufactured or produced singly or in small quantities and electrical equipment that in the opinion of the inspection department cannot be conveniently examined and tested by submission of samples shall be submitted to the inspection department for examination and testing in conformance with the procedure from time to time prescribed by the inspection department.

(5) The electrical equipment referred to in Sub-rule (4) shall be deemed to be approved when:

(a) The electrical equipment or a sample thereof has been examined and tested by the inspection department and found to conform to this Code and to present no undue hazard to persons or property;

(b) A certificate or other writing evidencing the conformity has been issued by the inspection department;

(c) All fees payable to the inspection department in respect of the examination, testing and certification have been paid;

(d) The equipment, if so required by the inspection department, bears an approval label supplied by the inspection department; and

(e) The equipment, in the case of examination and test by sample, is of the same standard of design and construction as the standard of the sample referred to in the certificate or writing.

(6) Where any electrical equipment is used in, or connected to, an electrical installation or is about to be so used or connected, and it appears to the inspection department that, having regard to public safety and protection of property, it would be sufficient to have the equipment inspected under Sub-rules (3), (4) and (5) of Rule 2-002 instead of being approved under the foregoing provisions of this rule, the inspection department may direct accordingly and thereupon the equipment shall be deemed to form a part of the electrical installation.

(7) Approval of any electrical equipment shall be evidenced by a certificate or other writing to that effect issued by the inspection department but, where electrical equipment is approved under Sub-rule (2) the approval-record guide-card issued by the Canadian Standards Association shall have the same force and effect as a certificate or writing of the inspection department.

(8) No person shall affix to any electrical equipment other than the electrical equipment referred to in Sub-rule (3) any label indicating or intended to indicate that the electrical equipment is approved other than an approval label that has been supplied by the inspection department or under a service agreement.

(9) No person shall affix any approval label to any electrical equipment other than the approved electrical equipment for which the label was issued.

(10) No person to whom approval labels have been supplied, either by the Commission or under a service agreement, shall sell, give, transfer or permit any other person to have possession of the labels without first obtaining the consent in writing of the inspection department.

2-026 Cancellation of approval

(1) The inspection department may cancel the approval of any electrical equipment where:

(a) The equipment is not being manufactured or produced in conformance with the standards, design and construction prescribed by the approvals report or certificate of approval relating thereto;

(b) In the opinion of the inspection department field experience has shown the equipment to be unduly hazardous to life or property; or

(c) The manufacturer of the equipment makes default in observing or performing any of the terms of the service agreement to which he is a party.

(2) When an approval has been cancelled, the equipment shall be deemed to be not approved.

2-028 Miscellaneous

(1) The testing and inspection by the inspection department of any electrical equipment under Sub-rules (4) and (5) of Rule 2-024 may be carried out by such inspectors at such times and places and in such manner as the inspection department from time to time determines.

(2) Subject to Sub-rule (6) of Rule 2-024, any electrical equipment used or capable of being used or adapted to serve or perform any particular purpose or function when connected to an electrical installation shall be approved before being so connected unless the connection is made for the purpose of inspection or testing of the equipment under this Code.

(3) Any electrical equipment that consists of an assembly or combination of other electrical equipment is subject to this Code respecting approval, and is not approved by reason only that any or all of the component parts thereof have been individually approved.

(4) Every manufacturer of electrical equipment shall place thereon his name, trade mark or other recognized symbol of identification and such other markings indicating catalogue number or type, voltage, current, rated load amperes, watts, volt amperes or horsepower, and other appropriate ratings prescribed by the inspection department and Canadian Standards Association and, if the equipment has been approved, an approval label or other marking acceptable to the inspection department or Canadian Standards Association evidencing such approval.

2-030 Rebuilt Equipment

(1) Where any electrical machine or apparatus is re-built or re-wound with any change in its rating or characteristics it shall be provided with a name plate giving the name of the person, or firm, by whom such change was made, together with the new marking.

(2) Where the original name plate is removed the original manufacturer's name and any original identifying data, such as serial numbers, shall be added to the new name plate.

2-032 Use of High Potentials. Potentials exceeding 15,000 volts shall not be employed without the permission of an inspector designated by the inspection department for the purpose of this rule except in the case of equipment covered by Sections 34, 52 and 54.

2-034 Interference. No person shall:

(a) Cut, damage or interfere with any electrical equipment: or

(b) Place or install any equipment or material near installed electrical equipment, so as to create a condition which an inspector deems dangerous.

2-036 Use of Thermal Insulation

(1) Subject to Sub-rule (2) where electric wiring is contained in hollow studding, joist-spaces or rafter-spaces of walls, floors and roofs of a building, the spaces shall not be filled with thermal insulation unless it:

(a) Has been approved as having suitable non-corrosive, fire-resisting, and non-conducting qualities; and

(b) Is applied in such manner as to avoid any strain upon the conductors and raceways and their respective supports.

(2) Combustible thermal insulation may be used where the electric wiring:

(a) Is in rigid conduit or electrical metallic tubing effectively sealed where required by an inspector;

(b) Is in flexible conduit with conductors in lead sheath;

(c) Consists of lead-sheathed armoured-cable;

(d) Is non-metallic-sheathed cable with conductors of not less than No. 12 B. & S. gauge;

(e) Is M.I. cable; or

(f) Is aluminum-sheathed cable.

(3) Where thermal insulation made of or faced with metal is used:

(a) A one-inch separation shall be provided between the thermal insulation and the knob-and-tube wiring;

(b) Non-metallic-sheathed cable may be in contact with the insulation; and

(c) All metal boxes and fittings shall be grounded or the thermal insulation shall be installed at least six inches from all boxes and fittings.

(4) Neither M.I. cable nor aluminum-sheathed cable shall be subjected to thermal insulation likely to have a corrosive action on the cable sheathing.

2-038 Fire Spread. Every electrical installation shall be made in such manner as to reduce to a minimum the probability of spread of fire through fire-stopped partitions, floors, hollow spaces, fire walls, fire partitions, vertical shafts and ventilating and air-conditioning ducts.

Maintenance and Operation

2-040 General Requirements for Maintenance and Operation

(1) All electrical equipment shall be so installed and guarded as to afford provision for the safety of persons and property and for the protection of the electrical equipment from mechanical or other injury to which it is likely to be exposed.

(2) Every owner and tenant of a factory, workshop or other premises on or in which employees are engaged in operating or using any electrical equipment shall keep the electrical equipment and the electrical installation in safe operating condition at all times.

(3) No person shall use any electrical equipment that is not in safe and proper working condition.

(4) Electrical equipment that is not in regular use shall not be used until it has been thoroughly examined by a qualified person and is found fit for service.

(5) Electrical equipment that is kept in reserve for emergency service shall be examined and tested by a qualified person at regular and frequent intervals.

(6) Defective equipment shall either be put in good order or permanently disconnected.

2-042 Maintenance in Hazardous Locations. In locations where explosive or highly flammable materials or gases are present:

(a) Repairs or alterations shall not be made on any live equipment; and

(b) Fits or seals in enclosures shall be maintained in their original safe condition.

2-044 Disconnection

(1) No person shall make repairs or alterations to live equipment unless complete disconnection of the equipment is impracticable.

(2) For the purpose of Sub-rule (1), three-way or four-way switches shall be deemed not to be a means of disconnection.

(3) Adequate precautions, such as locks on circuit breakers or switches, warning notices, sentries, or other equally effective means, shall be taken to prevent electrical equipment from being electrically charged when work is being done thereon.

2-046 Maintenance of Live Equipment. No person shall work on any live equipment unless protected by approved insulated or insulating devices such as tongs, rubber gloves, boots, mats, or other like appliances, which shall always be maintained in proper condition for use.

2-048 Accessibility for Maintenance. All passageways around generators, transformers, switchboards and similar equipment shall be kept clear of any obstruction and so arranged as to give authorized persons ready access to all parts requiring attention.

2-050 Illumination of Equipment. Adequate illumination shall be provided to allow for proper operation and maintenance of electrical equipment.

2-052 Flammable Material Near Electrical Equipment. Flammable material shall not be stored or placed in dangerous proximity to electrical equipment.

SECTION 4 — CONDUCTORS

4-000 Size of Conductors. Except for flexible cord, fixture wire, control circuit wire and cable, and grounding conductors as permitted by Table 16, conductors shall be not smaller than No. 14 AWG when of copper and not smaller than No. 12 AWG when of aluminum.

4-002 Control-Circuit Wire and Cable. When used in communication, control and signalling systems, control-circuit wire and cable shall have a current-carrying capacity not less than that of a No. 18 AWG copper conductor.

4-004 Current-Carrying Capacity of Wires and Cables

(1) The maximum current which a copper conductor of a given size and insulation may carry shall be as follows:

(a) Single-conductor, single-conductor aluminum-sheathed cable, and single-conductor mineral-insulated cable in a free air run—as specified in Table 1;

(b) 1, 2, or 3 conductors in a run of raceway, or 2- or 3-conductor cable—as specified in Table 2;

(c) 4, 5, or 6 conductors in a run of raceway or cable, or 7-conductor mineral-insulated cable—80 per cent of that specified in Table 2;

(d) 7, 8, or 9 conductors in a run of raceway or cable —70 per cent of that specified in Table 2.

(2) The maximum current which an aluminum conductor of a given size and insulation may carry shall be as follows:

(a) Single-conductor and single-conductor aluminum-sheathed cable in a free air run—as specified in Table 3;

(b) 1, 2, or 3 conductors in a run of raceway, or 2- or 3-conductor cable—as specified in Table 4;

(c) 4, 5, or 6 conductors in a run of raceway or cable—80 per cent of that specified in Table 4;

(d) 7, 8, or 9 conductors in a run of raceway or cable —70 per cent of that specified in Table 4.

(3) The current-carrying capacity for armoured cable of a given number of conductors shall be the same as for the same number of conductors in a raceway.

(4) A neutral conductor which carries only the unbalanced current from other conductors, as in the case of normally-balanced circuits of three or more conductors, shall not be counted in determining current-carrying capacities as provided for in Sub-rules (1), (2), and (3).

(5) A common conductor of a three-wire circuit, consisting of conductors connected to two phase wires and the neutral of a four-wire, three-phase system, carries approximately the same current as the other conductors, and shall not be considered as a neutral conductor.

(6) The maximum allowable current-carrying capacity of neutral supported cable shall be as specified in Table 37.

4-006 Insulated Conductors

(1) Insulated conductors shall be of types specified in Table 19 for each specific condition of use, except as may be otherwise required by other Sections of this Code.

(2) Where harmful condensed vapours or liquids of either an acid or alkaline nature or organic solvents such as hydrocarbons, ketones, esters, alcohols, or liquid derivatives thereof, may collect on or come in contact with insulation on conductors, such insulation shall be of a type approved for the application, or the insulation shall be protected by a sheath of lead or by other approved means.

4-008 Conduit and Electrical Metallic Tubing

(1) Where conduit is mentioned in this Section, the same provisions shall apply to electrical metallic tubing where it use is permitted.

(2) Conduit in this Section refers only to complete systems and not to short sections of conduit used for the protection of portions of open wiring which would otherwise be exposed to mechanical injury.

4-010 Size of Conduit for a Given Number of Insulated Conductors or Cables of One Size Only. The size of conduit shall be not less than:

(a) That shown in Table 5 or 6 for a given number of rubber- or thermoplastic-insulated conductors of one size only; or

(b) That shown in Table 7 for a given number of lead-sheathed cables of one size only.

4-012 Number of Conductors or Cables of a Given Size in One Conduit. The maximum number of conductors of a given size in one conduit shall be as follows:

(a) For rubber- or thermoplastic-insulated conductors, except those covered in paragraph (c) below, not more than that specified in Table 5;

(b) For lead-sheathed cables, not more than that specified in Table 7;

(c) For conductors between motors and controllers and conductors for stage pockets, border lights, sign flashers, elevator control, and signal circuits, not more than that specified in Table 6.

4-014 Size of Conduit for Special Installation Conditions, Voltage Ratings and Grouping of Conductors

(1) The size of conduit for:

(a) Special installation conditions;

(b) Groups or combinations of conductors of different sizes or types; or

(c) Conductors having voltage ratings not included in Tables 5, 6, and 7; shall be such that the sum of the cross-sectional areas of the conductors, including insulation and coverings, is not more than the percentage of the interior cross-sectional area of the conduit shown in Table 8.

(2) In this determination:

(a) The interior cross-sectional area for various sizes of conduit shall be those specified in Table 9;

(b) The cross-sectional areas for rubber-insulated 600-volt conductors or thermoplastic-insulated conductors shall be the areas for rubber-insulated conductors as specified in Table 10; and

(c) The cross-sectional areas for conductors of other types or voltage ratings shall be as calculated from the nominal overall diameter of the conductor.

4-016 Uses of Flexible Cord

(1) Flexible cord shall be of the types specified in Table 11 for each specific condition of use.

(2) Flexible cord may be used for:

(a) Electrical equipment for domestic or similar use having a rating of 15 amperes or less at voltages not exceeding 250 volts and which is intended to be:

(i) Moved from place to place, or

(ii) Detachably connected in accordance with the specification to which the electrical equipment was originally approved;

(b) Electrical equipment for industrial use which must be capable of being moved from place to place for operation;

(c) Pendants;

(d) Elevator cables;

(e) Wiring of cranes and hoists;

(f) The connection of stationary equipment to facilitate its interchange, by special permission;

(g) The prevention of transmission of noise and vibration; and

(h) The connection of electrical components between which relative motion is necessary.

(3) Flexible cord shall not be used:

(a) As a substitute for the fixed wiring of structures and shall not be permanently secured to any structural member;

(b) At temperatures sufficiently low as to be liable to cause damage to the insulation or jacket;

(c) For the suspension of any device weighing more than 5 pounds.

(4) Flexible cord shall be protected by an insulating bushing or in some other acceptable manner where it enters or passes through a wall or partition of a device or enters a lampholder.

(5) Where a flexible cord is used as an extension cord or to plug into an appliance or other device, no live parts shall be exposed when one end is connected to a source of supply and the other end is free.

4-018 Sizes of Flexible Cord. Flexible cord shall be not smaller than a No. 18 AWG copper conductor except for:

(a) Tinsel cord, which may be No. 27 AWG;

(b) Types X and TX Christmas tree cords, which may be No. 20 AWG; and

(c) Cords approved for use with electric clocks, which may be No. 20 AWG.

4-020 Current-Carrying Capacity of Flexible Cords. The maximum current which 2 or more copper conductors of given size contained in a flexible cord may carry, shall be as follows:

(a) 2 or 3 conductors—as specified in Table 12;

(b) 4, 5, or 6 conductors—80 per cent of that specified in Table 12.

4-022 Flexible Cord Used in Show Windows or Show Cases

(1) Flexible cord used in show windows or show cases shall, except for chain fixtures, be at least of types approved for hard usage.

(2) The use of flexible cord to supply current to portable lamps and other devices for exhibition purposes shall be permitted.

4-024 Fixture Wire and Christmas-Tree Wire

(1) Fixture wire and Christmas-tree wire shall be of types specified in Table 11 for each specified condition of use.

(2) Fixture wire shall not be smaller than a No. 18 AWG copper conductor.

(3) Christmas-tree wire shall not be smaller than a No. 20 AWG copper conductor.

(4) The maximum current which a fixture wire or a Christmas-tree wire of a given size may carry shall be that specified in Table 12.

4-026 Insulation of Neutral Conductors. Except as permitted by Rules 6-004, 6-024, and 12-238 neutral conductors shall be insulated.

4-028 Size of Neutral Conductor

(1) The neutral conductor shall have sufficient current-carrying capacity to carry the unbalanced load.

(2) The maximum unbalanced load shall be the maximum connected load between the neutral and any one ungrounded conductor as determined by Section 8 but subject to the following:

(a) For a 5-wire 2-phase system the maximum unbalanced load shall be 140 per cent of that determined as above;

(b) For a feeder supplying electric ranges, the maximum unbalanced load for the ranges shall be considered as 70 per cent of the load on the ungrounded conductors as determined by Rule 8-032;

(c) In a feeder where the load consists of 50 per cent or more of electric discharge lamp ballasts, there shall be no reduction in size of the neutral below the size of the ungrounded conductors;

(d) Except as required otherwise by paragraph (c), a demand factor of 70 per cent may be applied to that portion of the unbalanced load in excess of 200 amperes and, where applicable, this shall be applied to the currents determined by paragraphs (a) or (c).

(3) Where the neutral is uninsulated, it shall be not smaller than:

(a) No 10. AWG if of copper, or No. 8 AWG if of aluminum;

(b) Two sizes less than the live conductors, where the neutral and live conductors are of the same material;

(c) The live conductors where they are of copper and the neutral is of aluminum;

(d) Four sizes less than the live conductors where they are of aluminum and the neutral is of copper;

(e) 62.8 per cent of the area of the live conductors where the neutral and live conductors are of the same material and the conductor sizes are beyond the range of the AWG sizes;

(f) 39.5 per cent of the area of the live conductors where they are of aluminum and the neutral is of copper and the conductor sizes are beyond the range of the AWG sizes.

(4) In the case of services, the size of the neutral conductor shall be not less than the size of the grounding conductor as required by Rule 10-102.

4-030 Common Neutral Conductor. Providing that when in metal enclosures all conductors of feeder circuits employing a common neutral are contained within the same enclosure, a common neutral may be employed for:

(a) Two or three sets of three-wire, single-phase feeders; or

(b) Two sets of four-wire, three-phase feeders.

4-032 Installation of Neutral Conductor and Branch Connections. The neutral conductor of feeders shall be run directly from the service box to all centres of distribution and all branch connections to this conductor shall be made at such centres.

4-034 Identification of Insulated Neutral Conductors Up to and Including No. 2 AWG

(1) All insulated neutral conductors up to and including No. 2 AWG and all flexible cords permanently attached thereto shall be identified.

(2) The covering of the other conductor or conductors shall show a continuous colouring contrasting with that of the identified conductor.

4-036 Identification of Insulated Neutral Conductors Larger Than No. 2 AWG. For insulated neutral conductors larger than No. 2 AWG and for those having other than rubber or thermoplastic insulation, identification shall either be continuous, as for No. 2 AWG and smaller, or else each continuous length of conductor shall be suitably labelled or otherwise clearly marked at each end at the time of installation, so that it can be readily identified.

4-038 Identification of Type MI Neutral Conductors. Where mineral-insulated cable is used for neutral conductors, and where continuous identification of this type of conductor is, at present, technically impossible in manufacture, each continuous length of conductor shall be permanently and clearly marked at each end at the time of installation, so that it can be readily identified.

4-040 Use of Identified Conductors

(1) An identified conductor shall not be used as a conductor for which identification is not required by these rules except that in armoured cable, aluminum-sheathed cable, and non-metallic sheathed cable work, the identified conductor may be rendered permanently unidentifiable by painting or other suitable means at every point where the separate conductors have been rendered accessible and visible by removal of the outer covering of the cable.

(2) Where armoured cable, aluminum-sheathed cable or non-metallic sheathed cable is used so that the identified conductor forms no part of the circuit, the identified conductor shall be cut off short or other suitable means shall be employed to indicate clearly that the identified conductor does not form part of the circuit and this shall be done at every point where the separate conductors have been rendered accessible and visible by removal of the outer covering of the cable.

4-042 Colour Coding of Circuit Conductors.

Where colour coded circuits are required, the following colour coding shall be used, except in the case of service-entrance cable and insofar as Rules 4-036, 4-038, 6-024, and 12-026 may modify these requirements:

1 phase a-c or d-c (2-wire)—1 black and 1 white or natural grey

1 phase a-c or d-c (3-wire)	—1 black, 1 red and 1 white or natural grey
3 phase a-c	—1 red (phase A), 1 black (phase B), 1 blue (phase C), and 1 white or natural grey (where neutral is required).

SECTION 6—LOW-POTENTIAL SERVICES AND SERVICE EQUIPMENT

General

6-000 Scope. This Section applies to services, service equipment, and metering equipment for installation operating at potentials of 750 volts or less.

6-002 Number of Supply Services Permitted

(1) Two or more supply services of the same potential and characteristics shall not be run to any building from the same system of any one supply authority except by special permission.

(2) Equipment of such services shall be grouped if practicable.

6-004 Aerial Conductors. Conductors run aerially between buildings or structures shall be not less than No. 10 AWG, and shall be of types suitable for exposure to the weather as indicated in Table 19.

6-006 Underground Services

(1) Service conductors run underground from an underground supply system or from a pole line to a building shall be installed in conduit or ducts, or as mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type, or as aluminum-sheathed cable, except that, by special permission, conductors or cable assemblies acceptable for direct earth burial may be used.

(2) Conductors installed in conduit or ducts shall be of types acceptable for use in wet locations as indicated in Table 19.

(3) Conductors or cable assemblies acceptable for direct earth burial as indicated in Table 19 shall:

(a) Be without splice or joint from the point of connection to the supply service to the service equipment in the building; and

(b) Be installed in accordance with Rule 12-006, with rigid conduit being used for mechanical protection at the point of entrance to the building and, where the supply service is on a pole, from the service fitting on the pole to approximately the bottom of the trench with the conduit formed so as to prevent damage to the emerging conductors in the trench.

(4) Service conduit or ducts entering a building underground shall be suitably drained.

(5) Service conduit or ducts connected to an underground supply system shall be sealed with a suitable compound to prevent the entrance of moisture or gases.

6-008 Service from an Electric Railway System.

A supply service shall not be run to a building from an electric railway system using a ground return, unless the building is connected with the operation of an electric railway.

6-010 Service Head Location. The supply end of a service shall be installed:

(a) In a location satisfactory both to the inspection department and to the supply authority;

(b) Not less than 15 feet nor more than 30 feet above sidewalk or grade level, except that on low buildings where 15 feet height is not obtainable, as high as practicable but in no case less than 9 feet;

(c) In such a way that the supply service wires can be maintained at the required ground clearances; and

(d) So that open conductors, which are not higher than windows, doors, and porches shall have a clearance of not less than 3 feet, therefrom.

6-012 Type of Service Head. The supply end of a service shall be equipped with an approved raintight service-entrance cap, except that the cap may be dispensed with where mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable is used provided that:

(a) The cable terminates in a fitting suitable for exposure to the weather; and

(b) The cables are bent, as may be necessary, so that the emerging conductors point downward.

6-014 Condensation in Service Conduit. Where in the opinion of the inspection department condensation is likely to occur due to changes in temperature, service conduit or the equivalent shall be either effectively drained or sealed.

6-016 Support for the Attachment of Service Wires

(1) Where the exterior wall of any building consists of metal sheathing, or of hollow tile or other form of hollow building block, the wiring contractor shall provice acceptable means for attachment of the supply service wires.

(2) Where approved service masts, service racks, or roof stands are used, they shall be installed in accordance with instructions supplied with the equipment.

6-018 Service Conductors

(1) Conductors of a consumer's service which are connected to an overhead supply service at any point above ground on a building, shall be installed in one of the following ways:

(a) Rigid conduit;
(b) Busway;
(c) Steel electrical metallic tubing by special permission only;
(d) Flexible conduit, the conductors being lead sheathed;
(e) Armoured lead-sheathed cable;
(f) Mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type;
(g) Aluminum-sheathed cable;
(h) Service entrance cable, Type ASE;
(j) Service entrance cable, Type SE and Type USE Styles RWB and RWI, provided that:

(i) It is protected by approved means if within 7 feet of the ground,

(ii) The potential does not exceed 300 volts between conductors and 150 volts to ground,

(iii) It is supported at intervals not exceeding 3 feet, and

(iv) Where on a conducting surface, it is mounted on insulating supports which hold it not less than 2 inches from such surface.

(2) That portion of the consumer's service conductors on the supply side of the service head run on the outside walls of buildings may be run as open wiring using types of conductors suitable for exposure to the weather.

(3) Consumer's service conductors shall each extend not less than 30 inches beyond the supply end of the consumer's service head and be provided with drip loops.

(4) Consumer's service conductors shall be not less than No. 10 AWG copper wire, nor less than No. 8 AWG aluminum wire.

6-020 Use of Mineral-Insulated and Aluminum-Sheathed Cable

(1) Mineral-insulated cable and aluminum-sheathed cable may be used for services as specified in Rule 6-018:

(a) In multi-conductor construction; or

(b) In single-conductor construction in sizes larger than:

(i) No. 4 AWG for mineral-insulated cable, and

(ii) No. 00 AWG for aluminum-sheathed cable.

(2) Mineral-insulated cable and aluminum-sheathed cable may be exposed and secured directly to the surface over which it is run, but subject to protection as specified in Rule 6-022(c).

6-022 Service Conduit, Steel Electrical Metallic Tubing. Service conduit and steel electrical metallic tubing shall:

(a) Have an internal diameter of not less than ¾ inch electrical trade size;

(b) Contain no other than service conductors and except by special permission only the conductors of one consumer's service; and

(c) If installed in lanes or driveways less than 6 feet above the grade, be protected by an iron guard of not less than No. 10 MSG secured by bolts or lag screws not less than ⅜ inch by 2½ inches.

6-024 Neutral Service Conductors. The neutral conductor of a consumer's service may by special permission be bare, subject to the following conditions:

(a) The supply is ac and 150 volts or less to ground;

(b) The neutral of the supply system is grounded in addition to being grounded at the consumer's service; and

(c) The bare neutral is run in the same protective covering as the other conductors of the service.

6-026 Services Encased in Concrete or Masonry.

Where service and other conductors are installed in conduit or duct which is run beneath a building or within a wall of concrete or masonry and is surrounded by not less than 2 inches of concrete, masonry or its equivalent, the conductor shall be considered as being outside the building.

6-028 Service Equipment Location. Service boxes or other approved service equipment shall be installed in a location satisfactory to both the inspection department and the supply authority and shall be:

(a) Readily accessible, or have the means of operating them readily accessible;

(b) Not located in coal bins, clothes closets, bathrooms, stairways, dangerous or hazardous locations, nor in any similar undesirable places;

(c) Except by special permission, placed within the building;

(d) If placed on the outside of a building or on a pole:

(i) Protected from the weather, or be weatherproof, and

(ii) Protected from mechanical injury if less than six feet above ground; and

(e) As close as practicable to the point where the service conductors enter the building.

Control and Protective Equipment

6-030 Service Boxes. Services boxes shall be equipped with a device, manually operable when the box is closed, which will disconnect all ungrounded conductors of the circuit simultaneously at the point of supply, and shall be of a type approved for the use.

6-032 Overcurrent Devices. Overcurrent devices shall be connected on the load side of the service box or other approved service equipment.

6-034 Service Boxes, Sealed or Locked. Where service boxes are sealed or locked by the supply authority they shall not be opened except by an electrical inspector or by an authorized agent of the supply authority.

6-036 Three-Phase Service Divided into Single-Phase Services. A two- or three-phase consumer's service may be sub-divided into single-phase subservices provided that the voltage to ground does not exceed 150 volts from any wire of a single-phase service.

6-038 Overcurrent Devices Accessible to the Consumer. If a service supplies one branch circuit only and the service box containing the fuse is to be locked or sealed, overcurrent devices accessible to the consumer shall be inserted in series with the service overcurrent device and on the load side of the meter, but they shall be of a smaller current-carrying capacity than the service overcurrent devices, unless the latter be not more than 15 amperes.

6-040 Current Supply from More Than One System. Where an installation, or portion thereof, is to be supplied, with current from two or more different systems, the switching equipment controlling the various supplies shall be constructed or arranged so that it will be impossible to accidentally switch on current from one source before that from another has been cut off.

6-042 Service Equipment

(1) Every electric service shall be provided with a single service box except as provided in Sub-rule (2).

(2) Where the supply is ac, 150 volts or less to ground, and the total load on the service conductors as computed by the various demand factors will not exceed 600 amperes, a multiple meter fitting may be installed without a service box on the supply side and shall comply with the following:

(a) All the meter fittings shall be contained within a single enclosure and means shall be provided for sealing each individual meter fitting;

(b) The number of meter fittings shall not exceed 6 and where the number exceeds two or where the main service conductors are larger than No. 6 AWG, the assembly shall be provided with a continuous bus or be prewired by the manufacturer on the supply side of the meters;

(c) There shall be provision within the enclosure for grounding the neutral service conductors.

(3) Subject to Ontario Regulation 17/63 space shall be provided in the panelboard installed in a single family dwelling supplied by a 3-wire single-phase service:

(a) For at least 8 branch-circuit overcurrent devices where the buses in the panelboard are protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at not more than 30 amperes; and

(b) For at least 8 branch-circuit overcurrent devices and 1 range-circuit overcurrent device where the buses in the panelboard are protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at more than 30 amperes.

6-044 Oil Switches and Oil Circuit Breakers Used as Service Switches

(1) Isolating switches shall be installed on the supply side and interlocked with oil switches and oil circuit breakers except in the case of metal clad equipment where the primary isolating device shall be considered to be the equivalent of an isolating switch or link.

(2) Where overcurrent trip coils are used for breakers, one shall be installed on each ungrounded conductor of the circuit except that if the capacity of the transformers and the extent of the network supplying the service is sufficiently small, by special permission two trip coils, one in each phase of a four-wire-two-phase ungrounded service, may be used.

6-046 Separate Service Boxes. In multiple occupancy and in single occupancy multi-rate service, a separate service box or service equipment shall be provided for each sub-division of the main service.

6-048 Distribution Centre. At a distribution centre where conductors larger than No. 6 AWG are used there shall be installed in a readily accessible location a busway or splitter box equipped with terminal blocks or bus bars having a separate screw or stud for each connection, but where a splitter box exceeds 6 feet in length or the connected load exceeds 600 amperes a splitter box, if used, shall be provided with bus bars extending approximately the full length of the enclosure.

6-050 Marking of Service Boxes. If there be more service boxes than one, each such box shall be labelled in a conspicuous, legible and permanent manner to indicate clearly which installation or portion of an installation it controls.

6-052 Fuse Enclosures on Service Boxes. If a service box embodies one or more fuse receptacles, access to which may be had without opening the door, such receptacles and their fuses shall be completely enclosed by a separate door, spring-closed, or having a substantial catch.

6-054 Wiring Space in Enclosures. Enclosures for circuit breakers, controllers and externally-operated switches shall not be used as junction boxes, troughs, or raceways for conductors feeding through or tapping off to other apparatus.

Metering Equipment

6-056 Metering Equipment. Metering equipment includes any current and potential transformers as well as the associated measuring instruments.

6-058 Method of Installing Meter Loops

(1) Meter loops shall be installed so that:

(a) Conductors between the service box and the meter are inaccessible to unauthorized persons;

(b) The wiring method complies with Rule 12-196 (1) (e);

(c) Spare conductors not less than 18 inches in length are provided at meter or current transformer connection points; and

(d) A suitable fitting, or service box with meter backplate is provided.

(2) Metering equipment shall be connected on the load side of the service box or other approved service equipment except that it may be connected on the supply-side where:

(a) No live parts or wiring are exposed;

(b) The supply is ac and the potential does not exceed 300 volts between conductors; and

(c) The rating of the service box or other approved service equipment does not exceed 200 amperes.

(3) Instrument transformers used in connection with meters shall be installed in metal enclosures except when mounted on switchboards or in transformer vaults or otherwise rendered inaccessible to unauthorized persons.

6-060 Disconnecting Provisions for Meters. In multiple occpancy and in single occupancy multi-rate service where individual metering is required the conductors to each meter shall be provided with one of the following:

(a) A separate service box or service equipment; or

(b) A sealable meter fitting.

6-062 Location of Meters

(1) Meters and metering equipment shall be installed in locations satisfactory to both the inspection department and the supply authority and shall be:

(a) Located as near as practicable to the service box except as provided for in Sub-rule (2);

(b) Grouped where practicable;

(c) Readily accessible;

(d) Not located in coal bins, clothes closets, bathrooms, stairways, dangerous or hazardous locations, nor in any similar undesirable places; and

(e) If mounted outdoors, of weatherproof construction or in weatherproof enclosures.

(2) Instrument transformers may be outside the consumer's premises and the meter inside the premises, providing the secondary leads between the instrument transformers and the meter terminal box or test links are continuous and are installed in the same manner as service entrance conductors, with the exception that a service box with disconnecting switch is not required.

6-064 Minimum Space Required for Meters

(1) The minimum space which shall be left for the installation of a meter shall be:

(a) For a commercial building, 12 inches in width, 22 inches in height and 9 inches in depth; and

(b) In any other case, 15 inches in height and 12 inches in width.

(2) Notwithstanding Sub-rule (1) the supply authority may require a larger space or a space of different dimensions.

SECTION 8—CIRCUIT LOADING AND DEMAND FACTORS

General

8-000 Scope. This Section covers the conductor current-carrying capacities required for services, feeders, and branch circuits.

8-002 Currents Based on Wattage Requirements.

When calculating currents which will result from wattages to be supplied by a single-phase system, the voltage divisors to be used shall be either 115 or 230.

8-004 Use of Demand Factors

(1) Since the use of demand factors less than 100 per cent has the effect of reducing the size of conductors that would be otherwise required, the size of conductors, and switches, computed in accordance with this Section shall be the minimum used except that, if the next smaller standard size in common use has a current-carrying capacity not more than 5 per cent less than this minimum, the inspection department may, at its discretion, permit the use of the smaller size.

(2) In any case other than a service calculated in accordance with Rules 8-006 and 8-008, where the design of an installation is based on requirements in excess of those given in this Section, the service and feeder capacities shall be increased accordingly.

Services

8-006 Single Family Residences. Subject to Ontario Regulation 17/63, the minimum current-carrying capacity of service conductors shall be based on the following:

(a) A basic load of:

(i) 3,500 watts for a residence having up to and including 500 square feet of living area, or

(ii) 4,500 watts for a residence having more than 500 square feet but not more than 1,500 square feet of living area, and

(iii) An additional 1,000 watts to be added for each 1,000 square feet or portion thereof by which the living area exceeds 1,500 square feet;

(b) Any fixed heating loads provided for, based on the sum of the current ratings of all the fixed heating equipment installed with demand factors, where applicable, as permitted in Section 62 for feeders, or any air-conditioning loads with a demand factor of 100 per cent, whichever is the greater; and

(c) Additional loads, when provided for, of:

(i) 6,000 watts for a range of 12 kw or less,

(ii) 6,000 watts plus 25 per cent of the rating in excess of 12 kw for a range of more than 12 kw,

(iii) 25 per cent of the rating of any additional loads with ratings in excess of 1,500 watts if a range is provided for,

(iv) 100 per cent of the ratings of any additional loads individually exceeding 1,500 watts, up to a total of 6,000 watts and 25 per cent of the rating in excess of a total of 6,000 watts if a range is not provided for; but

(d) When a range or dryer is to be provided for, the current-carrying capacity shall be in no case less than 50 amperes.

8-008 Apartments, Motels, and other Multi-Family Residences

(1) The current-carrying capacity of service conductors, or of feeder conductors from a main service, supplying loads in individual residential units shall comply with Rule 8-006.

(2) The minimum current-carrying capacity of main service conductors, or of feeder conductors from a main service, supplying two or more residential units shall be based on the following:

(a) If space heating is not used, the total load shall be considered to be:
(i) 65 per cent of the sum of the loads in the two units having the heaviest loads, plus
(ii) 25 per cent of the sum of the loads in the next 18 units, plus
(iii) 10 per cent of the sum of the loads in the remaining units;

(b) If space heating is used, the total load shall be considered to be:
(i) 70 per cent of the sum of the loads in the two units having the heaviest loads, plus
(ii) 35 per cent of the sum of the loads in the next 18 units, plus
(iii) 10 per cent of the sum of the loads in the remaining units;

(c) In addition, any lighting, heating, and power loads not located in individual units shall be added with a demand factor of 75 per cent.

8-010 Schools. The minimum current-carrying capacity of service conductors shall be based on the following:

(a) A basic load of 3 watts per square foot of classroom area plus 1 watt per square foot of the remaining area of the building based on the outside dimensions; plus

(b) Heating and power loads based on the rating of the equipment installed;

(c) A demand factor of 75 per cent may be applied to the total load for buildings with an area up to and including 10,000 square feet based on the outside dimensions; or

(d) For a building with an area exceeding 10,000 square feet, the total load may be divided by the number of square feet to obtain a total-load-per-square-foot rating and the demand load for the purpose of calculating the minimum current-carrying capacity of service conductors may be considered to be the sum of:
(i) 75 per cent of the total-load-per-square-foot multiplied by 10,000, and
(ii) 50 per cent of the total-load-per-square-foot multiplied by the area of the building in excess of 10,000 square feet.

8-012 Hospitals. The minimum current-carrying capacity of service conductors shall be based on the following:

(a) A basic load of 1 watt per square foot of the area of the building based on the outside dimensions; plus

(b) 10 watts per square foot for high-intensity areas, such as operating rooms; plus

(c) Heating and power loads based on the rating of the equipment installed;

(d) A demand factor of 80 per cent may be applied to the total load for a building with an area up to and including 10,000 square feet based on the outside dimensions;

(e) For a building with an area exceeding 10,000 square feet, the total load may be divided by the number of square feet to obtain a total-load-per-square-foot rating and the demand load for the purpose of calculating the minimum current-carrying capacity of service conductors may be considered to be the sum of:
(i) 80 per cent of the total-load-per-square-foot multiplied by 10,000, and
(ii) 65 per cent of the total-load-per-square-foot multiplied by the area of the building in excess of 10,000 square feet.

8-014 Hotels, Dormitories, and Buildings of Similar Occupancy. The minimum current-carrying capacity of service conductors shall be based on the following:

(a) A basic load of 1.5 watts per square foot of the area of the building based on the outside dimensions; plus

(b) Lighting loads for special areas such as ballrooms, etc., with a demand factor of 100 per cent; plus

(c) Heating and power loads based on the rating of the equipment installed;

(d) A demand factor of 80 per cent may be applied to the total load for a building with an area up to and including 10,000 square feet based on the outside dimensions;

(e) For a building with an area exceeding 10,000 square feet, the total load may be divided by the number of square feet to obtain a total-load-per-square-foot rating and the demand load for the purpose of calculating the minimum current-carrying capacity of service conductors may be considered to be the sum of:
(i) 80 per cent of the total-load-per-square-foot multiplied by 10,000, and
(ii) 65 per cent of the total-load-per-square-foot multiplied by the area of the building in excess of 10,000 square feet.

8-016 Other Types of Occupancy. The minimum current-carrying capacity of service conductors shall be based on the following:

(a) A basic load to be calculated on the basis of wattage per square foot required by Table 14 with application of demand factors as indicated therein; plus

(b) Heating and power loads based on the rating of the equipment installed with such demand factors as are permitted by this Code for the specific types and number of equipments.

8-018 Determination of Areas

(1) The living area designated in sub-paragraphs (i), (ii), and (iii) of paragraph (a) of Rule 8-006 shall be determined from the outside dimensions of the ground floor of the residence plus 75 per cent of the basement area, based on the inside dimensions, plus any area which might normally be used for living purposes on the upper floors.

(2) The square-footage referred to in paragraph (a) of Rule 8-016 shall be determined from the outside dimensions of all floors on or above grade and the inside dimensions of all floors below grade.

Feeders and Branch Circuits

8-020 General

(1) The current-carrying capacity of feeder or branch circuit conductors shall be as required by this or other Sections of this Code for the specific type of load supplied.

(2) Where a feeder supplies loads of a cyclic or similar nature such that the maximum connected load will not be supplied at the same time, the current-carrying capacity of the feeder conductors may be based on the maximum load that may be connected at any one time.

(3) Notwithstanding the requirements of this Section, the current-carrying capacity of the conductors of a feeder, or of a branch circuit, need not exceed the current-carrying capacity of the conductors of the service, or of the feeder, from which they are supplied.

8-022 Schools. The minimum current-carrying capacity of feeder conductors for schools shall be based on:

(a) A basic load of 3 watts per square foot of classroom area plus 1 watt per square foot of any additional area served by the feeder; plus

(b) A current-carrying capacity sufficient for any heating or power loads.

8-024 Hospitals. The minimum current-carrying capacity of feeder conductors for hospitals shall be based on:

(a) A basic load of 1 watt per square foot of the area plus 10 watts per square foot of any high-intensity area served by the feeder; plus

(b) A current-carrying capacity sufficient for any heating or power loads.

8-026 Hotels, Dormitories, and Buildings of Similar Occupancies and Demands. The minimum current-carrying capacity of feeder conductors for hotels, dormitories and buildings of similar occupancies and demands shall be based on:

(a) A basic load of 1.5 watts per square foot of the area served by the feeder; plus

(b) Lighting loads for special areas such as ball rooms, etc., served by the feeder with a demand factor of 100 per cent; plus

(c) A current-carrying capacity sufficient for any heating or power loads.

8-028 Other Types of Occupancy. The minimum current-carrying capacity of feeder conductors for the types of occupancies specified in Table 14 shall be based on:

(a) A basic load to be calculated on the wattage per square foot required by Table 14 for the area served by the feeder; plus

(b) A current-carrying capacity sufficient for any heating or power loads.

8-030 Special Lighting Circuits. Where a panel is supplying special types of lighting, such as exit lights or emergency lights, which may be located throughout a building so that it is not possible to calculate the area served, the connected load of the circuits involved shall be used in determining a feeder size.

8-032 Conductors Supplying Electric Ranges (See Table 15)

(1) Conductors of a branch circuit supplying one domestic range or of a feeder supplying two or more domestic ranges shall be considered as having a demand load as follows:

(a) For ranges having a rating of 12 kilowatts or less, the demand load is:

(i) For 1 to 5 ranges, 5 kilowatts plus 3 kilowatts per range,

(ii) For 6 to 40 ranges, 15 kilowatts plus 1 kilowatt per range,

(iii) For more than 40 ranges, 25 kilowatts plus ¾ kilowatt per range;

(b) For ranges having a rating of more than 12 kilowatts but not more than 21 kilowatts, the demand load is that indicated in paragraph (a), plus 5 per cent thereof for each kilowatt or part of a kilowatt by which the rating of each range exceeds 12 kilowatts.

(2) For the purpose of this Rule, two or more separate built-in cooking units in a single occupancy may be considered as one range.

(3) For commercial ranges, the demand load shall be determined on the basis of rating and use and ranges having a rating in excess of 21 kilowatts shall be considered as commercial ranges for this purpose.

(4) The demand loads given in this Rule shall not apply to portable hotplates, rangettes, or other appliances.

8-034 Branch Circuit Connected Loads

(1) For show window lighting, the size of branch circuit conductors shall be determined on the assumption that not less than 200 watts will be required per lineal foot, measured along the base of the window, except that a lower figure may be used by special permission where circumstances warrant such a reduction.

(2) Where in normal operation the maximum load of a branch circuit will continue for long periods of time, such as store lighting and similar loads, the connected load of such a circuit shall not exceed 80 per cent of the circuit capacity.

(3) Branch circuits supplying loads which are not specifically permitted to have a lower demand factor in this or other Sections of this Code shall not be allowed a demand factor of less than 100 per cent, except by special permission.

8-036 Minimum Number of 15-Ampere Branch Circuits. Subject to Ontario Regulation 17/63, the minimum number of 15-ampere branch circuits to be provided for in an installation shall be calculated on the basis of a maximum loading of 12 amperes for each such circuit.

8-038 Conductors in Cabletroughs. The current-carrying capacity of conductors in cabletroughs shall be decreased, where necessary, as required by Rule 12-422.

8-040 Motor Feeders and Branch Circuits. The current-carrying capacity of conductors of motor feeders or branch circuits shall be in accordance with the requirements of Section 28.

8-042 Conductors for Capacitors. The current-carrying capacity of conductors supplying capacitors shall be as required in Section 26.

8-044 Conductors for Welders. The current-carrying capacity of conductors supplying welders shall be as required by Section 42.

8-046 Conductors for Fixed Electric Heating Equipment. The current-carrying capacity of conductors of feeders or branch circuits supplying fixed electric heating equipment shall be in accordance with the requirements of Section 62.

8-048 Conductors for Induction and Dielectric Heating Equipment. The current-carrying capacity of conductors of feeders or branch circuits supplying induction or dielectric heating equipment shall be in accordance with the requirements of Section 64.

SECTION 10—GROUNDING

Scope and Object

10-000 Scope

(1) This Section covers the protection of electrical installations by grounding.

(2) Insulating, isolating, and guarding may be used as acceptable means of affording supplemental protection to grounding or, where permitted in this Code, as a suitable alternative.

10-002 Object. Grounding as required by this Code shall be done in such a manner as to efficiently serve the following purposes:

(a) To protect life from the danger of electric shock, and property from damage;
(b) To limit the voltage upon a circuit when exposed to higher voltages than that for which the circuit is designed;
(c) In general to limit ac circuit voltages to ground to 150 volts or less on circuits supplying interior wiring systems;
(d) To facilitate the operation of electrical apparatus and systems;
(e) To limit the voltage on a circuit which might otherwise occur through exposure to lightning.

Systems and Circuits

10-004 Circuits. Circuits shall be grounded in accordance with this Section.

10-006 Two-Wire Direct-Current Systems

(1) Two-wire direct-current systems supplying interior wiring and operating at not more than 300 volts or not less than 50 volts between conductors shall be grounded, unless such system is used for supplying industrial equipment in limited areas and the circuit is equipped with a ground detector.

(2) If such a circuit operates at more than 300 volts between conductors and a neutral point can be established so that the maximum difference of potential between the neutral point and any other point on the system does not exceed 300 volts, the neutral may be grounded.

10-009 Three-Wire Direct-Current System. The neutral conductor of all three-wire direct-current systems supplying interior wiring shall be grounded.

10-010 Alternating-Current Systems

(1) Except as otherwise provided for in this Code, secondary ac systems supplying interior wiring and interior ac wiring systems shall be grounded if, by so doing, their maximum potential to ground does not exceed 150 volts.

(2) It is recommended that systems exceeding 150 volts to ground either be grounded or provided with a suitable ground detection device to indicate operation of the system with an accidental ground on one phase.

(3) When a service employs an uninsulated neutral conductor, the system shall be grounded.

10-012 Furnace Circuits. Electric furnace circuits may, but need not be grounded.

10-014 Electric Crane Circuits. Circuits for electric cranes operating over combustible fibres in Class III hazardous locations shall not be grounded.

10-016 Isolated Circuits. Special circuits supplied from the secondaries of isolating transformers and used where there is particular accident and fire hazard may be ungrounded.

10-018 Circuits of Less than 50 Volts. Circuits of less than 50 volts shall be grounded:

(a) Where run overhead outside of buildings;
(b) Where supplied by transformers energized from
  (i) Systems of more than 150 volts to ground, or
  (ii) Ungrounded systems unless the circuits are provided in accordance with Rule 10-016.

Location of Grounding Connections

10-020 Current Over Grounding Conductors

(1) Where wiring systems, circuits, electrical equipment, arresters, cable armour, conduit and other metal raceways are grounded as a protective measure, the grounding shall be arranged so that there is no objectionable passage of current over the grounding conductors.

(2) The temporary currents which are set up under accidental conditions while the grounding conductors are performing their intended protective functions shall not be considered as objectionable.

(3) Where through the use of multiple grounds an objectionable flow of current occurs over the grounding conductor:

(a) One or more of the grounds shall be abandoned;
(b) The location of the grounds shall be changed;
(c) The continuity of the conductor between the grounding connections shall be suitably interrupted; or
(d) Other effective action shall be taken to limit the current.

10-022 Grounding Connection for Direct-Current Systems. Direct-current systems which are to be grounded shall have the grounding connection made at one or more supply stations but not at individual services nor elsewhere on interior wiring.

10-024 Grounding Connections for Alternating-Current Systems. Secondary alternating-current circuits which are to be grounded shall have:

(a) A connection to a grounding electrode at each individual service, except as provided for in Rule 10-020;
(b) The grounding connection made on the supply side of the service disconnecting means;
(c) At least one additional connection to a grounding electrode at the transformer or elsewhere; and
(d) No connection between the grounded circuit conductor on the load side of the service disconnecting means and the grounding electrode, except as provided for in Rule 10-026.

10-026 Two or More Buildings Served by a Single Service

(1) Where two or more buildings are served by one service, the grounded circuit conductor of the wiring system of any of the buildings shall be connected to a grounding electrode at any building which:

(a) Uses two or more branch circuits supplied from the service; or
(b) Houses livestock.

(2) Where a building uses one branch circuit supplied from the service, the grounded circuit conductor may be connected to a grounding electrode at the building.

10-028 Conductor to be Grounded

(1) For alternating-current interior wiring systems the conductor to be grounded shall be as follows:

(a) Single-phase, 2-wire—the identified conductor;
(b) Single-phase, 3-wire—the identified neutral conductor;
(c) Multi-phase systems having one wire common to all phases—the identified common conductor;

(d) Multi-phase systems having one phase grounded —the identified conductor;

(e) Multi-phase systems in which one phase is used as in (b)—the identified neutral conductor.

(2) In multi-phase systems in which one phase is used as a single-phase 3-wire system, only one phase shall be grounded.

10-030 Isolated Systems. For an interior wiring system or circuit which is required to be grounded and which is not connected to an exterior secondary distribution system, the grounding connection shall be made at the transformer, generator, or other source of supply, or at the switchboard on the supply side of the first switch controlling the system.

Conductor Enclosures

10-032 Service Conductor, Enclosures. Service raceways, service cable sheaths or armouring, if of metal, shall be grounded.

10-034 Other Conductor Enclosures

(1) Metal enclosures for conductors shall be grounded, except in runs of less than 25 feet which are free from probable contact with ground or grounded metal and which are guarded if within reach from grounded surfaces.

(2) Where single-conductor cables having continuous sheaths of lead, aluminum, or copper are in ducts of insulating material, the cables shall:

(a) Be in separate ducts;

(b) Have their sheaths bonded together and grounded at the supply end; and

(c) Thereafter have their sheaths isolated from each other and from ground.

Equipment

10-036 Fixed Equipment, General. Exposed, non-current-carrying metal parts of fixed equipment shall be grounded if the equipment is:

(a) Supplied by means of metal-clad wiring;

(b) Located in a wet location and is not isolated;

(c) Located within reach of a person who can make contact with any grounded surface or object;

(d) Located within reach of a person standing on the ground;

(e) In a hazardous location;

(f) In electrical contact with metal, metal foil or metal lath; or

(g) To operate with any terminal at more than 150 volts to ground, except:

(i) Enclosures for switches or circuit breakers which are accessible to qualified persons only,

(ii) Metal frames of electrically-heated devices which have been exempted by special permission and are permanently and effectively insulated from ground, and

(iii) Transformers mounted on wooden poles at a height of more than 8 feet from the ground subject to the acceptance of the inspection department and the requirements of the supply authority.

10-038 Fixed Equipment, Specific. Exposed, non-current-carrying metal parts of the following kinds of fixed equipment shall be grounded:

(a) Frames of motors operating at 50 volts or more;

(b) Cases of controllers for motors except lined covers of snap switches;

(c) Electric equipment of elevators and cranes;

(d) Electrical equipment in garages, theatres and motion picture studios, except pendent lampholders on circuits of not more than 150 volts to ground;

(e) Motion-picture projection equipment;

(f) Electric signs and associated equipment;

(g) Generator frames in an electrically-operated organ, unless the generator is effectively insulated from ground;

(h) Switchboard frames and structures supporting switching equipment, except that frames of direct-current, single polarity switchboards need not be grounded if effectively insulated;

(i) X-Ray equipment used in therapy.

10-040 In Non-metallic Wiring Systems. Where a non-metallic wiring system is used:

(a) A ground connection shall be provided at all outlets; and

(b) Metallic boxes shall be grounded.

10-042 Non-electrical Equipment. The following metal parts of non-electrical equipment shall be grounded:

(a) Frames and tracks of electrically-operated cranes;

(b) The metal frame of a non-electrically-driven elevator car to which electric conductors are attached;

(c) Hand operated metal shifting ropes or cables of electric elevators;

(d) Metal enclosures such as partitions, grill work, etc., around equipment carrying voltages in excess of 750 volts between conductors, unless in sub-stations or vaults under the sole control of the supply authority.

10-044 Portable Equipment

(1) Under any of the following conditions, exposed non-current-carrying metal parts of portable equipment shall be grounded:

(a) If the equipment is in a hazardous location unless isolating transformers are used;

(b) If the equipment operates with any terminal at more than 150 volts to ground except:

(i) Guarded motors, and

(ii) By special permission the metal frames of electrically-heated appliances which are impractical to ground but which are permanently and effectively insulated from ground;

(c) If the specification to which the equipment was originally approved requires the equipment to be provided with a grounding conductor.

(2) Exposed non-current-carrying metal parts of enclosures of portable X-ray equipment used in therapy shall be grounded except by special permission.

10-046 Spacing from Lightning Rods. Metal frames and cases of electrical equipment shall, wherever practicable, be kept at least 6 feet away from lightning rod conductors but where it is not practicable to do so, they shall be bonded to the lightning rod conductors.

Methods of Grounding

10-048 Effective Grounding. The path to ground from circuits, equipment, or conductor enclosures shall be permanent and continuous and shall have ample carrying capacity to conduct safely any currents liable to be imposed on it, and shall have impedance sufficiently low to limit the potential above ground, and to facilitate the operation of the over-current devices in the circuit.

10-050 Grounding Conductor to Circuit. The grounding conductor may be connected to the grounded circuit conductor at any convenient point on the premises, on the supply side of the service disconnecting means, or in other suitable service equipment if provided.

10-052 Common Grounding Conductor. The grounding conductor for circuits may also be used as a common grounding conductor for grounding equipment, conduit, and other metal raceways or enclosures for conductors, including service conduit or cable sheath and service equipment.

10-054 Common Grounding Electrode. Where the alternating-current system is connected to a grounding electrode in or at a building as specified in Rules 10-024 and 10-026, the same electrode may be used to ground conductor enclosures and equipment in or on that building.

10-056 Underground Service

(1) Where an underground service cable is served from a continuous underground metal-sheathed cable system and the sheath or armour of the service cable is metallically connected to the underground system the sheath or armour of the service cable shall not be required to be grounded at the building if it is insulated from the interior conduit or piping.

(2) Where a metal-sheathed service cable is served from a continuous underground metal-sheathed cable system, is bonded to the underground system and is contained in an underground service conduit, the conduit shall not be required to be grounded at the building if it is insulated from the interior conduit or piping.

10-058 Short Section of Raceway. Isolated sections of metal raceway or cable armour, if required to be grounded shall preferably be grounded by connecting to other grounded raceway or armour, but may be grounded in accordance with Rule 10-060.

10-060 Fixed Equipment

(1) Metal boxes, cabinets, fittings, and non-current-carrying metal parts of other fixed equipment, if metallically connected to grounded metal raceway or cabe armour of other than Types ACV or TECK armoured cable, shall be considered to be grounded by such connections; but where not so connected, or where Types ACV or TECK are used, they may be grounded by:

(a) A grounding conductor which is run with circuit conductors as a part of a cable assembly and which may be uninsulated, but, if provided with an individual covering, the covering shall be finished to show a green colour;

(b) A separate grounding conductor installed the same as a grounding conductor for conduit and the like; or

(c) Other acceptable means, subject to special permission.

(2) The armour of Types ACV or TECK armoured cable shall not be considered as fulfilling the requirements of a grounding conductor for the purpose of this Rule and a grounding conductor complying with paragraph (a) of Sub-rule (1) shall be provided.

10-062 Equipment on Structural Metal

(1) Electrical equipment secured to and in contact with the grounded structural metal frame of a building, shall be deemed to be grounded.

(2) Metal car frames supported by metal hoisting cables attached to or running over sheaves or drums of elevator machines shall be deemed to be grounded if the machine is grounded in accordance with this Code.

10-064 Portable Equipment. Where the non-current-carrying metal parts of portable equipment are required to be grounded, such grounding shall be obtained by:

(a) Connection of the equipment to a permanent outlet provided with a grounding medium as required by Rule 10-060 for fixed equipment;

(b) The use of one of the following means to obtain continuity between the non-current-carrying metal parts of the equipment and the permanent grounding medium;

(i) The metal enclosure of the conductors feeding the equipment,

(ii) An uninsulated or green coloured insulated conductor run with the circuit conductors in cable assemblies or flexible cords; and

(c) The use of an approved multi-prong plug by which grounding is automatically established.

10-066 Pendent Equipment

(1) Where the non-current-carrying metal parts of pendent equipment are required to be grounded, such grounding shall be obtained by:

(a) Connection of the equipment to a permanent outlet provided with a grounding medium as required by Rule 10-060 for fixed equipment; and

(b) The use of one of the following means to obtain continuity between the non-current-carrying metal parts of the equipment and the permanent grounding medium:

(i) The metal enclosure of the conductors feeding the equipment,

(ii) An uninsulated or green coloured insulated conductor run with the circuit conductors in cable assemblies or flexible cords.

(2) Chains which support electric lighting equipment shall not be used as a means of grounding the non-current-carrying metal parts of the equipment.

10-068 Grounding Equipment to Circuit Conductor

(1) The grounded circuit conductor on the load side of the connection to ground shall not be used for grounding equipment, cable armour, or metal raceways, except by special permission.

(2) The grounded service conductor on the supply side of the service disconnecting means may be used for grounding meter housing and service equipment.

10-070 Electrolytic Type Water Heaters. Electrolytic type water heaters connected to a grounded single-phase ac circuit may be used provided that:

(a) A copper grounding conductor of a size given in the second column of Table 16 but in no case less than No. 12 AWG is run connecting the frame of the heater to the grounded conductor of the circuit at the service box; and

(b) The grounded conductor of the circuit is grounded at the service box to a grounding system.

Bonding

10-072 Bonding at Service Equipment. Where the supply is from an overhead distribution system, the electrical continuity of the grounding circuit shall be assured by one of the means given in Rule 10-074 for the following equipment and enclosures:

(a) Service raceways or service armour or sheaths;

(b) All service equipment enclosures containing service entrance conductors including meter fittings, boxes or the like, interposed in the service raceway or armour; and

(c) Any conduit or armour which forms part of the grounding conductor to the service raceway.

10-074 Means of Assuring Continuity at Service Equipment

(1) Electrical continuity at service equipment shall be assured by:

(a) Bonding the equipment to the grounded service conductor in a manner provided for in Rule 10-118;
(b) The use of threaded couplings and threaded bosses on enclosures with joints made up tight where rigid conduit is used;
(c) The use of threadless couplings made up tight where electrical metallic tubing is used;
(d) The use of bonding jumpers meeting the requirements of Rule 10-084;
(e) The use of bonding jumpers around concentric or eccentric knockouts; or
(f) Other devices, except locknuts and bushings, approved for the purpose.

(2) Where a non-conductive protective coating such as paint or enamel is used on the equipment, conduit, couplings or fittings, such coating shall be removed from threads and other contact surfaces in order to ensure a good electrical connection.

10-076 Metal Armour or Tape of Service Cable.

Where service cable has an uninsulated grounded service conductor in continuous electrical contact with its metallic armour or tape, the metal covering shall be considered to be adequately grounded.

10-078 Bonding at Other than Service Equipment.

The electrical continuity of metal raceway or metal-sheathed cable shall be assured by one of the methods specified in paragraphs (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of Rule 10-074 (1), or by the use of:

(a) Threadless fittings, made up tight with conduit or armoured cable;
(b) Two locknuts, one inside and one outside of boxes and cabinets; or
(c) One locknut and a metal conduit bushing provided the bushing can be installed so that it is mechanically secure and makes positive contact with the inside surface of the box or cabinet.

10-080 Loosely Jointed Metal Raceways

(1) Expansion joints and telescoping sections of raceways shall be made electrically continuous by bonding jumpers or other approved means.

(2) Metal trough raceways used in connection with sound recording and reproducing equipment made up in sections, shall contain a grounding conductor to which each section shall be bonded.

10-082 Hazardous Locations. In hazardous locations, regardless of the voltage involved, the electrical continuity of metallic raceway, boxes and the like, shall be assured by one of the methods specified in paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) of Rule 10-074 (1).

10-084 Bonding Jumpers. Bonding jumpers shall be:

(a) Of copper or other corrosion-resistant material;
(b) Of sufficient size to have a current-carrying capacity not less than is required for the corresponding grounding conductor;
(c) Attached to cabinets and similar equipment in a manner specified in Rule 10-118; and
(d) Attached in a manner specified in Rule 10-120 where used between grounding electrodes or around water meters and the like.

Grounding Electrodes

10-086 Grounding Electrodes

(1) Where a continuous electrically conductive underground public water main system, including conductive service piping run therefrom to premises, is available, it shall be used as the grounding electrode.

(2) Where a continuous electrically conductive underground public water main system is not available, a service water pipe from the public water main to premises, if available, shall be used as the grounding electrode provided:

(a) It is continuously electrically conductive;
(b) It is placed underground at least 10 inches below the normal permanent moisture level;
(c) The underground portion extends at least 10 feet beyond the extremities of the premises served; and
(d) It is supplemented by one or more grounding electrodes referred to in Rule 10-088 if the metallic water piping does not have a ground resistance of 25 ohms or less.

(3) Where a system or piping of the types listed in Sub-rules (1) and (2) is not available, a continuous electrically conductive metallic water piping system used for private water supply, or a continuous electrically conductive water well casing and the metallic piping connected thereto, if available, shall be used as the grounding electrode provided the resistance to ground of the system or piping is not greater than 25 ohms.

(4) Where a system or casing of a type listed in Sub-rule (1), (2), or (3) is not available, a multiple grounded neutral grid or an acceptable artificial ground electrode or electrodes shall be used as the grounding medium.

10-088 Artificial Electrodes. An artificial ground electrode shall consist of driven pipes, rods, buried plates, or other devices acceptable for the purpose and which conform to the following requirements:

(a) Electrodes of pipe or conduit shall be not less than ¾ inch internal diameter and, if of iron or steel, shall be galvanized;
(b) Rod electrodes shall be not less than:
  (i) ⅝ inch in diameter if of iron or steel, and
  (ii) ½ inch in diameter if of non-ferrous metal;
(c) Plate electrodes shall:
  (i) Present not less than 2 square feet of surface to exterior soil,
  (ii) Be not less than ¼ inch in thickness if of iron or steel, and
  (iii) Be not less than 0.06 inch thick if of non-ferrous metal;
(d) Pipes or rods shall:
  (i) Be preferably of one piece where of less than standard commercial length, and
  (ii) Have a clean metal surface which is not covered with paint, enamel, or other poor conducting material;
(c) Artificial ground electrodes shall, as far as practicable, be buried at least 10 inches below permanent moisture level;
(f) Where rock bottom is encountered at a depth of less than 4 feet, the electrodes shall be buried in a horizontal trench;
(g) Pipes or rods shall be driven to a depth of at least 10 feet regardless of the size or number used, except that:
  (i) Where rock bottom is encountered at a depth of 4 feet or more, they shall be driven to rock bottom; or
  (ii) Where rock bottom is encountered at a depth of less than 4 feet, they shall be buried in a horizontal trench and shall be not less than 10 feet long;
(h) Each electrode shall be separated at least 6 feet from any other electrode including an electrode used for signal circuits, radio, lightning rods, or any other purpose;

(i) Where any or all of the separate ground electrodes are bonded together, the bonding conductor shall be:

(i) At least No. 6 AWG,

(ii) Installed so as not to be subject to mechanical damage, and

(iii) Attached to electrodes for power systems in accordance with Rule 10-120 and preferably be attached to other electrodes in the same manner.

10-090 Resistance of Electrodes

(1) Buried or driven electrodes shall, if practicable, have a combined resistance to ground not greater than 25 ohms.

(2) Where the resistance to ground of any electrode is higher than 25 ohms, two or more electrodes connected in parallel shall be used.

10-092 Railway Track As Electrodes. Rails or other grounded conductors of electric railway circuits shall not be used as a ground for other than railway lightning arresters and railway equipment, conduit, armoured cable, metal raceway, and the like; and in no case shall such rails or other grounded conductors of railway circuits be used for grounding interior wiring systems other than those supplied from the railway circuit itself.

10-094 Use of Lightning Rods. Lightning rod conductors and driven pipes, rods or other electrodes, excluding buried metallic water-piping systems, used for grounding lightning rods shall not be used for grounding wiring systems or other electrical equipment.

Grounding Conductors

10-096 Material for Grounding Conductors

(1) The grounding conductor of a wiring system, whether also used for grounding electrical equipment or not, may be insulated or bare, and shall be:

(a) Of copper; and

(b) Without joint or splice throughout its length, except in the case of bus bars or thermit welded joints.

(2) The grounding conductor for equipment and for conduit and other metal raceways and enclosures for conductors may be:

(a) Of copper or other corrosion-resistant material, insulated or bare; or

(b) A bus bar, rigid conduit; steel pipe, or electric metallic tubing, but, where conditions are favourable to corrosion, it shall be of copper or other corrosion-resistant material.

(3) Any conductor of a mineral-insulated cable may be used as a grounding conductor if it is permanently marked at the time of installation so that it can be readily distinguished from conductors which are not to be used as grounding conductors.

(4) The sheath of mineral-insulated cable and aluminum-sheathed cable may be used as the grounding conductor for exposed non-current-carrying metal parts.

(5) Where aluminum is used for underground runs or in locations where materials having a deteriorating effect may come in direct contact with the metal, corrosion-resistant protection suitable for the corrosive conditions encountered shall be provided.

10-098 Installation of Grounding Conductors

(1) A grounding conductor No. 4 AWG or larger may be attached to the surface on which it is carried without the use of knobs, tubes, or insulators, and it need not be protected unless it is exposed to severe mechanical injury.

(2) A No. 6 AWG grounding conductor which is free from exposure to mechanical injury may be run along the surface of the building construction without metal covering or protection, if it is rigidly stapled to the construction; otherwise it shall be in conduit, electrical metallic tubing, or cable armour.

(3) Grounding conductors smaller than No. 6 AWG shall be installed and protected in the same manner as the circuit conductors for a given installation.

(4) Metallic enclosures for grounding conductors shall be continuous from the point of attachment to cabinets or equipment to the grounding electrode, and shall be securely fastened to the ground clamp or fitting.

(5) Where rigid metallic conduit or steel pipe is used as a grounding conductor, the installation shall comply with Section 12.

10-100 Grounding Conductor Size for DC Circuits

(1) The current-carrying capacity of the grounding conductor for a direct-current supply system or generator shall be not less than that of the largest conductor supplied by the system, except that where the grounded circuit conductor is a neutral derived from a balancer winding or a balancer set, the size of the grounding conductor shall be not less than that of the neutral conductor.

(2) The grounding conductor shall in no case be smaller than No. 8 AWG copper.

10-102 Grounding Conductor Size for AC Systems and Fixed Equipment

(1) When connected to a grounding electrode of a type specified in Rules 10-086 (1), (2), or (3), the size of grounding conductor shall be:

(a) Not less than that given in column 2 of Table 17 for an alternating-current system or for a common grounding conductor;

(b) Not less than that given in column 2, 3, or 4 of Table 18, as applicable for a service raceway, for the metal sheath or armour of a service cable, and for service equipment, where the alternating-current system is not grounded at the premises; and

(c) Not less than that given in column 2, 3, or 4 of Table 16, as applicable, for conduit, cable sheath or armour, other metal raceways or enclosures for conductors, outlets which supply portable or pendent equipment, and fixed equipment.

(2) When connected to a grounding electrode of a type specified in Rule 10-086 (4), a grounding conductor need not be larger than No. 6 AWG copper wire, or its equivalent in current-carrying capacity.

10-104 Grounding Conductor Size for Portable and Pendent Equipment

(1) For grounding portable or pendent equipment supplied by circuits having overcurrent protection not exceeding 15 amperes, the size of the grounding conductor between the device and the permanent wiring outlet shall be:

(a) Not smaller than No. 16 AWG if uninsulated, or No. 18 AWG if insulated; and

(b) At least the same size as the current-carrying conductors except that in cords of No. 12 AWG and larger it may be two AWG sizes smaller than the other conductors.

(2) For grounding portable or pendent equipment protected at more than 15 amperes, the size of the grounding conductor shall be not less than that specified in Table 16 when it is connected with a grounding electrode of a type specified in Rule 10-086 (1), (2), or (3), but need not be greater than a No. 6 AWG copper wire or its equivalent in current-carrying capacity when connected to a grounding electrode as specified in Rule 10-086 (4).

10-106 Grounding Conductor Size for Outline Lighting. Isolated non-current-carrying metal parts of outline lighting systems may be bonded together by a No. 14 AWG copper conductor protected from mechanical injury, if a conductor other than a common grounding conductor complying with Rule 10-102 is used to ground the group.

10-108 Common Raceway for Grounding and Other Conductors. A grounding conductor may be run in the same metal raceway with other conductors of the system to which it is connected and shall be insulated, except where the length of the raceway does not exceed 50 feet and does not contain more than the equivalent of two quarter bends from end to end.

10-110 Continuity of Grounding Conductor. No automatic cutout or switch shall be placed in the grounding conductor of an interior wiring system unless the opening of the cutout or switch disconnects all sources of energy.

Grounding Conductor Connections

10-112 Grounding Conductor Connection to Raceway. The point of connection of the grounding conductor to interior metal raceways, cable armour and the like shall be as near as practicable to the source of supply and shall be chosen so that no raceway or cable armour is grounded through a run of smaller size than is called for in Rule 10-102.

10-114 Grounding Conductor Connection to Water Pipe Electrodes

(1) Where the grounding electrode is a metallic water-piping system to which a common grounding conductor or the grounding conductor of a system is attached, the point of attachment shall be:

(a) On the street side of the water meter; or

(b) On a cold-water pipe of adequate current-carrying capacity and as near as practicable to the point of entrance of the water service in the building.

(2) Where practicable, the point of attachment shall be accessible.

(3) Where the point of attachment is not on the street side of the water meter, the metallic water-piping system shall be made electrically continuous by bonding together all parts thereof between the point of attachment and the street side of the water meter or the pipe entrance.

(4) Equipment may be grounded to a cold-water pipe which is near the equipment.

10-116 Grounding Conductor Connection to other than Water Pipe Electrodes

(1) Where a metallic water-piping system is not available, the grounding conductor shall be attached to other electrodes at a point which will assure a permanent ground.

(2) Where practicable the point of attachment shall be accessible.

10-118 Grounding Conductor Connection to Circuits and Equipment

(1) The grounding conductor, bond, or bonding jumper shall be attached to circuits, conduits, cabinets, equipment, and the like, which are to be grounded by means of suitable lugs, pressure connectors, clamps, or other approved means.

(2) Connections which depend upon solder shall not be used.

10-120 Grounding Conductor Connection to Electrodes

(1) The grounding conductor shall be attached to the grounding electrode by means of:

(a) An approved bolted clamp, of cast bronze or brass or of plain or malleable cast iron;

(b) A pipe fitting plug or other approved device screwed into the pipe or into the fitting;

(c) Copper welding by the thermit process; or

(d) Other equally substantial approved means.

(2) The grounding conductor shall be attached to the grounding fitting as required by Rule 10-118 (1).

(3) Connections which depend on solder shall not be used.

(4) Not more than one conductor shall be connected to the grounding electrode by a single clamp or fitting, unless the clamp or fitting is of a type approved for multiple conductor connection.

Instrument Transformers, Relays, etc.

10-122 Instrument Transformer Circuits

(1) Where the primary windings of current and potential instrument transformer are connected to circuits of 300 volts or more to ground, the secondary circuits of the transformer shall be grounded.

(2) Where the transformers are on switchboards, the secondary circuits shall be grounded irrespective of the voltage of the circuits.

10-124 Instrument Transformer Cases. The cases and frames of instrument transformers shall be grounded but where the primary circuit of a current transformer is not over 150 volts to ground and the transformer is used solely to supply current to meters, the case or frame of the current transformer need not be grounded.

10-126 Cases of Instruments, Meters and Relays —Operating Voltage 750 Volts or Less

(1) Where instruments, meters and relays:

(a) Are not located on switchboards;

(b) Operate with windings or working parts at between 300 and 750 volts to ground; and

(c) Are accessible to other than qualified persons, the cases and other exposed metal parts of the instruments, meters and relays shall be grounded.

(2) Where instruments, meters and relays:

(a) Operate with windings or working parts at 750 volts or less to ground;

(b) Are on switchboards having no live parts on the front of the panels; and

(c) Are operated from current and potential transformers or are connected directly in the circuit, the cases of the instruments, meters and relays shall be grounded.

(3) Where instruments, meters and relays:

(a) Operate with windings or working parts at 750 volts or less to ground;

(b) Are on switchboards having exposed live parts on the front of the panels; and

(c) Operate from current and potential transformers or are connected directly in the circuit, the cases of the instruments, meters and relays shall not be grounded and, where the voltage to ground exceeds 150 volts, mats of insulating rubber or other suitable floor-insulation shall be provided for the operator.

10-128 Cases of Instruments, Meters and Relays —Operating Voltage over 750. Where instruments, meters, and relays, have current-carrying parts over 750 volts to ground, they shall be isolated by elevation or protected by acceptable barriers, grounded metal or insulating covers or guards and their cases shall not be grounded, except that in electrostatic ground detectors the internal ground segments of the instrument shall be connected to the instrument case and grounded, and the detector shall be isolated by elevation.

10-130 Instrument Grounding Conductor. The ground conductor for secondary circuits of instrument transformers and for instrument cases shall be not smaller than No. 12 AWG if of copper, or of equal conductance if of other metal.

Lightning Arresters

10-132 Lightning Arresters on Secondary Services —750 Volts or Less

(1) Where a lightning arrester in installed on a secondary service, the connections to the service conductors and to the grounding conductor shall be as short as practicable.

(2) The grounding conductor may be:

(a) The grounded service conductor;
(b) The common grounding conductor;
(c) The service equipment grounding conductor; or
(d) A separate grounding conductor.

(3) The bonding or grounding conductor shall be of copper not smaller than No. 6 AWG or of equivalent corrosion-resisting material.

10-134 Lightning Arresters on Primary Circuits.

The grounding conductor of a lightning arrester protecting a transformer which supplies a secondary distribution system may be interconnected as follows:

(a) A metallic interconnection may be made to the secondary neutral provided that, in addition to the direct grounding connection at the arrester, the grounded conductor of the secondary has elsewhere a grounding connection to a continuous metallic underground water-piping system;
(b) In urban water pipe areas where there are at least four water pipe connections on the neutral and not less than four such connections in each mile of neutral, the metallic interconnection may be made to the secondary neutral with omission of the direct grounding connection at the arrester;
(c) Where the secondary is not grounded as in (a) above but is otherwise grounded as in Rule 10-088, such interconnection, if made, shall be through a spark gap having a 60 cycle breakdown voltage of at least twice the primary circuit voltage but not necessarily more than 15 kilovolts, and there shall be at least one other ground on the grounded conductor of the secondary at least 20 feet distant from the lightning arrester grounding electrode.

SECTION 12—WIRING METHODS—LOW POTENTIAL 750 VOLTS OR LESS

Conductors

12-000 Scope

(1) The provisions of Section 12 apply to all wiring installations operating at 750 volts or less, except for:

(a) Class 2 circuits as provided for in Section 16;
(b) Communication circuits as provided for in Section 60;
(c) Conductors which form an integral part of factory built equipment.

(2) Where the surface temperature or the temperature on the insulation of conductors, cable assemblies or raceway sustems exceeds 90° C., the installation shall not be located in proximity to combustible material unless it is supported in such a manner as to remove the fire hazard.

12-002 Types of Conductors. Conductors installed in any location shall be suitable for the condition of use as indicated in Table 19 for the particular location involved and with particular respect to:

(a) Moisture, if any;
(b) Corrosive action, if any;
(c) Temperature;
(d) Degree of enclosure; and
(e) Mechanical protection.

12-004 Thermoplastic-Insulated Conductors

(1) Conductors having thermoplastic insulation shall not be installed during any time when the ambient temperature is sufficiently low as to be liable to cause damage to the insulation.

(2) Such conductors shall not be so installed as to permit flexing or movement of the conductors after installation if the ambient temperature is liable to become low enough to damage the insulation during flexing or movement.

12-006 Conductors Buried in Earth. Where conductors are buried in the earth so as to be in direct contact therewith, they shall be installed:

(a) In a trench which shall be:
  (i) Not less than 2 feet deep unless rock bottom is encountered at a lesser depth, in which case a minimum depth of 18 inches shall be permitted; and
  (ii) Not less than 3 feet deep in any case under an area which is subject to vehicular traffic;
(b) With a layer of sand at least 3 inches deep both above and below the conductors, if in rocky or stony ground;
(c) So that they do not cross over each other in the trench;
(d) With mechancial protection in the form of treated planking, a layer of concrete, or other acceptable material which shall be placed over the conductors after first back-filling with 3 inches of sand or earth containing no rocks or stones; and
(e) With acceptable mechanical protection, as necessary, from the bottom of the trench to at least 12 inches above finished grade, and beyond that as may be required for mechanical protection by other rules of this Code.

12-008 Conductors in Hoistways

(1) Where, by special permission, conductors other than those used to furnish energy to the elevator or dumbwaiter are installed in hoistways, they shall be mineral-insulated cable, aluminum-sheathed cable, or be run in rigid conduit or flexible conduit or electrical metallic tubing.

(2) The cable, conduit, or tubing referred to in Sub-rule (1) shall be:

(a) Securely fastened to the hoistway construction; and
(b) Arranged so that terminal, outlet, or junction boxes open outside the hoistway except that pull boxes may be installed in long runs for the purpose of supporting or pulling-in conductors.

12-010 Flame-Retarding Coverings

(1) Where the insulation on a conductor has a flame-retarding covering, the covering shall be removed sufficiently at terminals and splices to prevent creepage of current over it.

(2) Where insulated conductors are closely grouped behind switchboards and in like places, they shall have a flame-retarding covering.

12-012 Conductors Between Generators, Transformers, Switchboards, and Other Apparatus.

Conductors between generators, transformers, switchboards, and other apparatus used in connection therewith shall be:

(a) Exposed to view and supported on incombustible absorption resisting insulators;
(b) Run in raceways, tile, or other fireproof duct;
(c) In the form of mineral-insulated cable, aluminum-sheathed cable; or
(d) By special permission only, armoured cable.

12-014 Radii of Bends in Conductors

(1) The radii of bends in conductors shall be sufficiently large to ensure that no injury is done to the conductors or their insulation, covering, or sheathing.

(2) Where ungrounded conductors of No. 4 AWG or larger enter a raceway attached to a cabinet, pull-box, junction box, or auxiliary gutter, locknuts shall be provided inside and outside the enclosure where conduit is employed and the conductors shall be:

(a) Protected by a substantial bushing providing a smoothly-rounded insulating surface; or
(b) Separated from the raceway fitting by insulating material securely fastened in place and affording adequate resistance to mechanical injury.

12-016 Lightning Rod Conductors

(1) Where lightning rod conductors are installed on a building, electric wiring not in metal enclosures shall be kept at least 6 feet from the lightning rod conductors.

(2) Metal enclosures of circuit conductors shall, where practicable, be kept at least 6 feet from the lightning rod conductors, and where that is not practicable, shall be bonded to the lightning rod conductors.

12-018 Conductor Joints and Splices

(1) Unless made with approved solderless connectors, joints or splices in insulated conductors shall be soldered, but they shall first be made mechanically and electrically secure.

(2) Joints or splices shall be covered with an insulation equivalent to that on the conductors joined.

12-020 Ends of Insulated Conductors. When the ends of insulated conductors at switch and fixture outlets and in like places are not in use, they shall be insulated in the manner prescribed for joints and splices.

12-022 Terminating of Conductors

(1) The portion of stranded conductors to be held by wire-binding terminals or solderless connectors shall have the strands confined so that there will be no stray strands to cause either short-circuits or grounds.

(2) Stranded and solid conductors of greater current-carrying capacity than No. 10 AWG copper shall be soldered into lugs at terminals unless solderless connectors are used.

12-024 Supporting of Conductors. Conductors shall be supported so that no injurious strain is imposed on the terminals of any electrical apparatus or devices or on any joints or taps.

12-026 Colour of Conductors

(1) No insulated conductor finished to show a green colour shall be used for any purpose other than a grounding conductor.

(2) Where the mid-point of one phase of a 4-wire delta-connected secondary is grounded to supply lighting and similar loads, that phase conductor having the higher voltage to ground shall be indicated by painting or other effective means at any point where:

(a) A connection is to be made; and

(b) The grounded neutral conductor is present.

12-028 Conductors in Multiple. Conductors of similar conductivity in sizes No. 1/0 AWG and upwards may be run in multiple, provided they are:

(a) Free of splices;
(b) The same circular mil area;
(c) The same type of insulation;
(d) The same length; and
(e) Terminated at both ends in a multiple barrel lug or multiple connector assembly in such a manner as to insure equal division of the total current between the conductors, provided always that the contact area of the lug and the terminal stud assembly will provide adequate current-carrying capacity.

Open Wiring

12-030 Open Wiring Rules. Rules 12-032 to 12-054 apply only to single conductors run as open wiring.

12-032 Types of Conductors. Conductors shall be of types specified in Rules 12-002 and 12-004.

12-034 Spacing of Conductors

(1) Spacings between conductors and between conductors and adjacent surfaces shall, except as otherwise provided for in this Rule, comply with the following:

(a) For normally dry locations the spacings shall be not less than those specified in Table 20;

(b) Where circuits of different voltages are run parallel to each other, the separation between adjacent conductors of the different circuits shall be not less than that specified in Table 20 for conductors of the circuit having the higher voltage;

(c) In damp locations, a separation of at least 1 inch shall be maintained between conductors and adjacent surfaces.

(2) In all locations, a separation of at least 1 inch shall be maintained between conductors and adjacent metallic piping or conducting materials.

(3) Where conductors are run across the open faces of joists, studs, or timber, the separation between conductors shall be as specified in Rule 12-042.

(4) At connections to fittings and devices or in other cases where it is not practical to maintain the spacings specified above, individual conductors shall be encased in porcelain tubes or continuous lengths of flexible tubing, but:

(a) The porcelain tubes or flexible tubing shall extend the full length of the conductor between points of support; and
(b) The flexible tubing shall not be used in damp locations, unless a spacing of not less than 1 inch can be maintained between the tubing and any wet or conducting surfaces.

12-036 Provision for Grounding

(1) Where open wiring is used, every branch circuit shall contain an insulated grounding conductor not smaller than No. 14 AWG except that a single grounding conductor may serve as a common grounding conductor for all 15-ampere branch circuits in a single occupancy.

(2) The grounding conductor shall be secured to every metallic box by means of a grounding screw, which shall be used for no other purpose.

(3) The grounding conductor shall be brought into every non-metallic outlet box in such a manner that it can be connected to any fitting or device which may require grounding.

(4) The grounding conductor may be spliced or tapped as may be required, but all such splices or taps which are not within boxes shall be covered with insulation.

(5) Where more than one grounding conductor enters a box, all such conductors shall be in good electrical contact with each other by means of securing all grounding conductors under grounding screws, or by connecting them together with an acceptable solderless connector and connecting one conductor only to the box by a grounding screw or an approved grounding device, and the arrangement shall be such that the disconnection or removal of a receptacle, fixture, or other device fed from the box, will not interfere with or interrupt the ground continuity.

12-038 Conductor Supports

(1) Conductors shall be supported rigidly on incombustible, absorption-resisting insulators.

(2) Split knobs shall not be used to support conductors larger than No. 8 AWG.

(3) Conductors supported on solid knobs shall be securely tied thereto by tie wires having insulation of the same type as that on the conductors which they secure.

(4) Where used on metal surfaces, thermoplastic-insulated conductors shall not be mounted in split knobs or cleats.

12-040 Conductors on Flat Surfaces. Where conductors are run on flat surfaces, they shall be supported rigidly at intervals of not more than 4½ feet.

12-042 Protection from Mechanical Injury

(1) Where conductors are supported on or run across the open faces of joists, wall-studs, or other timber, or on walls where exposed to mechanical injury, they shall be protected by running-boards, guard-strips, wooden boxing, or sleeves of iron pipe.

(2) Where conductors are not exposed to mechanical injury, they may be run directly from timber to timber, but shall be:

(a) Of not less than No. 8 AWG;
(b) Separated from each other by not less than 6 inches; and
(c) Supported at each timber.

(3) Open wiring shall not be run across the tops of ceiling joists in unfinished attics or like places.

12-044 Material for Running-Boards, Guard-Strips and Boxing

(1) Material for running-boards, guard-strips and boxing shall be at least ⅞ inch thick and the edges of running-boards shall project at least ½ inch beyond the insulators on both sides.

(2) Guard-strips shall be at least as high as the insulators and placed as close to the conductors as Table 20 permits.

(3) In wooden boxing, there shall be a clear space of at least 1 inch between conductors and adjacent surfaces, and the ends of boxing not abutting on the structure of the building shall be closed.

12-046 Ends of Conductors

(1) Conductors shall not be brought to a dead-end at any fitting distant more than 12 inches from the last supporting insulator.

(2) Where conductors of No. 8 AWG or larger are run as open wiring, solid knobs or strain insulators shall be used at the ends of the run.

12-048 Material for Attachment of Conductor Supports. Knobs and cleats shall be fastened securely with screws.

12-050 Maintaining Clearances. Sub-bases shall be installed under all surface-mounted snap switches and receptacles unless adequate clearances are otherwise maintained.

12-052 Where Open Wiring Connects to Other Systems of Wiring. Where open wiring is connected to conductors in raceways, armoured cable, or non-metallic sheathed cable, the junction shall be made in a box, or at, or in, a fitting having a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

12-054 Conductors Passing Through Walls or Floors

(1) Where a conductor passes through walls, floors, timbers, or partitions, it shall be bushed:

(a) Where not exposed to mechanical injury, with a continuous porcelain tube; or
(b) Where exposed to mechanical injury, with a single sleeve of iron pipe enclosing all conductors of the circuit and each conductor shall be separately encased in a continuous length of flexible tubing extending the full distance between the insulators next adjacent to the ends of the sleeve.

(2) The bushing shall be secured in place and shall project at least ½ inch beyond the finished surface from which it issues.

Concealed Knob-and-Tube Wiring

12-056 Concealed Knob-and-Tube Wiring Rules.

Rules 12-058 to 12-078 apply only to concealed knob-and-tube wiring.

12-058 Maximum Potential. Knob-and-tube wiring shall not be used for potentials exceeding 150 volts to ground or 300 volts between any two conductors.

12-060 Types of Conductors. Conductors shall be of types acceptable for concealed knob-and-tube wiring as indicated in Table 19.

12-062 Spacing of Conductors. Conductors shall be separated from each other by a distance of at least 4 inches and from adjacent surfaces by a distance of at least 1 inch, except that:

(a) At distribution centres, meters, outlets, switches, and places where 4-inch separation cannot be maintained between conductors, each conductor shall be encased in a continuous length of flexible tubing extending from within the distribution box, meter, outlet box, or switch box to the nearest supporting knob; or
(b) Where conductors approach at any point within 1 inch of other electrical conductors or of metallic piping or other conducting material, they shall be protected in the manner prescribed by Rule 12-034 (4).

12-064 Conductors Passing Through Walls or Floors. Where conductors pass through walls, floors, timbers, or partitions, they shall be protected in the manner prescribed by Rule 12-054.

12-066 Conductor Supports

(1) Conductors shall be supported separately on incombustible, absorption-resisting insulators.

(2) Split knobs shall not be used to support conductors larger than No. 8 AWG.

(3) Conductors supported on solid knobs shall be securely tied thereto by tie-wires having insulation of the same type as that on the conductors which they secure.

12-068 Conductors on Flat Surfaces

(1) Conductors shall be run singly on separate timbers or studding where practicable and shall be supported rigidly at intervals of not more than 4½ feet.

(2) Where conductors of No. 8 AWG or larger are run as knob-and-tube wiring, solid knobs or strain insulators shall be used at the ends of the run.

12-070 Material for Attachment of Conductor Supports. Knobs shall be fastened securely with screws.

12-072 Conductors in Plastered Partitions. Where conductors pass through or near cross-timbers in spaces behind plastering, the parts of the conductors which are within a distance of 3 inches measured vertically above the upper surface of the cross-timbers shall be protected by porcelain tubes.

12-074 Where Conductor Supports Cannot Be Attached

(1) Where it is impracticable to use insulating supports in any portion of an installation and the conductors are in a dry location, they may be fished, and shall be run separately, in flexible tubing extending in continuous lengths between supports, from a support to an outlet or between outlets; or some other wiring method providing mechanical protection for the conductors shall be used.

(2) There shall be no joints or splices in the conductors within their protective coverings.

12-076 Where Knob-and-Tube Wiring Connects to Other Systems of Wiring. Where knob-and-tube wiring is connected to conductors in raceways, armoured cable, or non-metallic sheathed cable, the junction shall be made in a box having a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

12-078 Provision for Grounding

(1) Every branch circuit of knob-and-tube wiring shall contain an insulated grounding conductor not smaller than No. 14 AWG, except that a single grounding conductor may serve as a common grounding conductor for all 15-ampere branch circuits in a single occupancy.

(2) The grounding conductor shall be secured to every metallic box by means of a grounding screw, which shall be used for no other purpose.

(3) The grounding conductor shall be brought into every non-metallic outlet box in such a manner that it can be connected to any fitting or device which may require grounding.

(4) The grounding conductor may be spliced or tapped as may be required, but such splices or taps shall be made only within boxes.

(5) Where more than one grounding conductor enters a box, all such conductors shall be in good electrical contact with each other by means of securing all grounding conductors under grounding screws, or by connecting them together with an acceptable solderless connector and connecting one conductor only to the box by a grounding screw or an approved grounding device, and the arrangement shall be such that the disconnection or removal of a receptacle, fixture, or other device fed from the box, will not interfere with, or interrupt the ground continuity.

Non-metallic Sheathed Cable

12-080 Non-metallic Sheathed Cable Rules.

Rules 12-082 to 12-106 shall apply only to conductors run as non-metallic sheathed cable.

12-082 Maximum Potential. Non-metallic sheathed cable shall not be used where the potential exceeds 300 volts between any two conductors.

12-084 Uses of Non-metallic Sheathed Cable.

Non-metallic sheathed cable may be installed in:

(a) Residential buildings of frame construction;

(b) Churches, halls, and meeting places in which the total floor area above ground level does not exceed 1,500 square feet;

(c) Educational institutions having not more than one floor above ground level and not more than three classrooms; and

(d) Other occupancies as the inspection department may permit.

12-086 Method of Installation

(1) The cable shall be run in continuous lengths between outlet boxes, junction boxes, and panel boxes as a loop system, and the joints, splices, and taps shall be made in the boxes.

(2) Where concealed wiring is connected to non-metallic sheathed cable, the junction shall be made in a box.

(3) Where open wiring is connected to non-metallic sheathed cable, the junction shall be made in a box or at or in a fitting having a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

12-088 Bending of Cable. The cable shall not be bent or handled so that the covering is damaged.

12-090 Cable Supports. Where the cable is run between outlets, it shall be secured by straps or other approved devices located within 12 inches of every box or fitting and at intervals of not more than 4½ feet throughout the run.

12-092 Not to be Embedded. The cable shall not be buried in plaster, cement, or similar finish.

12-094 Protection on Joists and Rafters. Cables shall not be run on or across:

(a) The upper faces of ceiling joists or the lower faces of rafters in attic or roof spaces, where the vertical distance between the joists and the rafters exceeds three feet; or

(b) The lower faces of basement joists, unless suitably protected from mechanical injury.

12-096 Concealed Cable Installations

(1) Where the cable is run through studs, joists, or similar wooden members, the outer surfaces of the cable shall be kept distant at least 1¼ inches from the edges of the wooden members, or the cable shall be effectively protected from mechanical injury.

(2) Where the cable is installed immediately behind a baseboard, it shall be effectively protected from mechanical injury from driven nails.

12-098 Exposed Cable Installations

(1) The cable may be used in open-wiring work where it is:

(a) Supported directly upon a wall or ceiling of woodwork, plaster, concrete, brick, or other building finish, and the conductors are distant at least 1 inch from any part of the wall or ceiling which is metal-lathed or metal-covered; and

(b) Adequately protected wherever it is less than 5 feet above a floor.

(2) Where the cable is run horizontally along a wall, it shall be at least 6 inches above the floor.

12-100 Fished Cable Installation. Where the cable is used in concealed wiring and it is impracticable to provide the supports required by Rule 12-090, the cable may be fished.

12-102 Where Outlet Boxes Are Not Required

(1) Where the cable is exposed, approved switch, outlet, and tap devices of insulating material may be used without boxes.

(2) The openings in the devices shall fit closely around the outer covering of the cable.

(3) The device shall fully enclose any part of the cable from which any part of the covering has been removed.

(4) Where the conductors are connected to the devices by binding-screw terminals, there shall be as many screws as there are conductors unless the cables are clamped within the device or the terminals are of a type approved for the purpose.

12-104 Types of Outlet Boxes

(1) Boxes and fittings shall be of a type approved for use with non-metallic sheathed cable.

(2) Where grounded metal boxes are not required by these rules, outlet and switch boxes may be of fire-resisting moulded composition insulating material, furnished with a cover of the same material.

12-106 Provision for Grounding

(1) The cable shall contain a grounding conductor which may be uninsulated.

(2) The grounding conductor shall be secured to every metallic box by means of a grounding screw, which shall be used for no other purpose.

(3) The grounding conductor shall be brought into every non-metallic outlet box in such a manner that it can be connected to any fitting or device which may require grounding.

(4) Where more than one grounding conductor enters a box, all such conductors shall be in good electrical contact with each other by means of securing all grounding conductors under grounding screws, or by connecting them together with an acceptable solderless connector and connecting one conductor only to the box by a grounding screw or an approved grounding device, and the arrangement shall be such that the disconnection or removal of a receptacle, fixture, or other device fed from the box, will not interfere with or interrupt the ground continuity.

Raceway and Armoured Cable Work

12-108 Raceway and Armoured-Cable Work Rules. Rules 12-110 to 12-146 apply only to conductors run in raceways or as armoured cable.

12-110 Raceways

(1) Raceways may be of metal or insulating materials, and the term includes rigid metal conduit, flexible metal conduit, electrical metallic tubing, non-metallic conduit, underfloor raceways, cellular metal floor raceways, surface raceways, wireways, cable-troughs, busways and auxiliary gutters.

(2) By special permission and using special means, raceways may be formed in concrete during the pouring and setting operations.

12-112 Mechanical Continuity of Raceways. Raceways and the armouring of cables shall be mechanically continuous throughout and mechanically secured to all cabinets and fittings to which they are attached.

12-114 Support of Raceways

(1) Raceways and the armouring of cables shall be supported independently of cabinets and fittings forming part of the raceway system or armoured-cable system.

(2) Type I non-metallic conduit shall be laid with its entire length in concrete.

12-116 Removal of Fins and Burrs of Raceways. Fins and burrs shall be removed from the ends of raceways.

12-118 Electrical Continuity of Raceways. Metal raceways and the armouring and lead sheathing of cables shall be electrically continuous throughout and electrically secured to all cabinets and fittings to which they are attached, except that the lead sheathing of lead-sheathed armoured cable need not be bonded at outlet and junction boxes.

12-120 Protection of Conductors at Ends of Raceways. Bushings or equivalent means shall be used to protect conductors from abrasion where they issue from raceways or armouring.

12-122 Accessibility. Joints in wires and cables shall be accessible.

12-124 Junction of Open Wiring and Raceways. Where conductors connected to open wiring issue from the ends of raceways or from armouring, they shall be protected with approved boxes or with fittings having a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

12-126 Types of Conductors

(1) Conductors shall be of types suitable for use in raceways as indicated in Table 19.

(2) Conductors used for fluorescent lighting equipment and contained in the same raceways as the auxiliaries for fluorescent lighting shall be of the thermoplastic-and-asbestos insulated type having a voltage rating of 600 volts and a maximum allowable conductor temperature of not less than 90° C. (194° F.) as indicated in Table 19.

12-128 Stranding of Conductors. Except in the case of conductors used as bus bars, mineral-insulated cables, and single-conductor armoured cables, conductors No. 8 AWG or larger when installed in raceways shall be stranded.

12-130 Entry of Raceway into Buildings

(1) Holes in outer walls of buildings through which raceways pass shall be filled to prevent the infiltration of moisture.

(2) Where a conduit or duct enters a building from an underground distribution system, the end of the conduit or duct within the building shall be sealed with a suitable compound to prevent the entrance of moisture and gases.

12-132 Installation of Raceways in Ducts and Plenum Chambers

(1) No raceway shall be installed in a duct used for the removal of dust, stock, or vapour.

(2) No raceways other than rigid conduit with fittings accepted by the inspection department as suitable for the location shall be installed in any air-conditioning duct or plenum chamber.

(3) No raceway shall be installed in such manner as to interfere with the operation of an automatic fire damper in a duct.

12-134 Conductors in Raceways

(1) All conductors of a circuit shall be contained in the same raceway, or in the same channel of a multiple channel raceway or armouring, except that where it is necessary to run conductors in multiple due to the capacity of an alternating-current circuit, additional enclosures may be used, provided the conductors in any one enclosure:

(a) Are balanced in size, length, and type of insulation; and

(b) Include an equal number of conductors from each phase and the neutral.

(2) The same raceway or channel or armouring shall not contain circuits of different systems except as permitted by Rule 12-288.

12-136 Joints or Splices Within Raceways. There shall be no joints or splices in conductors or cables within raceways, except in the case of busways, wireways, and cabletroughs as covered by Rules 12-336 and 12-414.

12-138 Radii of Bends in Raceways and Armoured Cable

(1) Where armoured cable or raceways of the draw-in type are bent during installations, the radius of the curve of the inner edge of the bends shall be at least 6 times the internal diameter of the armouring or raceway.

(2) Where:

(a) Lead-sheathed cable or varnished-cambric-insulated conductors are used in raceways of the draw-in type; or

(b) Lead-sheathed armoured cable is used,

the radius of the curve of the inner edge of bends in the raceways and in the armoured cable shall be at least 10 times the internal diameter of the raceway or armouring.

(3) Elbows and bends shall be made without undue distortion of the raceways or armouring and without injury to its inner or outer surfaces.

12-140 Metal Raceways laid in Cinders or Cinder Concrete. Where a raceway or armoured cable is laid in cinders or cinder concrete, it shall be protected from corrosive action by a grouting of non-cinder concrete at least 1 inch thick entirely surrounding it.

12-142 Raceways Installed Underground or Where Moisture May Accumulate

(1) The requirements for Category 1 locations as specified in Section 22 shall be complied with where raceways are installed:

(a) Underground;

(b) In concrete slabs or other masonry in direct contact with moist earth; or

(c) In other locations where the conductors are subject to moisture.

(2) Where lead-sheathed conductors are used in such locations, a pothead or equivalent device shall be used to protect them from moisture and mechanical injury at their point of issue from the lead sheathing.

(3) Where raceways and armoured cable are installed underground:

(a) They shall be buried to a depth of not less than 18 inches or, if in an area subject to vehicular traffic, to a depth of not less than 24 inches unless rock bottom is encountered at a lesser depth, in which case the raceway or armoured cable shall be entrenched into the rock in a trench not less than 6 inches deep and grouted with concrete to the level of the rock surface;

(b) Type I non-metallic conduit shall be laid with its entire length in a 2-inch envelope of concrete.

12-144 Metal Raceways and Armoured Cable in Plaster. In buildings of fire-proof construction where branch-circuits of armoured cable and metal raceways other than metal moulding have conductors not larger than No. 10 AWG, the branch circuits may be laid on the face of the masonry or other material of which the walls and ceiling are constructed and may be buried in the plaster finish.

12-146 Protection for Raceways or Armoured Cable in Lanes. If subject to mechanical injury and unless otherwise protected, approved steel guards of not less than No. 10 MSG, adequately secured, must be installed to protect conduits and armoured cables less than 6 feet above grade in lanes and driveways.

Rigid and Flexible Conduit

12-148 Rigid and Flexible Conduit Rules. Rules 12-150 to 12-162 apply only to conductors run in rigid and flexible conduit.

12-150 Minimum Size of Conduits. No conduit having an internal diameter of less than ½ inch, electrical trade size, shall be used except that:

(a) 7/16 inch and ⅜ inch flexible conduit may be used for runs of not more than 5 feet for the connection of equipment; and

(b) ⅜ inch liquid-tight flexible metal conduit may be used as permitted by this Code.

12-152 Conduit Completely Installed Before Conductors are Installed

(1) Conduits of the draw-in type shall be installed as a complete system before the conductors are drawn into them.

(2) Threaded conduits shall be used in damp places and the joints and fittings shall be made water-tight.

(3) Conductors shall not be drawn into conduits in a building under construction until the conduit fittings and conductors are reasonably safe from damage from construction operations.

12-154 Maximum Number of Bends in Conduit.

A run of conduit between outlets or between draw-in points shall not contain more than the equivalent of 4 quarter-bends.

12-156 Conduit Size in Relation to Drawing and Withdrawing of Conductors. Conduits shall be of sufficient size to permit the conductors to be drawn in and withdrawn without injury to the conductors.

12-158 Conductor Supports in Vertical Conduits

(1) Conductors in vertical conduit shall be supported independently of the terminal connections and at intervals not exceeding those specified in Table 21.

(2) The supports shall maintain the continuity of the conduit system without injury to the conductors or their covering.

12-160 Maximum Spacing of Conduit Supports

(1) All rigid conduit of one size shall be securely attached to hangers or to a solid surface with the maximum spacings of the points of support not greater than:

(a) 5 feet for ½- and ¾-inch conduit;

(b) 6 feet for 1- and 1¼-inch conduit;

(c) 10 feet for 1½-inch conduit and larger.

(2) Where conduits of mixed sizes are run in a group, the conduit supports shall be so arranged that the maximum support spacing will be that shown in Subrule (1) for the smallest conduit.

12-162 Expansion and Contraction of Conduits

(1) In locations subject to extreme temperature changes, provision shall be made for expansion and contraction in long runs of surface mounted rigid conduit in the form of:

(a) Approved expansion joints; or

(b) Two 90-degree bends in the conduit run.

(2) If expansion joints are used, bonding jumpers shall be provided in accordance with Rule 10-080.

Electrical Metallic Tubing

12-164 Electrical Metallic Tubing Rules. Rules 12-166 to 12-180 apply only to electrical metallic tubing.

12-166 Use. Electrical metallic tubing may be used for exposed and concealed work except that it shall not be used:

(a) Where it will be subject to severe mechanical injury either during installation or afterwards;
(b) In cinder concrete or fill where subject to permanent moisture, unless protected on all sides by a layer of non-cinder concrete at least 1 inch thick, or unless the tubing is at least 18 inches under the fill;
(c) In any hazardous location;
(d) Where exposed to corrosive vapour except as permitted by Rule 12-168;
(e) Except by special permission if manufactured of aluminum or copper alloy.

12-168 Where Corrosive Fumes are Encountered

(1) Where electrical metallic tubing and fittings are exposed to corrosive fumes or vapours, they shall be of a corrosion-resistant material suitable for the conditions to which they are exposed.

(2) Where practicable, dissimilar metals shall not be used in an electrical metallic tubing system where there is a possibility of galvanic action.

12-170 Where Moisture is Encountered. In parts of dairies, laundries, canneries, and other places where a high degree of moisture is present, and in places where walls are washed frequently the entire tubing system including all boxes and fittings used therewith shall be made water-tight.

12-172 Minimum and Maximum Tubing Size.

The tubing shall have an internal diameter of not less than ½ inch and not more than 2 inches, electrical trade size.

12-174 Maximum Number of Conductors. A tube shall not contain more conductors of a given size than are specified in Tables 5, 6 and 7.

12-176 Connections and Couplings

(1) Where lengths of the tubing are coupled together or connected to boxes, fittings, or cabinets, fittings approved for the purpose shall be used and the fittings shall not have threads of standard pipe-thread dimensions.

(2) Threadless couplings and connectors used with tubing shall be made up tightly and if to be buried in masonry, concrete or fill, or if installed in wet places, shall be of a type to prevent water from entering the raceway.

12-178 Radii of Bends in Tubing

(1) Bends in the tubing shall be made so as not to injure the tubing or reduce its internal diameter.

(2) Where conductors which are not lead-sheathed are used, the radius of the curve of the inner edge of bends made during installation shall be at least 6 times the internal diameter of the tubing.

(3) Where lead-sheathed conductors are used, the radius of the curve of the inner edge of bends made during installation shall be at least 10 times the internal diameter of the tubing.

12-180 Number of Bends in Tubing. Where the tubing is run between outlets or fittings, or between outlets and fittings, the run shall not contain more than the equivalent of 4 quarter-bends including the bends located at an outlet or fitting.

Armoured-Cable Work

12-182 Armoured-Cable Work Rules. Rules 12-184 to 12-194 apply only to armoured-cable work.

12-184 Use. Armoured cable shall be of the type listed in Table 19 as suitable for direct earth burial if used:

(a) For underground runs;
(b) For circuits embedded in masonry, concrete, or fill in buildings in course of construction; or
(c) In locations where it will be exposed to weather, continuous moisture, excessive humidity, or to oil or other substances having a deteriorating effect on rubber insulation.

12-186 Use of Thermoplastic Covered Armoured Cable. Armoured cable of the type listed in Table 19 as suitable for direct earth burial and which has a thermoplastic outer covering, shall only be used where the outer covering will not be subjected to mechanical injury.

12-188 Terminating Armoured Cable

(1) Where conductors issue from armour, they shall be protected from abrasion:

(a) By acceptable bushings of insulating material or equivalent devices; or
(b) By the sheath of lead-sheathed armoured cable.

(2) Where armoured cable is fastened to a box or cabinet, the connector or clamp shall be of such design as to leave the insulating bushing or its equivalent, or the end of the lead sheath, visible for inspection.

12-190 Proximity to Knob-and-Tube and Non-metallic Sheathed Cable Systems. Where armoured cable is used in a building in which concealed knob-and-tube wiring or concealed non-metallic sheathed-cable wiring is installed, the cable shall not be fished if there is a possibility of damage to the existing wiring.

12-192 Concealed Armoured Cable Installation

(1) Where armoured cable is run through studs, joists, or other wooden members, it shall be:

(a) Located so that its outer circumference is at least 1¼ inches from the nearest edge of the wooden members; or
(b) Protected from mechanical injury where it passes through the holes in the wooden members.

(2) Where armoured cable is installed immediately behind baseboards, it shall be protected from mechanical injury from driven nails.

12-194 Supports for Armoured-Cable Installations. Armoured cable shall be secured in place by approved fastenings located not more than 1 foot from boxes or fittings and not more than 4½ feet apart, except where the armoured cable is fished.

Use of Rigid and Flexible Conduit, Electrical Metallic Tubing, MI Cable, Aluminum-Sheathed Cable, and Armoured Cable

12-196 Use of Rigid and Flexible Conduit, Electrical Metallic Tubing, MI Cable, Aluminum-Sheathed Cable, and Armoured Cable

(1) Rigid conduit, flexible conduit, electrical metallic tubing, mineral-insulated cable, aluminum-sheathed cable, or armoured cable shall be used for:

(a) Branch circuit wiring of motors except as otherwise provided for in Rule 28-008;
(b) Wiring in buildings of fireproof or mill construction;
(c) Subject to the provisions of Rule 12-084, wiring in:

(i) Hospitals, hotels, asylums, churches, halls, public institutions, public buildings, and
(ii) Other buildings used for public meetings or assembly having a floor area above ground level of at least 1,500 square feet;

(d) Wiring in educational institutions having two or more floors above ground level or four or more classrooms;

(e) Wiring from service boxes to meters except where equivalent protection is provided;

(f) Wiring run on the exterior surface of buildings to electric signs located on or attached to the building;

(g) Surface and concealed wiring in buildings having metal-lathed or metal-covered walls or ceilings, where the conductors are not more than 1 inch from the metal at any place other than an outlet; and

(h) Wiring for fire-escape lights.

(2) Where flexible conduit is used under paragraph (f) of Sub-rule (1) the conductors shall be lead-sheathed, and where armoured cable is used it shall be of the type listed in Table 19 as suitable for direct earth burial.

Surface Raceway Work

12-198 Surface Raceways in Damp Places. Surface raceways shall not be installed in damp places and shall not be conealed except as permitted in Rule 12-144.

12-200 Gauge of Surface Raceways

(1) Surface raceways, if of steel, shall be not less than 0.0309 inch (No. 20 MSG) thick.

(2) Approved metal moulding less than 0.0309 inch thick may be used for extensions to wiring systems where:

(a) The voltage between conductors contained therein is not in excess of 300 volts; and

(b) The voltage to ground is not in excess of 150 volts.

12-202 Supports of Surface Raceways. The backing of a surface raceway shall be secured in position by screws or bolts having heads flush with the metal.

12-204 Restrictions of Surface Raceways. Surface raceways shall not be used for:

(a) Conductors larger than No. 6 AWG;

(b) A greater number of conductors than that for which they are approved; or

(c) More than 10 conductors.

12-206 Surface Raceways Through Walls and Floors

(1) Surface raceways may be extended through dry walls or partitions.

(2) Where the wall or partition is not constructed wholly of incombustible material, no joint in the raceway shall be concealed within the wall or partition.

(3) Where a raceway passes through a floor, wall, or partition, and protection from mechanical injury is necessary, a sleeve of iron pipe shall be placed over the raceway and shall extend beyond the outer surfaces of the floor, wall or partition.

12-208 Multiple-Channel Surface Raceways

(1) Where multiple-channel surface raceways are used to carry the conductors of different systems, each compartment shall contain only the conductors of one system and the compartments shall maintain the same position in relation to each other throughout the length of the raceway.

(2) One or more of the systems may be communication systems.

Underfloor Raceways

12-210 Where Underfloor Raceways Are Permitted

(1) Underfloor raceways may be installed under the surface of concrete or other flooring material.

(2) Underfloor raceways shall not be used:

(a) Where they will be exposed to corrosive vapours;

(b) In a hazardous location;

(c) In commercial garages; or

(d) In storage-battery rooms.

12-212 Method of Installing Underfloor Raceways

(1) Underfloor raceways shall be laid so that their centre line coincides with a straight line drawn between the centres of successive junction boxes.

(2) The raceways shall be mechanically secured to prevent disturbance of the alignment during construction.

(3) The joints along the edges of the raceways and between the raceways, couplings, and junction boxes, and between the junction box cover-plates and cover-rings shall be filled with an approved water proof cement.

(4) The raceways shall be arranged so that there are no low points or traps at the fittings or in the raceway run and crossings shall be avoided where possible.

12-214 Fittings for Underfloor Raceways

(1) Where underfloor raceways are run at other than right angles, special fittings shall be provided if required by an inspector.

(2) The raceways shall be connected to distribution centre and wall outlets by conduit or approved fittings.

(3) Dead-ends of the raceways shall terminate in junction boxes or other approved fittings.

12-216 Taps and Splices in Underfloor Raceways.

Taps and splices in underfloor raceways shall be made only in header access units or in junction boxes.

12-218 Inserts and Junction Boxes for Underfloor Raceways

(1) Inserts and outlets in underfloor raceways shall be made electrically and mechanically secure.

(2) Inserts in fibre raceways shall be screwed into the fibre and, where they are not made mechanically secure by being grouted in separately, they shall not be set until the floor is laid.

(3) Inserts and junction boxes shall be levelled to the grade of the floor and sealed with water-tight plugs.

12-220 Setting of Inserts. When setting inserts or cutting through the walls of underfloor raceways, adequate precautions shall be taken to prevent chips and dirt from falling into the raceway, and special tools designed for the purpose and for preventing the tools from entering the raceway and injuring the conductors shall be used.

12-224 Multiple Channel Underfloor Raceways.

Where interior wiring systems are not connected electrically to each other within a building, their respective conductors shall be contained in separate raceways, or subject to the provisions of Rule 12-208, in separate channels of multiple channel underfloor raceways.

12-226 Discontinued Outlets in Underfloor Raceways. Where an outlet in an underfloor raceway is discontinued, the conductors supplying the outlet shall be removed from the underfloor raceway.

12-228 Area of Conductors in Underfloor Raceways.

(1) The aggregate cross-sectional area of the conductors and their insulation in an underfloor raceway shall not exceed 40 per cent of the interior cross-sectional area of the raceway.

(2) Sub-rule (1) shall not apply where the raceway contains only mineral-insulated cable, armoured cable, or non-metallic sheathed cable.

12-230 Underfloor Raceways Completely Installed Before Installation of Conductors. Conductors shall not be drawn into underfloor raceways in a building under construction until the raceway, fittings and conductors are reasonably safe from damage from construction operations.

12-232 Underfloor Raceway Junction Boxes

(1) Junction boxes shall not be used as outlet boxes in underfloor raceways.

(2) There shall not be more than 60 feet between boxes in a run of underfloor raceway.

12-234 Gauge of Metal Underfloor Raceways

(1) Steel underfloor raceways shall have a thickness not less than 0.0528 inches (No. 16 MSG), except that the upper element for an underfloor raceway unit may be less than 0.0528 inches, but not less than 0.0418 inches (No. 18 MSG), provided that the unit is covered with concrete to a depth of not less than 2½ inches and is marked as being approved for such application.

(2) Where wiring feeder-ducts are exposed to damage during installation, they shall have a thickness of not less than 0.0667 inches (No. 14 MSG).

Open Wiring on Exteriors of Buildings and Between Buildings on the Same Premises

12-236 Exterior Open Wiring Rules. Rules 12-238 to 12-250 apply only to open wiring run on the exterior surfaces of buildings or between buildings on the same premises.

12-238 Types of Conductors. Conductors shall be of types suitable for exposure to the weather as indicated in Table 19.

12-240 Location of Conductors

(1) Subject to the provisions of Rule 6-010, where the conductors are supported on or in close proximity to the exterior surfaces of buildings they shall be installed and protected so that they shall not be a hazard to persons or be exposed to mechanical injury, and they shall not, without special permission, be less than 15 feet from the ground.

(2) Where the conductors are exposed to mechanical injury from awnings, swinging signs, shutters, or other movable objects they shall be run in rigid conduit made water-tight.

12-242 Conductor Supports

(1) Conductors on the exterior surfaces of buildings shall be supported by brackets, racks, insulators, or other acceptable means at intervals of not more than 9 feet and the individual conductors shall be distant at least 6 inches from one another and at least 2 inches from the adjacent surfaces.

(2) Where petticoat insulators are used, they shall be installed at intervals of not more than 15 feet under normal conditions and at smaller intervals where the conductors are subject to disturbance, and shall be located so as to hold the individual conductors at least 12 inches apart and at least 2 inches from adjacent surfaces.

(3) Where the conductors are not exposed to the weather, they may be supported on glass or porcelain knobs placed at intervals of not more than 4½ feet and holding the conductors at least 1 inch from adjacent surfaces.

(4) Where conductors having a voltage of 220 volts or less and conductors of more than 220 volts but not exceeding 750 volts are mounted on the same pole, the conductors of higher voltage shall be mounted above, and kept distant at least 12 inches from, the conductors of lower voltage.

12-244 Clearance of Conductors. The conductors shall be located or guarded so that they cannot be reached by a person standing on a fire escape, flat roof, or other portion of a building, and they shall be at least 8 feet above the highest point of a flat roof or roof that can be readily walked upon and at least 3 feet above peaked roofs or the highest point of roofs that cannot be readily walked upon except that, by special permission, they may be less than 8 feet but not less than 6 feet above the highest point of a flat roof or roofs that can be readily walked upon.

12-246 Conductors over Buildings. Conductors shall not be carried over buildings without special permission, and work shall not be begun until the plans and specifications for the work are approved by the inspection department.

12-248 Conductors on Trestles. Where the conductors pass over buildings, they shall, where practicable, be supported on structures not connected to the building but, where not practicable, they shall be supported on and secured to trestles constructed of steel or other acceptable material.

12-250 Power Supply Conductors. The conductors of a power supply system attached to the exterior surfaces of buildings shall be at least 4 inches from the conductors of a communication system unless one system is in conduit or is permanently separated from other systems by a continuous fixed non-conductor other than the insulation on the conductors.

12-252 Use of Neutral Supported Cables. When neutral supported cables are used the following requirements shall apply:

(a) They shall not be mounted directly on any surface;
(b) They shall be secured so that they will be not less than:
  (i) 3 feet from a building in the case of Type NS-1, and
  (ii) 2 inches from a building in the case of Type NSF-2;
(c) They shall be supported in spans of not more than 125 feet in length;
(d) They may have mid-span taps provided that approved spacers and hardware are used and that there will be no increase in sag;
(e) The conductors shall be secured to the messenger at all terminations; and
(f) Where aluminum conductors are used, wire connectors approved for use with such conductors shall be used.

Installation of Boxes, Cabinets, Outlets and Terminal Fittings

12-254 Maximum Number of Outlets per Circuit

(1) There shall be not more than 8 outlets on any 2-wire branch circuit to which receptacles are connected, but, where no receptacles are connected to such a circuit, there may be more than 8 but not more than 12 outlets connected thereto unless otherwise specified in this Code.

(2) Such outlets shall be considered to be rated at not less than 1 ampere per outlet.

(3) Where the connected load is known, the number of outlets may exceed 12 providing the load current does not exceed 12 amperes on a No. 14 AWG circuit.

(4) Where fixed multi-outlet assemblies are used, each 5 feet or fraction thereof of each separate and continuous length shall be counted as one outlet, but in locations where a number of electrical appliances are likely to be used simultaneously, each 1 foot or fraction thereof shall be counted as one outlet.

(5) Where each branch circuit in a telegraph or telephone equipment room is equipped with a circuit breaker rated at not more than 15 amperes, the number of lighting fixtures which may be used with or mounted on the equipment frames and the number of outlets mounted on the equipment frames served by 1 circuit shall not be limited to 12.

(6) Where mineral-insulated cable, aluminum-sheathed cable, or other types of cables or conductors having a current-carrying capacity in excess of 15 amperes for No. 14 AWG are used, and where the connected load is known, the load current referred to in Sub-rule (3) may exceed 12 amperes on a No. 14 AWG circuit but shall not exceed 80 per cent of the current allowed for such cables or conductors in Tables 1 or 2, whichever is applicable.

12-256 Maximum Number of Mogel Outlets per Circuit. There shall not be more than 8 mogul lampholders connected to any two wires of a branch circuit.

12-258 Outlet Boxes

(1) An approved box or an equivalent device shall be installed at every point of outlet, switch or junction of conduit, raceways, armoured cable, or non-metallic sheathed cable, and at every point of outlet and switch of concealed knob-and-tube work.

(2) Non-metallic outlet boxes shall not be used in wiring methods using metallic raceways and armourings.

(3) The box shall be provided with a cover or a fixture canopy.

(4) Shallow boxes and plates shall not be used without special permission.

(5) At least 6 inches of free conductor shall be left at each outlet for making of joints or the connection of fixtures, unless the conductors are intended to loop through lampholders, receptacles, or similar devices without joints.

12-260 Terminal Fittings

(1) Where conductors are run from the ends of conduit, armoured cable, surface raceways, or non-metallic sheathed cable to appliances or open wiring, an outlet fitting or terminal fitting may be used instead of the box required by Rule 12-258, and the conductors shall be run without splice, tap, or joint within the fitting.

(2) The fittings shall have a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

(3) The fittings shall not be used at outlets for fixtures.

12-262 Terminal Fittings Behind Switchboards

(1) Where conductors issue from conduit behind a switchboard or more than 8 conductors issue from a conduit at control apparatus or a similar location an insulating bushing may be used instead of the box required by Rule 12-258.

(2) Ungrounded conductors of No. 4 AWG or larger shall be protected in the manner required by Rule 12-014 (2).

12-264 Distribution Centre. At a distribution centre where conductors larger than No. 6 AWG are used, there shall be installed, in a readily accessible location, a busway or splitter box equipped with terminal blocks or bus bars having a separate screw or stud for each connection but where a splitter box exceeds 6 feet in length or the connected load exceeds 600 amperes a splitter box, if used, shall be provided with bus bars extending approximately the full length of the enclosure.

12-266 Boxes in Concrete Construction

(1) Where used in concrete slab construction, ceiling outlet boxes shall have knockouts spaced above the face or lower edge of the boxes a distance of at least twice the diameter of the steel reinforcing-bars so that conduit entering the knockouts shall clear the bars without off-setting.

(2) Sectional boxes shall not be used embedded in concrete or masonry construction.

12-268 Outlet Box Supports

(1) Boxes and fittings not secured to studs, joists, or similar fixed structural units other than wooden, metal, or composition lath, shall be supported on metal supports or on a wooden board at least $\frac{7}{8}$ inch thick rigidly secured to the structural unit.

(2) Sub-rule (1) shall not apply to boxes and fittings installed after the studs, joists or structural units have been concealed.

12-270 Boxes, Cabinets, and Fitting Supports

(1) Boxes, cabinets, and fittings shall be fastened securely in place.

(2) Boxes and fittings having a volume of less than 100 cubic inches may be attached to a firmly secured exposed raceway by threading or other acceptable means of connection.

12-272 Accessibility of Junction Boxes

(1) Pull-in, junction, and outlet boxes, cabinets and gutters, and joints in wires and cables shall be accessible.

(2) A vertical space of 3 feet or more shall be required to provide ready access.

12-274 Flush Boxes, Cabinets, and Fittings

(1) The front edges of boxes, cabinets, and fittings installed in walls or ceiling shall not be set in more than $\frac{1}{4}$ inch from the finished surface, and where the walls or ceilings are of wood or other combustible material, shall be flush with the finished surface or shall project therefrom.

(2) Gaps or open spaces in plaster surfaces of walls or ceilings shall be filled in around the front edges of boxes, cabinets, and fittings.

12-276 Outlet Boxes Attached to Existing Plaster Work. Where outlet boxes installed as additions to existing work are mounted directly upon existing plaster surfaces, they shall be fastened securely in place.

12-278 Outlet Boxes, etc., in Damp Places. Where boxes, cabinets, and fittings are installed in damp places they shall be so placed or constructed as to prevent moisture from entering and accumulating therein.

12-280 Entrance of Conductors into Boxes, Cabinets, and Fittings

(1) Where conductors pass through the walls of boxes, cabinets, or fittings, provision shall be made to:

(a) Protect the insulation on the conductors from injury;

(b) Protect terminal connections from external strain;

(c) Provide electrical continuity between a metal box, cabinet, or fitting and conduit, armour, or metal sheathing of conductors, whether or not the armour or metal sheathing is to be used as a grounding conductor;

(d) Prevent injury to a non-metallic sheath applied over armour or metal sheathing for protection against moisture or corrosion; and

(e) Adequately close the opening through which the conductors pass.

(2) Where conductors, run as open wiring, enter a metal box, cabinet, or fitting, they shall either pass through insulating bushings, firmly secured in the opening, with the last external point of support sufficiently close to the opening to avoid strain on the conductor termination, or the conductor shall be encased in a flexible tubing which shall enter the opening and be secured in place.

(3) Where non-metallic sheathed cable enters a box, cabinet, or fitting, a connector, either as a separate device approved for use with such cable or as a part of the box, cabinet, or fitting, shall be used to adequately secure the cable in place without injury to the conductors.

(4) Where rigid or flexible metal conduit, electrical metallic tubing, or armoured cable enter boxes, cabinets, or fittings, they shall be secured in place in accordance with the requirements of Section 10.

(5) Where metal-sheathed conductors enter boxes, cabinets, or fittings, the connector shall be of a type which will meet the requirements of Section 10 without injury to the metal sheath and, where such connectors also serve as the termination of mineral-insulated cable, they shall be specifically approved for the purpose.

(6) Where liquid-tight flexible metal conduit or where flexible conduit, armoured cable, or metal-sheathed cable of a type having a non-metallic sheath over the armour or metal sheath enters a box, cabinet or fitting, the connector shall be of a type specifically approved for the purpose and shall ensure electrical continuity without injury to the non-metallic sheath unless the point of connection is in a dry location free from corrosive atmosphere, where the non-metallic sheath may be stripped back a sufficient distance.

(7) Where single conductor cables enter metal boxes through separate openings, precaution shall be taken to prevent overheating of the metal by induction if the current carried per conductor exceeds 200 amperes.

12-282 Unused Openings in Boxes, Cabinets and Fittings. Unused openings in boxes, cabinets, and fittings shall be effectively closed by metal plugs or plates affording protection substantially equivalent to that of the wall of the box, cabinet, or fitting.

12-284 Extensions From Existing Outlets

(1) Where a surface extension is made from an existing outlet of concealed wiring, a box or an extension-ring shall be mounted over the original box and electrically and mechanically secured to it.

(2) The extension shall then be connected to the box or extension-ring in the manner prescribed by this Section for the method of wiring employed in making the extension.

12-286 Multi-Outlet Assemblies

(1) Multi-outlet assemblies shall only be used in normally dry locations as extensions to wiring systems.

(2) Multi-outlet assemblies shall not be used in any bathroom, kitchen, or any place where in the opinion of the inspection department the assembly would be subject to mechanical injury.

(3) Multi-outlet assemblies may be carried through but not run within dry partitions provided that:

(a) No outlet falls within the partition;

(b) The removal of any cap or cover necessary for proper installation is not prevented; and

(c) The assembly is of metallic construction or, if of non-metallic construction, is surrounded by a metal duct or the equivalent.

(4) Multi-outlet assemblies shall not be concealed within the building finish but:

(a) The back and sides of metal assemblies may be set in plaster applied after the assembly is in place; or

(b) The back and sides of non-metallic assemblies may be set in a performed recess in the building finish; and

(c) Either may be recessed in a baseboard or other wood trim member.

12-288 Conductors of Different Systems in Boxes, Cabinets, or Fittings

(1) Conductors of different systems shall not be installed in the same box, cabinet, or auxiliary gutter unless:

(a) A barrier of sheet steel not less than 0.0528 inch (No. 16 MSG) thick or an equivalent device of acceptable insulating material is used to divide the space into separate compartments for the conductors of each system; or

(b) The conductors are intended for the supply and control of remotely-controlled devices where the voltage does not exceed 4,500 volts between conductors, and they are insulated for at least the same voltage as that of the circuit having the highest potential and none of the conductors of the circuits of lower potentials are directly connected to a lighting branch circuit.

(2) Where a barrier is used, it shall be fastened rigidly to the box, cabinet, or gutter, or an approved device assuring positive separation of the conductors shall be used.

(3) By special permission, the provision of Sub-rule (1) may be varied in the case of:

(a) A double-throw switch used in an emergency lighting system;

(b) The supply and control conductors of remotely-controlled devices where the conductors are not insulated for the maximum voltage; and

(c) The supply and control conductors of remotely controlled devices where the voltage exceeds 4,500 volts between conductors.

12-290 Wiring Space in Enclosures. Enclosures for circuit breakers, controllers, and externally-operated switches shall not be used as junction boxes, troughs, or raceways for conductors feeding through or tapping off to other apparatus.

12-292 Maximum Number of Conductors in a Box

(1) Boxes shall be of sufficient size to provide usable space for all insulated conductors contained in the box, subject to the following:

(a) A conductor running through a box with no connection therein shall be considered as one conductor;

(b) Each conductor entering or leaving a box and connected to a terminal or connector within the box shall be considered as one conductor;

(c) A conductor of which no part leaves the box shall not be counted; and

(d) No. 18 and No. 16 AWG fixture wires supplying a lighting fixture mounted on the box containing the fixture wires shall not be counted.

(2) Subject to the details given in Sub-rule (1), boxes of the nominal dimensions given in Table 23 shall not contain more insulated conductors of a given size than permitted by the Table, and the number of conductors shall be reduced by one for each of the following conditions as applicable:

(a) If the box contains one or more fixture studs, built-in cable clamps, or hickeys;

(b) If the box contains one or more flush devices mounted on a single strap except that a flush device box of minimum dimensions of 2⅞ inches in length, 1-13/16 inches in width and 2-7/16 inches in depth in which is installed a flush device or cable clamp, may contain a maximum number of 6 No. 14 AWG conductors.

(3) Subject to the details given in Sub-rule (1), boxes having nominal dimensions other than those shown in Table 23 shall have the amount of usable space per insulated conductor as specified in Table 22, but the number of conductors so calculated shall be reduced by one for each of the conditions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of Sub-rule (2) as applicable.

(4) Where a box contains a transformer, relay, or other device not considered as falling within the classifications shown in Sub-rule (2), the number of insulated conductors permitted shall be in accordance with Table 22, after the space occupied by the device has been deducted from the space within the box.

(5) The total usable space in a box considered under Table 22 shall be considered to be the internal volume of the box and shall disregard any space occupied by locknuts, bushings, cable connectors, or clamps.

(6) Where single flush boxes are ganged, each section shall be considered to be a separate box for the purpose of this Rule.

12-294 Motor Terminal Housings and Outlet Boxes with Hubs. Tables 22 and 23 shall not apply to terminal housings supplied with motors, nor to boxes or fittings without knockouts and having hubs or recessed parts for bushings and locknuts, but such boxes shall be of sufficient size to provide usable space for all conductors enclosed in the box.

12-296 Pull Box Sizes. Where pull boxes are used with raceways of 1¼ inches trade size or larger, the boxes shall, for straight pulls, have a length of at least 8 times the trade diameter of the largest raceway and, for angle- and U-pulls, have a distance between each terminal fitting of the raceway inside the box and the opposite side of the box of at least 6 times the trade diameter of the raceway and the distance shall be increased for each additional raceway entry by the amount of the sum of the diameters of the other raceway entries.

12-298 Lighting and Appliance Branch Circuit Panelboards

(1) Lighting and appliance branch circuit panelboards shall not provide for more than 42 overcurrent devices.

(2) The cabinets and cutout boxes which house the panelboards shall not contain more than one panelboard unless:

(a) The cabinet is divided between panelboards by an unpierced barrier of incombustible material; or

(b) The panelboards are located side by side or in a horizontal row.

(3) At the time of installation, the ampere rating of overcurrent devices shall be prominently marked adjacent to the respective branch circuit they protect.

Auxiliary Gutters

12-300 Where Auxiliary Gutters are Used to Supplement Wiring Spaces

(1) Where auxiliary gutters are used to supplement wiring spaces at meter centres, distribution centres, switchboards and similar points in interior-wiring systems, the gutters may enclose conductors and cables but they shall not be used to enclose bus bars, switches, overcurrent devices, or other appliances or apparatus.

(2) The auxiliary gutters shall not extend more than 20 feet beyond the equipment which they supplement, and thereafter the conductors may be contained in approved wireways or busways.

12-304 Auxiliary Gutter Cross-Sectional Area

(1) The aggregate cross-sectional area of the conductors and their insulation at a cross-section of an auxiliary gutter shall not exceed 20 per cent of the cross-sectional area of the gutter at that point.

(2) A single compartment of an auxiliary gutter shall not contain more than 30 conductors at a cross-section.

Busways and Splitter Boxes

12-306 Where Busways and Splitter Boxes May Be Used

(1) Busways and splitter boxes may be used only for exposed work and shall not be installed outdoors, or in wet or damp locations, unless specifically approved for such locations.

(2) Splitter boxes, busways, and fittings shall not be placed:

(a) Where subject to mechanical injury;
(b) Where subject to corrosive vapours;
(c) In hoistways;
(d) In hazardous locations; or
(e) In storage battery rooms.

(3) Busways may be used as risers in buildings of fire-resisting construction when provided with acceptable fire stops.

12-308 Extensions from Busways and Splitter Boxes. Rigid conduit, flexible conduit, surface raceways, cabletroughs, electrical metallic tubing, armoured cable, metal-sheathed conductors or cable, or, where necessary, acceptable cord assemblies approved for hard usage, shall be used in extensions from busways and splitter boxes and shall be connected to the busway or splitter box in a manner appropriate to the material used in accordance with Rule 12-280.

12-310 AC Circuits in Busways and Splitter Boxes. Where alternating current is used, all conductors of a circuit shall be placed within the same busway, splitter box, or section thereof, if the latter is made of magnetic material.

12-312 Busway and Splitter Box Supports. Busways and splitter boxes shall be securely supported at intervals of not more than 5 feet unless they are plainly marked to indicate a greater distance.

12-314 Method of Installation of Busways

(1) Where busways extend transversely through dry walls or partitions, they shall pass through the walls or partitions in unbroken lengths and shall be totally enclosed where passing through walls or partitions constructed of combustible materials or masonry walls containing voids at the point where the busway passes through.

(2) Busways may extend vertically through dry floors if they are:

(a) Totally enclosed where passing through such floors and for the first 12 inches above any floor; and

(b) Provided with acceptable fire stops.

(3) Busways shall be provided with adequate protection against mechanical injury and personal contact with live parts for a distance of 6 feet above any floor in an area accessible to other than qualified persons.

(4) Dead ends of busways shall be closed by approved fittings.

12-316 Conductors of Different Systems in Busways. Conductors of different systems shall not be installed in the same busway unless the conductors are separated from each other by suitable barriers.

12-318 Plug-In Devices for Busways

(1) Plug-in connectors and other devices for tapping off branch circuits from busways shall be of approved types containing, where necessary, overcurrent devices appropriate to the requirements of the branch circuits.

(2) Where plug-in devices are not readily accessible, the overcurrent devices shall be enclosed or guarded while connected to the supply.

(3) Where busways supply machine tools, a switch need not be furnished on the machine tool if:

(a) A plug-in device having a horsepower rating is used; and

(b) The means of operating the plug-in device is readily within reach of the operator.

12-320 Reduction in Size of Busways. Overcurrent protection may be omitted at points where busways are reduced in size, provided that the smaller busway:

(a) Does not extend more than 50 feet;

(b) Has a current rating at least equal to one-third the rating or setting of the overcurrent devices next back on the line; and

(c) Is free from contact with combustible material.

12-322 Length of Busways Used as Branch Circuits

(1) Busways which are used as branch circuits, and which are designed so that loads can be connected at any point, shall be limited to such lengths as will provide that in normal use the circuits will not be overloaded.

(2) In general, the length of such run in feet should not exceed 3 times the ampere rating of the branch circuit.

12-324 Manufacturers Identification on Busways and Splitter Boxes. Busways and splitter boxes shall be marked so that the manufacturer's name, trade mark, or other recognized symbol of identification shall be readily legible when the installation is completed.

12-326 Taps in Splitter Boxes. Taps from bus bars or terminal blocks in splitter boxes shall issue from the box on the side thereof nearest to the terminal connections and the conductors shall not be brought into contact with uninsulated current-carrying parts of opposite polarity.

12-328 Circuit Restrictions in Splitter Boxes. Splitter boxes shall be used only for the purpose of making connections to the bus bars or terminal blocks and shall not be used as a pull box for the conductors of other circuits not connected to the main or distribution terminals within the box.

Wireways

12-330 Where Wireways May Be Used

(1) Wireways may be used only for exposed work and shall not be installed outdoors, or in wet or damp locations, unless specifically approved for such locations.

(2) Wireways and fittings shall not be placed:

(a) Where subject to mechanical injury;

(b) Where subject to corrosive vapours;

(c) In hoistways;

(d) In hazardous locations; or

(e) In storage battery rooms.

(3) Wireways may be used as risers in buildings of fire-resisting construction when provided with acceptable fire stops.

12-332 Method of Installation of Wireways

(1) Runs of wireways shall be continuous throughout their entire length and shall be installed as a complete system without conductors.

(2) Conductors shall not be laid in wireways in buildings under construction, until the wireways and conductors are reasonably safe from damage from construction operations.

(3) Where wireways extend transversely through dry walls or partitions they shall pass through the walls or partitions in unbroken lengths.

(4) Wireways shall be securely supported at intervals of not more than 5 feet, unless they are plainly marked to indicate greater distances.

(5) Dead ends of wireways shall be closed by approved fittings.

(6) Wireways shall be provided with adequate protection against mechanical injury for a distance of 6 feet above any floor in an area accessible to other than qualified persons.

12-334 Conductors in Wireways

(1) Conductors used in wireways shall be the insulated types indicated in Table 19 as being suitable for use in raceways.

(2) Wireways shall not contain more than 30 conductors, exclusive of conductors used for signalling or control circuits, unless the permission of an inspector designated by the inspection department for the purpose of this Sub-rule is obtained for the use of a greater number.

(3) No conductors larger than 500,000 circular mils shall be contained in a wireway.

(4) The aggregate cross-sectional area of the conductors and their insulation in a wireway shall not exceed 20 per cent of the interior cross-sectional area of the wireway, but for control conductors between a motor and its starter the aggregate cross-sectional area of the conductors and their insulation may be 40 per cent of the interior cross-sectional area of the wireway.

12-336 Taps and Splices in Wireways. Where splices and taps are made on feeders or branch circuits within wireways, they shall be made and insulated by acceptable methods and shall be made accessible through hinged covers or at pull boxes.

12-338 Extensions from Wireways. Rigid conduit, flexible conduit, surface raceways, cabletroughs, electrical metallic tubing, armoured cable, metal-sheathed conductors or cable, or, where necessary, acceptable cord assemblies approved for hard usage, shall be used in extensions from wireways and shall be connected to the wireway in a manner appropriate to the material used in accordance with Rule 12-280.

12-340 Conductors of Different Systems in Wireways. Conductors of different systems shall not be installed in the same wireway unless:

(a) The conductors are intended for the supply and control of remotely controlled devices and are insulated for at least the same voltage as that of the circuit having the highest potential, and none of the conductors of the circuits of lower potentials are directly connected to a lighting branch circuit; or

(b) The conductors are separated from each other by suitable barriers.

12-342 AC Circuits in Wireways. Where alternating current is used, all conductors of a circuit shall be placed within the same wireway, or section thereof, if the latter is made of magnetic material.

12-344 Manufacturer's Identification on Wireways. Wireways shall be marked so that the manufacturer's name, trade mark, or other recognized symbol of identification shall be readily legible when the installation is completed.

Cellular Metal-Floor Raceways

12-346 Circuits in Cellular Raceways. All conductors of a circuit shall be contained in the same enclosure of a cellular metal-floor raceway and except as permitted by Rule 12-288, the circuits of different systems shall not be contained therein.

12-348 Conductors in Cellular Raceways

(1) Conductors shall not be installed in a cellular metal-floor raceway:

(a) Where they will be exposed to corrosive vapours;
(b) In a hazardous location;
(c) In commercial garages; or
(d) In storage-battery rooms.

(2) Conductors shall not be installed in any cell or header which contains a pipe for steam, water, air, gas, drainage, or other non-electrical service.

(3) Where the cell or header contains such non-electrical services, the cell or header shall be sealed, where practicable, in a manner satisfactory to the inspection department.

12-350 Maximum Conductor Size in Cellular Raceways. No conductor larger than No. 0 AWG shall be installed in a cellular metal-floor raceway unless special permission is obtained.

12-352 Cross-Sectional Area of Cellular Raceways. Where a cellular metal-floor raceway contains other than armoured cable or non-metallic sheathed cable, the aggregate cross-sectional area of the conductors in the raceway shall not exceed 40 per cent of the interior area of the header feeding the individual cells.

12-354 Taps and Splices in Cellular Raceways. Splices and taps in cellular raceways shall be made only in header access-units or in junction boxes.

12-356 Cellular Raceway Markers. Where cellular metal-floor raceways are used, a suitable number of markers shall be installed for the future location of cells and for system identification, and the markers shall extend through the floor.

12-358 Cellular Raceway Junction Boxes

(1) Junction boxes used in cellular metal-floor raceways shall be levelled to floor grade and sealed against the entrance of water.

(2) The junction boxes shall be constructed of metal and shall be electrically continuous with the raceway.

(3) Electrical conductivity of raceway sections shall be obtained by spot welding or other equivalent means.

12-360 Cellular Raceway Inserts

(1) Inserts in cellular metal-floor raceways shall be levelled to floor grade and sealed against entrance of water.

(2) Inserts shall be made of metal and shall be electrically continuous with the raceways.

(3) When setting inserts or cutting through cell walls adequate precautions shall be taken to prevent chips and dirt from falling into the raceway and for preventing tools from entering the cells and injuring the conductors therein.

12-362 Cellular Raceway Extensions. Connections from cellular metal-floor raceways to cabinets and extensions from cells to outlets shall be made by means of rigid conduit, flexible conduit or fittings approved for the purpose.

12-364 Cellular Raceway Discontinued Outlets.

Where an outlet is discontinued the conductors supplying the outlet shall be removed from the cellular raceway.

12-366 Gauge of Cellular Raceway

(1) Steel cellular floor sections shall have a thickness not less than 0.0528 inch (No. 16 MSG), except that the upper element of a cellular floor unit may be less than 0.0528 inch, but not less than 0.0418 inch (No. 18 MSG), provided that the unit is covered with concrete to a depth of not less than 2½ inches and is marked as being approved for such application.

(2) Where wiring feeder-ducts are exposed to damage during installation, they shall have a thickness of not less than 0.0667 inch (No. 14 MSG).

12-368 Protection Against Corrosion. Cellular floor sections, feeder-ducts, and access-units shall be adequately protected by a finish of lacquer, paint, enamel or material furnishing equivalent protection.

Bare Bus Bars and Risers

12-370 Where Bare Bus Bars May Be Used

(1) Bare conductors shall not be used as main risers or feeders in buildings unless special permission is obtained.

(2) Special permission shall not be granted unless:

(a) The building is of fire-proof construction;
(b) The conductors are placed in a chase, channel, or shaft located or guarded so that the conductors are inaccessible;
(c) The premises do not constitute a hazardous location;
(d) Suitable cut-offs to protect against the vertical spread of fire are provided where floors are pierced; and
(e) The mechanical and electrical features of the installation and the conductor supports are, in the opinion of an inspector, appropriate to the operating and maintenance conditions likely to occur.

Auto-Transformers and Circuits Derived Therefrom

12-372 Definition of an Auto-Transformer. In Rule 12-374 "auto-transformers" means transfomers in which part of the turns are common to primary and secondary alternating-current circuits.

12-374 Where Auto-Transformers Can be Used

(1) Auto-transformers shall not be connected to interior-wiring systems other than a wiring system or circuit used wholly for motor purposes unless:

(a) The system supplied contains an identified grounded conductor solidly connected to a similar identified grounded conductor of the system supplying the auto-transformer;
(b) The auto-transformer is used for starting or controlling an induction motor;
(c) The auto-transformer supplies a circuit wholly within the apparatus which contains the auto-transformer; or
(d) The auto-transformer is used for fixed voltage adjustment on an existing power circuit having no identified grounded conductor.

(2) Where an auto-transformer is used for starting or controlling an induction motor it may be included in a starter case or it may be installed as a separate unit.

Insulation Resistance

12-376 Wiring System to be Free of Short Circuits and Grounds

(1) All wiring shall be so installed that when completed the system shall be free from short circuits and grounds.

(2) Subject to the provisions of Rules 12-380 and 12-382, every installation shall have at least the insulation resistance specified in Table 24.

12-378 Method of Taking Insulation Resistance Tests. The value of the insulation resistance of an electrical installation shall be determined with all switchboards, panelboards, fuse holders, switches, and overcurrent devices forming part of or used with the installation in place and connected.

12-380 Allowance If Fixtures, Appliances, Etc. are Connected. Where lampholders, receptacles, fixtures or appliances are connected to the installation, the branch circuits shall have at least one-half of the insulation resistance specified in Table 24.

12-382 Allowance for Excessive Humidity. Where the wiring of equipment is exposed to excessive humidity through climatic conditions, an inspector may authorize an insulation resistance lower than that specified in Table 24.

Use of Mineral-Insulated and Aluminum-Sheathed Cable

12-384 Mineral-Insulated and Aluminum-Sheathed Cable Rules. Rules 12-386 to 12-402 cover the installation of mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable.

12-386 Use of Light-Weight Mineral-Insulated Cable. Light-weight mineral-insulated cable shall only be used in multi-conductor assemblies.

12-388 Corrosion Resistant Protection. Mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable, unless provided with suitable corrosion-resistant protection, shall not be used where materials having a deteriorating effect on the metal sheath may come in direct contact with the cable.

12-390 Mechanical Protection

(1) Where subject to mechanical injury, mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable shall be suitably protected.

(2) Where mineral-insulated or aluminum-sheathed cable is installed on the face of a wall, partition, ceiling, or structural member within 7 feet of the floor, and in all locations where subject to mechanical injury as for instance from industrial tractors, other vehicles, equipment, stock piling, or excessive vibration, a suitable safeguard against such injury shall be provided.

(3) Mineral-insulated or aluminum-sheathed cable shall be protected, located, or arranged so that a 2½ inch common nail cannot be driven into it, where the cable is:

(a) Run through bored or notched holes or grooves in wooden structural members;
(b) Secured directly to the underside of wooden flooring;
(c) Located behind baseboards or casings.

(4) In order to comply with Sub-rule (3), the hole, groove, or supporting strap containing the cable may be sufficiently oversized to permit the cable to move a distance equal to at least the radius of the cable.

(5) Where mineral-insulated or aluminum-sheathed cable passes from a point above grade to direct earth burial and is not otherwise protected against mechanical injury, a suitable pipe stubup shall be arranged to encase the cable to a point where practicable at least 12 inches above grade and, in locations where frost heaving may occur, the encasement shall slide freely on the cable, so as to avoid injury thereto.

12-392 Radii of Bends

(1) The radius of the curve on the inner edge of bends made on mineral-insulated cable shall not be less than six times the external diameter of the sheath and shall be made so as not to damage the outer sheath.

(2) The radius of the curve on the inner edge of bends made on aluminum-sheathed cable shall not be less than:

(a) Ten times the external diameter of the sheath for cable not more than ¾ inch in external diameter;
(b) Twelve times the external diameter of the sheath for cable more than ¾ inch but not more than 1½ inches in external diameter; and
(c) Fifteen times the external diameter of the sheath for cable more than 1½ inches in external diameter.

12-394 Termination of Mineral-Insulated Cable.

At all points where mineral-insulated cable terminates:

(a) The end of the cable shall be sealed immediately after stripping to prevent entrance of moisture to the insulation;

(b) Each conductor extended beyond the sheath shall be provided with the proper insulation; and

(c) Connectors used with mineral-insulated cable shall be of types approved specifically for use with this cable.

12-396 Connection to Other Forms of Wiring.

Where mineral-insulated or aluminum-sheathed cable is connected to other forms of wiring, the junction shall be made in a box, or at, or in, a fitting having a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

12-398 Method of Supporting

(1) Mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable shall be securely supported by staples, straps, hangers, or similar fittings in such a manner as not to:

(a) Injure the sheath of the cable; or
(b) Subject the cable or its termination fittings to undue strain.

(2) Mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable shall be secured at intervals not exceeding 6 feet, except where the cable is fished and adequate supports are installed, if needed, adjacent to termination fittings.

(3) When settlement of a structure may occur due to weight of contents as in certain grain storage occupancies, provision shall be made so that mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable runs, including their termination fittings, will not be subjected to undue strain.

(4) Mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable may be run on the surface of walls, partitions, ceilings, or on or across structural members, subject to the applicable requirements of Rule 12-390.

12-400 In Ducts or Plenum Chambers. Mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable may be used in air-conditioning ducts and plenum chambers when provided with acceptable fittings.

12-402 Use When Imbedded

(1) Mineral-insulated cable and round aluminum-sheathed cable may be used for under plaster extensions or where imbedded in plaster, masonry, or concrete.

(2) Flat two-conductor aluminum-sheathed cable may be used for under plaster extensions or where imbedded in plaster, masonry, or concrete, by special permission only.

Liquid-Tight Flexible Metal Conduit

12-404 Use of Liquid-Tight Flexible Metal Conduit

(1) Liquid-tight flexible metal conduit may be used in short lengths, where a flexible connection is required, in the following locations:

(a) Ordinary locations;
(b) Class I, Division 2 and Class III hazardous locations;
(c) Locations covered by Section 22 except where modified by Sub-rule (2);
(d) Locations covered by Section 38;
(e) Locations covered by Section 44; and
(f) Locations covered by Section 58.

(2) Liquid-tight flexible metal conduit shall not be used:

(a) Where subject to mechanical injury;
(b) As a general-purpose raceway;
(c) In lengths greater than that essential for the degree of flexibility required;
(d) Where exposed to gasoline or similar light petroleum solvents, or corrosive liquids or vapours having an injurious effect on the thermoplastic jacket;
(e) Under conditions such that the jacket temperature will exceed 60° C. (140° F.), or 75° C. (167° F.) if the jacket is approved for this higher temperature; or
(f) Where flexing at low temperatures may cause injury to the jacket.

(3) ⅜ inch liquid-tight flexible metal conduit may be used for runs of not more than five feet for the connection of equipment.

12-406 Size of and Conductors for Liquid-Tight Flexible Metal Conduit

(1) The maximum size of liquid-tight flexible metal conduit shall not exceed 1¼ inch electrical trade size.

(2) The maximum size of conductors which may be installed shall not exceed:

(a) No. 14 AWG in ⅜ inch trade size;
(b) No. 12 AWG in ½ inch trade size;
(c) No. 8 AWG in ¾ inch trade size;
(d) No. 6 AWG in 1 inch trade size;
(e) No. 2 AWG in 1¼ inch trade size.

(3) Conductors need not be lead sheathed but shall be of the moisture-resistant types when used in Category 1 locations as covered by Section 22.

(4) The maximum per cent fill shall be in accordance with Rule 4-014 and for this purpose the cross-sectional area of the ⅜ inch trade size shall be considered as 0.184 square inches.

Cabletroughs

12-408 Restriction of Use. Cabletroughs shall not be used in any hazardous location.

12-410 Method of Installation

(1) Cabletroughs shall be installed as a complete system before the conductors are laid in.

(2) Cabletroughs shall not pass through walls except where the walls are constructed of incombustible material.

(3) Cabletroughs may extend vertically through dry floors, if totally enclosed where passing through and for a minimum distance of 6 feet above the floor to provide adequate protection from mechanical injury.

(4) Conductors or cables shall not be laid in cabletroughs until the conductors or cables will be reasonably safe from damage from construction operations.

(5) Cabletroughs shall be adequately supported by incombustible supports.

(6) Dead ends of cabletroughs shall be closed by the use of proper fittings.

(7) Conductors in vertical runs of cabletroughs shall be supported independently of the terminal connections, and at intervals not exceeding those specified in Table 21.

12-412 Conductors for Use in Cabletroughs

(1) Conductors for use in ventilated, non-ventilated, and ladder type cabletroughs shall be enclosed in a continuous metal sheath or of the interlocked metal-armour type as specified in Table 19, except that for ventilated and non-ventilated cabletroughs, conductors having moisture-resistant insulation and flame-retarding non-metallic coverings or sheaths may be used in electrical equipment vaults, fire-resisting switchrooms, and, by special permission, in other similar locations.

(2) Where a non-metallic outer covering is supplied with armoured or metal-sheathed conductors or cable, it shall be flame retardant.

(3) Where conductors of different systems are installed in cable troughs the requirements of Rule 12-340 shall apply.

12-414 Joints and Splices Within Cabletroughs.

Where joints and splices are made on feeders or branch circuits within cabletroughs, they shall be made and insulated by acceptable methods and shall be in accessible locations.

12-416 Connection to Other Wiring Methods.

Where cabletroughs are connected to other wiring methods, the arrangement shall be such that the conductors will not be subject to mechanical damage or abrasion, and where connected to raceways, such that effective ground continuity will be maintained.

12-418 Manufacturers' Identification on Cabletrough. The manufacturer's identification marking on cabletrough shall be readily visible when the installation is completed.

12-420 Grounding

(1) Where metal supports for cabletroughs are bolted to the trough and are in good electrical contact with the grounded structural metal frame of a building, the trough shall be deemed to be grounded.

(2) Where the conditions of Sub-rule (1) do not apply, the cabletrough shall be adequately grounded at intervals not exceeding 50 feet, and the size of grounding conductors shall be based on the maximum rating or setting of an overcurrent device in the circuits carried by the cabletrough in accordance with the requirements of Rule 10-102.

12-422 Current-Carrying Capacity of Conductors Used in Cabletroughs

(1) Where the air space between conductors, cables, or both, in ventilated and ladder type cabletroughs is not less than 25 per cent nor more than 100 per cent of the conductor or cable diameter, the current-carrying capacity of the conductor or cable shall be the value specified in paragraph (a) or (b) below, multiplied by the correction factor specified in Table 40 for the arrangement and number of conductors or cables involved, unless special permission is obtained for other spacings and correction factors:

(a) Single conductors, single conductor aluminum-sheathed cable, and single conductor mineral-insulated cable, as specified in Tables 1 or 3;
(b) Multi-conductor cables, as specified in Tables 2 or 4 multiplied by the factor of Table 39 for the number of conductors in each cable.

(2) Where the spacings of Sub-rule (1) are not maintained in ventilated and ladder type cabletroughs, or for any spacing in a non-ventilated cabletrough, the current-carrying capacity of the conductor or cable shall be the value specified in paragraphs (a) or (b) below, multiplied by the correction factor specified in Table 39 for the total number of conductors involved, unless special permission is obtained for other correction factors:

(a) Single conductors, as specified in Tables 2 or 4;
(b) Multi-conductor cables, as specified in Tables 2 or 4 multiplied by the factor of Table 39 for the number of conductors in each cable.

(3) Where cabletroughs are located in room temperatures above 30° C. (86° F.) the temperature correction factors of Tables 1, 2, 3 and 4 shall be applied to the current-carrying capacities determined from Sub-rules (1) and (2) as applicable.

SECTION 14—PROTECTION AND CONTROL

General

14-000 General Requirements. Electrical apparatus and ungrounded conductors shall, except as otherwise provided for in this Section or in other Sections dealing with specific equipment, be provided with:

(a) Approved devices for the purpose of automatically opening the electrical circuit thereto if the current therein reaches a value which will produce a dangerous temperature in the apparatus or conductor;
(b) Approved manually-operable devices which will safely disconnect all ungrounded conductors of the circuit at the point of supply simultaneously, except for multi-wire branch circuits which supply fixed lighting loads only and have each lighting load connected to the neutral and one ungrounded conductor; and
(c) Approved devices which, when necessary, will open the electrical circuit thereto in the event of failure of voltage in such circuit.

14-002 Types and Ratings of Protective and Control Devices. Circuit breakers, fuses, and switches shall be of types and ratings acceptable to the inspection department.

14-004 Connection of Devices. Devices required by this Section shall not be connected in any grounded conductors except where:

(a) The devices simultaneously or previously disconnect all ungrounded conductors;
(b) An overcurrent device is in a 2-wire circuit having one wire grounded, and there is a possibility that the grounded conductor may assume a potential difference between itself and ground, due to unreliable grounding conditions, of sufficient magnitude to create a dangerous condition; or
(c) Overcurrent devices are located in that part of a circuit which is connected by an unpolarized attachment plug.

Protective Devices

14-006 Location and Grouping. Overcurrent devices shall be located in readily accessible places, except as provided for elsewhere in this Code, and shall be grouped where practicable.

14-008 Enclosure of Overcurrent Devices

(1) Overcurrent devices shall be enclosed in cutout boxes or cabinets, unless they form a part of an approved assembly which affords equivalent protection, or unless mounted on switchboards, panelboards or controllers located in rooms or enclosures free from easily ignitible material and dampness, and accessible only to authorized persons.

(2) Operating handles of circuit breakers shall be made accessible without opening any door or cover giving access to live parts.

14-010 Mounting of Enclosures. Enclosures for overcurrent devices shall be mounted in a vertical position unless, in individual instances, this is clearly impracticable.

14-012 Grouping of Protective Devices at Distribution Centres

(1) Where the number of lighting branch circuits exceeds four, overcurrent devices protecting such circuits shall consist of an approved assembly.

(2) Individual overcurrent devices, suitably enclosed, may be used at such centres if the number of lighting branch circuits does not exceed four.

(3) For the purpose of this rule a 3-wire circuit shall be classed as 2 circuits.

14-014 Use of Plug Fuses. Plug fuses shall be used only on circuits not exceeding 150 volts, except that they may be used in any circuit having a grounded neutral if no conductor of the circuit exceeds 150 volts to ground.

14-016 Plug Fuses for 250-Volt Circuits. Single pole 125-volt fuse holders used on 125/250-volt branch circuits shall have a ¾-inch spacing between bare live parts of opposite polarity.

14-018 Rating of Fuses

(1) Plug fuses shall be rated at not more than 30 amperes.

(2) Standard cartridge fuses shall not be used in capacities larger than 600 amperes or in circuits at more than 600 volts.

(3) HRC (High Rupturing Capacity) fuses used in circuits rated at 750 volts or less are not limited as to current rating.

(4) Fuses for use in circuits of more than 750 volts are not limited in current or voltage ratings.

14-020 Tamper-Resistant. Where plug fuses are used, the inspection department may require that they be of the tamper-resistant type.

14-022 Cutout Bases for Plug Fuses. Cutout bases for plug fuses shall be of the so-called "covered" type where readily accessible to unauthorized persons.

14-024 Open-Link Fuses. Open-link fuses shall not be used.

14-026 Short-Circuiting of Fuses. Short-circuiting or bridging of fuses, or the use of anything but an approved fuse and fuse holder of proper rating, is strictly prohibited.

14-028 Fuses in Parallel. Standard cartridge or plug fuses shall not be connected in parallel.

14-030 Use of HRC (Highly-Rupturing-Capacity) Fuses. HRC fuses, which have a rupturing capacity in excess of that required for standard fuses, may be used as follows:

(a) HRC Form I fuses, in lieu of standard fuses;
(b) HRC Form II fuses, for overcurrent protection only where circuit overload protection is provided by standard fuses, circuit-breakers, or overload devices;
(c) HRC Form II fuses, in lieu of standard fuses in those applications where this Code permits the installation of fuses greater than the ampere rating of the load, provided that the rating of the HRC Form II fuses does not exceed 85 per cent of the maximum rating permitted for standard fuses.

14-032 Construction of Circuit Breakers. Where circuit breakers are provided for the protection of apparatus or ungrounded conductors, or both, they shall open the circuit in all ungrounded conductors by the manual operation of a single handle and by the action of overcurrent, except:

(a) Where single-pole circuit breakers are permitted by paragraph (b) of Rule 14-000; or

(b) In 3-wire grounded neutral appliance branch circuits, 2 single-pole manually-operable circuit breakers may be used, provided that their handles are so interlocked that all ungrounded conductors of the circuit will be opened by the manual operation of either handle.

14-034 Non-tamperable Circuit-Breakers. Branch-circuit breakers unless accessible only to authorized persons, shall be of such design that any alteration by the user of either tripping current or time will be difficult.

Control Devices

14-036 Location of Isolating Switches. Isolating switches shall be plainly marked so as to make it unlikely that they will be opened under load, unless:

(a) They are located or guarded so as to render them inaccessible to unauthorized persons; or

(b) They are interlocked so that they cannot normally be opened under load.

14-038 Maximum Rating of Switches

(1) Knife switches rated at more than 600 amperes at 750 volts or less shall be used only as isolating switches.

(2) Notwithstanding Sub-rule (1), switches of special design and approved for such purpose may be used to interrupt currents greater than 600 amperes at 750 volts or less.

14-040 Operation of Switches. Knife switches and other control devices, unless located or guarded so as to render them inaccessible to unauthorized persons, shall be constructed so that they may be switched to the "off" position without exposing live parts.

14-042 Mounting of Knife Switches

(1) Single-throw knife switches shall be mounted with their bases in a vertical plane.

(2) Single-throw knife switches shall be mounted so that gravity will not tend to close them.

(3) Double-throw knife switches may be mounted so that the throw will be either vertical or horizontal but, if the throw is vertical, a positive locking device or stop shall be provided so as to ensure the blades remaining in the open position when so set, unless it is not intended that the switch be left in the open position.

14-044 Connection of Switches. Manual single-throw switches, circuit breakers, or magnetic switches, shall be so connected that the blades or moving contacts will be dead when the device is in the open position, except that the following need not comply:

(a) Branch-circuit breakers which have all live parts other than terminals sealed, and which are constructed so that the line and load connections may be interchanged;

(b) Switchgear which is provided for sectionalizing purposes and has a suitable caution notice attached to the assembly;

(c) Switches which are immersed in a liquid and have a suitable caution notice attached to the outside of the enclosure;

(d) Switches which are designed so that all live parts are inaccessible when the device is in the open position;

(e) Magnetic switches, when preceded by a circuit breaker or manual switch which is located in the same enclosure or immediately adjacent and is marked to indicate that is controls the circuit to the magnetic switch, unless this is obvious.

14-046 Location of Control Devices

(1) Control devices, with the exception of isolating switches, shall be readily accessible.

(2) Remotely controlled devices shall be considered to be readily accessible if the means of controlling them are readily accessible.

(3) Isolating switches may be located so as to require the use of a hook stick to operate them.

14-048 Enclosure of Control Devices. Control devices, unless they are located or guarded so as to render them inaccessible to unauthorized persons and to prevent fire hazards, shall have all current-carrying parts in enclosures of metal or other fire-resisting material.

14-050 Control Devices to be Indicating. Manually-operable control devices shall indicate the on and off position, unless the application of the devices is such as to make this requirement unnecessary.

14-052 Control Devices Ahead of Overcurrent Devices. Control devices used in combination with overcurrent devices or overload devices for the control of circuits or apparatus shall be connected so that the overcurrent or overload devices will be dead when the control device is in the open position, except where this is impracticable.

Protection and Control of Circuits

14-054 Overcurrent Devices Required. Each ungrounded conductor shall be protected by an overcurrent device at the point where it receives its supply of current and at each point where the size of conductor is decreased, except that such protection may be omitted:

(a) Where the overcurrent device in a larger conductor properly protects the smaller; or

(b) Where the smaller conductor:

(i) Has a current-carrying capacity not less than the sum of the allowable current-carrying capacities of the conductors of the one or more circuits or loads which it supplies, and not less than 1/10 that of the larger conductor from which it is supplied,

(ii) Is not over five feet long,

(iii) Does not extend beyond the switchboard, panelboard, or device which it supplies, and

(iv) Is enclosed in conduit, or in metal gutters when not a part of the wiring of the switchboard, panelboard, or other device; or

(c) Where circuits are for lighting or heating, or both, and:

(i) The smaller conductors have a current-carrying capacity of at least ⅓ that of the larger conductor from which they are supplied, and

(ii) The tap is suitably protected from mechanical injury, is not more than 25 feet long, and terminates in a single set of overcurrent devices which will limit the load on the tap to that allowed by Tables 1, 2, 3, or 4, but beyond the single set of overcurrent devices the conductors may supply any number of overcurrent devices; or

(d) Where the conductors are in control circuits of remotely controlled apparatus and:

(i) The conductors are less than 25 feet long and are suitably protected from mechanical injury, or

(ii) The conductors are 25 feet long or longer, and the rating or setting of the branch-circuit overcurrent device is not more than 500 per cent of the current-carrying capacity of the control-circuit conductors, or

(iii) The opening of the control circuit would create a hazard, as for example, the control circuit of a fire-pump motor.

14-056 Disconnecting Means Required for Fused Circuits. Circuits protected by fuses shall be equipped with disconnecting means whereby all live parts for mounting fuses can be readily and safely made dead, except that such disconnecting means may be omitted in the case of:

(a) Instrument and control circuits on switchboards where the potential does not exceed 250 volts;

(b) Primary circuits of potential transformers on switchboards; and

(c) A circuit having only one ungrounded conductor where a plug fuse is used, as a plug fuse can be safely handled while alive in such a circuit.

14-058 Rating of Overcurrent Devices, General.

The rating or setting of overcurrent devices shall not exceed the allowable current-carrying capacity of the conductors which they protect except:

(a) Where a fuse or circuit breaker having a rating or setting of the same value as the current-carrying capacity of the conductor is not available, in which case the ratings or settings given in Table 13 may be used within the maximum value of 600 amperes;

(b) In the case of fixture wire, flexible cord in sizes Nos. 16, 18, and 20, AWG, and tinsel cord, which will be considered as protected by 15-ampere overcurrent devices; or

(c) As provided for by other rules of this Code.

14-060 Tripping Elements for Circuit Breakers. Circuit breakers shall be equipped with tripping elements as specified in Table 25.

14-062 Rating of Control Devices. Control devices shall have ratings suitable for the connected load of the circuits which they control and, with the exception of isolating switches, shall be capable of safely establishing and interrupting such loads.

14-064 Grouping of Control Devices. Control devices controlling feeders and branch circuits shall be grouped where practicable.

14-066 Rating of Snap Switches. Snap switches shall be rated as follows:

(a) For non-inductive loads other than tungsten-filament lamps, switches shall have an ampere rating not less than the ampere rating of the load;

(b) For tungsten-filament lamp loads, and for combined tungsten filament and non-inductive loads, switches shall be "T" rated, except where:

(i) The switches are used in branch-circuit wiring systems in private homes; in rooms in multiple-occupancy dwellings used only as living quarters by tenants; in private hospital or hotel rooms; or in similar locations but not in public rooms or places of assembly,

(ii) The switch controls permanently connected fixtures or lighting outlets in one room only, or in one continuous hallway where the lighting fixtures may be located at different levels or in attics or basements not used for assembly purposes, and

(iii) The switch is rated at not less than 10 amperes, 125 volts; 5 amperes, 250 volts; or for the 4-way types, 5 amperes, 125 volts; 2 amperes, 250 volts;

(c) Canopy switches controlling a tungsten-filament lamp load shall be "T" rated or shall have an ampere rating at least three times the ampere rating of the load;

(d) For inductive loads, switches shall have an ampere rating of twice the ampere rating of the load unless:

(i) They are of a type approved as part of an assembly or for the purpose employed, or

(ii) The inductive load is ac with a power factor between unity and 0.75 lag in which case a switch having an "F" rating at 10 amperes, 125 volts may be used.

14-068 Use and Rating of Manually-Operated General-Purpose Alternating-Current Switches

(1) Manually-operated, general-purpose switches intended for alternating-current systems and constructed so that they can be installed readily in wiring systems for making and breaking tungsten-filament lighting and power circuits shall be rated as follows:

(a) For tungsten-filament lamp loads at 120 volts maximum, switches shall have an ampere rating not less than the current rating of the load;

(b) For non-inductive loads and for inductive loads at not less than 75 per cent power factor lag, switches shall have an ampere rating not less than the current rating of the load.

(2) The current rating of the switches shall be not less than 15 amperes in conjunction with a voltage rating of 120 or 277 volts.

(3) Switches shall be adapted for mounting in flush-device boxes, surface-type boxes, special boxes, or have complete self enclosures.

Protection and Control of Generators

14-070 Protection of Constant-Potential Generators

(1) Constant-potential generators, whether direct-current or alternating-current, shall be protected from excessive current by overcurrent devices, except that:

(a) Where an inspector is of the opinion that the type of apparatus used and the nature of the system operated make protective devices inadvisable or unnecessary, the protective devices may be dispensed with;

(b) Where an alternating-current generator and a transformer are located in the same building and are intended to operate as a unit for stepping up or stepping down voltage, the protective device may be connected to the primary or to the secondary of the transformer.

(2) Sub-rule (1) shall not apply to exciters for alternating-current machines.

14-072 Generator Not Driven by Electricity.

Where a generator not driven by electricity supplies a 2-wire grounded system, the protective device shall be capable of disconnecting the generator from both conductors of the circuit.

14-074 Balancer Sets. Where a 3-wire direct-current system is supplied by 2-wire generators operated in conjunction with a balancer set to obtain a neutral, the system shall be equipped with protective devices which disconnect the system in the event of an excessive unbalancing of voltages.

14-076 Three-Wire Direct-Current Generators

(1) Three-wire direct-current generators, whether shunt or compound wound, shall be equipped with:

(a) A 2-pole circuit breaker with 2 tripping elements; or

(b) A 4-pole circuit breaker connected in the main- and equalizer-leads and tripped by 2 tripping elements.

(2) The circuit breaker shall be connected so as to be actuated by the entire armature current.

(3) One tripping element shall be connected in each armature lead.

14-078 Disconnecting Means Required for Generators. Generators shall be equipped with an indicating switch or a circuit breaker by means of which the generator and all protective devices and control apparatus may be entirely disconnected from the circuits supplied by the generator, unless the driving means for the generator is such that it may be readily shut down.

Protection and Control of Apparatus on Lighting and Appliance Branch Circuits

14-080 Protection of Lampholders

(1) Medium-base lampholders and fluorescent-type lighting fixtures in which the fixture wiring and the ballast are enclosed in a metal raceway shall not be connected to a circuit protected by over-current devices rated or set at more than 20 amperes for potentials up to 125 volts or 10 amperes for potentials between 125 volts and 250 volts.

(2) Sub-rule (1) shall not apply to medium-base lampholders which form an integral part of a single lighting unit having mogul-base lampholders.

(3) Mogul-base lampholders shall not be connected to a branch circuit protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at more than 40 amperes for potentials up to 125 volts or 20 amperes for potentials between 125 volts and 250 volts.

14-082 Protection of Circuits Supplying Receptacles. Receptacles to which fixture wire or flexible cord smaller than No. 14 AWG is connected shall not be connected to a circuit protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at more than 15 amperes for potentials up to 125 volts or 10 amperes for potentials between 125 volts and 250 volts.

14-084 Additional Control Devices Not Necessary.

Portable appliances need not be equipped with additional control devices where the appliances are:

(a) Rated at not more than 1500 watts; and

(b) Provided with approved cord connectors, attachment-plug caps or other approved means by which they can be disconnected readily from the circuits.

14-086 Outlet Control From More Than One Point. Where switches are used to control an outlet or outlets from more than one point, the switches shall be wired and connected so that the grounded conductor runs directly to the outlet or outlets controlled by the switches.

14-088 Panelboard Overcurrent Protection

(1) A lighting and appliance branch circuit panelboard supplied by conductors having overcurrent protection greater than 200 amperes shall be protected on the supply side by overcurrent devices having a rating not greater than that of the panelboard.

(2) Panelboards equipped with snap switches rated at 30 amperes or less, shall have overcurrent protection not in excess of 200 amperes.

Protection and Control of Miscellaneous Apparatus

14-090 Remote-Control Circuits. Remote-control circuits of remotely controlled apparatus shall be arranged so that they may be conveniently disconnected from their source of supply at the controller, but as an alternative it may be arranged that the disconnecting of the apparatus from the supply circuit also disconnects the remote-control circuit from the supply circuit.

14-092 Disconnecting Means of Electrical Equipment. Electrical equipment shall not be connected to more than one voltage or to different systems except with special permission, and then only when the disconnecting means is so arranged that the operation of one switch will cause all systems or voltages to be disconnected at the same time.

SECTION 16— REMOTE-CONTROL CIRCUITS, SIGNAL CIRCUITS, EXTRA-LOW-VOLTAGE POWER CIRCUITS AND LOW-ENERGY POWER CIRCUITS

16-000 Scope. This Section applies to remote-control circuits, signal circuits, extra-low-voltage power circuits, and low-energy power circuits, other than:

(a) Circuits forming an integral part of a device; and

(b) Remote-control circuits and signal circuits which use conductors in a cable assembly with other conductors forming parts of communication circuits.

16-002 Hazardous Locations. Where the circuits or apparatus within the scope of this Section are installed in hazardous locations, they shall also comply with the applicable rules of Section 18.

Classifications

16-004 Classification. Circuits within the scope of this Section shall be classified as follows:

(a) Class 1 circuits are circuits in which power is not limited in accordance with Rule 16-006;

(b) Class 2 circuits are circuits in which power is limited in accordance with Rule 16-006.

16-006 Limitation of Class 2 Circuits

(1) Class 2 circuits, depending upon the voltage shall have the current limited as follows:

(a) 0 to 15 Volts; 5 Amperes. Circuits in which the open-circuit voltage is not greater than 15 volts shall have overcurrent protection of not more than 5-ampere rating, except that, if the current is supplied from a transformer or other device having energy-limiting characteristics and approved for the purpose, or from primary batteries, the overcurrent protection may be omitted;

(b) 15 to 30 Volts; 3.2 Amperes. Circuits in which the open-circuit voltage exceeds 15 volts but is not greater than 30 volts shall have overcurrent protection of not more than 3.2-ampere rating, except that, if the current is supplied from a transformer or other device having energy-limiting characteristics and approved for the purpose, or from primary batteries, the overcurrent protection may be omitted;

(c) 30 to 60 Volts; 1.6 Amperes. Circuits in which the open-circuit voltage exceeds 30 volts but is not greater than 60 volts shall have overcurrent protection of not more than 1.6-ampere rating, except that, if the current is supplied from a transformer or other device having energy-limiting characteristics and approved for the purpose, the overcurrent protection may be omitted;

(d) 60 to 150 Volts; 1 Ampere. Circuits in which the open-circuit voltage exceeds 60 volts but is not greater than 150 volts shall have overcurrent protection of not more than 1-ampere rating, and in addition shall be equipped with approved current-limiting means other than overcurrent protection, which will limit the current as a result of a fault to not more than 1 ampere.

(2) A device having energy-limiting characteristics may consist of a series resistor of suitable rating or other similar device.

16-008 Low-Energy Power Circuits. For the purposes of this Section, circuits which are neither remote-control circuits nor signal circuits, but in which the current is limited in accordance with Rule 16-006, shall be classed as low-energy power circuits and shall be considered to be Class 2 circuits.

16-010 Extra-Low-Voltage Power Circuits. For the purposes of this Section, circuits such as valve operators, etc., which are neither remote-control circuits nor signal circuits, but which operate at not more than 30 volts where the current is not limited in accordance with Rule 16-006, and which are supplied from a transformer or other device restricted in its rated output to 1,000 volt-amperes and approved for the purpose, shall be classed as extra-low-voltage power circuits and shall be considered to be Class 1 circuits.

16-012 Danger to Life or Property

(1) Notwithstanding paragraph (b) of Rule 16-004, where the failure to operate of a remote-control circuit to a safety-control device will or may endanger life or property, the circuit shall be deemed to be a Class 1 circuit.

(2) Fire alarm circuits are considered to be communication circuits as covered by Section 60 of this Code.

16-014 Circuits in Communication Cables. Remote-control circuits and signal circuits which use conductors in a cable assembly with other conductors forming parts of communication circuits are, for the purposes of this Code, deemed to be communication circuits and are covered by Section 60 of this Code.

Class 1 Circuits

16-016 Methods of Installation for Class 1 Circuits. The conductors and equipment of Class 1 circuits shall be installed in accordance with the requirements of other appropriate Sections of this Code, except as provided in Rules 16-018 to 16-032.

16-018 Conductor Sizes. No. 18 and No. 16 AWG conductors may be used in Class 1 circuits:

(a) If installed in a raceway or a cable approved for the purpose; or

(b) If flexible cords in accordance with Rule 4-016.

16-020 Insulated Conductors for Class 1 Circuit Wiring

(1) Where conductors larger than No. 16 AWG are used in a Class 1 circuit, they shall be of any type shown in Table 19.

(2) Where fixture wires of No. 18 or No. 16 AWG are used in a Class 1 circuit, they shall be of types suitable for such use as indicated in Table 11.

16-022 Mechanical Protection of Remote-Control Circuits. Where mechanical damage to a remote-control circuit would result in a hazardous condition as outlined in Rule 16-012, all conductors of such remote-control circuits shall be installed in conduit, electrical metallic tubing, or be otherwise suitably protected from mechanical injury or other injurious condition such as moisture, excessive heat, or corrosive action.

16-024 Overcurrent Protection of Class 1 Circuit. Conductors of Class 1 circuits shall be protected against overcurrent in accordance with Section 14 of this Code, except:

(a) Where other rules of this Code specifically permit or require other overcurrent protection;

(b) Where the conductors are of No. 18 or No. 16 AWG, they shall be deemed to be protected when overcurrent devices rated or set at not more than 15 amperes are used;

(c) Where Class 1 circuits have main and "tap-off" circuits and the operating voltage does not exceed 30 volts, the "tap-off" circuits need not be individually protected against overcurrent, provided that the main circuit overcurrent device also affords protection for the "tap-off" circuits; or

(d) Where the current is limited in a Class 1 circuit by means of overcurrent protection, both the protection and its mounting shall be approved for the purpose.

16-026 Location of Overcurrent Devices in Class 1 Circuits

(1) In Class 1 circuits, the overcurrent devices shall be located at the point where the conductor to be protected receives its supply.

(2) Where the overcurrent device protecting a larger conductor also protects a smaller conductor, overcurrent devices may be dispensed with in the smaller conductor.

16-028 Class 1 Circuits Extending Aerially Beyond a Building. Class 1 circuits which extend aerially beyond a building shall comply with Rules 12-236 to 12-252, inclusive.

16-030 Grounding of Class 1 Circuits. Class 1 circuits shall be grounded in accordance with the provisions of Section 10 of this Code where they are:

(a) Supplied by transformers from systems having a nominal voltage to ground of more than 150 volts; or

(b) Run overhead outside buildings in such manner as to be liable to accidental contact with power conductors operating at a potential exceeding 300 volts between conductors.

16-032 Transformers Supplying Class 1 Circuits

(1) Transformer devices supplying Class 1 circuits shall be approved for the purpose.

(2) Where overcurrent protection is installed at the secondary terminals of the transformer and the transformer is suitably enclosed, no overcurrent protection is required on the primary side other than the normal overcurrent protection of the branch circuit supplying the transformer.

(3) Transformer devices supplying Class 1 extra-low-voltage power circuits, where the operating voltage is limited to not more than 30 volts, shall be restricted in their rated output to not more than 1,000 volt-amperes.

(4) For the purpose of Sub-rule (3) a transformer shall be considered to have a 1,000 volt-ampere rating if the approximate temperature limit is reached at a 1,000 volt-ampere load.

Class 2 Circuits

16-034 Methods of Installation on Supply Side of Overcurrent Protection, etc. for Class 2 Circuits

(1) In Class 2 circuits, the conductors and equipment on the supply side of overcurrent protection, transformers, or current-limiting devices shall be installed in accordance with the requirements of other appropriate Sections of this Code.

(2) Where the transformers or other devices are supplied from electric lighting and power circuits, the transformers or devices shall be protected by an overcurrent device rated or set in accordance with Section 26 of this Code, but in no case exceeding 15 amperes.

16-036 Methods of Installation on Load Side of Overcurrent Protection, etc. for Class 2 Circuits

(1) In Class 2 circuits, the conductors on the load side of overcurrent protection, transformers, or current-limiting devices shall be insulated and separated from the conductors of electric lighting and power circuits.

(2) Conductors of Class 2 circuits not contained in grounded metallic raceways, conduit, or metallic-sheathed cable, shall be separated by at least 2 inches from any conductors of an electric light or power system unless:

(a) The electric light or power conductors are contained in a raceway; or
(b) Either system is encased in approved, non-metallic, flexible tubing, or in porcelain tubes or an equivalent device, in addition to the insulation on the conductors.

(3) The conductors in a Class 2 circuit shall not be placed in any raceway, compartment, outlet, junction box, or similar fitting with the conductors of:

(a) A Class 1 circuit; or
(b) Lighting and power circuits, unless the conductors of the two systems are separated by a suitable barrier.

(4) Sub-rule (3) shall not apply where the conductors of a power circuit are in the raceway, compartment, outlet, junction box, or similar fitting for the sole purpose of supplying power to the Class 2 circuit, except that no Class 2 conductor installed in a raceway, compartment, outlet box, junction box, or similar fitting with such conductors of a power circuit shall show a green-coloured insulation, unless such Class 2 conductor is completely contained within a sheathed or jacketed cable assembly throughout the length that is present in such raceway or enclosure.

(5) The conductors of a Class 2 circuit may be run in the same shaft with conductors for lighting and power circuits where:

(a) The two systems are separated by at least 2 inches; or
(b) The conductors of either system are encased in non-metallic flexible tubing.

(6) Where the conductors of a Class 2 circuit are installed in a hoistway, the conductors shall be installed in rigid conduit or electrical metallic tubing, or mineral-insulated or aluminum-sheathed cable shall be used; but, if the mineral-insulated or aluminum-sheathed cable has a non-metallic jacket over the metal sheath, the jacket shall be flame-retarding and moisture resisrant.

(7) The kind of insulation for the conductors of Class 2 circuits on the load side of overcurrent protection, transformers, or current-limiting devices shall be suitable for the particular application, but is not specified in further detail as reliance is placed upon current limitation to prevent dangerous currents.

(8) Where 3 or more conductors are used, it is recommended that such conductors be grouped under a common covering except in the case of mineral-insulated cable.

16-038 Conductors in a Vertical Run. Where conductors of Class 2 circuits are in a vertical run in a shaft or partition, they shall:

(a) Have a fire-resistant covering capable of preventing the carrying of fire from floor to floor; or
(b) Be encased in tubing or other outer covering of non-combustible material; or
(c) Be located in a fireproof shaft having fire stops at each floor.

16-040 Class 2 Circuits Extending Beyond a Building. Where Class 2 circuits extend beyond a building and are run in such manner as to be subject to accidental contact with lighting or power conductors operating at a potential exceeding 300 volts between conductors, the conductors of the Class 2 circuit shall also meet the requirements of Section 60.

16-042 Overcurrent Protection and Mounting for Class 2 Circuits

(1) Where overcurrent protection is applied to Class 2 circuits in accordance with Rule 16-006, such protection and its mounting shall be approved for the purpose.

(2) Overcurrent protection of different ratings shall not be of an interchangeable type.

(3) The overcurrent protection may be an integral part of a transformer or other power-supply device approved for the purpose.

16-044 Transformers Supplying Class 2 Circuits

(1) Transformer devices supplying Class 2 circuits shall be:

(a) Of a type approved for the purpose; and
(b) Restricted in their rated output to not more than 100 volt-amperes.

(2) For the purposes of Sub-rule (1), a transformer shall be considered to have a rated output not exceeding 100 volt-amperes if the approximate temperature limit is reached at a 100 volt-ampere load.

SECTION 18—HAZARDOUS LOCATIONS

Scope and Introduction

18-000 Scope. This Section applies to electrical equipment and installations in hazardous locations.

18-002 Classification. Every hazardous location shall be classified, according to the nature of the hazard, as:

(a) Special Class I;
(b) Class I;
(c) Class II; or
(d) Class III.

18-004 Definition of Classes

(1) "Special Class I", when applied to a location covered by this Section, means that the location is or may become hazardous by reason of the presence therein of readily ignitible deposits of or residues from paints, varnishes, lacquers, or other types of finishes.

(2) "Class I", when applied to a location, means that the location is or may become hazardous by reason of the presence therein of atmospheres containing flammable gases or vapours in quatities sufficient to produce an explosive or ignitible mixture.

(3) "Class II", when applied to a location, means that the location is or may become hazardous by reason of the presence therein of dust of combustible or electrically conducting nature.

(4) "Class III", when applied to a location, means that the location is or may become hazardous by reason of the presence therein of readily ignitible fibres or flyings, but in which the fibres or flyings are not likely to be in suspension in air in quantities sufficient to produce an ignitible mixture.

18-006 Group Classifications

(1) Class I locations shall be further classified according to the kind of gas or vapour present in the atmosphere therein as follows:

(a) Group A, comprising atmospheres containing acetylene;
(b) Group B, comprising atmospheres containing hydrogen, or manufactured gas, or gases or vapours of a hazard equivalent to that of hydrogen;
(c) Group C, comprising atmospheres containing ethyl-ether vapour or cyclopropane; and
(d) Group D, comprising atmospheres containing natural gas or vapours of gasoline, petroleum, naphtha, alcohol, acetone, or lacquer-solvent, but where equipment is approved for use with a specific gas or vapour, the location shall be classified by the gas or vapour present rather than one of the preceding groups of this Rule.

(2) Class II locations shall be further classified according to the kind of dust present therein as follows:

(b) Group F, comprising locations containing carbon black, coal, or coke dust; and
(c) Group G, comprising locations containing flour, starch, or grain dust.

18-008 Division of Class I Locations. Class I locations shall be further divided into two divisions as follows:

(a) Division 1, comprising Class I locations in which:

(i) Hazardous concentrations of flammable gases or vapours exist continuously, intermittently, or periodically under normal operating conditions,
(ii) Hazardous concentrations of flammable gases or vapours may exist frequently because of repair or maintenance operation or because of leakage, or
(iii) Equipment is operated or processes carried on of such nature that breakdown or faulty operation thereof could result in the release of hazardous concentrations of flammable gases or vapours and simultaneous failure of electrical equipment; and

(b) Division 2, comprising Class I locations in which:

(i) Flammable volatile liquids, flammable gases or vapours are handled, processed, or used, but in which the liquids, gases, or vapours are normally confined within closed containers or closed systems from which they can escape only as a result of accidental rupture or breakdown of the containers or systems or the abnormal operation of the equipment by which the liquids or gases are handled, processed or used,
(ii) Hazardous concentrations of gases or vapours are normally prevented by positive mechanical ventilation, but which may become hazardous as the result of failure or abnormal operation of the ventilating equipment, or
(iii) The location is adjacent to a Class I, Division 1, location, from which a hazardous concentration of gases or vapours could be communicated.

18-010 Division of Class II Locations. Class II locations shall be further divided into two divisions as follows:

(a) Division 1, comprising Class II locations in which:

(i) Combustible dust is or may be in suspension in air continuously, intermittently, or periodically under normal operating conditions in quantities sufficient to produce explosive or ignitible mixtures,
(ii) The normal or abnormal operation or the failure of equipment or apparatus might cause explosive or ignitible mixtures to be produced in or in dangerous proximity to electrical equipment or apparatus, or
(iii) Dusts having the property of conducting electricity may be present; and

(b) Division 2, comprising Class II locations in which combustible dusts are not normally in suspension in air or likely to be thrown into suspension by the normal or abnormal operation or the failure of equipment or apparatus in quantities sufficient to produce explosive or ignitible mixtures, but in which:

(i) Deposits or accumulations of dust may be sufficient to interfere with the safe dissipation of heat from electrical equipment or apparatus, or
(ii) Deposits or accumulations of dust on, in, or near electrical equipment may be ignited by arc, sparks, or burning material from the electrical equipment.

18-012 Division of Class III Locations. Class III locations shall be further divided into two divisions as follows:

(a) Division 1, comprising Class III locations in which readily ignitible fibres or materials producing combustible flyings are handled, manufactured, or used; and
(b) Division 2, comprising Class III locations in which readily ignitible fibres other than those in process of manufacture are stored or handled.

General

18-014 Surge Protection. A wiring system in a hazardous location shall be protected against surges by:

(a) Lightning arresters;
(b) The interconnection of both high- and low-tension arrester grounding wires and dead metal of the wiring system; and
(c) Surge-protective electrical capacitors.

18-016 Rooms, Sections, or Areas. Every room, section, or area, including motor- and generator-rooms and rooms for the enclosure of control equipment shall be considered as a separate location for the purpose of determining the classification of the hazard.

18-018 Marking. Electrical equipment designed for use in a hazardous location shall be so marked as to indicate the class and group for which the equipment has been approved, or alternatively, where gas or vapour ignition has been properly safeguarded in the equipment, it shall be marked with the specific gas or vapour for which it is approved.

18-020 Non-essential Electrical Equipment

(1) No electrical equipment shall be used in a hazardous location, unless the equipment is approved for the application and is essential to the processes being carried on therein.

(2) Service equipment, panelboards, switchboards, and similar electrical equipment shall, where practicable, be located in rooms or sections of the building in which hazardous conditions do not exist.

18-022 Equipment Rooms

(1) Where walls, partitions, floors or ceilings are used to form hazard-free rooms or sections, they shall be:

(a) Of substantial construction;
(b) Built of or lined with incombustible material; and
(c) Such as to ensure that the rooms or sections will remain free from hazards.

(2) Where a non-hazardous location adjoins a Class II or Class III location, the locations shall be separated by fire-resisting, substantially dust-tight, self-closing doors.

18-024 Mineral-Insulated Cable. Where mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type is used in hazardous locations, the cable terminations shall be made by experienced workmen strictly in accordance with the cable manufacturer's instructions, which shall include an insulation resistance test before the cable is energized to assure that moisture has not entered the mineral insulation prior to the application of the pot seal, and that the conductors have not been short-circuited or grounded while preparing the seal.

18-026 Motor Overheating Protection. Where 3-phase 3-wire motors are used in hazardous locations and the motor circuit is supplied by:

(a) Wye-delta connected transformers having the wye neutral point ungrounded or not connected to the circuit; or
(b) Delta-wye connected transformers, an overload protective device having three tripping elements, one in each lead, shall be provided unless the motor is otherwise adequately protected against overheating.

18-028 Positive Air or Inert Gas Pressure Required. Where equipment for Group A or Group B, Class I locations is not commercially available and a concentration occurs of more than 25 per cent of the lower explosive limit of the atmosphere involved, the location shall be deemed hazardous and the electrical-wiring system and electric equipment shall be so constructed as to maintain a positive air pressure or inert gas pressure to the satisfaction of the inspection department.

Special Class I Locations

Installation in Special Class I Locations

18-030 Equipment

(1) No electrical equipment or electrical apparatus other than:

(a) Electrical wiring contained in rigid conduit; or
(b) Threaded boxes or fittings containing no taps, splices, or terminal connections, shall be installed or used in a Special Class I location unless specifically approved for the location.

(2) Portable paint or lacquer spraying machines, when operating, shall not be confined in spray booths or other confined locations.

18-032 Transparent Illuminating Panels. Special Class I locations may be illuminated through panels of glass or other transparent material but:

(a) The source of illumination shall be fixed lighting units;
(b) The panel shall effectively isolate the special location from the area in which the lighting unit is located;
(c) The lighting unit shall be of a type approved for the location in which it is placed;
(d) The transparent panel shall be of such material or protected so as to be unlikely to be broken; and
(e) The lighting unit shall be arranged in relation to the panel so that normal accumulations of hazardous residues on the exposed surface of the panel will not be raised to a dangerous temperature by radiation or conductors from the source of illumination.

Class I Locations

Installation in Class I, Division 1 Locations

18-034 Transformers and Capacitors

(1) Dry-core type transformers shall not be installed in Class I, Division 1 locations unless they are of an explosion-proof type approved for the class and group of the location.

(2) Transformers and electrical capacitors which contain a liquid that will burn and are installed adjoining a Class I, Division 1 location shall be installed in an electrical equipment vault in accordance with Section 71, and:

(a) There shall be no door or other connecting opening between the vault and the hazardous location;
(b) The vault shall be so ventilated as to ensure the continuous removal of hazardous gases or vapours;
(c) Vent-openings or vent-ducts shall lead to a safe location outside the building containing the vault;
(d) Vent-openings and vent-ducts shall be of sufficient area to relieve pressure caused by explosions within the vault; and
(e) Every portion of a vent-duct within a building shall be constructed or reinforced concrete.

(3) Every transformer and electrical capacitor which contains a liquid that will not burn and is installed in a Class I, Division 1, location shall be:

(a) Installed in an electrical equipment vault conforming to Sub-rule (2); or
(b) Of an explosion-proof type approved for the class and group of the location.

18-036 Meters, Instruments, and Relays

(1) Where practicable, meters, instruments, and relays, including kilowatt-hour meters, instrument transformers and resistors, rectifiers and thermionic tubes shall be located outside the hazardous location.

(2) Where it is not practicable to install meters, instruments, and relays outside a Class I, Division 1 location, they shall be provided with explosion-proof enclosures approved for the class and group of the location, or alternatively where the device or equipment is approved for a specific gas or vapour and is so marked, general purpose enclosures may be used.

18-038 Wiring Method

(1) The wiring method in a Class I, Division 1 location shall be rigid conduit with threaded explosion-proof joints and explosion-proof boxes and fittings, except where gas or vapour ignition has been properly safeguarded both in wiring and equipment by the use of devices approved for use with the specific gas or vapour and which are installed, maintained and operated strictly in accordance with the conditions of approval.

(2) Raceways for the non-explosion-proof wiring and equipment referred to in the exception of Sub-rule (1) shall be properly sealed to prevent migration of gas or vapour into enclosures or raceways required by this rule to be explosion-proof, as well as to other locations.

(3) Where, in the opinion of an inspector, raceways or enclosures not required to be explosion-proof under this Rule should be sealed to reduce the hazard of so-called "pressure-piling" and possible detonation in conduit or enclosures due to ignition of gases or vapours from any source, such raceways and enclosures shall be properly sealed in accordance with Rule 18-040.

(4) Every explosion-proof threaded joint shall have at least 5 full threads engaged and running threads shall not be used for coupling lengths of conduit.

(5) Where it is necessary to use flexible connections at motor terminals and similar places, the flexible fitting shall be of an explosion-proof type approved for the class and group of the location.

18-040 Conduit Seals

(1) Seals shall be inserted in conduits in Class I, Division 1 locations to prevent the passage of gases, vapours, or flames from one part of an electrical installation to another part thereof.

(2) Seals shall be located:

(a) In each run of conduit entering an enclosure for switches, circuit breakers, fuses, relays, resistors, or other apparatus which may produce arcs, sparks or high temperatures and shall be as close as practicable to and in any case not more than 18 inches from the enclosure;

(b) In each run of conduit of 2-inch size or larger entering an enclosure, terminal box or junction-box, within 18 inches of the enclosure or box; and

(c) In each run of conduit leaving a Class I, Division 1 location with no box, coupling, or fitting in the conduit run between the seal and the point at which the conduit leaves the location.

18-042 Equipment Sealing

(1) Where sealing compound is used, it shall be of such composition as not to be affected by its surrounding atmosphere or liquids, and it shall not have a softening point of less than 93° C. (200° F.).

(2) Where sealing compound is used, it shall have a minimum thickness in the completed seal of not less than the trade size of the conduit in which it is contained, and in any case of not less than $\frac{5}{8}$ inch.

(3) No splice or tap shall be made in a sealing fitting unless the fitting is approved as a combined sealing fitting and junction box.

(4) No splice or tap in a fitting shall be buried partially or completely by compound.

(5) Where there is a possibility that water or other condensed vapour may be trapped at any point in a raceway system, acceptable means shall be provided to prevent the accumulation of, or to permit automatic or periodic draining of the water or condensed vapour.

18-044 Switches, Controllers, Circuits Breakers, and Fuses. No switch, motor controller, circuit breaker, or fuse, including push-buttons, relays, and similar devices and devices associated therewith, shall be used in a Class I, Division 1 location unless it is approved as a complete assembly for the class and group or specified gas or vapour of the location in which it is used.

18-046 Enclosures for Control Transformers and Resistors. Every transformer, impedance coil and resistor used as or in conjunction with control equipment for motors, generators or electric appliances in a Class I, Division 1 location and the switching mechanism, if any, used with it, shall be provided with an explosion-proof enclosure approved for the class and group of the location.

18-048 Motors and Generators. Every motor, generator and other rotating electrical machine installed in a Class I, Division 1 location shall be of an explosion-proof type approved for the class and group of the location.

18-050 Lighting Fixtures

(1) Every lamp installed in a Class I, Division 1 location shall be installed in an explosion-proof fixture which:

(a) Is approved as a complete assembly for the location and is clearly marked to indicate the maximum wattage of the lamps for which it is approved;

(b) Is protected against mechanical injury by its location or by an acceptable guard; and

(c) If it is a pendant fixture, is suspended by and supplied through a threaded rigid-conduit stem.

(2) Where under paragraph (c) of Sub-rule (1) the stem is longer than 12 inches, flexibility shall be ensured by the use of a fitting or flexible connector approved for the class and group of the location and installed not more than 12 inches from the point of attachment to the supporting box or fitting.

(3) Where a box, box assembly, or fitting is used in a Class I, Division 1 location to support a lighting fixture, it shall be of a type approved for the class and group of the location.

18-052 Appliances, Fixed and Portable. No appliance, whether fixed or portable, shall be used in a Class I, Division 1 location, unless it is approved for the class and group of the location.

18-054 Flexible Cord. Every flexible cord used in a Class I, Division 1 location shall:

(a) Be of a type approved for hard usage;

(b) Contain, in addition to the conductors of the circuit, a grounding conductor;

(c) Be connected to terminals or to supply conductors in such manner as to avoid arcing or overheating;

(d) Be supported by clamps or by other acceptable means in such manner as to place no tension on the terminal connections; and

(e) Be provided with acceptable seals at the places where the flexible cord enters a box, fitting or enclosure of the explosion-proof type.

18-056 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs. Every receptacle and attachment plug used in a Class I, Division 1 location shall:

(a) Be of a polarized type;

(b) Provide for automatic connection to the grounding conductor of the flexible cord; and

(c) Be approved for the class and group of the location.

18-058 Signalling, Alarm, Remote-Control, or Communication Systems

(1) Where all or part of the apparatus and equipment of a signalling, alarm, remote-control, or communication system of any voltage is contained in a Class I, Division 1 location, the apparatus and equipment shall be approved for the class and group or specified gas or vapour of the location.

(2) The wiring of the system shall comply with Rule 18-038.

18-060 Live Parts. No live part of electrical equipment or of an electrical installation shall be exposed in a Class I, Division 1 location.

18-062 Grounding and Bonding

(1) All electrical wiring and electrical equipment in a Class I, Division 1 location shall be grounded in the manner required by this Rule.

(2) Exposed non-current-carrying metal parts of electrical equipment, including the frames or metal exteriors of motors, fixed or portable lamps or appliances, lighting fixtures, cabinets, cases, and conduit shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

(3) Wherever bonding is necessary, including the bonding of conduit in a non-hazardous location used to ground non-current-carrying metal parts in hazardous locations, bonding jumpers with proper fittings or other approved means shall be used, and the locknut bushing or double-locknut types of contact shall not constitute proper bonding.

(4) Where a wiring system is supplied from an ungrounded overhead electrical supply system in an area where lightning disturbances are prevalent, every ungrounded service conductor of the wiring system which is in a Class I, Division 1 location shall be protected by a lightning protective device which shall be:

(a) Connected to the service conductors on the supply side of the service disconnecting means; and

(b) Grounded to the raceway system at the service entrance.

(5) Where wiring is supplied from a grounded alternating-current supply system in which a grounded conductor is a part of the service, the wiring shall have a grounded service conductor bonded to the raceway system and to the grounding conductor for the raceway system, and the bonding connection to the grounded service conductor shall be made on the supply side of the service disconnecting means.

(6) Where wiring is supplied from a grounded alternating-current supply-system in which no grounded conductor is a part of the service, the wiring shall be provided with a metallic connection between the supply-system ground and the raceway system at the service entrance, and the metallic connection shall:

(a) Have a current-carrying capacity not less than ⅛ that of the service conductors; and

(b) If of copper, be in no case smaller than No. 8 AWG.

(7) Where, in order to comply with Section 10, it is necessary to dispense with one or more grounding connections so as to avoid an objectionable passage of current over the grounding conductors, the grounding connection required by Sub-rules (5) and (6) shall not be dispensed with so long as any other grounding connection remains connected to the supply system.

Installation in Class I, Division 2 Locations

18-064 Transformers and Capacitors

(1) Dry-core type transformers shall not be installed in Class I, Division 2 locations unless they are of an explosion-proof type approved for the class and group of the location.

(2) Where transformers are installed in a Class I, Division 2 location, Section 26 shall apply.

(3) Where capacitors are installed in a Class I, Division 2 location, Section 26 shall apply.

18-066 Meters, Instruments, and Relay Contacts

(1) Where practicable, meters, instruments, and relays containing contacts for making or breaking electrical current shall be located outside the hazardous location.

(2) Where it is not practicable to install such meters, instruments and relays outside a Class I, Division 2 location, they shall be provided with explosion-proof enclosures approved for the class and group of the location, but general-purpose enclosures may be used where:

(a) The contacts are:

(i) Immersed in oil, or

(ii) Enclosed within a chamber hermetically sealed against the entrance of gases or vapours; or

(b) The device or equipment is approved for use with a specific gas or vapour and is so marked.

18-068 Resistors and Similar Equipment. Where resistors, resistance devices, thermionic tubes, or rectifiers are used in or in connection with meters, instruments and relays in a Class I, Division 2 location, they shall comply with Rule 18-036, but enclosures for resistors which operate normally at approximately room temperature may be of the general-purpose type.

18-070 Enclosures for Transformers, Etc.

(1) Where transformer windings, impedance coils, solenoids, or other windings which do not incorporate sliding contacts or make-and-break contacts are used in a Class I, Division 2 location, they shall be provided with enclosures.

(2) Where vents adequate to permit a prompt escape of gases or vapours are provided, the enclosure may be of the general-purpose type, but where the vents are not provided or are not adequate, the enclosures shall be of an explosion-proof type approved for the class and group of the location.

18-072 Wiring Methods

(1) The wiring method in a Class I, Division 2 location shall be rigid conduit, or mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type.

(2) Excepting where general-purpose enclosures are permitted by Rules 18-064 to 18-102, boxes, box assemblies, or fittings shall:

(a) Have hubs or the equivalent, with at least 3 full threads;

(b) Be fitted with close-fitting covers or other effective means of preventing escape of sparks or burning material; and

(c) Have no hole for attachment screws or other opening through which, after installation, sparks or burning material can escape, or through which adjacent combustible material can be ignited.

(3) Where it is necessary to use flexible connections at motor terminals and similar places, flexible conduit may be used.

(4) Where mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type is used in accordance with Sub-rule (1), the cable terminations including fittings, sealing compound and insulating sleeve shall be approved for the class and group of the location.

18-074 Conduit Seals

(1) Seals shall be inserted in conduits in Class I, Division 2 locations to prevent the passage of gases, vapours, or flames from one part of an electrical installation to another part thereof through the conduit.

(2) Seals shall be located in:

(a) Each run of conduit entering an enclosure which is required by these rules to be explosion-proof, as close as practicable to, and in any case not more than 18 inches from, the enclosure; and

(b) Each run of conduit leaving the hazardous location with no box, coupling or fitting in the conduit run between the seal and the point at which the conduit leaves the location.

(3) Where a run of conduit enters an enclosure which is required to be explosion-proof, every part of the conduit from the seal to the explosion-proof enclosure shall comply with Rule 18-038.

18-076 Equipment Sealing. Where seals are required in a Class I, Division 2 location, Rule 18-042 shall also apply.

18-078 Switches, Controllers, Circuit Breakers, and Fuses. Where a circuit breaker or switch in a Class I, Division 2 location is intended to interrupt electrical current in the normal performance of the function for which it is installed, it shall comply with Rule 18-044 unless a general-purpose enclosure is provided and:

(a) The interruption of current occurs within a chamber hermetically sealed against the entrance of gases and vapours; or

(b) The current-interrupting contacts are immersed in oil, and the device is approved for the class and group of the location.

18-080 Isolating Switches. Where an isolating switch is used in a Class I, Division 2 location:

(a) It shall be so interlocked with its associated current-interrupting devices that it cannot be opened under load; and

(b) It may have an enclosure of the general-purpose type, providing it is unfused.

18-082 Fuses for Motors, Appliances and Portable Lamps. Where fuses are used in a Class I, Division 2 location for the protection of motors, appliances and portable lamps:

(a) A standard plug fuse or cartridge fuse may be used if placed within an explosion-proof enclosure approved for the class and group of the location; or

(b) A fuse of a type in which the operating element is immersed in oil or other approved liquid, or is enclosed within a chamber hermetically sealed against the entrance of gases and vapours, may be used if approved for the class and group of the location and placed within a general-purpose enclosure.

18-084 Sets of Fuses or Circuits Breakers for Fixed Lighting

(1) In this Rule, "sets of fuses" means a group containing as many fuses as are required to perform a single protective function in a circuit, but excluding fuses conforming to Rule 18-082.

(2) Where:

(a) Not more than 10 sets of approved enclosed fuses; or

(b) Not more than 10 circuit breakers which are not used as switches for the normal operation of the lamps, are installed in a Class I, Division 2 location for the protection of a branch circuit or a feeder circuit which supplies only incandescent lamps in a fixed position, the enclosures for the fuses or circuit breakers may be of the general-purpose type.

18-086 Enclosures for Control Transformers and Resistors

(1) Where switching mechanisms are used in conjunction with a transformer, impedance coil or resistor, in a Class I, Division 2 location, they shall comply with Rules 18-078 to 18-084.

(2) The enclosures for the windings of transformers or impedance coils in Class I, Division 2 locations may be of the general-purpose type but shall be provided with vents adequate to permit the prompt escape of gases or vapours which may enter the enclosure.

(3) Every resistor used in a Class I, Division 2 location shall be provided with an explosion-proof enclosure approved as a complete assembly with the resistors for the class and group of the location.

18-088 Motors and Generators. Every motor, generator, and other rotating electrical machine in which sliding contacts, centrifugal or other types of switching mechanism, including motor overcurrent devices or integral resistance devices are used while the motor, generator, or machine is starting or running shall be approved for the class and group of the location unless the sliding contacts are, or the switching mechanism or integral resistance device is provided with an enclosure approved for the class and group of the location.

18-090 Lighting Fixtures

(1) Every lamp in a Class I, Division 2 location shall be installed in a fixture which in the case of:

(a) A portable lamp, is of the explosion-proof type approved for use in the class and group of the location;

(b) A fixed lighting fixture:

(i) Is protected from mechanical injury by its location or by an acceptable guard,

(ii) Is enclosed or otherwise safeguarded against possible discharge of sparks or hot particles, which might ignite a localized concentration of gas or vapour,

(iii) Does not attain a lamp surface temperature in normal operation exceeding 80 per cent of the ignition temperature of the gas or vapour involved, and

(iv) If of the pendant type, is suspended by a threaded rigid conduit stem or by other approved means.

(2) Where the conduit stem under paragraph (b) (iv) of Sub-rule (1) is longer than 12 inches, flexibility shall be ensured by the use of a fitting or flexible connector acceptable for the use and installed not more than 12 inches from the point of attachment to the supporting box or fitting.

(3) Where a switch is part of the assembled fixture or of an individual lampholder, it shall conform to Rule 18-078.

(4) The starting and control equipment for mercury-vapour and fluorescent lamps shall conform to Rule 18-086.

18-092 Appliances, Fixed and Portable

(1) Every electrically-heated appliance, whether fixed or portable, used in a Class I, Division 2 location shall be approved for the class and group of the location.

(2) Where the motor of a motor-driven appliance in a Class I, Division 2 location contains sliding contacts, centrifugal or other switching mechanisms including motor overcurrent devices or resistance devices, it shall be of an explosion-proof type approved for the class and group of the location.

(3) Every switch, circuit breaker and fuse forming part of or used in connection with an appliance used in a Class I, Division 2 location shall conform to Rules 18-078 to 18-084.

18-094 Flexible Cords. Every flexible cord used in a Class I, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-054.

18-096 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs. Every receptacle and attachment plug used in a Class I, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-056.

18-098 Signal, Alarm, Remote-Control, and Communication Systems

(1) Every switch, circuit breaker, make-and-break contact of a push-button, relay, and alarm bell or horn used in a Class I, Division 2 location shall have an explosion-proof enclosure approved for the class and group of the location unless a general-purpose enclosure is provided and the device is approved for use with the specific gas or vapour, or the current-interrupting contacts are:

(a) Immersed in oil; or

(b) Enclosed within a chamber hermetically sealed against the entrance of gases or vapours.

(2) Every resistor, resistance device, thermionic tube, and rectifier used in a Class I, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-058 but the enclosure for a resistor which operates normally at approximately room temperature may be of the general-purpose type.

(3) Enclosures, which may be of the general-purpose type shall be provided for lightning protective devices and for fuses.

18-100 Live Parts. No live part of electrical equipment or of an electrical installation shall be exposed in a Class I, Division 2 location.

18-102 Grounding and Bonding. All electrical wiring and electrical equipment in a Class I, Division 2 location shall be grounded in the manner required by Rule 18-062.

Class II Locations

Installations in Class II, Division 1 Locations

18-104 Transformers and Capacitors

(1) Dry-core type transformers shall not be installed in Class II, Division 1 locations unless they are in Type IX or IX-A enclosures.

(2) Where transformers and electrical capacitors which contain a liquid that will burn are installed adjoining a Class II, Division 1 location, they shall be installed in an electrical equipment vault in accordance with Section 71.

(3) Every doorway or other opening affording communication between the vault and the hazardous area shall be equipped with approved self-closing fire-doors on both sides of the wall.

(4) The fire-doors shall be carefully fitted and provided with weather stripping or other acceptable seals to minimize the entrance of dust into the vault.

(5) Every vent, opening, or duct in the wall, ceiling, or floor of the vault shall communicate only to the air outside the building.

(6) Every vault shall be provided with a suitable pressure-relief opening communicating only to the air outside the building.

(7) Every transformer and electrical capacitor which contains a liquid which will not burn in air and which is installed in a Class II, Division 1 location shall be approved for the class and group of the location.

18-106 Metal Dusts. No transformer or capacitor shall be installed in a location where dust from magnesium, aluminum, or aluminum bronze powder may be present.

18-108 Wiring Method

(1) The wiring method in a Class II, Division 1 location shall be rigid conduit or mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type, with threaded boxes and fittings approved for the class and group of the location.

(2) Where it is necessary to use a flexible connection, Type S flexible cord with a bushed cord fitting on each end approved for the class and group of the location may be used, or if the prevailing dust is electrically non-conductive, flexible conduit welded or brazed to a connector or nipple may be used.

(3) Where flexible cord or a bushed cord fitting may be exposed to oil or other solvent, the flexible cord or bushed cord fitting shall be of a type approved for the application.

(4) The flexible cord shall contain an additional conductor for grounding.

18-110 Sealing. Where a raceway extends between a non-dust-tight fitting or enclosure and one which is required by this Section to be dust-tight, the entrance of dust into the dust-tight enclosure through the raceway shall be prevented by:

(a) A permanent and effective seal;
(b) A horizontal section not less than 10 feet long in the raceway through which communication is provided; or
(c) A vertical section of raceway not less than 5 feet long and extending downward from the dust-tight enclosure.

18-112 Switches, Controllers, Circuit Breakers, and Fuses. Every switch, motor controller, circuit breaker, and fuse, including push-buttons, relays, and similar devices, used in a Class II, Division 1 location shall be provided with a dust-tight enclosure approved for the class and group of the location.

18-114 Isolating Switches. Every isolating switch used in a Class II, Division 1 location:

(a) Shall be interlocked with its associated current-interrupting devices so that it cannot be opened under load; and
(b) May, if unfused, have an enclosure of the general-purpose type, providing the prevailing dust is electrically non-conductive.

18-116 Enclosures for Control Transformers and Resistors. Every transformer, impedance coil and resistor used as or in conjunction with control equipment for motors, generators or electric appliances in a Class II, Division 1 location and the overcurrent devices or switching mechanisms, if any, used with it shall be provided with a dust-tight enclosure approved for the class and group of the location.

18-118 Motors and Generators. Every motor, generator and other rotating electrical machine used in a Class II, Division 1 location shall be:

(a) Totally enclosed not ventilated; or
(b) Totally enclosed pipe-ventilated; or
(c) Totally enclosed fan-cooled; and
(d) Approved for the class and group of the location.

18-120 Ventilating Pipes

(1) Every vent pipe for a motor, generator, or other rotating electrical machine or for enclosures for electrical apparatus or equipment, in a Class II, Division 1 location, shall:

(a) Be of metal or of an equally substantial non-combustible material;
(b) If of metal, be not less than 0.0209 inch (No. 24 MSG) thick;
(c) Lead directly to a source of clean air outside a building;
(d) Be screened at the outer end to prevent the entrance of small animals or birds; and
(e) Be protected against mechanical damage and against rust or other corrosive agent.

(2) Every vent pipe and its connection to a motor or to a dust-tight enclosure for other equipment or apparatus shall be dust-tight throughout its entire length.

(3) The seams and joints of every metal vent pipe shall be:

(a) Riveted and soldered;
(b) Bolted and soldered;
(c) Welded; or
(d) Rendered dust-tight by some other equally effective means.

(4) No exhaust pipe shall discharge inside a building.

18-122 Appliances, Fixed or Portable. No appliance, whether fixed or portable, including electrically-heated appliances and motor-driven appliances, shall be used in a Class II, Division 1 location unless it is approved for the class and group of the location.

18-124 Lighting Fixtures

(1) Every lighting fixture, whether for fixed or portable lighting, in a Class II, Division 1 location shall be:

(a) Approved for the class and group of the location;
(b) Clearly marked with the maximum wattage of the lamp for which it is approved;
(c) Protected against mechanical injury by its location or by a guard; and
(d) If a pendent fixture, suspended by threaded rigid-conduit stem, mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type, or chain with fittings approved for the class and group of the location, or by other approved means, which shall not include a flexible cord as the supporting medium.

(2) Where the stem is longer than 12 inches, flexibility shall be ensured by the use of a fitting or flexible connector approved for the class and group of the location and installed not more than 12 inches from the point of attachment to the supporting box or fitting.

(3) Where the conductors between an outlet box or fitting and a pendent fixture are not completely enclosed in rigid conduit or do not consist of mineral-insulated cable, Type S flexible cord shall be used.

(4) Where Type S flexible cord is used to supply a pendent fixture, bushed cord fittings approved for the class and group of the location shall be employed to exclude dust from the outlet box, fitting, fixture or conduit as the case may be.

18-126 Flexible Cords. Every flexible cord used in a Class II, Division 1 location shall:

(a) Be of a type approved for hard usage;
(b) If used in connection with portable equipment, contain a grounding conductor in addition to the conductors of the circuit;
(c) Be supported by clamps or by other suitable means so that there is no tension on the terminal connections; and
(d) Be provided with suitable seals which prevent the entrance of dust at the point where the cord enters a box or fitting which is required by this Section to be dust-tight.

18-128 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs. Every receptacle and attachment plug used in a Class II, Division 1 location shall:

(a) Be of a polarized type;
(b) Provide for automatic connection to the grounding conductor of the flexible cord; and
(c) Be approved for the class and group of the location.

18-130 Signal, Alarm, Remote-Control, and Local Loudspeaker Systems

(1) Where all or part of the equipment of a signal, alarm, remote-control, or local loudspeaker system is within a Class II, Division 1 location:

(a) The wiring method shall be rigid conduit or mineral-insulated cable other than the lightweight type;
(b) Any number of conductors may be placed in a raceway but the cross-sectional area of all conductors in the raceway shall not exceed 40 per cent of the area of the raceway;
(c) Every device which interrupts a current other than a voice current, shall be provided with a dust-tight enclosure approved for the class and group of the location;
(d) Every resistor, transformer, and choke coil which carries a current other than a voice current, and every rectifier, thermionic tube, and other heat generating equipment or apparatus shall be provided with a dust-tight enclosure approved for the class and group of the location; and
(e) Every motor, generator, and other rotating electrical machine shall conform to Rule 18-118.

(2) Where under paragraph (e) of Sub-rule (1) current-breaking contacts are immersed in oil, or the interruption of current occurs in a chamber sealed against the entrance of dust, the enclosure may be of a general-purpose type providing the prevailing dust is electrically non-conductive.

18-132 Live Parts. No live part of electrical equipment or of an electrical installation shall be exposed in a Class II, Division 1 location.

18-134 Grounding and Bonding

(1) All electrical wiring and electrical equipment in a Class II, Division 1 location shall be grounded in the manner prescribed by Rule 18-062.

(2) Where flexible conduit is used, as permitted in Rule 18-108 bonding jumpers with approved fittings shall be provided around the conduit.

Installation in Class II, Division 2 Locations

18-136 Transformers and Capacitors

(1) Transformers and capacitors which contain a liquid that will burn and are installed adjoining a Class II, Division 2 location shall be installed in an electrical equipment vault in accordance with Section 71.

(2) Every transformer and capacitor which contains a liquid that will not burn and is installed in a Class II, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-104.

(3) Every dry core transformer installed in a Class II, Division 2 location shall:

(a) Be installed in an electrical equipment vault in accordance with Section 71; or
(b) Have its windings and terminal connections enclosed in a tight metal housing without ventilation or other opening and operate at not more than 750 volts.

18-138 Metal Dusts. No transformer or capacitor shall be installed in a location where dust from magnesium, aluminum or aluminum bronze powder is or may be present.

18-140 Wiring Methods

(1) The wiring method in a Class II, Division 2 location shall be:

(a) Rigid conduit;
(b) Mineral-insulated cable other than the lightweight type; or
(c) Aluminum-sheathed cable which together with its fittings has been approved for the class and group of the location.

(2) Where it is necessary to use a flexible connection, Type S flexible cord with a bushed cord fitting on each end may be used, or if the prevailing dust is electrically non-conductive, flexible conduit welded or brazed to a connector or nipple may be used.

(3) Where a flexible cord or a bushed cord fitting may be exposed to oil or other solvent, the flexible cord or bushed cord fitting shall be of a type approved for the application.

(4) Every flexible cord shall contain a grounding conductor.

(5) Every fitting or box in which a tap, joint, or terminal connection is made shall:

(a) Be fitted with a telescoping or close-fitting cover or other effective means of preventing the escape of sparks or burning material; and
(b) Have no holes for attachment screws, or other openings, through which, after installation, sparks or burning material can escape, or through which adjacent combustible material can be ignited.

18-142 Sealing. Sealing of raceways in a Class II, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-110.

18-144 Switches, Controllers, Circuit Breakers and Fuses

(1) Every switch, motor controller, circuit breaker, and fuse, including push-buttons, relays and similar devices, used in a Class II, Division 2 location shall be provided with a dust-tight enclosure approved for the class and group of the location.

(2) Where a fuse, switch, or circuit breaker is installed in a location in which dust from magnesium, aluminum, or aluminum bronze powder is or may be present, the fuse, switch, or circuit breaker shall have a dust-tight enclosure approved for the class and group of the location.

18-146 Control Transformers and Resistors

(1) Where switching mechanisms, including overcurrent devices, are used in conjunction with control transformers, impedance coils, or resistors in a Class II, Division 2 location, they shall have enclosures affording protection at least equivalent to that afforded by general-purpose enclosures.

(2) Every control transformer and impedance coil in a Class II, Division 2 location shall be provided with a tight metal housing without ventilating openings.

(3) Every resistor and resistance device other than a heating element of an overcurrent device installed in a Class II, Division 2 location shall have a dust-tight enclosure approved for the class and group of the location.

(4) Where a control transformer, impedance coil or resistor is installed in a location where dust from magnesium, aluminum or aluminum bronze powder is or may be present, it shall be provided with a dust-tight enclosure approved for the class and group of the location.

18-148 Motors and Generators

(1) Except as provided in Sub-rule (2), every motor, generator, and other rotating electrical machine used in a Class II, Division 2 location shall be:

(a) Totally enclosed not ventilated;
(b) Totally enclosed pipe-ventilated; or
(c) Totally enclosed fan-cooled.

(2) Where, in the judgment of an inspector, only moderate quantities of non-conducting, non-abrasive dust are likely to accumulate in a location and the equipment in the location is readily accessible for routine cleaning and maintenance, there may be installed in the location:

(a) Standard open-type machines without sliding contacts, centrifugal or other types of switching mechanism, including motor overcurrent devices or integral resistance-devices; or
(b) Standard open-type machines which have the contacts, switching mechanisms or resistance devices enclosed within tight metal housings without ventilating or other openings.

(3) No motor, generator, or other rotating electrical machine of the semi-enclosed or splash-proof type shall be installed in a Class II, Division 2 location.

(4) Where a motor, generator, or other rotating electrical machine is installed in a location where dust from magnesium, aluminum or aluminum bronze powder is or may be present, the motor, generator or machine shall be approved for the class and group of the location and shall be:

(a) Totally enclosed not ventilated; or
(b) Totally enclosed fan-cooled.

18-150 Ventilation Pipes

(1) Every vent pipe and its connection in a Class II, Division 2 location shall be sufficiently tight to prevent the entrance of appreciable quantities of dust into the ventilated equipment or enclosure, and to prevent the escape of sparks, flame or burning material which might ignite accumulations of dust or combustible material in the vicinity.

(2) Where metal vent pipes are used, lock seams and riveted or welded joints may be used and, where flexibility is necessary, tight fitting slip joints may be used.

18-152 Appliances, Fixed and Portable

(1) Every electrically-heated appliance, whether fixed or portable, used in a Class II, Division 2 location shall be approved for the class and group of the location.

(2) Every motor of a motor-driven appliance in a Class II, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-148.

(3) The enclosure for every switch, circuit breaker, and fuse in a Class II, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-112.

(4) Every transformer, impedance coil, and resistor forming part of or used in connection with an appliance in a Class II, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-116.

(5) Where a portable appliance may be used in a Class II, Division 1 location and in a Class II, Division 2 location, the appliance shall conform to Rule 18-122.

(6) Where a fixed or portable appliance is installed for use in a location where dust from magnesium, aluminum or aluminum bronze powder is or may be present, the appliance shall be dust-tight and approved for the class and group of the location.

18-154 Lighting Fixtures

(1) In every Class II, Division 2 location:

(a) Every portable lamp shall be approved for the class and group of the location and shall be clearly marked to indicate the maximum wattage of the lamp for which it is approved;
(b) Every lighting fixture for fixed lighting shall provide enclosures for lamps and lampholders designed to minimize the deposit of dust on the lamps and to prevent the escape of sparks, burning material or hot metal;
(c) Every lighting fixture for fixed lighting shall be protected from mechanical injury by an acceptable guard or by its location;
(d) Every pendent lighting fixture shall be suspended by a threaded rigid-conduit stem, mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type, or chain with approved fittings, or by other approved means, which shall not include flexible cord as the supporting medium;
(e) Where a stem of rigid conduit or mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type is longer than 12 inches, flexibility shall be assured by the use of a fitting or flexible connector approved for the application and which is installed not more than 12 inches from the supporting box or fitting;
(f) Where the conductors between an outlet box or fitting and a pendent fixture are not completely enclosed in rigid conduit or do not consist of mineral-insulated cable, Type S flexible cord shall be used with a bushed cord fitting on each end;
(g) Every box, box-assembly and fitting used to support a lighting fixture shall comply with Rule 18-140 (5) unless required otherwise by Sub-rule 18-154 (2); and
(h) The starting and control equipment for mercury-vapour and fluorescent lamps shall conform to Rule 18-146.

(2) Where dust from magnesium, aluminum or aluminum bronze powder is or may be present, every fixture for fixed or portable lighting and its auxiliary equipment shall be dust-tight and approved for the class and group of the location.

18-156 Flexible Cords. Every flexible cord used in a Class II, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-126.

18-158 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs. Every receptacle and attachment plug used in a Class II, Division 2 location shall be:

(a) Of a polarized type which affords automatic connection to the grounding conductor of the flexible supply cord; and
(b) Designed so that the connection to the supply circuit cannot be made or broken while live parts are exposed.

18-160 Signal, Alarm, Remote-Control, and Local Loudspeaker Systems

(1) Where all or part of the apparatus and equipment of a signal, alarm, remote-control, or local loudspeaker system is contained in a Class II, Division 2 location:

(a) The contacts shall be enclosed:

(i) In conformity with paragraph (c) of Sub-rule 18-130 (1), or

(ii) In a tight metal enclosure having a telescoping or tight-fitting cover and having no openings through which, after installation, sparks or burning material may escape;

(b) The windings and terminal connections of every transformer and choke coil shall be contained in a tight metal enclosure without ventilating openings; and

(c) Every resistor, resistance device, thermionic tube, and rectifier shall conform to paragraph (d) of Sub-rule 18-130 (1).

(2) Where a resistor referred to in paragraph (c) of Sub-rule (1) operates at approximately room temperature, the enclosure may be of the general-purpose type.

(3) Where the dust present in the location is of an electrically conducting nature, the electrical wiring and equipment shall be rendered dust-tight.

(4) Where dust from magnesium, aluminum, or aluminum bronze powder is or may be present, all apparatus and equipment forming part of or used with the system shall be dust-tight and approved for the class and group of the location.

18-162 Live Parts. No live part of electrical equipment or of an electrical installation shall be exposed in a Class II, Division 2 location.

18-164 Grounding and Bonding

(1) All electrical wiring and electrical equipment in a Class II, Division 2 location shall be grounded in the manner required by Rule 18-062.

(2) Where flexible conduit is used as permitted in Rule 18-140, bonding jumpers with approved fittings shall be provided around the conduit.

Class III Locations

Installation in Class III, Division 1 Locations

18-166 Transformers and Capacitors. Every transformer and electrical capacitor installed in a Class III, Division 1 location shall conform to Rule 18-104.

18-168 Wiring Methods

(1) The wiring method in a Class III, Division 1 location shall be:

(a) Rigid conduit;

(b) Mineral-insulated cable other than the lightweight type; or

(c) Aluminum-sheathed cable which together with its fittings has been approved for the class and group of the location.

(2) Where it is necessary to use a flexible connection, Type S flexible cord with a bushed cord fitting on each end, or flexible metal conduit, may be used.

(3) Where a flexible cord or a bushed cord fitting may be exposed to oil or other solvent, the flexible cord or bushed cord fitting shall be of a type approved for the application.

(4) Every flexible cord shall contain a grounding conductor.

(5) Every fitting and box in which a tap, joint, or terminal connection is made shall:

(a) Be fitted with a telescoping or close-fitting cover or other effective means of preventing the escape of sparks or burning material; and

(b) Have no holes for attachment screws, or other openings through which, after installation, sparks or burning material can escape, or through which adjacent combustible material can be ignited.

18-170 Switches, Controllers, Circuit Breakers, and Fuses. Every switch, motor controller, circuit breaker, and fuse installed in a Class III, Division 1 location shall be dust-tight.

18-172 Control Transformers and Resistors. Every transformer, impedance coil, and resistor used in a Class III, Division 1 location as or in conjunction with control equipment for motors, generators, and appliances shall be dust-tight.

18-174 Motors and Generators

(1) Except as provided in Sub-rule (2), every motor, generator, and other rotating electrical machine used in a Class III, Division 1 location shall be:

(a) Totally enclosed not ventilated;

(b) Totally enclosed pipe-ventilated; or

(c) Totally enclosed fan-cooled.

(2) Where, in the judgment of an inspector, only moderate accumulations of lint and flyings are likely to collect on, in or in the vicinity of a rotating electrical machine and the machine is readily accessible for routine cleaning and maintenance, there may be installed in the location:

(a) Standard open-type machines without sliding contacts, centrifugal, or other types of switching mechanism, including motor overload devices;

(b) Standard open-type machines which have the contacts, switching mechanisms or resistance devices enclosed within tight metal housings without ventilating or other openings; or

(c) Self-cleaning textile motors of the squirrel-cage type.

18-176 Ventilating Pipes

(1) Every vent pipe for a motor, generator, or other rotating electrical machine or for enclosures for electrical apparatus or equipment in a Class III, Division 1 location shall:

(a) Be of metal or of an equally substantial noncombustible material;

(b) If of metal, be not less than 0.0209 inch (No. 24 MSG) thick;

(c) Lead directly to outdoors in the case of both exhaust and suction ducts, and the outdoor end of the suction shall terminate at a point where clean air is available;

(d) Be screened at the outer ends to prevent the entrance of small animals or birds; and

(e) Be protected against mechanical damage and against rust or other corrosive agent.

(2) Every vent pipe and its connections shall be sufficiently tight to prevent the entrance of appreciable quantities of fibres or flyings into the ventilated equipment or enclosure, and the escape of sparks, flame or burning material which might ignite accumulations of fibres or flyings or combustible material in the vicinity.

(3) Where metal vent pipes are used, lock seams and riveted or welded joints may be used and, where flexibility is necessary, tight-fitting slip joints may be used.

18-178 Appliances, Fixed and Portable

(1) Every electrically-heated appliance, whether fixed or portable, used in a Class III, Division 1 location shall be provided with a dust-tight enclosure and shall be approved for Class II locations.

(2) Every motor of a motor-driven appliance in a Class III, Division 1 location shall conform to Rule 18-174.

(3) The enclosure for every switch, motor controller, circuit breaker, and fuse in a Class III, Division 1 location shall conform to Rule 18-170.

18-180 Lighting Fixtures. In every Class III, Division 1 location:

(a) Every lighting fixture shall be of a dust-tight type designed so that, in the event of a lamp or lampholder burning out, no spark or hot metal escapes from the fixture, and marked so as to indicate clearly the maximum wattage for which it is constructed;

(b) Every lighting fixture which may be exposed to mechanical injury shall be protected by an acceptable guard;

(c) Every pendent fixture shall be suspended by a threaded rigid conduit stem, mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type, or chain with approved fittings, or by other approved means, which shall not include flexible cord as the supporting medium;

(d) Where a stem of rigid conduit or mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type is longer than 12 inches, flexibility shall be ensured by the use of a fitting or flexible connector approved for the application and which is installed not more than 12 inches from the supporting box or fitting;

(e) Where the conductors between an outlet box or fitting and a pendent fixture are not completely enclosed in rigid conduit, or do not consist of mineral-insulated cable, Type S flexible cord shall be used with a bushed cord fitting on each end;

(f) Every box, box-assembly, or fitting used to support a lighting fixture shall comply with Sub-rule 18-168 (5); and

(g) Every portable lamp shall:

(i) Be dust-tight,

(ii) Be protected by a substantial guard,

(iii) Have a lampholder of the unswitched type with no exposed metal parts, and

(iv) Be clearly marked to indicate the maximum wattage of the lamp for which it is designed.

18-182 Flexible Cords. Every flexible cord used in a Class III, Division 1 location shall conform to Rule 18-126.

18-184 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs. Every receptacle and attachment plug used in a Class III, Division 1 location shall conform to Rule 18-158.

18-186 Signal, Alarm, Remote-Control, and Local Loudspeaker Systems. Every signal, alarm, remote-control, and local loudspeaker system in a Class III, Division 1 location shall conform to Rule 18-128.

18-188 Electric Cranes

(1) No electric crane which operates over combustible fibres shall be operated on a system having a normally grounded conductor.

(2) The feeders for an electric crane in a Class III, Division 1 location shall be equipped with a recording ground detector and shall be protected by a relay which automatically opens the feeder circuit breaker when the insulation of the system falls below 1,000 ohms.

(3) Where a crane operates in a room used for the storage of combustible fibres, the bare conductors shall be screened so as to prevent the escape of sparks or hot particles and the moving current collectors shall be designed so as to minimize sparking at sliding contacts.

(4) Where the distance of travel of the crane permits, the current shall be supplied to the crane through Type S flexible conductors equipped with an approved type of reel or take-up device.

18-190 Electric Trucks. No electric truck shall be used in a Class III, Division 1 location.

18-192 Storage Battery Charging

(1) In Class III, Division 1 locations, all storage battery charging equipment shall be located in a separate room built or lined with substantial non-combustible materials.

(2) The room shall be so constructed as to exclude flyings or lint.

(3) The room shall be well ventilated.

18-194 Live Parts. Subject to Rule 18-188 no live parts of electrical equipment or of an electrical installation shall be exposed in a Class III, Division 1 location.

18-196 Grounding and Bonding. All electrical wiring and electrical equipment in a Class III, Division 1 location shall be grounded as prescribed by Rule 18-164.

Installation in Class III, Division 2 Locations

18-198 Transformers and Capacitors. Every transformer and capacitor installed in a Class III, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-136.

18-200 Wiring Method. The wiring method in Class III, Division 2 locations shall conform to Rule 18-168, but in sections, compartments, and areas used solely for storage and containing no machinery, open wiring on insulators may be used, provided that, where conductors are installed elsewhere than in roof spaces remote from mechanical injury, the conductors shall be protected by running boards, guard strips, wooden boxing or sleeves of iron pipe.

18-202 Switches, Controllers, Circuit Breakers, and Fuses. Every switch, motor controller, circuit breaker, and fuse in a Class III, Division 2 location shall be dust-tight.

18-204 Control Transformers and Resistors. Every transformer, impedance coil and resistor used in a Class III, Division 2 location as or in conjunction with the control equipment for motors, generators and appliances shall conform to Rule 18-116.

18-206 Motors and Generators

(1) Every motor, generator and other rotating electrical machine used in a Class III, Division 2 location shall be:

(a) Totally enclosed not ventilated;

(b) Totally enclosed pipe-ventilated; or

(c) Totally enclosed fan-cooled.

(2) No motor, generator, or other rotating electrical machine of the protected type shall be installed in a Class III, Division 2 location.

18-208 Ventilating Pipes. All ventilating pipes in a Class III, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-176.

18-210 Appliances, Fixed and Portable. Every fixed or portable electrical appliance in a Class III, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-178.

18-212 Lighting Fixtures. Every lighting fixture in a Class III, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-180.

18-214 Flexible Cords. Every flexible cord used in a Class III, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-126.

18-216 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs. Every receptacle and attachment plug used in a Class III, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-158.

18-218 Signal, Alarm, Remote-Control and Local Loudspeaker Systems. Every signal, alarm, remote-control and local loudspeaker system installed in a Class III, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-130.

18-220 Electric Cranes. Every electric crane installed in a Class III, Division 2 location shall be installed as prescribed by Rule 18-188.

18-222 Electric Trucks

(1) Every electric truck used in a Class III, Division 2 location shall have wheels equipped with rubber tires or made of non-conducting material.

(2) The batteries for the electric trucks shall be charged only in rooms conforming to Rule 18-192.

18-224 Storage Battery Charging. Storage battery charging equipment installed in a Class III, Division 2 location shall be located in rooms conforming to Rule 18-192.

18-226 Live Parts. Subject to Rule 18-188, no live parts of electrical equipment or of an electrical installation shall be exposed in a Class III, Division 2 location.

18-228 Grounding and Bonding. All electrical wiring and equipment in a Class III, Division 2 location shall be grounded in conformity with Rule 18-164.

SECTION 20—AIRPLANE HANGARS, GARAGES, SERVICE STATIONS AND FILLING STATIONS

20-000 Scope. This Section applies to electrical apparatus and wiring installed in airplane hangars, garages, service stations, filling stations, and other locations where gasoline or other high volatile fuel is stored in vehicles or dispensed, or where service and repair operations are carried on with this type of equipment, but does not apply to any portion of a building which is suitably cut off from the hangar or garage and is not used for the above purpose.

20-002 General

(1) Where reference is made in this Section to a level of 18 inches above the floor, it shall be construed to mean each floor at or above grade level and, in the case of floors below grade level, the measurement shall begin not at the floor but at the bottom of outside doors or other openings at or above grade level.

(2) The requirements shall apply to all commercial garages but need not apply to residential garages where:

(a) Not more than three vehicles may be stored;
(b) Only minor service or repair operations are likely to be carried out;
(c) The lowest floor level is at or above ground or driveway level; and
(d) There is at least one outside door at or below floor level.

(3) Those parts of airplane hangars, garages, service stations, and filling stations in which concentrations of gasoline vapour or fuel gases may collect shall be deemed to be Class I locations under Section 18 and shall be treated thereunder as Division 1 or 2 locations according to the conditions prevailing therein.

20-004 Wiring Method

(1) Where, in accordance with Rule 20-002, the requirements of this Section do not apply, any wiring method specified in Section 12 may be used.

(2) Where the requirements of this Section do apply, the wiring method shall be in accordance with the requirements of Section 18 for Class I locations for the entire area up to a level 18 inches above the floor, and above that level the wiring shall be in:

(a) Conduit;
(b) Surface metal raceways;
(c) Armoured cable;
(d) Wireways;
(e) Busways;
(f) Electrical metallic tubing;
(g) Mineral-insulated cable; or
(h) Aluminum-sheathed cable.

20-006 Exception. Where a garage, service station or filling station is located in a rural area or in an isolated location on a highway, it may be wired with non-metallic sheathed cable if:

(a) The conductor is not less than No. 12 AWG; and
(b) There are not more than 12 outlets connected to any one circuit, but fuses rated at more than 15 amperes shall not be installed.

20-008 Arcing or Sparking, Fixed Equipment

(1) Where generators, motors, controllers, and similar fixed equipment having commutators, collector rings, or make-and-break or sliding contacts are located so that they are not in the Class I hazardous areas described in Rules 20-002 or 20-024 but are within 12 feet of the floor in the case of garages, service stations, or filling stations, or less than 10 feet above wings or engine enclosures of aircraft in the case of airplane hangars, they shall:

(a) Be of the totally-enclosed type; or
(b) Have wire screens or perforated metal with openings of not more than 0.05 inch in one dimension placed at the commutator or brush ends of motors or generators and below openings in other types of enclosures, so as to prevent the discharge of particles.

(2) Where cutouts, switches, receptacles, fixed lampholders, charging panels, or other fixed electric equipment which tend to produce arcs or sparks are installed in an airplane hangar, garage, service station, or filling station 18 inches or less above the floor, they shall be of a type approved for use in Class I locations under Section 18.

20-010 Gasoline Pumps.

(1) Where a gasoline pump contains within its enclosure wiring for electrical current:

(a) All wiring and electrical equipment less than 4 feet above the car drive level shall be approved for Class I, Division 1 location as provided by Section 18;
(b) All wiring shall be in rigid conduit, where it passes through spaces beneath or around the equipment; and
(c) All conduits shall be sealed as they enter the equipment.

(2) Where gasoline pumps are supplied by wiring buried directly in the earth, armoured-cable of the lead-sheathed rubber-insulated ACL type shall be used and shall be secured to the junction-box on the pump by a connector of the lead-gland type.

20-012 Flexible Cords

(1) In airplane hangars, garages, service stations and filling stations, flexible cord shall be:

(a) For pendent lamps, of a type approved for extra hard service;

(b) For portable lamps and equipment, either Type SO or ST; and

(c) For battery charging, either Type SO or ST.

(2) Every flexible cord and every device used with a flexible cord in an airplane hangar, garage, service station and filling station shall conform to Section 10.

20-014 Battery Charging

(1) Where battery-charging equipment is used in an airplane hangar, garage, service station or filling station, the connectors shall have a capacity in amperes sufficient to carry the charging currents likely to be encountered and shall be so designed or so hung that at least one connector will break apart readily at any position of the charging cable.

(2) Where battery-charging equipment is connected directly to vehicles by means of plugs suspended from overhead wiring, the plugs shall hang at least 6 inches above floor level and no connector need be placed in the cable or at the outlet.

20-016 Polarized Plugs

(1) Every cord used for the connection of a portable appliance to an outlet in an airplane hangar, garage, service station or filling station shall carry the male end of a polarity-type pin-plug connector or some acceptable equivalent.

(2) The female end of the connector shall be so designed or so hung that the connector breaks apart readily at any position of the cable.

(3) Every connector shall, where practicable, be kept more than 18 inches above floor level.

20-018 Lamps

(1) Every portable lamp used in an airplane hangar, garage, service station and filling station shall:

(a) Be equipped with a handle, lampholder hook and a substantial guard attached to the lampholder or to the handle; and

(b) When a portable lamp is used in a pit it shall be of a type approved for use in a Class I, Division 2 location.

(2) Every lampholder used in an airplane hangar, garage, service station, and filling station shall be of the unswitched type and of moulded composition or metal-sheathed porcelain, or equivalent type.

20-020 Live Parts. Every live part of electrical equipment in an airplane hangar, garage, service station or filling station shall be so guarded as to prevent accidental contact therewith.

20-022 Grounding. Every metallic conductor-enclosure, and every exposed metal part of fixed equipment other than a pendent lamp operating at not more than 150 volts, shall be grounded.

20-024 Airplane Hangars. The area within 5 feet horizontally from aircraft power plants, aircraft fuel tanks or aircraft structures containing fuel shall be considered to be a Class I, Division 2 hazardous location which shall extend upward from the floor to a level 5 feet above the upper surface of wings and of engine enclosures.

SECTION 22—LOCATIONS IN WHICH CORROSIVE LIQUIDS OR VAPOURS OR EXCESSIVE MOISTURE ARE LIKELY TO BE PRESENT

General

22-000 Scope. This Section applies to electrical equipment and installations in locations in which corrosive liquids, or vapours or excessive moisture are likely to be present.

22-002 Category Definitions. Locations covered in this Section shall be classified as follows:

(a) "Category 1", meaning that the location is one in which moisture in the form of vapour or liquid is present in quantities which are liable to interfere with the normal operation of electrical equipment, whether the moisture is caused by condensation, or the dripping or splashing of liquid, or otherwise; and

(b) "Category 2", meaning that the location is one in which corrosive liquids or vapours are likely to be present in quantities which are likely to interfere with the normal operation of electrical equipment.

22-004 Application of Category Definitions. Where the expressions "Category 1" or "Category 2" do not appear in any Rule in this Section, the Rule shall be applicable to both categories.

Wiring and Equipment

22-006 Essential Equipment Only

(1) Only such electrical equipment as is essential for the processes being carried on therein shall be installed in Category 1 and Category 2 locations.

(2) Service equipment, motors, panelboards, switchboards and other electrical equipment shall, where practicable, be installed in rooms or sections of the building which are not Category 1 or Category 2 locations.

22-008 Type of Construction

(1) Where the electrical equipment is, or is likely to be, partially or wholly submerged, it shall be of a submersible type of construction.

(2) Where the electrical equipment is, or is likely to be, subjected to direct streams of liquid under pressure, it shall be of a water-tight type of construction.

(3) Where the electrical equipment is, or is likely to be, exposed to corrosive vapours, it shall be of a corrosion-resistant type of construction.

(4) Where the electrical equipment is, or is likely to be, exposed to splashing of water, it shall be of a splash-proof type of construction.

(5) Where the electrical equipment is, or is likely to be, exposed only to the falling or condensing of moisture, it shall be of a drip-tight type of construction.

(6) Where a protective coating on electrical equipment is, or may be, exposed to corrosive liquids or vapour, the coating shall be suitable for the corrosive condition.

22-010 Wiring Method in Category 1 Locations

(1) Where conductors are exposed to moisture in a Category 1 location they shall:

(a) If used in open wiring, be of types specified in Table 19:

(i) For open wiring in dry or wet locations, or

(ii) For open wiring where exposed to the weather, provided that they are located out-of-reach from floors, decks, balconies or stairs; and

(b) If used in conduit, be of types specified in Table 19 for use in raceways in dry or wet locations.

(2) Non-metallic sheathed cable may be used in a Category 1 location as limited by Rules 22-030 and 22-036 in a dairy barn, chicken house or other farm building but, unless of the type designation NMW, shall not be used elsewhere in Category 1 locations.

(3) Armoured cable may be used in a Category 1 location if of the type listed in Table 19 as suitable for direct earth burial.

(4) Split knobs or cleats shall not be used in a Category 1 location.

(5) Mineral-insulated cable may be used in a Category 1 location but, if the cable is secured to walls, it shall be spaced at least ¼ inch from the wall at each point of support.

(6) Aluminum-sheathed cable may be used in a Category 1 location, provided it has suitable corrosion-resistant protection where necessary.

22-012 Wiring Method in Category 2 Locations

(1) Where conductors are exposed to corrosive vapours in a Category 2 location, they shall be:

(a) Of types specified in Table 19 as being acceptable for exposure to corrosive action and located out-of-reach from floors, decks, balconies or stairs, if used in open wiring; and

(b) Of types specified in Table 19 as being acceptable for exposure to corrosive action, if used in conduit.

(2) Excluding Type designation NMW, non-metallic-sheathed cable shall not be used in Category 2 location other than a dairy barn, chicken house or other farm building.

(3) Surface metal raceways, underfloor raceways, bare conductors, armoured cable except where permitted in Table 19 for exposure to corrosive action, wireways, busways, and split knobs shall not be used in Category 2 locations.

(4) Mineral-insulated cable may be used in a Category 2 location if the corrosive action is not of such a nature as to cause deterioration of the outer sheath.

(5) Aluminum-sheathed cable may be used in a Category 2 location provided it has suitable corrosion-resistant protection where necessary.

22-014 Drip Loops. Where open conductors or non-metallic sheathed cables enter or issue from a Category 1 or Category 2 location, the conductors shall pass through the wall of the location in an upward direction, and in the case of open conductors, shall be in non-combustible, non-absorptive insulating tubes.

22-016 Drainage and Sealing

(1) Where conduit is used, it shall be:

(a) Arranged so as to drain at frequent intervals to suitable locations;

(b) Equipped with approved fittings which permit the moisture to drain out of the system; and

(c) Installed so as to afford ½ inch clearance from the supporting surface.

(2) Where a conduit or aluminum-sheathed cable leaves a warm room and enters a cooler atmosphere, it shall be sealed off so as to prevent breathing and subsequent condensation, and shall be done in such a manner that condensate will not be trapped at the seal.

(3) All conduits, metal enclosures, and fittings shall be protected by or be of acceptable corrosion-resistant material.

(4) Every joint in a conduit in a Category 1 location shall be water-tight.

(5) Approved enamelled conduit may be used in a Category 1 or Category 2 location.

22-018 Category 1 Locations, Exclusion of Moisture or Water

(1) Every cabinet and fitting in a Category 1 location shall be:

(a) Of splash-proof or drip-tight construction;

(b) Placed so as to prevent moisture or water from entering and accumulating within the cabinet or fitting; and

(c) Mounted so as to give at least ½ inch clearance from the supporting surface.

(2) Every screw and bolt used to secure electrical equipment in place shall be of corrosion-resisting metal.

22-020 Circuit Control. Every circuit in a Category 1 or Category 2 location shall, where practicable, be arranged so that the current-carrying conductors may be entirely cut off from the supply of electrical power or energy at a convenient point outside the location.

22-022 Lampholders

(1) Pendent lampholders shall be:

(a) Of the moulded composition weatherproof type; and

(b) Hung from stranded rubber-insulated conductors of not less than No. 14 AWG.

(2) Where the pendent conductors exceed 3 feet in length, they shall be twisted together.

22-024 Fixtures

(1) Every lighting fixture in a Category 1 location shall be constructed so that water cannot enter or accumulate within the fixture.

(2) Every lighting fixture in a Category 2 location shall be totally-enclosed, gasketted, and shall be of a corrosion-resistant type of construction.

22-026 Receptacles

(1) Every receptacle and attachment plug for portable equipment shall be:

(a) Of the weatherproof type; and

(b) Provided with approved grounding terminals and conductors properly connected to ground.

(2) The flexible cord for portable equipment shall be of a type approved for extra hard usage and shall contain an extra conductor for grounding purposes.

22-028 Exposed Metal Parts. Every exposed, non-current-carrying metal part of all fixed or portable electrical equipment, including appliances, fixtures, cabinets and metal enclosures, shall be grounded.

22-030 In Barns or Stables. Where non-metallic sheathed cable other than Type NMW is used in barns or stables, it shall not be run:

(a) Directly over windows, doors or other openings in outside walls; or

(b) Where condensation is liable to form on the cable through marked differences in temperature, unless the cable is protected in the manner prescribed by Rule 22-036.

22-032 In Root Houses. Non-metallic sheathed cable other than Type NMW shall not be installed in root houses without special permission.

22-034 In Stair Wells or Ducts. Non-metallic sheathed cable other than Type NMW shall not be run:

(a) In stair wells; or

(b) Through ventilating ducts or similar openings between stables and lofts or other rooms above stables.

22-036 From Stable to Loft

(1) Where non-metallic sheathed cable other than Type NMW is run from a stable to a loft or room above the stable, it shall be run through a length of rigid conduit.

(2) The conduit shall be sealed at the upper end with an approved insulating compound.

(3) Wherever exposed to injury, as in a stair well, non-metallic sheathed cable shall be adequately protected.

SECTION 24—ELECTRICAL WIRING AND EQUIPMENT IN STORAGE AND ANAESTHETIZING LOCATIONS IN HOSPITALS

24-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to the installation of electrical wiring and equipment in storage, and anaesthetizing locations in hospitals.

(2) This Section has been compiled primarily for the safety of those persons concerned with hospital operating rooms, and requires a form of construction of equipment and of installations that will ensure safe performance under conditions of proper use and maintenance and it is, therefore, strongly recommended that users exercise more than ordinary care to see that electrical outlets and other installations are used in a proper manner and are not rendered hazardous through permitting the presence of unsafe adapters or other inferior connecting devices.

24-002 Special Terminology. In this Section:

(a) "storage locations" means a room used for storage of combustible anesthetic or disinfecting agents;

(b) "combustible anesthetic agents" means flammable mixtures of cyclopropane, divinyl ether, ethyl chloride, ethyl ether, ethylene, vinethene, or vinyl ether with air, oxygen, or nitrous oxide; and

(c) "anaesthetizing locations" means any area of a hospital in which it is intended to administer to a patient any combustible anaesthetic agent in the course of examination or treatment and includes operating rooms, delivery rooms, anaesthetic rooms and rooms used for preoperative preparation of the patient.

24-004 Storage Locations

(1) Electrical wiring and equipment in storage locations shall conform to the requirements for Class I, Division 1 of Section 18.

(2) Storage locations shall be individually ventilated and air exhausted by gravity to the exterior of the building at a rate of not less than two changes per hour.

24-006 Anaesthetizing Locations

(1) Fixed electrical wiring and equipment in anaesthetizing locations shall conform to the following requirements:

(a) Where installed 5 feet or less above the floor, the requirements for Class I, Division 1 location of Section 18 shall apply;

(b) Where installed more than 5 feet above the floor, the requirements of Section 12 shall apply except that fixed devices, appliances, fixtures or equipment incorporating sliding contacts, arcing or sparking parts, including overcurrent protective devices, shall be:

(i) Totally enclosed, or

(ii) Constructed so as to prevent the falling of hot particles.

(2) Ceiling suspended surgical lighting fixtures installed in anaesthetizing locations shall conform to the following requirements:

(a) The fixtures shall be installed so that, in any position of use, sliding contacts, arcing or sparking parts do not extend within 5 feet of the floor;

(b) The light source shall be suitably protected against mechanical injury;

(c) Boxes, box assemblies or fittings used for these fixtures shall be approved for the purpose and supported so that the supporting means will not become disengaged from its fastening during or, as a result of, adjustments in the fixture;

(d) The fixture shall be suspended by suitable rigid stems or other approved means;

(e) For rigid stems longer than 12 inches, flexibility in the form of a fitting or flexible connector approved for the purpose shall be provided not more than 12 inches from the point of attachment to the supporting box or fitting;

(f) Integral or appended switches shall be approved for a Class I, Group C hazardous location.

24-008 Service Equipment. Service equipment, switchboards or panelboards shall not be installed in hazardous locations.

24-010 Grounding. In storage and anesthetizing locations, the exposed non-current-carrying metal parts of equipment such as the frames or metal exteriors of motors, fixed or portable lamps, or appliances, fixtures, cabinets, cases, and conduit shall be grounded.

24-012 Bonding Jumpers. For bonding purposes, bonding jumpers with copper fittings or other approved means shall be used.

24-014 Control Devices. Control devices or apparatus such as motor controllers, thermal cutouts, switches, relays, the switches and contactors of auto-transformer starters, resistance and impedance devices, which tend to create arcs, sparks or high temperatures, shall not be installed in hazardous locations unless of the type approved for a Class I, Group C.

24-016 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs. Receptacles and attachment plugs installed 5 feet or less above the floor shall conform to the requirements of Rule 18-056 and shall be:

(a) A part of a unit device with an explosion-proof interlocking switch arranged so that the plug cannot be withdrawn or inserted when the switch is in the "ON" position, and the switch cannot be turned "ON" until the plug is securely seated; or

(b) Approved devices in which the current is broken in an explosion-proof enclosure before the plug can be removed.

24-018 Lighting Switches. Switches installed 5 feet or less before the floor controlling lighting circuits shall conform to the requirements of Section 18 of this Code.

24-020 Lighting Fixtures. Lamps in a fixed position and in hazardous locations shall be:

(a) Enclosed in a manner approved for use in explosive atmospheres if installed 5 feet or less above the floor; and

(b) Properly protected by substantial metal guards or other approved means where exposed to breakage.

24-022 Lamps of the Pendent Type. Lamps shall not be of the pendent type unless supported by and supplied through hangers of rigid conduit or flexible connectors approved for use in explosive atmospheres in accordance with Rule 18-050.

24-024 Viewing Box Lighting. Film-viewing boxes, if installed 4 feet or less above the floor, shall conform to the requirements of Rule 18-050.

24-026 Signalling Systems. All equipment of signalling and communication systems, irrespective of voltage, installed 5 feet or less above the floor, shall be of a type approved for use in explosive atmospheres in accordance with the requirements of Rule 18-058.

24-028 Flexible Cord. Flexible cord for portable lamps or portable electrical appliances shall be:

(a) Continuous and without switches from the appliance to the attachment plug;

(b) In accordance with Rule 18-054; and

(c) Of sufficient length to reach any position in which the portable device is to be used.

24-030 Portable Equipment. Portable equipment shall be provided with a storage device for its flexible cord in which the shortest radius to which the cord can be subjected is 3 inches.

24-032 Suction and Pressure Equipment. Suction, pressure, or insufflation equipment (whether of the unit type or of a type having a common pump installed outside a hazardous location) shall be of a type approved for use in explosive atmospheres, unless it is of the aspirator type operated by compressed air or by water jet.

24-034 Liberating of Exhaust Gases. Means shall be provided for liberating the exhaust gases from suction apparatus where the gases shall be effectively dispersed without making contact with a possible source of ignition.

24-036 X-Ray Equipment

(1) X-Ray equipment shall be provided with an approved method of eliminating electrostatic accumulation.

(2) Control devices, lighting fixtures and switches used for X-Ray equipment shall conform to the requirements of Rules 18-044 and 18-050.

24-038 Low Voltage Circuits. Receptacles and attachment plugs used on low voltage circuits shall be of a type which does not permit interchangeable connection with circuits of other voltage.

SECTION 26—INSTALLATION OF ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT

General

26-000 Working Space and Ventilation

(1) Adequate clear working space with secure footing shall be provided about all electrical equipment which requires adjustment or examination while danger of shock is present either during operation or otherwise.

(2) Electrical equipment having relatively high losses shall be provided with adequate ventilation.

26-002 Connection to Identified Terminals or Leads. Wherever a device having an identified terminal or lead is connected in a circuit having an identified conductor, the identified conductor shall be connected to the identified terminal or lead.

26-004 Outdoor Installations

(1) Outdoor installations of apparatus, unless housed in suitable enclosures, shall be surrounded by suitable fencing in accordance with Section 73 or as may be otherwise directed by the inspection department.

(2) Overhead high-potential conductors shall have a vertical clearance from buildings of 15 feet.

(3) Outdoor equipment shall be grounded in an acceptable manner.

(4) High-potential isolating switches not of the metal-enclosed type which are assembled in the field shall be spaced according to Table 36.

(5) Horn-gap switches shall be mounted in a horizontal position and be capable of being locked in the open position.

Isolating Switches

26-006 Installation of High-Potential Isolating Switches

(1) High-potential isolating switches shall be located so that they will be accessible to authorized persons only.

(2) High-potential group-operated isolating switches shall be:

(a) Interlocked with their respective circuit breakers so that the switch cannot be operated under load; and

(b) Provided with positive position indicators.

Circuit Breakers

26-008 Circuit Breakers, General

(1) Circuit breakers shall be of the trip-free type.

(2) Indication shall be provided at the circuit breaker and at the point of operation to show whether the circuit breaker is open or closed.

26-010 Indoor Installation of Circuit Breakers

(1) Circuit breakers installed indoors shall be located in compliance with the following:

(a) Oil circuit breakers rated at more than 15,000 volts and containing more than 15 gallons of flammable oil or more than 5 gallons in any one compartment, shall be isolated from other apparatus and shall be installed only in electrical equipment vaults in accordance with Section 71;

(b) Oil circuit breakers rated more than 15,000 volts but containing less than 15 gallons of flammable oil, with not more than 5 gallons contained in any one compartment, shall be installed only in a fire-resisting switchroom, motor room, or an electrical equipment vault in accordance with Section 71;

(c) Oil circuit breakers rated less than 15,000 volts and containing more than 5 gallons but less than 15 gallons of flammable oil, with not more than 5 gallons contained in any one compartment, shall be:

(i) Installed only in a building or room of fire-resisting construction,

(ii) Isolated from other apparatus by segregation of adjacent cells by effective barriers; metal-enclosed equipment shall be considered as providing segregation, and

(iii) Provided with a metal pan or concrete curbing capable of retaining the liquid;

(d) Air circuit breakers rated at more than 15,000 volts shall be installed only in a fire-resisting switchroom, motor room, or electrical equipment vault in accordance with Section 71.

(2) Circuit breakers installed in electrical equipment vaults shall be operable without opening the door of the vault.

(3) The point of operating shall be so located with respect to the circuit breaker that the operator will be protected from injury due to faulty operation of the circuit breaker.

Fuses

26-012 Installation of Fuses. Fuses shall be located so that:

(a) Their operation will not result in injury to persons or damage to property or other equipment;

(b) They can be readily inserted or removed; and

(c) They will be accessible to authorized persons only, when used on high-potential circuits.

Switchboards and Switchgear

26-014 Location of Switchgear. Switchgear, if not of the dead-front or enclosed type, and live parts on the rear of dead-front switchboards shall be inaccessible to unauthorized persons.

26-016 Guarding of Switchgear. Where live parts of switchgear are exposed to damage by falling objects, they shall be guarded.

26-018 Switchgear Clearance from Ceiling. Switchgear shall not be built up to a point within 3 feet of a ceiling of combustible material or a ceiling of plaster applied over a combustible base unless the combustible material or base is protected agaiust damage from fire, by:

(a) Metal lath and cement plaster;

(b) ¼ inch rigid asbestos board; or

(c) Other acceptable means.

26-020 Clearance Back of Switchboard

(1) There shall be a space of not less than 3 feet between equipment on the back of a fixed switchboard and the nearest adjacent wall when such equipment is less than 7 feet from the floor.

(2) Ready means for ingress and egress to the space shall be provided at each end of the switchboard.

(3) Doors or gates of suitable material may be provided at these points for guarding purposes but they shall be capable of being readily opened from the inside without the use of a key or tool.

(4) The space behind switchboards shall be kept clear of foreign material and shall not be used for storage purposes.

26-022 Protection from Shock Hazard at Switchboards and Switchgear. Where live-front switchboards or switchgear operate:

(a) On ac, at potentials not exceeding 150 volts to ground or 750 volts between conductors; or

(b) On dc, at potentials not exceeding 300 volts to ground or 750 volts between conductors, insulating floors, mats, or platforms affording good footing, shall be provided and placed so that operators cannot readily touch live parts unless standing on such floors, mats or platforms.

26-024 Illumination at Switchboards. Adequate illumination for the reading of instruments, and necessary operation of controls shall be provided both in front of and behind switchboards as necessary.

26-026 Air Circuit Breakers on Switchboards. If air circuit breakers of an open type are mounted on the front of a switchboard, they shall be mounted in a single horizontal row with their tops not less than 5 feet above the floor or operating platform.

26-028 Conductor Covering at Switchgear

(1) Closely grouped conductors feeding to or from switchgear which do not have moisture-resisting, flame-retarding insulation on the individual conductors shall have an overall moisture-resisting, flame-retarding covering.

(2) Asbestos tape, if used for overall covering, shall be kept away from terminals and other live parts.

Rotating Electrical Machinery

26-030 Use of Wood for Insulating Rotating Machinery. If wood is used to insulate frames of rotating electrical machinery from ground, it shall be impregnated or thoroughly coated with a suitable moisture repellent.

26-032 Integral Protection of Rotating Machinery. A rotating electrical machine with an integral protective device shall be marked to indicate that it has such a protective device.

Transformers

26-034 Transformers, General

(1) Transformers shall be constructed so that all live parts are enclosed unless they are installed so as to be inaccessible to unauthorized persons.

(2) Transformers shall be protected from mechanical damage.

(3) Liquid-filled transformers shall be mounted so that there will be an air space of 6 inches between transformers, and between transformers and adjacent surfaces of combustible material except the plane on which the transformer is mounted.

26-036 Outdoor Transformer Installations. Where transformers, including their conductors, control, and protective equipment are installed outdoors they shall:

(a) Be inaccessible to unauthorized persons;

(b) Not obstruct fire fighting operations;

(c) If oil filled, be isolated with respect to combustibility of surroundings, and window and door exposure in accordance with Table 38;

(d) If isolated by elevation, have the bottom of their platform not less than 12 feet above the ground;

(e) If not isolated by elevation, have the entire installation surrounded by suitable fencing in accordance with Section 73 of this Code, or as may be otherwise directed by the inspection department;

(f) Not have open drains in the proximity of combustible construction or materials for the disposal of flammable liquid expelled from a transformer; and

(g) Have, conspicuously posted, suitable warning signs indicating the highest potential employed except where there is no exposed live part.

26-038 Transformers Mounted on Roofs

(1) Transformers having their cores immersed in a liquid which will burn in air, if installed on the roof of a building, shall be located in a transformer vault in accordance with Section 71, adequately supported by means of fire-resisting construction.

(2) Transformers having their cores immersed in a liquid which will not burn in air, if installed on the roof of a building, shall not be placed adjacent to doors or windows, nor within 15 feet of discharge vents for flammable fumes or dusts of a combustible or electrical conductive nature.

26-040 Liquid-Filled Transformers in Buildings

(1) Liquid-filled transformers in buildings shall be installed in transformer vaults in accordance with Section 71 except as provided for in Sub-rules (2), (3) and (4).

(2) Transformers having their cores immersed in a liquid that will burn in air may be located in:

(a) A building which does not conform with the requirements of a vault provided that:

(i) The building is used only for supplying electric energy and is accessible to authorized persons only, and

(ii) Neither the building nor its contents present a fire hazard to any other building or property; or

(b) An electric furnace room which:

(i) Is of fire-resisting construction,

(ii) Has all transformers located in a metal pan or concrete basin of sufficient capacity to hold all the liquid contained in the largest transformer placed therein, and

(iii) Does not contain any combustible materials in the vicinity of any transformer.

(3) Transformers having their cores immersed in a liquid that will burn in air may be installed without a vault if:

(a) There is no combustible material in the vicinity of the transformer;

(b) Suitable means such as a metal pan or concrete or metal curbing is provided capable of retaining the liquid from the largest transformer placed therein; and

(c) The total rating is not more than:

(i) 10 kva in a building or room not of fire-resistant construction, or

(ii) 75 kva with not more than 25 kva in any one unit, in a building or room of fire-resistant construction;

(d) They are protected from mechanical damage either by location or guarding.

(4) Transformers having their cores immersed in a liquid that will not burn in air may be installed without a vault if:

(a) The transformer is protected from mechanical damage either by location or guarding;

(b) A pressure relief vent is provided where the rating exceeds 25 kva at 25 cycles or 37½ kva at 60 cycles;

(c) A means of absorbing gases generated by arcing inside the case, or a pressure relief vent connected to outdoors, is provided where the transformer is installed in a poorly ventilated location; and

(d) The voltage rating does not exceed 15,000 volts.

26-042 Dry-Core, Open-Ventilated Type Transformers

(1) Transformers of the dry-core open-ventilated type shall be mounted so that there will be an air space between the transformer casing and adjacent surfaces, except floors, of:

(a) 12 inches, if the adjacent surface be of combustible material; or

(b) ¼ inch if the adjacent surfaces are of:

(i) Incombustible material,

(ii) Combustible material adequately protected by incombustible, heat-insulating material other than sheet metal, or

(iii) Combustible material shielded by grounded sheet metal with an air space of not less than 2 inches between the sheet metal and the combustible material.

(2) Dry-type transformers not of the sealed type shall not be installed below grade level unless adequate provision is made to prevent flooding.

(3) Dry-type transformers not of the sealed type shall be installed in such a manner that water or other liquids cannot fall on to the windings.

(4) Dry-type transformers, if mounted directly on a floor of combustible material, shall be provided with a floor plate of steel, with a sheet of asbestos or similar material on the underside, which shall extend at least 6 inches beyond the transformer on all sides.

26-044 Disconnecting Means for Transformers. A disconnecting means shall be installed in the primary circuit of each transformer or each bank of transformers operating as a unit.

26-046 Overcurrent Protection for Power and Distribution Transformers. Each transformer or each bank of transformers operating as a unit shall have overcurrent protection, either individually or in the circuit feeding the transformer, consisting of:

(a) An overcurrent device rated or set at not more than 250 per cent of the rated primary current of the transformer; or

(b) If the transformer has an overcurrent device in the secondary connection rated or set at not more than 250 per cent of the rated secondary current of the transformer, or is equipped with co-ordinated thermal overload protection by the manufacturer, an overcurrent device rated or set at:

(i) Not more than 600 per cent of the rated current of the transformer, for a transformer having an impedance voltage not more than 6 per cent, or

(ii) Not more than 400 per cent of the rated current of the transformer, for a transformer having an impedance voltage more than 6 per cent but not more than 10 per cent.

26-048 Overcurrent Protection of Instrument Transformers. Instrument potential transformers shall have primary fuses rated at not more than 10 amperes except that fuses will not be required where:

(a) Both potential and current transformers are supplied by the manufacturer in a single enclosure filled with an acceptable insulating medium; and

(b) The primary terminals outside the enclosure are common to both potential and current transformers inside the enclosure.

26-050 Marking of Transformers. Each transformer shall be provided with a nameplate bearing the following marking:

(a) Maker's name;

(b) Rating in kva;

(c) Rated full load temperature rise;

(d) Primary and secondary voltage ratings;

(e) Frequency in cycles per second;

(f) Liquid capacity, if of the liquid-filled type, in Imperial gallons; and

(g) Type of liquid to be used, if it is to be filled with an approved liquid that will not burn in air.

Capacitors

26-052 Capacitors Excepted. The requirements of Rules 26-054 to 26-070 shall not apply to capacitors which form component parts of factory assembled electrical equipment nor to surge protective capacitors.

26-054 Location of Capacitors. Capacitors shall be installed in electrical equipment vaults in accordance with Section 71 except where:

(a) They are insulated with a liquid that will not burn in air; or

(b) Each unit contains not more than 3 Imperial gallons of combustible oil and is provided with overcurrent protection.

26-056 Guarding of Capacitors. All live parts of capacitors shall be inaccessible to unauthorized persons.

26-058 Grounding of Capacitors. Non-current-carrying metal parts of capacitors shall be grounded.

26-060 Conductor Size for Capacitors

(1) The continuous current rating of capacitor feeder circuits and branch circuits shall be not less than 135 per cent of the rated current of the capacitor.

(2) Where a branch circuit supplies two or more capacitors the overcurrent device protecting the conductors of the branch circuit may be considered as protecting taps made thereto to supply single capacitors provided that:

(a) The tap is not more than 25 feet long; and

(b) Its conductors comply with Sub-rule (1) and also have a current-carrying capacity not less than ⅓ that of the branch-circuit conductors from which they are supplied.

26-062 Overcurrent Protection. An overcurrent device, rated or set as low as practicable without causing unnecessary opening of the circuit, but not exceeding 250 per cent of the rated current of the capacitor except by special permission shall be provided in each ungrounded conductor of a capacitor feeder or branch circuit.

26-064 Disconnecting Means for Capacitor Feeders or Branch Circuits

(1) A disconnecting means having a continuous current-carrying capacity not less than 135 per cent of the rated current of the capacitor shall be provided in each ungrounded conductor of the capacitor feeder or branch circuit.

(2) The disconnecting means shall be within sight of and not more than a distance of 30 feet from the capacitors unless the disconnecting means can be locked in the open position.

26-066 Special Provisions for Motor Circuit Capacitors. A capacitor connected on the load side of a motor circuit disconnecting means shall be subject to the following special provisions:

(a) Individual disconnecting means for the capacitor need not be provided;

(b) If connected on the load side of the motor overcurrent device, individual overcurrent protection for the capacitor need not be provided;

(c) The rating of the disconnecting means and the overcurrent device and the size of the motor circuit conductors need not be greater than would be required without the capacitor;

(d) The continuous current ratings of the conductors connecting the capacitor to the motor circuit shall be in accordance with Rule 26-060 and shall be not less than one-third that of the motor-circuit conductors;

(e) If connected on the load side of the motor overload device:

(i) The rating of the capacitor shall not exceed the value required to raise the no-load power factor of the motor to unity, and

(ii) The rating or setting of the overload device shall be reduced to a value corresponding with the current obtained with the improved power factor.

26-068 Transformers used with Capacitors. The kva rating of a transformer used with a capacitor shall be not less than 135 per cent of the capacitor kva rating.

26-070 Drainage of Stored Charge of Capacitors

(1) Capacitors shall be provided with a means of draining the stored charge.

(2) The draining means shall be such that the residual voltage will be reduced to 50 volts or less after the capacitor is disconnected from the source of supply:

(a) Within one minute in the case of capacitors rated at 750 volts or less; and

(b) Within 5 minutes in the case of capacitors rated at more than 750 volts.

(3) The discharge circuit shall be:

(a) Permanently connected to the terminals of the capacitor or capacitor bank; or

(b) Provided with automatic means of connecting it on removal of voltage from the line.

(4) The discharge circuit shall not be switched or connected by manual means.

(5) Motors, transformers, or other electrical equipment capable of constituting a suitable discharge path, connected directly to capacitors without the interposition of a switch or overcurrent device, constitute a suitable discharge path.

Storage Batteries

26-072 Location of Storage Batteries. Storage batteries shall be kept in accessible battery rooms or enclosures used for no other purpose when:

(a) The aggregate capacity at the 8-hour discharge rate exceeds 5 kilowatt hours; and

(b) The batteries are in unsealed jars or tanks.

26-074 Ventilation of Battery Rooms

(1) Storage battery rooms shall be thoroughly ventilated.

(2) Adequate means shall be made for sufficient diffusion and ventilation of the gases from the battery to prevent the accumulation of an explosive mixture.

26-076 Cell Mounting. Each storage battery cell shall be mounted on incombustible absorption-resistant insulators of glass or vitrified porcelain except that small cells which are made of insulating material may be set in sand trays on shelves or otherwise separated from the floor.

26-078 Wiring Method in Battery Rooms

(1) The wiring method used in storage battery rooms shall be:

(a) Bare conductors which shall not be taped;

(b) Open wiring;

(c) Rigid conduit or electrical metallic tubing subject to the following:

(i) The conduit or tubing shall be of corrosion-resisting materials or be suitably protected from corrosion,

(ii) The end of the raceway shall be tightly sealed with sealing compound, rubber tape or other acceptable material, to resist the entrance of electrolyte by spray or creeping,

(iii) The conductor shall issue from the raceway through a substantial glazed insulating bushing,

(iv) At least 12 inches of the conductor shall be free from the raceway where connected to a cell terminal;

(d) Mineral-insulated cable provided it is adequately protected against corrosion where it may be in direct contact with acid or acid spray; or

(e) Aluminum-sheathed cable provided it has suitable corrosion-resistant protection where necessary.

(2) Varnished-cambric-insulated conductors shall not be used in storage battery rooms.

26-080 Lighting Fixtures. Lighting fixtures in storage battery rooms shall be of the totally-enclosed, gasketted type if unsealed jars or tanks are used.

Lightning Arresters

26-082 Use and Location of Lightning Arresters

(1) Lightning arresters shall be installed in every distributing substation in locations where lightning disturbances are of frequent occurrence and no other adequate protection is provided.

(2) Lightning arresters installed for the protection of utilization equipment:

(a) May be installed either inside or outside the building or enclosure containing the equipment to be protected;

(b) Shall be isolated by elevation, enclosed or made otherwise inaccessible to unauthorized persons.

26-084 Indoor Installations of Lightning Arresters (See Appendix E)

(1) Where lightning arresters are installed in a building, they shall be located well away from all equipment other than that which they protect and from passageways and combustible parts of buildings.

(2) Where lightning arresters containing oil are installed in a building, they shall be separated from other equipment by walls conforming to transformer vault construction requirements set out in Section 71.

26-086 Outdoor Installations of Lightning Arresters. Where arresters containing oil are located outdoors, means of draining or absorbing oil shall be provided by:

(a) Ditches or drains; or

(b) Paving the yard in which the arrester is contained with cinders or other absorbent material to an adequate depth.

26-088 Choke Coils for Lightning Arresters. Where choke coils are used in connection with a lightning arrester, the coils shall be installed between the lightning arrester tap and the apparatus to be protected.

26-090 Connection of Lightning Arresters. The connection between arrester and line conductor shall be:

(a) Of copper wire or cable or some approved equivalent;

(b) Not smaller than No. 6 AWG;

(c) As short and as straight as practicable with a minimum of bends; and

(d) Free of sharp bends and turns.

26-092 Insulation of Lightning Arrester Accessories. The insulation from ground and from other conductors for accessories such as gap electrodes and choke coils shall be at least equal to the insulation required at other points of the circuit.

26-094 Grounding of Lightning Arresters. Lightning arresters shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

Resistance Devices

26-096 Location of Resistance Devices. Resistance devices, including wiring to the resistance elements, shall be installed so that danger of igniting adjacent combustible material will be reduced to a minimum.

26-098 Conductors for Resistance Devices. Insulated conductors used for connection between resistance elements and controllers, unless used for infrequent motor starting, shall conform to the following:

(a) As indicated in Table 19 as being suitable for the temperature involved and in no case less than 90° C. (194° F.);

(b) Conductors having an approved flame-retarding outer covering may be grouped where the potential between any two conductors in the group does not exceed a maximum of 75 volts.

26-100 Use of Incandescent Lamps as Resistance Devices

(1) Incandescent lamps may be used:

(a) As protective resistors for automatic controllers; or

(b) By special permission, as resistors in series with other devices.

(2) Where incandescent lamps are used as resistors, they shall:

(a) Be mounted in porcelain receptacles on incombustible supports;

(b) Be arranged so that they cannot be subjected to a voltage greater than that for which they are rated;

(c) Be provided with a permanently attached nameplate showing the wattage and voltage of the lamp to be used in each receptacle;

(d) Not carry or control the main current; and

(e) Not constitute the regulating resistance of the device.

Electric Heating and Cooking Appliances

26-102 Location of Non-Portable Appliances. Non-portable electric heating and cooking appliances shall be installed so that the danger of igniting adjacent combustible material is reduced to a minimum.

26-104 Rating of Portable Appliances. The input to portable electric heating and cooking appliances for use on nominal 115-volt branch circuits protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at not more than 15 amperes shall not exceed 1,500 watts at 115 volts.

26-106 Separate Built-in Cooking Units

(1) Separate built-in cooking units without integral overcurrent protection shall be provided with the necessary overcurrent protection, as required by the specifications to which they were originally approved, in a separate panel.

(2) Tap circuit conductors feeding individual separate built-in cooking units from a single branch circuit shall have a current-carrying capacity of not less than the ampere rating of the unit or heating element which they supply as determined from Tables 1 to 4, whichever is applicable.

(3) Where tap circuit conductors feed individual separate built-in cooking units having integral overcurrent protection the current-carrying capacity of the tap circuit conductor shall, in addition to complying with the requirements of Sub-rule (2), be not less than that of the single branch circuit supplying them unless the tap circuit is not over 25 feet long in which case the current-carrying capacity may be ⅓ that of the single branch circuit conductors.

26-108 Supply Connections for Appliances

(1) Electric heating and cooking appliances which have more than one individual heating element shall have only one point of connection for supply.

(2) The point of connection for a separate built-in cooking unit without integral overcurrent devices may be in a separate panel incorporating the necessary overcurrent devices for the individual heating elements.

26-110 Appliances Exceeding 1,500 watts

(1) Every electric heating and cooking appliance rated at more than 1,500 watts shall be supplied from a branch circuit used solely for one appliance except that more than one appliance may be connected to a single-branch circuit provided that the following is used:

(a) A multiple-throw manually-operated device which will permit only one such appliance to be energized at one time; or

(b) An automatic device which will limit the total load to a value which will not cause operation of the overcurrent devices protecting the branch circuit.

(2) Every electric heating and cooking appliance rated at more than 1,500 watts shall be controlled by an indicating switch which may be in the circuit or on the appliance except that:

(a) If the rating of the appliance does not exceed 30 amperes, an attachment plug and receptacle may be used instead of a switch; and

(b) If the appliance has more than one individual heating element each controlled by a switch, no main switch need be provided.

(3) For the purpose of this Rule, two or more separate built-in cooking units together with their overcurrent devices shall be considered as one appliance.

26-112 Signals for Heated Appliances. Where glue pots, soldering irons, or appliances intended to be applied to combustible materials are used in other than private dwelling occupancies:

(a) Each appliance or group of appliances shall be provided with an indicating switch and a red pilot light; or

(b) Each appliance shall be equipped with an integral temperature limiting device, in which case, the pilot light may, by special permission, be omitted.

26-114 Infra Red Drying Lamps. The following requirements shall apply to the installation of infra red drying lamps:

(a) Branch circuits shall be protected in accordance with Section 14;

(b) Lampholders of the medium-base, unswitched, porcelain type or other types approved for the service, may be used with lamps rated at 300 watts or less;

(c) Screw-shell lampholders shall not be used with lamps rated at more than 300 watts unless especially approved for the purpose;

(d) In industrial occupancies, lampholders may be operated in series on circuits of more than 150 volts to ground where adequate spacings for the higher circuit voltage are provided.

26-116 Ventilated Drying and Baking Areas. Drying and baking areas provided with positive mechanical ventilation adequate to prevent the formation of inflammable concentrations of vapours, and provided with effective interlocks to de-energize all electrical equipment (other than equipment approved for Class I hazardous locations) in case the ventilating equipment is inoperative, may be classed as non-hazardous by an inspector.

Receptacles

26-118 Location of Receptacles

(1) In residential premises there shall be installed in each room, except bathrooms, at least one receptacle constructed to accommodate parallel blade caps for every 12 lineal feet or major fraction thereof of the total distance around the room as measured horizontally along the wall at the floor line, and such receptacles shall, insofar as practicable, be spaced equal distances apart.

(2) Receptacles shall not be placed in ironing cabinets, cupboards, wall cabinets, nor in like enclosures.

26-120 Appliance Receptacles

(1) In residential occupancies, receptacles installed in kitchens, breakfast rooms, laundry areas or utility rooms, with the exception of receptacles specifically designed for devices such as electric clocks, shall be considered to be appliance receptacles.

(2) Of the receptacles required by Rule 26-118, at least one shall be installed at counter or table height at each working area in the kitchen and breakfast room, where portable appliances are normally used.

(3) In residential occupancies, at least two branch circuits shall be run to each kitchen or combined kitchen and breakfast room solely for the supply of power to appliance receptacles installed at counter or table height.

(4) At least one appliance receptacle installed at counter or table height shall be connected to each of the branch circuits specified in Sub-rule (3) and no two adjacent appliance receptacles shall be connected to the same branch circuit.

(5) In residential occupancies, at least one branch circuit shall be provided, solely for the supply of power to appliance receptacles installed in the laundry area and utility rooms.

(6) For the purposes of this Rule, a three-wire circuit shall be classed as two circuits.

26-122 Receptacles

(1) Receptacles shall not be constructed to accommodate both parallel and tandem blade caps.

(2) Where receptacles constructed to accommodate parallel blade caps or receptacles constructed to accommodate tandem blade caps are installed, they shall be of the 3-pole type which will also accommodate caps with a U-shaped or round grounding pin.

(3) Receptacles constructed so as to accommodate parallel blade caps shall be rated 125 volts, 15 amperes.

(4) Receptacles constructed so as to accommodate tandem blade caps shall be rated 250 volts, 15 amperes.

(5) Where both 125-volt circuits and higher voltage circuits are installed in the same premises, the receptacles used on the outlets supplied at the higher voltage shall be of different construction to those supplied at 125 volts, and marked at the time of installation so as to indicate the higher voltage with which they are supplied.

(6) Receptacles shall not be of the screw base type.

(7) Receptacles with exposed terminals shall be used only in fittings, metal troughs, and similar devices.

(8) Receptacles located in floors shall be enclosed in floor boxes approved for the purpose.

(9) Where a receptacle is installed in a location where there is more than normal risk of injury or loss of life through shock,

(a) The receptacle shall have an extra contact for grounding; and

(b) The receptacle and cap shall be polarized.

(10) Where grounding type receptacles as described in Sub-rule (2) are used in existing installations to replace the ungrounded type, the grounding terminal shall be effectively connected to ground and one of the following methods may be used:

(a) By bonding to grounded metallic raceway or cable sheath;

(b) By connection to the system ground by means of a separate grounding conductor; or

(c) By bonding to an adjacent grounded metallic cold water pipe.

26-124 Three-Wire Receptacle Branch Circuits. Where receptacles constructed to accommodate parallel-blade caps are connected to three-wire branch circuits:

(a) The receptacles shall be of an approved type having separate terminals for the connection of the ungrounded conductors; and

(b) The branch circuit shall comply with Rule 14-000.

Arc Lamps

26-126 Location of Arc Lamps

(1) Outdoor arc lamps, attached to a building and supplied from the interior installation shall be suspended at least 8 feet above the ground level.

(2) Indoor arc lamps shall be hung out of reach or shall be protected in an acceptable manner.

26-128 Conductors to Arc Lamps

(1) Leads to arc lamps shall have a current-carrying capacity of approximately 150 per cent of the normal current of the lamp.

(2) The leads shall be stranded where:

(a) The size exceeds No. 14 AWG; and

(b) The lamp suspension provides for raising and lowering.

26-130 Overcurrent Protection for Arc Lamps. An overcurrent device shall be provided for each arc lamp or series of lamps.

26-132 Resistors or Regulators

(1) Resistors or regulators shall be enclosed in incombustible cases and located away from readily combustible material.

(2) Incandescent lamps shall not be used as resistors or regulators.

26-134 Globes and Spark Arresters

(1) Arc lamps other than those of the enclosed arc type shall be equipped with globes and spark arresters.

(2) Globes shall be guarded by wire netting having a mesh of not more than 1¼ inch.

Furnace Circuits

26-136 Scope

(1) Rules 26-138 to 26-144 apply to branch circuits supplying electric power for the operation of central heating furnaces in domestic, light commercial, and light industrial installations where the heating unit is operated by electric power, either directly or in conjunction with heaters using solid, liquid or gaseous fuels.

(2) Rules 26-138 to 26-144 do not apply to:

(a) Stoves;
(b) Portable heaters;
(c) Room heaters; or
(d) Installations involving more than one heating unit where the installation is under the charge of a qualified attendant.

26-138 Single Branch Circuit. All electric power for the heating unit and associated equipment operating in connection therewith shall be obtained from a single branch circuit which shall be used for no other purpose.

26-140 Taps. The branch circuit may be tapped as necessary to supply the various pieces of associated equipment, but there shall be no overcurrent protection supplied in the tap to any piece of associated equipment the operation of which is essential to the proper operation of the heating unit, unless the control equipment is of such a nature that the heater unit will be shut down if the associated equipment fails to function due to operation of the overcurrent device.

26-142 Disconnecting Means. Suitable disconnecting means shall be provided for the branch circuit and shall be located so that they can be readily operated without exposure to fire hazard due to faulty operation of the heating unit.

26-144 Mechanical Protection of Conductors. All branch circuit or tap conductors within 5 feet from the floor shall be adequately protected from mechanical injury.

SECTION 28—MOTORS

General

28-000 Scope. This Section applies to the installation of electric motors including installation, wiring methods, conductors, protection and control.

28-002 Location. Motors shall be installed only in locations where ordinary conditions exist unless they are of types specifically approved for the location.

28-004 Guarding. Exposed live parts of motors and controllers operating at 50 volts or more between terminals shall be guarded against accidental contact by enclosure or by location, except that stationary motors having commutators, collectors and brush rigging located inside of motor end brackets and not conductively connected to supply circuits operating at more than 150 volts to ground, may have live parts exposed.

28-006 Methods of Guarding. The following are considered to be acceptable methods of guarding motors by:

(a) Installation in a room or enclosure which is accessible only to qualfied persons;
(b) Installation on a suitable balcony, gallery or platform, elevated and arranged so as to exclude other than qualified persons;
(c) Elevation 8 feet or more above the floor;
(d) Guard rail if the motor operates at 750 volts, or less.

Wiring Methods

28-008 Stationary Motors

(1) The wiring method for stationary motors rated 1 horsepower or more at 110 volts or more shall be either rigid conduit, flexible conduit, electrical metallic tubing, armoured cable, mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable, except:

(a) In private residences; or
(b) Where,
  (i) Maintenance requires a speed of changeover that makes it impractical,
  (ii) The overall size of conductors makes it impractical to enclose them in conduit,
  (iii) The motor leads are adequately protected by other acceptable means, or
  (iv) It is essential that noise or vibration of the motor is not transmitted.

(2) The wiring method for stationary motors rated less than 1 horsepower, or less than 110 volts, or which are installed in private residences, may be armoured cable, or, if not subject to mechanical injury, non-metallic-sheathed cable.

28-010 Portable Motors. Connections to portable motors may be made with flexible cord which shall have a serviceability not less than that of Type S cord unless the motor forms part of an approved motor-operated device.

Conductor Sizes

28-012 Conductors, Individual Motors

(1) The conductors of a branch circuit which supplies an individual motor, other than a motor used for short-time, intermittent, periodic or varying duty, shall be of a size at least that specified in Table 26 for the full load current rating of the motor.

(2) For motors having full load current ratings larger than those included in Table 26, the size of the branch circuit conductors shall be selected from Tables 2 or 4, and the conductors shall have a current-carrying capacity at least equal to 125 per cent of the full load current rating of the motor.

(3) For motors used on short-time, intermittent, periodic or varying duty, the size of the branch circuit conductors shall be selected from Tables 2 or 4, and the conductors shall have a current-carrying capacity at least equal to the full load current rating of the motor multiplied by the percentage given in Table 27 for the duty involved, except that a lower percentage may be used for varying duty by special permission.

(4) Sub-circuit conductors, supplying individual motors from a single set of branch circuit overcurrent devices protecting two or more motors, may be selected in accordance with Sub-rule (1) provided that the sub-circuit conductors are not over 25 feet long and have a current-carrying capacity at least one-third that of the branch circuit conductors from which they are supplied.

(5) Sub-circuit conductors having a length of more than 25 feet, and supplying individual motors from a single set of branch circuit overcurrent devices protecting two or more motors, shall have a current-carrying capacity at least equal to that specified for the branch circuit conductors from which they are supplied.

28-014 Branch Circuit Conductors, Two or More Motors

(1) Branch circuit conductors supplying two or more motors shall be selected from Tables 2 or 4, and shall have a current-carrying capacity at least equal to the sum of the full load current ratings of all the motors in the group plus 25 per cent of the full load current rating of the largest motor in the group.

(2) Where only a part of the group of motors can operate at any one time, or where the motors are used on short-time, intermittent, periodic or varying duty, special permission may be granted for the use of branch circuit conductors of a current-carrying capacity less than that specified above, provided that:

(a) The conductors have sufficient current-carrying capacity for the maximum load, determined by the size and number of motors and the character of their loads and duties; and

(b) The rating or setting of the branch circuit overcurrent devices is in accordance with the requirements of this Section for the size of the conductors used.

28-016 Feeder Conductors

(1) For a feeder supplying motor branch circuits only, the size of the feeder conductors shall be calculated in accordance with Rule 28-014 (1) or (2).

(2) Where a feeder supplies both motor loads and other loads, the current-carrying capacity of the conductors shall be calculated in accordance with Rules 28-012 and 28-014 plus the requirements of the other loads.

(3) The size of a tap from a feeder to a single set of overcurrent devices protecting a motor branch circuit shall be calculated in accordance with Rules 28-012 and 28-014 provided that the conductors of the tap are not over 25 feet long, and have a current-carrying capacity at least one-third that of the feeder from which they are supplied.

28-018 Secondary Conductors

(1) Conductors connecting the secondaries of wound rotor motors to their controllers shall be selected from Tables 2 or 4 and shall have a current-carrying capacity at least:

(a) 125 per cent of the full load secondary current of the motor if for continuous duty; or

(b) The percentage of the full load specified in Table 27 if for other than continuous duty.

(2) Where secondary resistors are separate from controllers, the current-carrying capacity of the conductors between the controller and resistor shall be at least that determined by applying the percentages in Table 28 to the maximum current which the devices are required to carry.

Protection, Overcurrent

28-020 Branch Circuit Overcurrent Protection. Each ungrounded conductor of a motor branch circuit shall be protected by an overcurrent device conforming to the following:

(a) For a branch circuit supplying a single motor except as provided in paragraph (b), the rating or setting of the overcurrent devices shall not exceed the maximum value specified in:

(i) Table 26 for the full load current rating of the motor, or

(ii) Table 29 for motors having full load current ratings larger than those included in Table 26 and for motor circuits protected by instantaneous circuit breakers;

(b) If the overcurrent protection specified in Tables 26 or 29 will not permit the motor to start, the rating or setting may be increased to either a value not exceeding 400 per cent of the full load current rating of the motor or as permitted by Rule 28-030;

(c) For a branch circuit supplying two or more motors, the rating or setting of the overcurrent devices shall not exceed the maximum value permitted by Rule 28-024.

28-022 Feeder Overcurrent Protection

(1) For a feeder supplying motor branch circuits only, the rating or setting of the feeder overcurrent devices shall not exceed a maximum value calculated by determining the size of the overcurrent devices permitted for the largest motor supplied by the feeder, and adding thereto the sum of the full load current ratings of all the other motors which may be in operation at the same time.

(2) Where a feeder supplies a group of motors, two or more of which are required to start simultaneously, and the feeder overcurrent devices as calculated in accordance with Sub-rule (1) are not sufficient to allow the motors to start, the rating or setting of the feeder overcurrent devices may be increased as necessary, to a maximum value not to exceed that which is permitted by Tables 26 or 29 for a single motor having a full load current rating equal to the sum of the full load current ratings of the greatest number of motors which must start simultaneously, provided this value does not exceed 300 per cent of the current-carrying capacity of the feeder conductors.

(3) Where a feeder supplies one or more motor branch circuits together with other loads, the overcurrent protection required for the motor loads may be calculated in accordance with these Rules and added to the requirements for the other loads supplied by the feeder.

28-024 Grouping of Motors on a Single Branch Circuit. Two or more motors may be grouped under the protection of a single set of branch circuit overcurrent devices having a rating or setting calculated in accordance with Rule 28-022 (1), provided that the fire hazard is reduced by conforming to any one of the following:

(a) The rating or setting of the overcurrent devices does not exceed 15 amperes;

(b) All the controls of the motors to be grouped are specifically approved for group fusing, and the rating of the branch circuit fuses does not exceed the maximum value permitted for the lowest rated overload device involved;

(c) The motors are used on a machine tool or a woodworking machine, and:

(i) The control equipment is arranged so that all contacts which open motor primary circuits are in enclosures either forming part of the machine base or for separate mounting, having a wall thickness not less than 0.0667 inch (14 MSG) for steel, $\frac{3}{32}$ inch for malleable cast iron or $\frac{1}{8}$ inch for other cast metal, having hinged doors with substantial catches, and having no openings to the floor or the foundation on which the machine rests, and

(ii) The rating or setting of the overcurrent devices does not exceed 200 amperes at 250 volts or less, or 100 amperes at voltages from 251 to 750;

(d) All the motors are operated by a single controller approved for the purpose, as provided for in Rule 28-046 (d); or

(e) Special permission is granted for the grouping of motors which form part of the co-ordinated drive of a single machine or process, wherein the failure of one motor to operate creates a hazard unless all the other motors in the group are stopped.

28-026 Overcurrent Protection for Large Motors. Where motors have a full load current rating larger than those given in Table 26, the rating or setting of the overcurrent devices shall be calculated in accordance with Table 29.

28-028 Size of Fuse Holders. Where fuses are used for motor branch circuit or feeder protection, the fuse holder shall not be of a smaller size than required to accommodate the fuse specified by Table 26, except that where fuses having time delay appropriate for the starting characteristics of the motors are used, fuse holders of smaller size may be used.

28-030 Instantaneous Circuit Breakers. Where instantaneous circuit breakers which are strongly affected by the initial peak inrush to the motor are used, a setting higher than 700 per cent may be allowed if the circuit breaker forms part of an approved combination motor starter.

Protection, Overload

28-032 Overload Protection Required. Each motor shall have individual overload protection except in the case of:

(a) A manually started motor rated at 1 horsepower or less, which is on a branch circuit having overcurrent protection rated or set at not more than 15 amperes or on an individual branch circuit having overcurrent protection as specified in Table 26, if it may be readily determined from the starting location that the motor is running;

(b) A motor constructed so that it cannot be overloaded; or

(c) A motor whose operating requirements are such that it is impracticable to obtain proper overload protection.

28-034 Types of Overload Protection. Overload devices shall be in accordance with one or more of the following requirements:

(a) A separate overload device which is responsive to motor current, rated or set at values not greater than those specified in Table 26, and which may combine the functions of overload and overcurrent protection if it is capable of properly protecting the motor both under overload and short-circuit conditions;

(b) A protective device, integral with the motor, responsive to motor current or to both motor current and temperature, and specifically approved for use with the motor which it protects;

(c) A protective device responsive to motor temperature only and arranged to cut off power to the motor or to actuate a warning signal which device may only be used in conjunction with paragraph (a) or in lieu thereof under the conditions of paragraph (c) of Rule 28-032.

28-036 Automatically Started Motors. An automatically started motor having a rating of 1 horsepower or less shall have overload protection conforming to one of the following conditions:

(a) A current responsive device as required by paragraph (a) of Rule 28-034 which will interrupt the current to the motor under prolonged overload equal to 125 per cent of the full load current rating of the motor;

(b) A protective device conforming to the requirements of paragraph (b) of Rule 28-034;

(c) A combination of protective devices as specified in paragraphs (a) and (c) of Rule 28-034, with the temperature responsive device so arranged that the motor will be disconnected from the source of supply if the temperature exceeds a safe limit, unless the conditions of paragraph (b) of Rule 28-032 obtain, or it is part of an approved assembly in which the motor is not normally subjected to overload and which is also equipped with other safety controls which protect the motor from damage due to stalled-rotor current and on which a nameplate, located so as to be visible after installation, indicates that such protective features are provided.

28-038 Number and Location of Overload Protective Devices

(1) The number and location of current responsive overload devices shall, unless otherwise required by the inspection department, be as follows:

(a) If fuses are used, one in each ungrounded conductor;

(b) If devices other than fuses are used, the number and location of tripping elements shall be as specified in Table 25.

(2) The inspection department may require that overload devices having three tripping elements be used for the protection of 3-phase, 3-wire motors, unless the motors are otherwise adequately protected, where:

(a) The motor circuit is supplied by:

(i) Wye-delta connected transformers having the wye neutral point ungrounded or not connected to the circuit, or

(ii) Delta-wye connected transformers; and

(b) Field experience indicates that such protection is desirable to minimize motor-winding failures due to the occurrence of transformer primary single-phase conditions.

28-040 Shunting of Overload Protection During Starting. Overload protection may be shunted or cut out of the circuit during the starting period provided that the device by which the protection is shunted or cut out cannot be left in the starting position and provided that the overcurrent device is in the motor circuit during the starting period.

Protection, Undervoltage

28-042 Undervoltage Protection Required. Motors shall be disconnected from the source of supply in case of low voltage by one of the following means unless it is evident that no hazard will be incurred through the lack of such disconnection:

(a) When automatic re-starting is liable to create a hazard, the motor control device shall provide low-voltage protection;

(b) When it is necessary or desirable that a motor stop on failure or reduction of voltage and automatically re-start on return of voltage, the motor control device shall provide low-voltage release.

Control

28-046 Control Required

(1) Motors shall be provided with starting and control equipment conforming to the following:

(a) For a single-phase portable motor of ⅓ horsepower or less, 125 volts or less, a plug and receptacle rated at not more than 15 amperes 125 volts and not rated in horsepower may be used;

(b) For a motor controlled by a manually-operated general-purpose alternating-current switch complying with Rule 14-068, the switch need not be marked in horsepower but its ampere rating shall be at least 125 per cent of the rated load current of the motor;

(c) For a 2-wire portable motor of not more than ⅓ horsepower at not more than 125 volts, a single-pole motor-circuit switch rated in horsepower not less than the motor rating may be used;

(d) For two or more motors which are required to operate together, a single controller approved for such service may be used;

(e) For a motor where the controller is specifically approved for use with that motor, it need not be rated in horsepower;

(f) For all other cases, a motor shall be provided with individual equipment rated in horsepower not less than the motor rating.

(2) The motor controller need not open the circuit in all conductors to the motor unless it serves also as the disconnecting means.

28-048 Starters having Different Starting and Running Positions

(1) Manual motor starters having different starting and running positions shall be constructed so that they cannot remain in the starting position.

(2) Magnetic starters having different starting and running positions shall be constructed so that they cannot remain in the starting position under normal operating conditions.

28-050 Location of Control. Every motor shall be controlled from a point within sight of and not more than a distance of 30 feet from the motor and the machinery driven by the motor, unless:

(a) The controller, motor circuit switch or circuit breaker can be locked in the open position; or

(b) A manually-operated switch placed within sight of and not more than 30 feet from the motor, is capable of disconnecting all ungrounded conductors supplying the motor, either directly or by means of a remotely controlled device, and is capable of preventing the motor from being started from any other location.

Disconnecting Means

28-052 Disconnecting Means Required. Every motor and its starting and control equipment shall be provided with a disconnecting means which will open all ungrounded conductors to the motor and which conforms to one of the following:

(a) An approved attachment plug and receptacle may serve as disconnecting means for a portable motor;

(b) A manually-operated, across-the-line type of starter may serve as both starter and disconnecting means;

(c) An isolating switch or a general use switch used as an isolating switch may be used as a disconnecting means for motors of more than 50 horsepower;

(d) In all other cases, the disconnecting means shall consist of a motor circuit switch, a circuit breaker, or equivalent approved device capable of safely establishing and interrupting the stalled rotor currrent of the motor.

28-054 Single Disconnecting Means for a Group of Motors. A single disconnecting means may serve two or more motors which are grouped on a single branch circuit.

28-056 Rating of Disconnecting Means. The disconnecting means shall have a rating not less than the following:

(a) A motor circuit switch for a single motor shall have a horsepower rating not less than that of the motor it serves;

(b) A circuit breaker or isolating switch for a single motor shall have a current rating not less than 115 per cent of the full load current rating of the motor it serves;

(c) A fused motor circuit switch serving a group of motors under the protection of a single set of fuses need not have a rating greater than that required to accommodate the proper size of fuse;

(d) An unfused motor circuit switch serving a group of motors under the protection of a single set of fuses need not have a rating greater than that required if a fused switch were used;

(e) A disconnecting means serving a group of motors on a single circuit, shall have:

(i) A horsepower rating not less than that of the largest motor in the group, if a motor circuit switch is used, and

(ii) A current rating not less than 115 per cent of the full load current rating of the largest motor in the group plus the sum of the full load current ratings of all the other motors in the group which may be in operation at the same time.

28-058 Disconnecting Means on Portable Machinery. Motor driven machinery of a movable or portable type for industrial use shall have a motor circuit switch or circuit breaker mounted on the machine and accessible to the operator.

SECTION 30—INSTALLATION OF INTERIOR LIGHTING EQUIPMENT

General

30-000 Scope. This Section applies to:

(a) The installation of interior lighting fixtures, lampholders, pendents, rosettes, incandescent filament lamps, electric discharge lamps; and

(b) The wiring and electrical equipment used in conjunction therewith.

30-002 Voltage

(1) Circuit voltages shall not exceed 150 volts to ground, except that in industrial and commercial establishments where a trained maintenance staff is available, the voltage may exceed 150 volts to ground but shall not exceed 600 volts to ground for lighting branch circuits supplying fixtures that are equipped with:

(a) Mogul-base screw-shell lampholders only; or

(b) Lampholders of other types approved for the application which are located at least 8 feet above floor level and which do not have switch control as an integral part of the fixture.

(2) The voltage between conductors used for incandescent lighting shall not exceed 150 volts in dwelling occupancies.

Location of Lighting Equipment

30-004 Near or Over Combustible Material

(1) Lighting fixtures installed where combustible material is liable to be stored shall be equipped with shades or guards so as to limit the temperature to which the combustible material may be subjected to a maximum of 90° C. (194° F.).

(2) Fixtures and lampholders installed under the conditions of Sub-rule (1) shall be of the unswitched type.

(3) Where lighting fixtures or lampholders are installed over readily combustible material, every fixture and lampholder shall be controlled by an individual wall switch, but a wall switch may control more than one fixture or lampholder if every fixture and lampholder is located at least 8 feet above floor level, or located or guarded so that the lamps cannot be readily removed or damaged.

30-006 Near Flammable Material. Switches and lampholders installed under the conditions of Rule 30-004 (1) shall have no exposed wiring.

30-008 In Show Windows

(1) No lighting fixture having exposed wiring other than a fixture of a chain suspension type shall be used in a show window.

(2) No lampholder having a paper or fibre lining shall be used in a show window.

(3) Exposed flexible cord or fixture wire shall not be used to supply permanently installed lighting fixtures in show cases or wall cases.

30-010 In Clothes Closets

(1) Every lighting fixture installed in a clothes closet shall be installed on the ceiling or on the front wall above the door of the clothes closet.

(2) Electric fixtures of the pendent type shall not be installed in a clothes closet.

30-012 Near Grounded Metal or In Damp Locations. The exposed non-current-carrying metal parts of lighting fixtures and electrical equipment used in connection therewith in basements, bathrooms, kitchens, or other places in which they are in proximity to grounded metal objects, or where dampness may exist, shall be:

(a) Installed out-of-reach; or
(b) Grounded.

Installation of Lighting Equipment

30-014 Live Parts

(1) Lighting fixtures, lampholders, and rosettes shall be installed so that no live part is exposed to contact while they are in use.

(2) Where lampholders and switches have exposed accessible terminals, they shall not be installed in metal fixture-canopies or in open bases of portable lamps.

30-016 Supports

(1) Every lighting fixture, lampholder and rosette shall be securely supported.

(2) Where a lighting fixture weighs more than 6 pounds or exceeds 16 inches in any dimension, it shall not be supported by the screw shell of the lampholder.

(3) Where a lighting fixture weighs more than 25 pounds, it shall not be supported directly by an outlet box which is mounted on a bar hanger.

(4) Where a lighting fixture weighs more than 50 pounds, it shall be supported independently of the outlet box.

30-018 Conduit Attachments. Where a lighting fixture is attached to a conduit system or other grounded support it shall be connected thereto both mechanically and electrically.

30-020 Outlet Boxes to be Covered

(1) Every outlet box used with lighting equipment shall be provided with a cover or covered by a fixture-canopy, lampholder, rosette or other device.

(2) Where any part of a combustible wall or ceiling is exposed between the edge of a fixture-canopy or pan and an outlet box, the part of the wall or ceiling shall be covered with non-combustible material.

30-022 Wiring Space

(1) Every fixture canopy and outlet box shall be installed so as to provide adequate space for conductors and connections.

(2) Every lighting fixture shall be so constructed and installed that conductors in the fixture and outlet box are not subjected to temperatures greater than those for which the conductors are approved.

30-024 Recessed Fixtures

(1) The recessed portion of every recessed lighting fixture enclosure shall be at least ½ inch from combustible material at every point other than at a point of support.

(2) Every recessed lighting fixture shall be so installed that adjacent combustible material is not subjected to temperatures in excess of 90° C. (194° F.).

(3) Where a lighting fixture is recessed in fire-resisting material in a building of fire-resisting construction, the fire-resisting material may be subjected to temperatures of not more than 150° C. (302° F.), but the fixture shall be plainly marked as approved for the service.

30-026 Connections

(1) Every lighting fixture shall be installed so that the connections between the fixture conductors and the circuit conductors may be inspected without disconnecting any part of the wiring, unless the connection employs a plug and receptacle.

(2) Lighting fixtures weighing more than 10 pounds shall be installed so that the wiring connections in the outlet box or its equivalent will be accessible for inspection without removing the fixture supports.

30-028 Fixture as a Wireway

(1) Lighting fixtures shall not be used as a raceway for circuit conductors unless the fixtures meet the requirements for approved raceways, except that the conductors of a 2-wire, a 3-wire, or a 4-wire branch circuit supplying the fixtures may be carried through:

(a) An installation of fixtures approved for end-to-end assembly to form a continuous raceway; or
(b) Fixtures which are connected together by approved wiring methods.

(2) The ballasts and transformers in the installation of lighting fixtures referred to in Sub-rule (1) shall be deemed to be a source of heat and the conductors supplying the fixtures shall have insulation approved for the temperature likely to be encountered as specified by Rule 12-126.

30-030 Polarization of Fixtures. Every lighting fixture shall be wired so that all screw-shells of its lampholders are connected to the same fixture or circuit conductor or terminal which shall be identified.

30-032 Combustible Shades and Enclosures. Every lighting fixture having a combustible shade or enclosure shall be installed so as to provide an adequate air space between the lamps and the combustible shade or enclosure.

30-034 Minimum Height of Low Fixtures

(1) Where a rigid lighting fixture or lampholder is located at a height of less than 7 feet above the floor and is readily accessible, the fixture or lampholder shall be protected from mechanical injury by a guard.

(2) A short flexible drop light or fixture may be used in place of the rigid fixture in Sub-rule (1).

30-036 Lighting Fixtures Exposed to Flying Objects. Where lighting fixtures are installed in gymnasiums or similar locations where the lamps are normally exposed to damage from flying objects, the lamps shall be guarded by one of the following means:

(a) Metal reflectors which effectively protect the lamps;
(b) Metal screens; or
(c) Enclosures of armoured glass or suitable plastic material.

30-038 Canopy Switches. Canopy switches shall only be attached to lighting fixtures and fixture canopies having knockouts suitably constructed and located for the accommodation of such switches, or they may be located in the chain.

30-040 Electrical Equipment in Bathroom, Shower Room or Kitchen

(1) No lampholder installed in a bathroom or shower room shall:

(a) Be attached to a drop cord;
(b) Have a switch forming part of the assembly; or
(c) Be controlled by other than a wall switch.

(2) Where electrical equipment is installed in a bathroom, shower room, or kitchen, the exposed non-current-carrying parts shall be made of insulating material unless they are out-of-reach or grounded.

30-042 Basement Stair Lighting. Lamps which light basement stairs shall be controlled by a switch located at a convenient point above the stairs.

Wiring of Lighting Equipment

30-044 Wiring of Fixtures

(1) All electrical wiring on or within a lighting fixture shall be:

(a) Neatly arranged without excess wiring;
(b) Not exposed to mechanical injury; and
(c) Arranged so that it is not subjected to temperatures above those for which it is approved.

(2) No joint or tap shall be located within an arm or stem of a lighting fixture.

30-046 Conductor Size. No conductor for a lighting fixture shall be smaller than No. 18 AWG.

30-048 Conductor Insulation. Every lighting fixture shall be wired with conductors having insulation suitable for the voltage and temperatures to which the conductors may be subjected.

30-050 Conductors on Movable Parts

(1) Stranded conductors shall be used on chain fixtures and other movable parts of lighting equipment.

(2) Conductors shall be arranged so that the weight of the lighting fixture or the movable parts does not place undue tension on the connections.

(3) All conductors which supply movable parts of lighting equipment shall be protected against mechanical injury.

30-052 Pendent Conductors for Incandescent Filament Lamps

(1) Where pendent lampholders having permanently attached leads are used with other than festoon wiring, they shall be hung from separate stranded rubber- or thermoplastic-insulated pendent conductors which are connected directly to the circuit conductors but supported independently thereof.

(2) Where thermoplastic-insulated pendent conductors are used in locations where they may be subjected to temperatures lower than 14° F. (minus 10° C.) they shall be of a type approved for the purpose.

(3) Where the pendent conductors supply heavy-duty or medium-base screw-shell lampholders, they shall be not smaller than No. 14 AWG.

(4) Where the pendent conductors supply intermediate or candelabra-base lampholders other than approved Christmas-tree and decorative lighting-outfits, the conductors shall be not smaller than No. 18 AWG.

(5) Where the pendent conductors are longer than 3 feet, they shall be twisted together.

30-054 Wiring of Recessed Fixtures

(1) Conductors having insulation suitable for the temperature encountered shall be used for wiring recessed fixtures.

(2) Recessed fixtures having terminal connections which operate at temperatures higher than 60° C. (140° F.) shall have circuit conductors according to one of the following:

(a) Branch-circuit conductors having insulation suitable for the temperature encountered may be run directly to the fixture;
(b) Tap connection conductors having insulation suitable for the temperature encountered shall:
  (i) Extend at least 4 feet but not more than 6 feet from the fixture, and
  (ii) Be run in a suitable metal raceway from the fixture terminal connection to an outlet box placed not less than 1 foot from the fixture.

30-056 Wiring of Show Window Fixtures

(1) Where show window lighting fixtures are closely spaced, they may be connected to asbestos-insulated conductors within the show window.

(2) The connection of show window lighting fixtures to the circuit conductors shall be in a junction box.

(3) The junction box shall be maintained at a sufficient distance from the lighting fixture to ensure that the circuit conductors are not subjected to temperatures in excess of their rating.

Grounding of Lighting Equipment

30-058 General Grounding Requirements. Where required, every non-current-carrying metal part of lighting fixtures and lighting equipment shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

30-060 Grounding with Metallic Wiring Systems. Where a metal lighting fixture is installed on an outlet wired with grounded metal raceway or grounded armoured cable, the fixture shall be grounded.

30-062 Grounding with Non-Metallic Wiring Systems

(1) Where a metal lighting fixture or plate is installed on an outlet wired with knob-and-tube wiring or non-metallic sheathed cable on a circuit operating at not more than 150 volts to ground, the fixture or plate shall be grounded if:

(a) Grounding is required by Rule 30-066;
(b) It is mounted on a metal lath ceiling or wall; or
(c) It is mounted on a metal ceiling or wall.

(2) Where grounding would be required in the case of metal fixtures and plates and where a wiring system does not afford a ready means for grounding the exposed non-current-carrying metal parts of fixtures or lampholders, lighting fixtures made of insulating material or lampholders having shells of insulating material shall be used.

30-064 Grounding of Equipment over 150 Volts to Ground

(1) Where a metal lighting fixture or a transformer enclosure is on a circuit operating at more than 150 volts to ground, the fixture or enclosure shall be grounded.

(2) Where exposed metal parts, other than those referred to in Sub-rule (1), of lighting equipment on circuits operating at more than 150 volts to ground are not insulated from ground and from other conducting surfaces and are accessible, they also shall be grounded.

(3) Where lamp-tie-wires, mounting screws, clips and decorative bands on glass lamps on circuits operating at more than 150 volts to ground are at least 1½ inches from the terminals of the lamp, they need not be grounded.

30-066 Fixtures, Lampholders and Face Plates Near Grounded Surfaces

(1) No drop light having a metal-shell lampholder and no ungrounded metal-fixture lampholder or face plate, shall be installed within reach of laundry tubs, bathtubs, shower baths, plumbing fixtures, steam pipes, or other grounded metal work or grounded surfaces, or in any damp place.

(2) Where lampholders and face plates are installed within reach of laundry tubs, plumbing fixtures, steam-pipes, or other grounded metal work or grounded surfaces, or in any damp place other than a bathroom, shower room, or kitchen, the lampholders:

(a) Shall have all exposed non-current-carrying parts grounded unless made of insulating material or out-of-reach;
(b) Shall be controlled only by a wall switch; or
(c) May have switches, if the outer shells be of approved insulating material and operating mechanisms be insulated from live parts.

Rosettes and Lampholders

30-068 Lampholders. Lampholders of the screw-shell type shall be installed for use as lampholders only.

30-070 Lampholder Rating with Incandescent Lamps

(1) Every medium-base lampholder shall have a rating of 660 watts, 250 volts.

(2) Where medium-base lampholders are not of special heat-resisting construction, they shall not be used with incandescent lamps rated in excess of 300 watts.

(3) Where medium-base lampholders are used with incandescent lamps rated at 300 watts, the lamps shall be provided with a heat-deflecting disc or equivalent device.

(4) Mogul-base lampholders shall not be used with incandescent lamps rated at more than 1,500 watts.

30-072 Connections to Lampholders. The identified grounded supply conductor shall be connected to permanently connected lampholders at the screw-shell binding post, which shall be identified.

30-074 Pine-Type Lampholders. Lampholders having pin-type terminals shall be used only for temporary wiring.

30-076 Conductor Mechanical Protection. Where a metal lampholder is attached to a flexible cord, the inlet for the flexible cord shall be equipped with an insulating bushing but if the lampholder is provided with a side outlet, a metal grommet may be used.

30-078 Switched Type Lampholders. Where lampholders of the switched type are used on unidentified 2-wire circuits tapped from the ungrounded conductors of multi-wire circuits, the switching devices of the lampholders shall disconnect both conductors of the circuit simultaneously.

30-080 Switched Type Lampholders. On switched type lampholders employing pull-type mechanisms, the operating means shall be:

(a) Cords made of approved insulating materials;
(b) Cords of approved insulating materials, or chains with links of approved insulating material, connected to metal chains as close as possible to where the chains emerge from the enclosure; or
(c) Metal chains without insulating links provided that the lampholder is approved as not requiring insulating links.

30-082 Lampholders in Wet or Damp Locations

(1) Where lampholders are installed in wet or damp locations, they shall be of the weatherproof type.

(2) Where lampholders installed in wet or damp locations are of insulating material, they shall be capable of resisting mechanical shock.

30-084 Approved Rosettes

(1) Fusible rosettes shall not be used.

(2) Separable rosettes which make possible a change in polarity shall not be used.

30-086 Rosettes in Wet or Damp Locations. Where rosettes are installed in wet or damp locations, they shall be of the weatherproof type.

30-088 Portable Handlamps

(1) Where a lampholder of the portable handlamp type is supplied through a flexible cord, the lampholder shall be of moulded composition or other type approved for the purpose.

(2) Every portable handlamp shall be equipped with a handle of moulded composition or other approved material.

(3) Where portable handlamps are subject to mechanical damage or may come in contact with combustible material, they shall be equipped with a substantial guard attached to the lampholder or to the handle.

Mercury Vapour Lamps

30-090 Control of Mercury Vapour Lamps

(1) Every mercury vapour lamp shall be equipped with approved auxiliary equipment having an incombustible enclosure.

(2) The auxiliary equipment shall be deemed to be a source of heat.

30-092 Overcurrent Protection

(1) Where the auxiliary leads or connections of mercury vapour lamps are smaller than No. 12 AWG, the primary overcurrent devices shall not be rated or set at more than 15 amperes.

(2) Where mercury vapour lamp transformers are grouped on a single branch circuit, the overcurrent protection shall not be more than 200 per cent of the circuit full load current.

Electric-Discharge Lighting Systems Operating at 1,000 Volts or Less

30-094 Rules for Discharge Lighting Systems, 1,000 Volts or Less. Rules 30-096 to 30-108 apply to electrical equipment used with electric-discharge lighting systems operating at 1,000 volts or less.

30-096 Oil-Filled Transformers. Transformers of the oil-filled type shall not be used.

30-098 Direct-Current Equipment. Fixtures shall not be installed on a direct-current circuit unless they are equipped with auxiliary equipment and resistors designed for direct-current operation, and the fixtures are so marked.

30-100 Voltages, Dwelling Occupancies. Where equipment has an open-circuit voltage of more than 300 volts, it shall not be installed in dwelling occupancies unless the equipment is designed so that no live parts are exposed during the insertion or removal of lamps.

30-102 Fixture Mounting

(1) Where fixtures are to be installed on combustible low-density cellulose fibreboard, the fixtures shall be approved for this condition.

(2) Combustible low-density cellulose fibreboard is considered to include sheets, panels, and tiles which have a density of 20 pounds per cubic foot or less, and which are formed of bonded plant fibre material, but does not include solid or laminated wood, nor fibreboard which has a density in excess of 20 pounds per cubic foot.

(3) Fixtures having exposed ballasts or transformers shall be so installed that such ballasts or transformers shall not be in contact with combustible material.

30-104 Auxiliary Equipment not Integral with Fixtures

(1) Where the reactors, electrical capacitors, resistors, and other auxiliary equipment are not installed as part of the lighting fixture assembly, they shall be enclosed in an accessible, permanently installed metal cabinet.

(2) Adequate provision shall be made for the dissipation of heat from enclosed auxiliary equipment and the conductors supplying the auxiliary equipment.

(3) The metal cabinet shall be installed as close as possible to the lamps.

(4) Where display cases are not permanently installed, no part of a secondary circuit shall be included in more than one case.

30-106 Control

(1) The fixtures and lamp installations shall be controlled by a switch or circuit breaker.

(2) Where a switch is used, it shall:

(a) Have a current rating of not less than twice the current rating of the lamps or transformers;
(b) Be of a type approved with the assembly;
(c) Be a manually-operated general-purpose alternating-current switch complying with Rule 14-068; or
(d) Have an "F" rating complying with Rule 14-066.

(3) Where a circuit breaker is used, it shall comply with the requirements of Rule 14-058.

30-108 Branch Circuit Capacity

(1) Where lighting branch circuits supply fixtures employing ballasts, transformers or auto-transformers, the load on the branch circuits shall be computed on the basis of the total amperes of the units and not on the watts of the lamps.

(2) The aggregate capacity of fixtures connected to a lighting branch circuit shall not exceed 80 per cent of the branch circuit overcurrent protection.

Electric-Discharge Lighting Systems Operating at More Than 1,000 Volts

30-110 Rules for Discharge Lighting Systems, More than 1,000 Volts. Rules 30-112 to 30-132 apply to electrical equipment used with electric-discharge lighting systems operating at more than 1,000 volts.

30-112 Voltages, Dwelling Occupancies. Where equipment has an open-circuit voltage of more than 1,000 volts, it shall not be installed in dwelling occupancies.

30-114 Control

(1) The fixtures and lamp installations shall be controlled singly or in groups by an externally operated switch or circuit breaker which opens all ungrounded primary conductors.

(2) The switch or circuit breaker shall be:

(a) Installed within sight of the fixtures or lamps; or
(b) Provided with a means for locking it in the open position.

(3) The switch shall:

(a) Have a current rating of not less than twice the current rating of the transformer or transformers controlled by it;
(b) Be of a type approved for the purpose;
(c) Be a manually-operated general-purpose alternating-current switch complying with Rule 14-068; or
(d) Have an "F" rating complying with Rule 14-066.

(4) The circuit breaker shall comply with the requirements of Rule 14-058.

30-116 Transformer Rating

(1) Every transformer and ballast shall have a secondary open-circuit voltage of not more than 15,000 volts, except that every transformer and ballast of the open-core-and-coil type shall have a secondary open-circuit voltage of not more than 7,500 volts.

(2) The secondary current rating shall be not more than 240 milliamperes, except that, where the secondary open-circuit voltage exceeds 7,500 volts, the secondary current rating shall not be more than 120 milliamperes.

30-118 Liquid Filled Transformers. Transformers of the liquid filled type shall not be used unless they are filled with a liquid which will not burn in air.

30-120 Transformers, Secondary Connection

(1) The high-voltage windings of transformers operating at more than 1,000 volts shall not be connected in series or in parallel, but where each of two transformers has one end of its high-voltage winding grounded and connected to the enclosure, the high-voltage windings may be connected in series to form the equivalent of a mid-point grounded transformer.

(2) The grounded ends of the high-voltage winding shall be connected by an insulated conductor not smaller than No. 14 AWG.

30-122 Location of Transformers

(1) Transformers operating at more than 1,000 volts shall be accessible.

(2) The transformers shall be installed as near to the lamps as practicable.

(3) The transformers shall be located so that adjacent combustible materials are not subjected to temperatures in excess of 90° C. (194° F.).

30-124 Wiring Method

(1) The secondary conductors shall be luminous-tube-sign cable approved for the purpose and for the voltage of the circuit.

(2) Not more than 20 feet of cable shall be run in metal raceway from a single, or from either side of a mid-point grounded, transformer.

(3) The conductors shall be installed in conformity with Section 34.

30-126 Transformer Loading. Where the lamps are connected to a transformer, they shall be of such length and characteristics as not to cause a condition of continuous over-voltage on the transformer.

30-128 Lamp Supports

(1) Lamps operating at more than 1,000 volts shall be supported in the manner required by Section 34.

(2) The lamps shall not be installed where they are exposed to mechanical injury.

30-130 Lamp Terminals and Lampholders

(1) Parts which must be removed for lamp replacement shall be hinged or fastened by an approved means.

(2) Lamp terminals and lampholders shall be designed so that the tubing can be replaced with the minimum exposure of bare live parts during re-lamping.

(3) The designs referred to in Sub-rule (2) need not afford protection against "Space Discharge" shocks as tubes are replaced by trained maintenance staff.

30-132 Marking. Every fixture and every secondary circuit of tubing having an open-circuit voltage of more than 1,000 volts shall be clearly and legibly marked in letters and figures not less than one inch high with the words "CAUTION . . . VOLTS", the rated open-circuit voltage being inserted in figures, in the space between the words.

SECTION 32—OUTDOOR LIGHTING INSTALLATIONS

General

32-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to temporary or permanent outdoor lighting equipment, for either decorative lighting or illumination of outdoor areas, where protection of the system and safety from shock hazard is the main concern and the fire hazard is of secondary nature.

(2) This Section covers only that portion of the installation which is outside of buildings.

Permanent Outdoor Floodlighting Installations

32-002 General

(1) Rules 32-004 to 32-042 apply to permanent, outdoor installations of floodlights of 300 watts or larger, using mogul-base lampholders, where the floodlights are mounted on poles or towers.

(2) Authorized persons may replace lamps but all other maintenance shall be done by qualified persons.

32-004 Service Equipment

(1) Service equipment shall comply with Section 6 for low-potential installations, and with Section 36 for high-potential installations.

(2) Where indoor equipment is installed outdoors, it shall be installed in an acceptable weatherproof enclosure.

32-006 Wiring Methods, Underground

(1) Wiring underground shall be run:

(a) Where acceptable, in rigid steel or rigid aluminum conduit;

(b) In non-metallic underground conduit;

(c) As lead-sheathed armoured cable, mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable; or

(d) As conductors or cable assemblies acceptable for direct earth burial as indicated in Table 19 or, by special permission, for service entrance below ground as indicated in Table 19.

(2) Conductors in conduit shall be of types indicated in Table 19 as being suitable for use in wet locations.

(3) Conductors buried directly in the earth shall be installed in accordance with Rule 12-006.

(4) Suitable corrosion-resistant protection shall be provided for aluminum-sheathed cable and aluminum conduit; and also for mineral-insulated cable, if used where materials coming in contact with the cable may have a deteriorating effect on the sheath.

32-008 Wiring Methods, on Poles

(1) All electrical equipment on the pole shall be controlled by a switch which can be locked in the "Off" position, and each pole shall be provided with a prominent sign warning against climbing the pole until the switch is "Off" unless all conductors and live parts other than those used for pole top wiring are guarded against accidental contact in one of the following ways:

(a) The conductors are run in rigid or flexible metal conduit, as mineral-insulated cable, or up the centre of steel, aluminum or hollow concrete poles;

(b) The conductors and live parts are kept at least three feet from the climbing ladder or climbing steps;

(c) Barriers are provided between conductors or live parts, or both, and the climbing ladder so as to prevent likelihood of contact by the climber.

(2) Conductors run up the centre of poles shall be supported so as to prevent injury to the conductors inside the pole and as to prevent undue strain on the conductors where they leave the pole.

(3) Where vertical conductors, cables and grounding conductors are within 8 feet of locations accessible to unauthorized persons, they shall be provided with a covering which gives acceptable mechanical protection.

(4) On wood poles, for grounding conductors from lighting arresters, the protective covering specified in Sub-rule (3) shall be of wood moulding or other insulating material giving equivalent protection.

32-010 Pole Top Distribution Panelboards. Where there is more than one branch circuit on a pole top, the feeders shall be run to a distribution panelboard which shall be either weatherproof or installed in a weatherproof enclosure, except that the panelboard may be omitted where there are only two branch circuits on a 115/230-volt circuit with common neutral and where there are only three branch circuits on a 120/208-volt, 3-phase, 4-wire circuit.

32-012 Fusing of Pole Top Branch Circuits. Pole top branch circuits shall be fused at not more than 100 amperes.

32-014 Pole Top Branch Circuit Wiring. Pole top branch circuit wiring, exclusive of leads approved with the floodlights to which they are connected, shall be run:

(a) As lead-sheathed cable or rubber- or thermoplastic-insulated moisture-resistant types of conductors installed in rigid conduit;

(b) As mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable; or

(c) By special permission, as insulated or uninsulated open wiring provided that:

(i) The wiring is supported on suitable insulators,

(ii) The wiring is controlled by a switch which can be locked in the "Off" position, and

(iii) The pole is provided with a prominent sign warning against climbing it until the switch is "Off".

32-016 Joints

(1) Open taps and joints may be made in pole top open wiring provided the joint or tap is given insulation equivalent to that on the conductors joined.

(2) There shall be no joints or splices concealed within conduit.

32-018 Location of Transformers. Transformers shall comply with the following:

(a) If mounted on floodlight poles, all live parts shall be guarded as required by Rule 32-008;

(b) If mounted on poles, the bottom of the transformer shall be at least 16 feet above locations accessible to unauthorized persons;

(c) If located on platforms on the ground, they shall be completely enclosed so as to prevent access by unauthorized persons or they shall be surrounded by a protecting fence which shall comply with the requirements of Section 73.

32-020 Primary Fusing of Transformers. Each transformer shall be protected against overcurrent in accordance with Sections 26 and 36.

32-022 Secondary Overcurrent Protection of Transformers. Overcurrent protection on transformer secondary feeders is permissible but not mandatory.

32-024 Switching of Floodlights. Switches controlling floodlights shall comply with the following:

(a) A switch on the primary side of a transformer shall be capable of making and interrupting the full load on the transformer;
(b) Switches controlling floodlights from the secondary side of a transformer shall have a current rating not less than 125 per cent of the current requirements of the floodlights controlled;
(c) Switches shall be capable of being operated without exposing the operator to danger of contact with live parts, either by remote operation or by proper guarding;
(d) Switches shall be capable of being locked in the "Off" position.

32-026 Grounding of Systems at 300 Volts or Less. Systems operating at potentials of 300 volts or less between conductors shall be grounded.

32-028 Grounding of Systems Above 300 Volts. Systems operating at potentials above 300 volts may be grounded at the discretion of the supply authority and in accordance with the requirements of the inspection department.

32-030 Material for Grounding Conductors. Grounding conductors shall be of material as specified in Rule 10-096.

32-032 Grounding Methods

(1) A grounded secondary system shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

(2) The secondary grounded circuit conductor may be grounded by an interconnection to the primary grounded circuit conductor provided:

(a) The primary is grounded at the transformers; and
(b) Interconnection is made only at the transformer.

32-034 Grounding and Bonding of Non-Current-Carrying Metal Parts

(1) All non-current-carrying metal parts within 8 feet of locations accessible to unauthorized persons shall be grounded.

(2) Except for isolated metal parts such as crossarm braces, bolts, insulator pins and the like, non-current-carrying metal parts of electrical equipment at the pole top shall be bonded together and, if within reach of any grounded metal, shall be grounded.

(3) Non-current-carrying metal parts of electrical equipment bonded together may be grounded to the grounded circuit conductor provided there is not more than one point of interconnection on each pole.

(4) The size of grounding or bonding conductor shall be as specified in Rule 10-102.

32-036 Installation of Lightning Arresters. Where lightning arresters are installed, they shall be in accordance with Rules 10-132 and 10-134 with the addition that a common grounding conductor and common electrode system may be used for grounding primary and secondary neutrals and lightning arresters.

32-038 Types of Equipment Permitted. Floodlights, secondary wiring, conduit, conduit fittings, and distribution panelboards shall be approved, and other electrical pole top equipment shall be of acceptable types.

32-040 Climbing Steps. Where it is necessary to climb the pole to replace lamps, permanent climbing steps shall be provided and the lowest permanent step shall be not less than 12 feet above locations accessible to unauthorized persons.

32-042 Safety Platforms. Where floodlights are mounted more than 30 inches from the centre line of the pole, suitable safety platforms shall be provided and shall be equipped with a railing or equivalent device for the protection of persons replacing lamps.

Open Wiring for Permanent Outdoor Lighting

32-044 General. Rules 32-046 to 32-064 apply to open wiring for permanent outdoor lighting other than floodlighting where the circuits are run between buildings, between poles, or between buildings and poles.

32-046 Conductors. Conductors shall be stranded, not less than No. 12 AWG, and shall be:

(a) Of a type suitable for open wiring where exposed to the weather as specified in Table 19;
(b) Of the rubber-insulated type suitable for open wiring where exposed to the weather as specified in Table 19, when lampholders of a type which puncture the insulation and make contact with the conductors are used; or
(c) Of the moisture-resistant rubber-insulated type suitable for open wiring where exposed to the weather as specified in Table 19, if cabled together and used with messenger cables.

32-048 Use of Insulators

(1) Conductors shall be securely attached to insulators at each end of the run if a messenger is not used and at intermediate points of support if there are any.

(2) Insulators at the ends of runs shall be of the strain type unless the conductors are supported by messenger cables.

(3) Split knobs shall not be used.

32-050 Height of Conductors. Conductors shall be maintained at such a height that the bottom of a lamp fed from the conductors will be not less than 15 feet above grade at any point in a run, except by special permission.

32-052 Spacing from Combustible Material. Conductors shall be maintained at a distance not less than 3 feet from any combustible material except at the point of connection to buildings or poles.

32-054 Spacing of Conductors. Conductors shall be separated at least 12 inches from each other by means of insulating spacers at intervals of not more than 15 feet unless the conductors are secured to and supported by messenger cables.

32-056 Lampholders

(1) Lampholders shall be of weatherproof types with moulded insulating bodies.

(2) Lampholders shall be of types having either:

(a) Permanently attached leads; or
(b) Terminals of a type which puncture the insulation and make contact with the conductors.

(3) Lampholders having permanently attached leads shall have the connections to the circuit wires staggered where a cabled assembly is used.

32-058 Use of Messenger Cables

(1) Messenger cables shall be used to support the conductors:

(a) If lampholders having permanently attached leads are used, and the span exceeds 40 feet; and
(b) In all cases where lampholders having terminals which puncture the insulation are used.

(2) Messenger cable shall be securely attached at each end of the run and shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

(3) Conductors shall be permanently attached to the messenger in a method acceptable to the inspection authority.

32-060 Construction of Messenger Cables

(1) Messenger cables shall be of galvanized steel, copper-coated steel or stainless steel and shall be of stranded construction with not less than seven strands.

(2) Galvanized steel shall have a coating of not less than 0.15 ounces per square foot.

(3) The effective ultimate strength of a messenger cable shall be not less than three times the calculated maximum working load, including loading due to ice loads and wind loads, and in no case shall the individual stranded be less than:

(a) 0.046 inch in diameter in the case of galvanized or copper-coated wire; or
(b) 0.0438 inch in diameter in the case of stainless steel wire.

32-062 Maximum Size of Lamps. The size of lamps used shall be not in excess of that for which the particular lampholder is approved and in no case more than 150 watts.

32-064 Branch Circuit Loading and Protection

(1) The total load on a branch circuit shall not exceed 12 amperes.

(2) Branch circuits shall be protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at not more than 15 amperes.

Temporary, Outdoor, Decorative Lighting Installations

32-066 General. Rules 32-068 and 32-070 apply to temporary, outdoor, decorative lighting installations.

32-068 Lampholders. Lampholders for use with temporary, outdoor, decorative lighting equipment which may be sold to the general public shall:

(a) Comply with Rule 32-056; and
(b) If of the type having terminals which puncture the conductor insulation in order to make contact with the current-carrying conductors, be designed so that they cannot be removed once installed without rendering them incapable of being re-used.

32-070 Conductors. Conductors shall be stranded, not less than No. 18 AWG and shall be of the outdoor Christmas tree cord types as covered in Table 11 or of the rubber-insulated cable types suitable for open wiring where exposed to the weather as covered in Table 19.

SECTION 34—SIGNS AND OUTLINE LIGHTING

34-000 Scope. This Section applies to signs and outline lighting wherein the sources of light are:

(a) Incandescent lamps;
(b) Fluorescent lamps;
(c) High-potential luminous discharge tubes.

General Requirements

34-002 Construction. Signs and incandescent outline lighting equipment constructed wholly or in part by electrical contractors in the field shall conform in construction to the requirements of the specifications to which they were originally approved.

34-004 Disconnecting Means. Each outline lighting installation, and each sign other than the portable type, shall be provided with an externally operable disconnecting means which shall:

(a) Open all ungrounded conductors;
(b) Be suitable for conditions of installation such as exposure to weather; and
(c) Be within sight of the sign or outline lighting it disconnects, or elsewhere if capable of being locked in the open position.

34-006 Rating of Disconnecting Means and Control Devices. Switches, flashers and similar devices controlling transformers and ballasts shall be either of a type approved for the purpose, or have a current rating not less than twice the current rating of the transformer or ballasts.

34-008 Subdivision of Wiring

(1) Wiring shall be subdivided into branch circuits if the load exceeds 12 amperes.

(2) The maximum number of outlets per circuit on marquees shall not exceed 30.

34-010 Branch Circuit Protection

(1) The maximum permissible load for each branch circuit shall not exceed 12 amperes.

(2) The overcurrent device for each branch circuit shall not protect any other circuit.

34-012 Location. Signs and outline lighting shall be located so that:

(a) Any person working thereon is not likely to come into contact with overhead conductors;
(b) No part of the sign or its support will interfere with normal work operations performed on electrical and communication utility lines;
(c) No part of the sign or its support is in such proximity to overhead conductors as to constitute a hazard; and
(d) No part of the sign, other than its support, is less than 7 feet above grade except by special permission.

34-014 Supporting Means. Poles, masts, or other objects specifically designed for use as supports for signs shall be subject to approval by the inspection department.

34-016 Grounding. Signs, troughs, tube terminal boxes and other metal frames shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

34-018 Protection of Sign Leads

(1) Where sign leads pass through the walls or partitions of the sign structure, they shall be protected by incombustible absorption-resisting bushings.

(2) Where sign leads are run as open wiring they may be cabled.

34-020 Conductors

(1) The conductors for signs shall be of types indicated in Table 19 as being suitable for open wiring or wiring in raceways, in damp or wet locations.

(2) The conductors for outline lighting shall be run:
(a) In rigid conduit;
(b) In metal troughs;
(c) As armoured cable of the lead-sheathed type or the type having a thermoplastic outer covering;
(d) As mineral-insulated cable; or
(e) As aluminum-sheathed cable.
(3) Surface raceways shall not be used.

High-Potential Luminous-Discharge-Tube Signs and Outline Lighting

34-022 Enclosures for Transformers and Regulating Coils. Enclosures for transformers and regulating coils shall be well ventilated and designed so as to minimize the emission of flames or sparks in case of burning.

34-024 Protection of Uninsulated Parts. Doors or covers accessible to the general public and which give access to uninsulated parts of indoor signs or outline lighting, shall be either provided with interlock switches which on the opening of the doors or covers disconnect the primary circuit, or shall be fastened so that the use of other than ordinary tools will be necessary to open them.

34-026 Transformer Voltage

(1) The rated secondary open circuit voltage of transformers shall not exceed 15,000 volts.

(2) In end-grounded transformers, rated secondary open circuit voltage shall not exceed 7,500 volts.

34-028 Open Core-and-Coil Type Transformers. Open core-and-coil type transformers shall only be used indoors.

34-030 Transformers Used Outdoors. Transformers used outdoors shall be of the weatherproof type or shall be enclosed in the sign body or in a separate weatherproof box.

34-032 Transformer Accessibility. Transformers shall be accessible.

34-034 Transformer Overcurrent Protection

(1) Each transformer shall be protected by an overcurrent device except that two or more transformers may be protected by one overcurrent device if their combined load does not exceed 12 amperes.

(2) Where additional overcurrent devices for the individual protection of transformers in signs are used, they shall be placed either inside or outside the sign structure.

(3) Where exposed to the weather, overcurrent devices protecting transformers shall be of the weatherproof type.

34-036 Transformer Secondary Connection

(1) The high-potential windings of transformers shall not be connected in parallel.

(2) The high-potential windings of transformers shall not be connected in series, except that two transformers may have one end of each of their high-potential windings grounded and connected in series to form the equivalent of a midpoint-grounded transformer, provided that the grounded ends of the high-potential windings are connected by an insulated conductor not smaller than No. 14 AWG.

34-038 High-Potential Wiring Methods

(1) High-potential conductors shall be installed on insulators, either open or concealed, or in rigid or flexible conduit, or in electrical metallic tubing.

(2) High-potential conductors may be run from the ends of gas tubes to the grounded midpoint of transformers which have terminals at the midpoint.

(3) The connections between the high-potential terminals of the transformer of the midpoint-grounded type and the line ends of gas tubes shall be as short as possible.

(4) There shall be no sharp bends in high-potential conductors.

(5) Bare high-potential conductors shall be installed only inside of grounded metal enclosures.

(6) Where subject to mechanical injury or where within reach from ground, roof or window, high-potential conductors shall be enclosed in raceways or be suitably guarded.

34-040 High-Potential Conductor Insulation and Size

(1) Insulated conductors shall be not smaller than No. 14 AWG and shall be of luminous-tube-sign types, as indicated in Table 19, suitable for the voltage of the circuit.

(2) Uninsulated conductors shall be solid and not smaller than No. 10 AWG.

34-042 Open High-Potential Conductors, Indoors

(1) Open wiring shall be mounted on noncombustible, non-absorptive insulators.

(2) Insulators of porcelain shall be glazed on all exposed surfaces.

(3) A separation of at least 1½ inches shall be maintained between conductors and between conductors and other objects.

34-044 Concealed High-Potential Conductors on Insulators, Indoors

(1) Concealed high-potential conductors on insulators shall be separated from each other and from all objects other than the insulators on which they are mounted by a spacing of not less than 1½ inches.

(2) Concealed high-potential conductors shall be installed in channels lined with noncombustible material and used for no other purpose, except that the primary circuit conductors may be in the same channel.

(3) The insulators shall be of noncombustible, non-absorptive material.

34-046 High-Potential Conductors in Show Windows and Similar Locations. If high-potential conductors hang freely in the air, as in show windows and in similar locations away from combustible material, and if not subject to mechanical injury, as in some show window displays, they need not be protected.

34-048 High-Potential Conductors in Raceways

(1) High-potential conductors in contact with grounded metal of raceways shall be lead covered, unless the insulation is resistant to the effects of corona.

(2) If the conductors are covered with lead or other metallic sheathing, this covering shall extend beyond the end of the conduit or electrical metallic tubing and the surface of the cable shall not be injured where the covering terminates.

(3) The insulation on all conductors shall extend at least 4 inches beyond the end of the lead or raceway except for conductors at grounded midpoint terminals.

(4) Not more than 20 feet of cable from a single transformer shall be run in rigid or flexible metal conduit or electrical metallic tubing.

34-050 Installation of Open High-Potential Conductors, Outdoors

(1) Open high-potential conductors outdoors shall be mounted on noncombustible, non-absorptive insulators.

(2) Insulators of porcelain shall be glazed on all exposed surfaces.

(3) A separation of at least 2 inches shall be maintained between conductors and between conductors and other objects, except as permitted in Sub-rule (5).

(4) Conductors shall not be located where exposed to mechanical injury.

(5) If guarded, a space of not less than 1½ inches shall be maintained between conductors and the enclosure, unless the enclosure is non-conducting and noncombustible.

SECTION 36—HIGH-POTENTIAL INSTALLATIONS

General

36-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to installations operating at potentials in excess of 750 volts.

(2) The supply authority and the inspection department must be consulted before proceeding with any such installation.

(3) This Section is additional to the requirements of this Code for installations at potentials of 750 volts or less.

(4) This Section does not apply to any high-potential installation covered by any other Section of this Code.

(5) This Section does not affect construction details of approved factory fabricated assemblies.

36-002 Guarding. Live parts of electrical equipment shall be inaccessible to unauthorized persons.

36-004 Warning Notices

(1) A permanent legible warning notice shall be placed in a conspicuous position at electrical equipment vaults, equipment rooms, areas or enclosures, carrying the wording:

"DANGER—HIGH VOLTAGE"; or "DANGER— ... VOLTS".

(2) Permanent legible signs shall be installed at isolating equipment warning against operating it while carrying current, unless the equipment is interlocked so that it cannot be operated under load.

(3) Suitable warning signs shall be erected in a conspicuous place adjacent to fuses, warning operators not to replace fuses while the supply circuit is energized.

Wiring Methods

36-006 Service or Other Conductors

(1) Bare conductors may be used only:

(a) Outdoors;
(b) In central stations;
(c) In sub-stations;
(d) In motor and generator rooms; and
(e) In transformer and electrical equipment vaults in accordance with Section 71.

(2) Insulated conductors used underground shall be mechanically protected by:

(a) Armouring;
(b) Enclosing in conduit or the equivalent; or
(c) Other acceptable protective covering.

(3) Insulated conductors used indoors in other than sub-stations or transformer and electrical equipment vaults in accordance with Section 71, shall only be installed in conduit or otherwise protected in an acceptable manner.

(4) For the purpose of Sub-rule (3), insulated conductors shall not be considered as being indoors where they are in duct enclosed within a wall or under a floor so that:

(a) The duct is surrounded by not less than 2 inches of concrete or masonry; and
(b) The location of the duct is indicated by acceptable permanent markers set in the walls, floor or ceiling.

(5) Insulated wires or cables shall be sheathed in metal or other acceptable moisture-resistant covering if in other than dry locations.

(6) Conductors enclosed in armour of magnetic material shall be installed in accordance with Rule 12-134.

(7) Where insulated conductors are not enclosed and are spaced at less than minimum clearances for bare conductors, and are subject to arcs or heat caused by short circuits in nearby conductors, the insulation shall be flame-retarding or have a flame-retarding outer covering.

(8) Where the coverings are of a conducting nature they shall be stripped back from the terminals sufficiently to prevent leakage of current.

(9) Service conductors shall have a mechanical strength not less than that of No. 6 AWG hard drawn copper.

36-008 Shielding of Rubber-Insulated Conductors

(1) Rubber-insulated conductors without metallic sheath for permanent installation, operating at circuit voltages above 2,000 volts phase-to-phase shall be of a type having metallic shielding over each insulated conductor.

(2) Shielding need not be provided for rubber-insulated polychloroprene-jacketed conductors directly buried in soil and operating at circuit voltages not exceeding 3,000 volts phase-to-phase.

(3) Where the circuit voltage does not exceed 5,000 volts phase-to-phase, and rubber-insulated conductors are installed on insulators or in metallic raceways and bound together, in switch rooms, transformer vaults, metal-enclosed switchgear assemblies, and similar permanently dry locations where the conductor run does not exceed 50 feet, shielding need not be provided.

(4) Subject to Rule 10-034, metallic covering, metallic shielding, metal armour, metal conduit and metal fittings shall be bonded together and grounded.

36-010 Supporting of Bare Conductors. Bare conductors shall be mounted on suitable insulating supports capable of withstanding the short circuit stresses liable to be imposed by the supply system.

36-012 Spacing of Bare Conductors

(1) Bare conductors, and insulated conductors unless enclosed in or in contact with grounded metal, other than those within or at the point of connection to apparatus or devices shall be spaced to provide a clearance under all operating conditions in accordance with Tables 31 and 32 between:

(a) Live parts of opposite polarity; and
(b) Live parts and all other structural parts other than the conductor supports.

(2) Where the conductors mentioned in Sub-rule (1) are connected to apparatus or devices having terminal spacings less than those shown in Tables 31 and 32, the conductors shall be spread out so as to attain the required spacings at the first point of support beyond such terminals.

36-014 Guarding of Live Parts

(1) Bare conductors, insulated conductors unless enclosed in or in contact with grounded metal, and other bare live parts shall be:

(a) Accessible only to authorized persons; and
(b) Isolated by elevation or by acceptable barriers.

(2) Where the conductors or live parts mentioned in Sub-rule (1) are isolated by elevation, the elevations and clearances maintained shall be as specified in Tables 33, 34 and 35 except that the elevations and clearances for conductors crossing railway and communication lines and overhead systems crossing highways and other locations shall meet the requirements of an inspector designated by the inspection department for the purposes of this Sub-rule.

(3) For a given span, clearances specified in Tables 33 and 35 shall be increased by one per cent of the amount by which the span exceeds 175 feet.

36-016 Terminating Facilities

(1) Suitable terminating facilities shall be provided to protect cables from harm due to moisture or mechanical damage.

(2) Where single-conductor metal-sheathed cables are in separate ducts of insulating material, the cable sheaths shall be:

(a) Bonded together and grounded at the supply end; and

(b) Isolated thereafter from each other and from grounded material except that where cable runs are extremely long or where sheath voltages exceed 15 volts, special means shall be taken to reduce sheath voltages.

36-018 Joints in Sheathed Conductors or Cables

(1) Splices or taps in sheathed conductors or cables shall have the conductor or cable covered with insulation and shall have shielding, when used, electrically and mechanically equivalent to that on the conductors or cables joined.

(2) For conductors or cables having a metallic or conducting sheath, provision shall be made for continuity of the sheath over the splice or tap unless the joint is made in a suitable splicing box which maintains the continuity of the grounding circuit.

36-020 Elevator Shafts

(1) High-potential conductors shall not be installed in elevator shafts.

(2) The conductors may be installed in conduit embedded in the masonry walls of the hoist-way but the conduit shall be surrounded throughout the entire length of its run by not less than 2 inches of masonry or concrete.

Control and Protective Equipment

36-022 Service Equipment Location. Service equipment shall be installed in a location satisfactory to the supply authority and the inspection department and, in the case of a building, shall be at the point of service entrance.

36-024 Rating and Capacity. Circuit breakers, fuses and switches shall be of types and ratings acceptable to the inspection department and the supply authority.

36-026 Overcurrent Protection, Services. Each service shall be provided with overcurrent protection, complying with the following, in all ungrounded conductors:

(a) If the protective equipment is installed outdoors, one of the following shall be used:

(i) Circuit breakers of adequate interrupting capacity and rating, with trip settings approved by the supply authority,

(ii) Fuses of adequate rating and interrupting capacity preceded by suitable group-operated visible break load-interrupting devices capable of making and interrupting their full load rating and which may be closed with safety to the operator with a fault on the system,

(iii) Fuses of adequate rating and interrupting capacity preceded by a group-operated visible break air-break switch capable of interrupting the magnetizing current of the transformer installation and which may be closed with safety to the operator with a fault on the system and so interlocked with the transformer secondary circuit breaker to prevent its operation under load;

(b) If the protective equipment is installed indoors, one of the following shall be used:

(i) The protection outlined in paragraph (a) (i) of this Rule,

(ii) The protection outlined in paragraph (a) (ii) of this Rule by special permission and where satisfactory to the supply authority, provided that the load-interrupting devices and the fuses are separated and interlocked so that the operator cannot gain access to fuses with the load-interrupting devices closed,

(iii) The protection outlined in paragraph (a) (iii) of this Rule by special permission and where satisfactory to the supply authority, provided that the fuses are separated and interlocked so that the operator cannot gain access to them unless the switch is open and the switch is interlocked so that it cannot be operated under load.

36-028 Overcurrent Protection Other than Services

(1) Each operating unit of apparatus, each feeder and each branch circuit shall be protected by a circuit breaker of adequate rating and interrupting capacity except as otherwise provided for by this Rule.

(2) Fuses of adequate rating and interrupting capacity may be used for the protection of:

(a) Individual feeders or branch circuits at the point where they receive their supply;

(b) A single transformer or a bank of transformers operating as a unit;

(c) Motors as specified in Section 28; or

(d) Apparatus of other types by special permission.

(3) Where the potential exceeds 15,000 volts between conductors, fuses shall not be located indoors unless in an electrical equipment vault in accordance with Section 71, nor shall the circuits they protect enter buildings.

36-030 Overcurrent Protection of Instrument Transformers

(1) Instrument potential transformers shall have overcurrent protection as required by Rule 26-048.

(2) A suitable disconnecting means shall be provided on the supply side of fuses used for the protection of instrument potential transformers.

36-032 Disconnecting Means, Services

(1) At least one group-operated isolating switch shall be placed on the supply side of each service circuit breaker, except where equipment of the draw-out type or group-operated load-interrupting devices are installed, and shall:

(a) Visibly disconnect all ungrounded conductors of the service; and

(b) Be interlocked so that it cannot be operated under load.

(2) In cases where the possibility of feed back exists, group-operated isolating switches shall be installed to meet this condition.

36-034 Disconnecting Means, Other than Services

(1) An isolating switch or equivalent equipment shall be placed on the supply side of each circuit breaker and shall be interlocked with the circuit breaker so that the switch cannot be operated under load.

(2) In cases where the possibility of feed-back exists, group-operated isolating switches shall be installed to meet this condition.

(3) Where conductors fed directly by an outdoor station enter a building, either:

(a) A load-breaking device shall be installed indoors at the entry of the conductors to the building; or

(b) A load-breaking device at the outdoor service shall be capable of being tripped or operated from within the building.

36-036 Emergency Exits

(1) Each room or space and each working space about equipment shall have suitable means of exit which shall be kept clear of all obstructions.

(2) If the plan of the room or space and the character and arrangement of equipment are such that an accident would be liable to close or make inaccessible a single exit, as in the case of long narrow rooms, platforms, passageways, spaces behind switchboards, or wire and pipe tunnels, a second exit shall be provided.

SECTION 38—PASSENGER AND FREIGHT ELEVATORS INCLUDING DUMBWAITERS AND ESCALATORS

38-000 Scope. This Section applies to the installation of electrical equipment for passenger and freight elevators, including dumbwaiters and escalators.

38-002 Voltage Limitations

(1) No part of any electric circuit having a circuit voltage in excess of 300 volts shall be used on any car or control circuit, except that higher voltages may be used for frequencies of 25 through 60 cycles alternating current or for direct current, provided that the current in the system cannot, under any conditions, exceed 8 milliamperes for alternating current or 30 milliamperes for direct current.

(2) Electric circuits in machine rooms or penthouses for the operation of motors and brakes shall have a potential not in excess of 750 volts, provided that if it exceeds 300 volts, all control and signal circuits shall be insulated from the power circuits.

(3) Electric circuits fed from motor generators, rectifiers or control transformers shall be grounded as required in Section 10.

38-004 Isolation of Live Parts. All live parts of electrical apparatus in hoistways, at the landings or in or on the cars of elevators and dumbwaiters, or in the wellways or at the landings of escalators shall be enclosed to protect against accidental contact.

38-006 Insulation of Conductors

(1) Conductors from control panels to main circuit resistors shall be flame-retarding and suitable for an operating temperature of not less than 90° C. (194° F.), as indicated in Table 19.

(2) All wiring in hoistways and in or on cars of elevators and dumbwaiters and in the wellways of escalators and in the machine rooms of elevators, dumbwaiters and escalators shall be flame-retarding and moisture-resistant.

38-008 Travelling Cables. Travelling cables used as flexible connections between elevator or dumbwaiter cars and hoistways shall be of Type E elevator cable or other equivalent approved type.

38-010 Conductor Sizes

(1) In travelling cables the minimum size conductors shall be:

(a) For lighting circuits, No. 14 AWG except that smaller conductors may be used in parallel provided that the current-carrying capacity is equivalent to at least that of No. 14 AWG; and

(b) For operating, control and signal circuits, No. 18 AWG.

(2) In all operating, control and signal circuits the minimum size conductors shall be No. 18 AWG.

38-012 Branch Circuits for Lighting. In passenger elevators, a separate lighting branch circuit shall be provided for each car.

38-014 Wiring Methods in Hoistways, Machine Rooms and Escalator Wellways

(1) Conductors located in hoistways, machine rooms and escalator wellways, except travelling cables, shall be installed in rigid conduit, electrical metallic tubing or wire troughs, except that flexible conduit or armoured cable not exceeding 5 feet in length may be used between riser and limit switches, interlocks, push-buttons and similar devices.

(2) Except by special permission, only such electrical wiring, conduit and cables used directly in connection with the elevator or dumbwaiter may be installed inside the hoistway, including wiring for:

(a) Signals;
(b) Communications with the car;
(c) Lighting and ventilating the car; and
(d) Fire detecting systems for the hoistway.

(3) Mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable may be used if located so that there is no liability of damage to the sheath.

38-016 Wiring Methods on Cars

(1) Conductors and travelling cables on elevators and dumbwaiter cars shall be run in rigid conduit, electrical metallic tubing or wireways, except that:

(a) Short runs of flexible conduit or armoured cable may be used where they are securely fastened in place and not exposed to oil or grease;

(b) Short runs of Type S cord may be used as the flexible connection between fixed wiring on the car and the switch on the car door or gate, provided that the cord is securely fastened in position and so located as not to be subject to mechanical injury; and

(c) Mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable may be used if located so that there is no liability of damage to the sheath.

38-018 Wiring Methods Between Motors, Machine Brakes, Generators and Control Panels

(1) Conductors of circuits between motors, machine brakes, generators and control panels may be run without additional protection provided that:

(a) The conductors are not over 6 feet long;
(b) The conductors are supported at intervals of not more than 3 feet;
(c) The conductors are not located so as to be subject to mechanical injury or to temperatures in excess of 60° C. (140° F.);
(d) The group is taped or corded; and
(e) The tapes or cords are coated with insulating paint.

(2) Where motor generators are used with elevator motors and both are located adjacent to or underneath the control equipment and are provided with extra-length terminal leads, the leads may be connected directly to the controller or motor generator terminal studs, and the provisions of Rule 4-004 in respect of current-carrying capacity shall not apply, but no lead shall be longer than 6 feet.

38-020 Wiring Methods on Sidewalk Elevators. Where the top-terminal-landing opening is in the sidewalk or other area exterior to the building, the following special requirements apply:

(a) All electrical wiring shall be installed in rigid conduit or electrical metallic tubing except that:

(i) Lead-sheathed armoured cable, not exceeding 5 feet in length, may be used as permitted in Rule 38-014 (1), and

(ii) Mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable may be used if located so that there is no liability of damage to the sheath;

(b) All boxes and fittings in the hoistway shall be weatherproof;

(c) All electrical equipment in or on the car shall be weatherproof;

(d) Travelling cables, where used between the car and the hoistway wiring, shall be Type E, except that the outer covering shall be polychloroprene;

(e) Slack rope switches where required, lower normal-terminal and lower final-terminal hoistway limit switches, and pit stop switches shall be located as far above the bottom of the pit as practicable.

38-022 Grouping of Conductors. Conductors of elevator operating, control, signal, telephone and lighting circuits may be run in the same raceway or travelling cable provided that all conductors are insulated for the maximum voltage found in the cable or raceway system.

38-024 Number of Conductors in Raceways

(1) Where conductors are installed in conduit or electrical metallic tubing, the conduit or tubing shall not contain a greater number of conductors than specified in Rules 4-012 and 4-014 except that the restriction of paragraph (b) of Rule 4-014 (2) limiting the number of thermoplastic-insulated conductors shall not apply.

(2) In other types of wireways, conductors shall not occupy more than 20 per cent of the cross-sectional area of the raceway.

38-026 Raceway Supports. Supports for raceways in hoistways or escalator wellways shall be securely fastened to the guide-rail, hoistway or wellway construction.

38-028 Fittings

(1) Where conduit or electrical metallic tubing is installed in the open, split fittings or clamp fittings may be used provided the conduit or tubing does not contain feeders.

(2) Where conductors leave raceways, the provisions of Rules 12-258, 12-260 and 12-262 shall apply.

(3) No terminal fitting shall be installed less than 6 inches from the floor in machine rooms.

38-030 Suspension of Travelling Cables

(1) Where travelling cables exceed 100 feet in length, such cables shall be so supported that the weight is carried directly by the reinforcement strands of the cable assembly.

(2) Where travelling cables do not exceed 100 feet in length and are so constructed that the weight of the cable is not carried by the individual conductors, the cables may be suspended by suitable spools.

38-032 Hazardous Locations. In hazardous locations, travelling cables shall terminate in cabinets approved for the class and group of the location and shall enter such enclosures through heavy-duty rubber-bushed threaded connector bushings which have been designed for this use.

38-034 Mechanical Protection. Wherever the travelling cables in swinging may come in contact with projections or corners of the building construction in the hoistway, such as 'I' beams, ledges and the like, such irregular surfaces shall be made smooth by covering with heavy gauge sheet metal or by other acceptable means.

38-036 Isolating Switches

(1) Each individual elevator, dumbwaiter and escalator shall have a means for disconnecting all conductors of its power and control circuits from the power supply, except for those conductors which of necessity are common to two or more cars of a group, and for each group of two or more cars there shall be a means for disconnecting those conductors from the power supply which of necessity are common to the two or more cars.

(2) Each disconnecting means shall be an externally-operated switch equipped with means for locking it in the open position.

(3) The switches shall be visible from the elevator machine or motor-generator set.

(4) The switches shall, where practicable, be located in a group in the machine room at the lock-jamb side of the entrance door.

(5) The switches shall be plainly marked to indicate the machines that they control.

38-038 Overload Protection of Motors. Each elevator, dumbwaiter and escalator drive motor, or the drive motor of the motor-generator set which supplies current to the drive motor, shall be protected so that, in the event of excessive current due to single phase operation or due to mechanical cause, the current to the motor will be cut off before damage can occur to the winding.

38-040 Phase Protection of Motors. Each drum type electric elevator having electrically-operated brakes and on which the lifting cables are positively anchored to the hoisting drums and driven by a polyphase motor shall be provided with devices which will prevent starting the motor if:

(a) The phase rotation is in the wrong direction; or

(b) There is a failure in any phase.

38-042 Overcurrent Protection of Operating, Control and Signal Circuits

(1) Overcurrent protection for operating and control circuits shall be provided in accordance with Section 14.

(2) Overcurrent protection for signal circuits shall be provided in accordance with Section 16.

38-044 Installation of Machines. Elevator, dumbwaiter or escalator machines, controllers, and auxiliary equipment shall be installed in a space which is secured against unauthorized access.

38-046 Installation of Control Panels

(1) At controllers there shall be a working space of not less than 24 inches clear of live parts behind each controller and not less than 30 inches of working space clear of live parts in front of each controller.

(2) There shall be a clear access of 18 inches in width from the front to the rear of the controller and if there are any exposed current-carrying parts in this area, they shall be protected by barriers.

(3) If the controllers are enclosed in cabinets with swinging doors or removable sections, the prescribed working space dimension shall apply when the doors are opened or a section removed, and this will not prohibit the installation of totally enclosed wall-mounted controllers.

(4) Controllers may be mounted on, over, or against the machine provided that there is reasonable access to the controller.

(5) Auxiliary equipment may be placed in front or rear of the controller, provided that the installation of such equipment will not reduce the space requirements of Sub-rule (1).

(6) Enclosed escalator controllers may be installed with less working space than required in Sub-rule (1), provided the controller can be readily removed for maintenance purposes.

38-048 Bonding of Raceways. Raceways attached to cars shall be bonded to grounded metal parts of the car with which they come in contact.

38-050 Grounding of Equipment

(1) For electric elevators, dumbwaiters and escalators, the frames of all motors, machines, controllers and the metal enclosures for all electrical devices in or on the car or in the hoistway or wellway shall be grounded.

(2) For elevators or dumbwaiters other than electric, if any electrical conductors are attached to the car, the metal frame of the car shall be grounded if normally accessible to persons.

(3) All hand-operated metallic shifting ropes or cables shall be grounded.

38-052 Methods of Grounding

(1) Equipment mounted on members of a grounded structural metal frame of a building shall be deemed to be grounded.

(2) Metal car frames supported by metal hoisting cables attached to or running over sheaves or drums of elevator machines shall be deemed to be grounded when the machine is grounded in accordance with Section 10.

38-054 Power Rectifiers for Direct Current Elevators. Where dry plate rectifiers or other types of rectifiers which are incapable of absorbing electrical energy are used to transform alternating current to direct current for the operation of a direct current elevator motor or motors, means shall be provided to absorb a sufficient amount of the energy regenerated by the elevator motor or motors to prevent an elevator from attaining at any time under overhauling load conditions a speed of more than 125 per cent of its speed in the up direction with its rated load in the car.

38-056 Lighting of Machine Rooms

(1) Permanent provision of adequate artificial light shall be made in machine rooms of power elevators.

(2) Where electric light is available, the illumination shall be based on at least ½ watt per square foot of floor area.

(3) The machine room lighting switch shall be within easy reach of the entrance to the machine room.

(4) Where practical, the elevator service switch and the lighting switch shall be located on the lock-jamb side of the machine room entrance door, and both these switches shall be of the enclosed type.

SECTION 40—ELECTRIC CRANES AND HOISTS

40-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to the installation of electrical equipment providing circuits for electric cranes, hoists and monorails.

(2) This Section does not cover equipment and wiring of cranes, hoists and monorails which are assembled and erected in the field and which shall comply with the specifications to which the equipment was originally approved.

40-002 Supply Conductors. The size of conductors supplying main contact conductors, or supplying the equipment directly where there are no main contact conductors, shall be not less than that required by Rule 28-012 or 28-014, as applicable, together with additional capacity for other than motor loads where such provision is necessary.

40-004 Conductor Protection

(1) Conductors supplying main contact conductors shall be in rigid conduit, electrical metallic tubing, armoured cable, mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable except as otherwise provided for in Rule 40-018.

(2) Conductors supplying the equipment directly shall comply with Sub-rule (1) unless a flexible connection is required in which case an acceptable armoured or unarmoured cable or flexible cord, with take-up devices where necessary to prevent damage to the cable or cord and to keep it clear of the operating floor, may be used.

40-006 Overcurrent Protection. Conductors supplying main contact conductors or supplying the equipment directly where there are no main contact conductors shall be provided with overcurrent protection in accordance with the requirements of Rule 28-020 for the motor load plus an allowance in accordance with Rule 14-058 for any other loads if the size of conductors has been increased to provide capacity for the other loads.

40-008 Disconnecting Means. Suitable means which will disconnect all ungrounded conductors of the circuit simultaneously shall be:

(a) Provided within sight of the main contact conductors or within sight of the equipment if there are no main contact conductors; and

(b) Accessible and operable from the ground or from the floor over which the equipment operates.

40-010 Main Contact Conductors

(1) Bare main contact conductors shall have a current-carrying capacity not less than that of the conductors supplying them and, if wire is used in no case shall they be smaller than:

(a) No. 4 AWG if the length of contact conductor is 60 feet or less;

(b) No. 2 AWG if the length of contact conductor is greater than 60 feet, unless the intermediate insulating supports are of a clamp type which is capable of providing some strain relief.

(2) Bare main contact conductors may be of hard drawn copper or aluminum wire or may be of steel or other suitable metal in the form of tees, angles, T-rails, or other rigid shapes.

(3) Approved enclosed contact systems may be used.

40-012 Spacing of Main Contact Conductors

(1) Bare main contact conductor wires shall be supported so that:

(a) They will be separated, centre-to-centre:

(i) Not less than 6 inches, for other than monorail hoists, if installed in a horizontal plane,

(ii) Not less than 3 inches, for monorail hoists, if installed in a horizontal plane, or

(iii) Not less than 8 inches, if installed in other than a horizontal plane; and

(b) The extreme limit of displacement will not bring them within less than 1½ inches of the surface wired over.

(2) Rigid main contact conductors shall be supported so that there will be an air space of not less than 1 inch between conductors, between conductors and adjacent collectors, and between conductors and the surface wired over.

40-014 Supporting of Main Contact Conductors

(1) Bare main contact conductor wires shall be secured at each end to strain insulators, and shall be supported on insulating supports placed at intervals not exceeding 20 feet except that, where building conditions make the above impossible, the interval between insulating supports may be increased to a maximum of 40 feet if the separation between contact conductors is increased proportionately.

(2) Rigid main contact conductors shall be secured to insulating supports spaced at intervals of not more than 80 times the vertical dimension of the conductor, but in no case greater than 15 feet.

40-016 Joints in Rigid Contact Conductors. Joints in rigid main contact conductors shall be made so as to ensure proper current-carrying capacity without overheating.

40-018 Use of Track as a Conductor. Monorail, tramrail or crane runway tracks may be used as a main contact conductor or as a supply circuit conductor for one phase of a three-phase alternating-current system if:

(a) The power for all phases is obtained from an isolating transformer;
(b) The voltage does not exceed 300 volts;
(c) The rail serving as a conductor is effectively grounded, preferably, at the transformer, with permissive additional grounding by the fittings used for the suspension or attachment at the rail to the building structure; and
(d) Any joints in the rail meet the requirements of Rule 40-016.

40-020 Elevation or Guarding of Contact Conductors. Bare ungrounded contact conductors shall either be elevated to not less than 15 feet above ground or other working surface which is available to other than qualified persons, or be guarded so that persons on the ground or other working surface cannot inadvertently make contact with bare current-carrying parts.

40-022 Contact Conductors Not to Supply Other Equipment. Contact conductors shall not be used as feeders for any equipment other than that essential for the operation of the cranes, hoists or monorails which they supply.

40-024 Grounding

(1) All exposed non-current-carrying metal parts shall be grounded.

(2) Metal-to-metal contact between wheels and tracks shall be sufficient for grounding purposes.

(3) Tracks shall be grounded as required by Rule 10-042 or 40-018.

(4) Flexible supply cords permitted in Rule 40-004 (2) do not require a grounding conductor provided the track is properly grounded.

SECTION 42—ELECTRIC WELDERS

General

42-000 General. The requirements of this Section apply to electric welder installations.

42-002 Special Permission. Where the additional requirements of this Section are not required, they may be waived by special permission.

42-004 Severe Duty Cycle. Where, in the opinion of an inspector designated by the inspection department for the purpose of this Rule, the duty cycle is such as to require it, welders shall be treated on an individual basis.

Transformer Arc Welders

42-006 Supply Conductors

(1) The supply conductors for an individual transformer arc welder shall have a current-carrying capacity of not less than:

(a) 100 per cent of the rated primary current for an automatically operated welder; or
(b) 80 per cent of the rated primary current for a manually operated welder.

(2) The supply conductors for a group of automatically operated transformer arc welders shall have a current-carrying capacity equal to the sum of:

(a) 100 per cent of the rated primary current of the two largest welders in the group;
(b) 85 per cent of the rated primary current of the third largest welder in the group;
(c) 70 per cent of the rated primary current of the fourth largest welder in the group; and
(d) 60 per cent of the aggregate rated primary current of all remaining welders in the group.

(3) The supply conductors for a group of manually operated transformer arc welders shall have a current-carrying capacity equal to the sum of:

(a) 80 per cent of the rated primary current of the two largest welders in the group;
(b) 68 per cent of the rated primary current of the third largest welder in the group;
(c) 56 per cent of the rated primary current of the fourth largest welder in the group; and
(d) 48 per cent of the aggregate rated primary current of all remaining welders in the group.

(4) At the discretion of the inspection department, percentage values lower than those given in Sub-rules (2) and (3) are permissible in cases where the work is such that a high operating duty cycle for individual welders is impossible.

42-008 Overcurrent Protection for Transformer Arc Welders

(1) Each transformer arc welder shall have overcurrent protection rated or set at not more than 200 per cent of the rated primary current of the welder, unless the overcurrent device protecting the supply conductors meets this requirement.

(2) Each ungrounded conductor shall have overcurrent protection rated or set at not more than 200 per cent of the allowable current-carrying capacity of the conductor as specified in Tables 1, 2, 3 or 4, except that the next higher rating or setting may be used where:

(a) The nearest standard rating of the overcurrent device is less than the rating or setting otherwise required by this Rule; or
(b) The rating or setting otherwise required by this Rule results in too frequent opening of the overcurrent device.

42-010 Control of Transformer Arc Welders

(1) Every transformer arc welder shall have:

(a) A motor-circuit switch or circuit breaker having an ampere rating not less than the rated primary current of the welder, installed in the supply connection to the welder; or
(b) Control equipment affording equivalent protection and forming an integral part of the welder.

(2) The horsepower rating of a 2-pole motor-circuit switch shall not be less than the numerical value obtained by multiplying the rated primary current of the transformer arc welder by a factor of:

(a) 0.1 for a 220-volt welder;
(b) 0.2 for a 440-volt welder; or
(c) 0.25 for a 550-volt welder.

Motor-Generator Arc Welders

42-012 Conductors, Protection and Control of M-G Arc Welders. The rules of Section 4, Conductors, and 28, Motors, shall apply to motor-generator arc welders except that:

(a) The motors may be marked in amperes only; and

(b) Where the controller is built-in as an integral part of the motor-generator set, the controller need not be separately marked provided the necessary data is on the motor nameplate.

Resistance Welders

42-014 Definitions. In Rules 42-016 and 42-018 the following definitions apply:

(a) "rated primary current" means the kilovolt-ampere rating of the welder as shown on the nameplate thereof multiplied by 1,000 and divided by the rated primary voltage shown on the nameplate of the welder;

(b) "actual primary current" means the current drawn from the supply circuit during each welder operation at the particular heat tap and control setting used; and

(c) "duty cycle" means the ratio of the time during which the welder is loaded to the total time required for one complete operation.

42-016 Supply Conductors for Resistance Welders. The current-carrying capacity of supply conductors shall be as follows:

(a) Where an individual seam resistance welder or an individual automatically-fed resistance welder is operated at different times at different values of primary current or duty cycle, the supply conductors shall have a current-carrying capacity of not less than 70 per cent of the rated primary current of the welder;

(b) Where an individual manually-operated non-automatic resistance welder is operated at different times at different values of primary current or duty cycle, the current-carrying capacity of the supply conductors shall be not less than 50 per cent of the rated primary current of the welder;

(c) Where an individual resistance welder operates at known and constant values of actual primary current and duty cycle, the supply conductors shall have a current-carrying capacity of not less than the value obtained by multiplying the actual primary current by a factor of 0.71, 0.63, 0.55, 0.50, 0.45, 0.39, 0.32, 0.27 or 0.22 for duty cycles of 50, 40, 30, 25, 20, 15, 10, 7.5 and 5 per cent or less respectively;

(d) Where there is a group of resistance welders, the supply conductors shall have a current-carrying capacity of not less than:

(i) The sum of the values obtained from paragraphs (a), (b) or (c) for the largest welder in the group, and

(ii) 60 per cent of the values so obtained for all of the other welders in the group.

42-018 Overcurrent Protection for Resistance Welders

(1) Every resistance welder shall have overcurrent protection rated or set at not more than 300 per cent of the rated primary current of the welder unless the overcurrent device protecting the supply conductors gives equivalent protection.

(2) Every ungrounded conductor of a resistance welder shall have overcurrent protection rated or set at not more than 300 per cent of the allowable current-carrying capacity of the conductor as specified in Tables 1, 2, 3 or 4, except that the next higher rating or setting may be used where:

(a) The nearest standard rating of the overcurrent device is less than the rating or setting required by this Rule; or

(b) The rating or setting required by this Rule results in too frequent opening of the overcurrent device.

42-020 Control of Resistance Welders. Every resistance welder shall have installed in its supply circuit a switch or circuit breaker, rated at not less than the rating of the conductors as determined by Rule 42-016, whereby the welder and its control equipment can be isolated from the supply circuit.

42-022 Nameplate Data for Resistance Welders. Every resistance welder shall be provided with a nameplate giving the maker's name, primary voltage, frequency, rated kilovolt-amperes at 50 per cent duty cycle, maximum and minimum open-circuit secondary voltage, short-circuit secondary current at maximum secondary voltage, and the specified throat and gap setting.

SECTION 44—THEATRE INSTALLATIONS

General

44-000 Scope. This Section applies to electrical equipment and installations in buildings or parts of a building designed, intended, or used for dramatic, operatic, motion picture or other shows.

44-002 Travelling Shows. Electrical equipment used by a travelling theatrical company, circus or other travelling show, whether or not the performance is held within a theatre, shall not be used for the initial performance of any "Stand" until a permit has been obtained from the inspection department.

44-004 Motion Picture Studios and Projectors. Motion picture studios and projectors shall comply with the requirements of Section 48.

44-006 Sound Reproduction. Sound reproducing equipment shall comply with the requirements of Section 66.

Installation

44-008 Wiring Method

(1) Wiring shall be in rigid conduit, or steel electrical metallic tubing, or as mineral-insulated cable except that:

(a) Other wiring methods may be permitted for temporary work;

(b) Flexible cord or cable may be used where permitted by this Section; and

(c) Flexible conduit, lead-sheathed armoured cable or aluminum-sheathed cable may be used by special permission.

(2) Surface raceways shall not be used on the stage side of the proscenium wall.

44-010 Number of Conductors in Raceways. For border or stage pocket circuits or for remote-control circuits:

(a) The number of conductors run in rigid conduit or electrical metallic tubing shall not exceed that shown in Rule 4-014; and

(b) Conductors run in auxiliary gutters or metal wireways shall have a total cross-sectional area not exceeding 20 per cent of the cross-sectional area of the gutter or wireway.

44-012 Conductor Insulation for Field Assembled Fixtures. Foot, border, proscenium and portable strip light fixtures assembled in the field shall be wired with conductors having insulation suitable for the temperature at which the conductors will be operated and in no case less than 125° C. (257° F.).

Stage Switchboards

44-014 Stage Switchboards to be Dead Front. Stage switchboards shall be:

(a) Of the dead-front type; and

(b) Protected above with a suitable metal guard or hood extending the full length of the board and completely covering the space between the wall and the board to protect the latter from falling objects.

44-016 Guarding Stage Switchboards

(1) Where a stage switchboard has exposed live parts on the back of the board, it shall be enclosed by the walls of the building, by wire mesh grills, or by other acceptable methods.

(2) The entrance to the enclosure shall have a self-closing door.

44-018 Supply Service

(1) Every theatre other than a moving picture theatre which is not regularly used by theatrical companies shall have two extra service boxes installed in it for the proper and convenient supply of current to extra equipment.

(2) The boxes shall be suitably located with one box at each end of the stage.

(3) The boxes shall be connected in a permanent manner to the main service or to a separate source of supply.

(4) The boxes shall have a capacity of not less than 400 amperes when connected to a 110-volt, 2-wire supply circuit and 200 amperes when connected to a 110/220-volt, 3-wire supply circuit.

(5) The boxes shall be equipped with fuses and quick-break switches or approved equivalent devices.

44-020 Switches. Switches shall be of the enclosed type and externally operated.

44-022 Pilot Lamp on Switchboards

(1) A pilot lamp shall be installed within every switchboard enclosure.

(2) The pilot lamp shall be connected to the circuit supplying the switchboard so that the opening of the master switch does not cut off the supply to the lamp.

(3) The lamp shall be on an independent circuit protected by an overcurrnt device rated or set at not more than 15 amperes.

44-024 Fuses. Fuses on switchboards shall be:

(a) Of either the plug or cartridge type; and

(b) Provided with enclosures in addition to the switchboard enclosure.

44-026 Overcurrent Protection. All circuits leaving the switchboard shall have an overcurrent device connected in each ungrounded conductor.

44-028 Dimmers

(1) Dimmers shall be connected so as to be dead when their respective circuit switches are open.

(2) Dimmers which do not open the circuit may be connected in a grounded neutral conductor.

(3) The terminals of dimmers shall be provided with approved enclosures.

(4) Dimmer faceplates shall be arranged so that accidental contact cannot readily be made with the faceplate contacts.

44-030 Control of Stage and Gallery Pockets. Stage and gallery pockets shall be controlled from the switchboard.

44-032 Conductors

(1) Conductors within the switchboard enclosure shall be of the stranded asbestos-covered type enclosed in metal troughs or otherwise properly supported and securely fastened in position.

(2) The conductors shall have a current-carrying capacity of not less than that of the switch or over-current device to which they are connected.

(3) Holes in the metal enclosure through which conductors pass shall be bushed.

(4) The strands of the conductor shall be soldered together before they are fastened under a clamp or binding screw.

(5) Where a conductor of No. 8 AWG or of a larger size is connected to a terminal:

(a) It shall be soldered into a lug; or

(b) An approved solderless connector shall be used.

Portable Switchboards on Stage

44-034 Construction of Portable Switchboards

(1) Portable switchboards shall be placed within enclosures of substantial construction but may be arranged so that the enclosure is open during operation.

(2) Enclosures of wood shall be completely lined with sheet metal not less than 0.0209 inch (No. 24 MSG) thick, suitably protected against corrosion.

(3) There shall be no live parts exposed within the enclosure except those on dimmer faceplates.

44-036 Supply for Portable Switchboards

(1) Portable switchboards shall be supplied by means of flexible cord or cable, Types K, S, SO or ST, terminating within the switchboard enclosure in an externally-operated, enclosed, fused master switch.

(2) The master switch shall be arranged so as to cut off current from all apparatus within the enclosure except the pilot light.

(3) The flexible cord or cable shall have a sufficient current-carrying capacity to carry the total load current of the switchboard.

(4) The ampere-rating of the fuses of the master switch shall not be greater than the total load current of the switchboard.

Stage Equipment—Fixed

44-038 Circuit Loads. Footlights, border lights and proscenium side lights shall be arranged so that no branch circuit supplying such equipment will carry a load exceeding 15 amperes except that, where heavy-duty lampholders only are used, such circuits may conform to the provisions of Rule 14-080.

44-040 Footlights

(1) Where footlights are wired in rigid conduit or steel electrical metallic tubing, every lampholder shall be installed in an individual outlet box.

(2) Where footlights are not wired in rigid conduit or steel electrical metallic tubing, the wiring shall be installed in a steel trough.

44-042 Wiring to Arc Pockets. Where the wiring to arc pockets is in rigid conduit or steel electrical metallic tubing, the end of the conduit or tubing shall be exposed at a point approximately 12 inches away from the pocket, and the wiring shall be continued in flexible conduit in the form of a loop at least 2 feet long, with sufficient slack to permit the raising or lowering of the box.

44-044 Cable for Border Lights

(1) Flexible cord or cable for border lights shall be of Types K, S, SO or ST.

(2) The flexible cord or cable shall be fed from points on the gridiron or from other acceptable overhead points but shall not be fed from side walls.

(3) The flexible cord or cable shall be arranged so that strain is taken from clamps and binding screws.

(4) Where the flexible cord or cable passes through a metal or wooden enclosure, a metal bushing shall be provided to protect the cord.

(5) Terminals or binding posts to which flexible cords or cables are connected inside the switchboard enclosure shall be located so as to permit convenient access to them.

44-046 Receptacles in Gallery Pockets. At least one receptacle having a rated capacity of not less than 30 amperes shall be installed in the gallery of theatres where dramatic or operatic performances are staged.

44-048 Receptacles and Plugs

(1) Receptacles intended for the connection of arc lamps shall:

(a) Have a rated capacity not less than 35 amperes; and

(b) Be supplied by conductors not smaller than No. 6 AWG.

(2) Receptacles intended for the connection of incandescent lamps shall:

(a) Have a rated capacity not less than 15 amperes; and

(b) Be supplied by conductors not smaller than No. 12 AWG.

(3) Plugs for arc and incandescent receptacles shall not be interchangeable.

44-050 Curtain Motors. Curtain motors shall be of the enclosed type.

44-052 Flue-Damper Control

(1) Where stage flue dampers are released by an electrical device, the circuit operating the device shall, in normal operation, be closed.

(2) The circuit shall be controlled by at least 2 single-pole switches enclosed in metal boxes with self-closing doors without locks or latches.

(3) One switch shall be placed at the electrician's station and the other at a place designated by the inspection department.

(4) The device shall be:

(a) Designed for the full voltage of the circuit to which it is connected, no resistance being inserted;

(b) Located in the loft above the scenery; and

(c) Enclosed in a suitable metal box with a tight self-closing door.

Stage Equipment—Portable

44-054 Fixtures on Scenery

(1) Fixtures attached to stage scenery shall be:

(a) Of the internally-wired type; or

(b) Wired with Type P or other flexible cord or cable approved for hard usage.

(2) The fixtures shall be secured firmly in place.

(3) The stems of the fixtures shall be carried through to the back of the scenery and shall have a suitable busing on the end thereof.

44-056 String or Festooned Lights

(1) Joints in the wiring of string or festooned lights shall be staggered where practicable.

(2) Where the lamps of string or festooned lights are enclosed in paper lanterns, or shades or other devices of combustible material, they shall be equipped with lamp guards.

44-058 Flexible Conductors for Portable Equipment. Flexible conductors for arc lamps, bunches or other portable equipment shall be Types K, S, SO or ST cord or cable, but for separate miscellaneous portable devices operated under conditions where the conductors are not exposed to severe mechanical injury, reinforced cords Types SV, SVO, P, PWP, SJ, SJO or SJT may be used provided that they are protected by an overcurrent device rated or set at not more than 15 amperes.

44-060 Portable Equipment for Stage Effects. Portable equipment for stage effects shall be of a type especially approved for the purpose and shall be so located that flames, sparks or hot particles cannot come in contact with combustible material.

Dressing Rooms

44-062 Pendents in Dressing Rooms. Pendent lights in dressing rooms shall be wired with armoured cable or with flexible cord approved for hard usage as listed in Table 11.

44-064 Receptacles in Dressing Rooms

(1) Every dressing room shall contain at least one receptacle constructed to accommodate parallel blade caps.

(2) All receptacles constructed to accommodate parallel blade caps in dressing rooms shall be controlled from the switchboard.

44-066 Lamp Guards in Dressing Rooms. All lights in dressing rooms shall be equipped with locked, open-end, wire guards.

Aisle Lights—Moving-Picture Theatres

44-068 Aisle Lights in Moving-Picture Theatres. Circuits for aisle lights located under seats may supply 30 outlets provided that the size of lamp bulb which can be used with each outlet is limited by barriers or the equivalent to 25 watts or less.

Grounding

44-070 Grounding

(1) All metal raceways shall be grounded.

(2) All metal frames and enclosures of equipment including border lights other than the frames and enclosures of portable equipment operating on grounded circuits at not more than 150 volts to ground shall be grounded.

Construction

44-072 Metal Work

(1) The metal work for footlights, borders, proscenium sidelights and strips shall be not less than 0.0309 inch (No. 20 MSG) thick.

(2) The metal work for bunches and portable strips shall be not less than 0.0209 inch (No. 24 MSG) thick.

44-074 Ventilation for Mogul Lampholders. Where the lighting devices are equipped with mogul lampholders, the lighting devices shall be constructed with double walls and with adequate ventilation between the walls.

44-076 Mechanical Protection of Lamps in Borders, etc. Borders, proscenium sidelights and strips shall be constructed so that the flanges of the reflectors or other suitable guards protect the lamps from mechanical injury and from accidental contact with scenery or other combustible material.

44-078 Clearances at Terminals. The terminals of lampholders shall be separated from the metal of the trough by at least ½ inch.

44-080 Connections at Lampholders. Conductors shall be soldered to the terminals of lampholders.

44-082 Suspended Fixtures. Borders and strips shall be so suspended as to be electrically and mechanically safe.

44-084 Pendent Lights Rated More than 100 Watts. Where a pendent lighting-device contains a lamp or group of lamps of more than 100 watts capacity, it shall be provided with a guard of not more than ½ inch mesh so arranged as to prevent danger from falling glass.

SECTION 46—EMERGENCY SYSTEMS

General

46-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to the installation, operation and maintenance of emergency systems intended to supply illumination and/or power in the event of failure of the normal supply where such systems are required by any governmental or other agency having jurisdiction.

(2) References to exit lighting systems refer to exit lights from emergency sources only.

46-002 System Voltage, 50 Volts or Less. Where an emergency system operates at 50 volts or less, it shall also conform to Section 56.

46-004 Method of Wiring. The method of wiring for emergency systems shall be rigid conduit, steel electrical metallic tubing or mineral-insulated cable, unless special permission is obtained for the use of flexible conduit or armoured cable.

46-006 Testing and Maintenance

(1) Every emergency system shall be tested at least once every month to ensure security of operation.

(2) Where batteries are used as a source of supply for emergency systems, the batteries shall be kept:

(a) In proper condition;
(b) Fully charged at all times; and
(c) In an adequately-ventilated battery room.

46-008 Location of Equipment

(1) No component of an emergency system shall be installed in a room which contains machinery using or used in connection with a combustible refrigerant.

(2) Storage batteries and generators for emergency systems shall be located within the building as to reduce as far as is possible the hazards of interference or damage to the equipment by fire, explosion or flooding within the building.

(3) Where the nature of the occupancy, construction and internal protection of a building warrants it, an inspector may require that the batteries or generators, or both, be located in a fire-resisting room segregated from other parts of the building by unpierced walls, floors and ceiling having a fire resistance rating of at least one hour with entrance to the room from:

(a) Outdoors; or
(b) Inside the building providing the opening is protected by an approved automatic fire door.

46-010 Instructions

(1) Complete instructions for the operation and care of the emergency system shall be posted on the premises in a frame under glass.

(2) The form of the instructions and their location shall be subject to the approval of the inspector.

46-012 Audible and Visible Trouble-Signal Devices

(1) Every emergency system shall be equipped with audible and visible trouble-signal devices which give warning of derangement of the current source or sources and which indicate when the emergency load is supplied from batteries or generators.

(2) Audible trouble signals may be wired so that:

(a) They can be silenced, but a red warning or trouble light shall continue to provide the protective function; and
(b) When the system is restored to normal, the audible signal will:
  (i) Sound, thus indicating the necessity of restoring the silencing switch to its normal position, or
  (ii) Reset automatically so as to sound for any subsequent operation of the emergency system.

Current Supply

46-014 Capacity. Emergency systems shall have adequate capacity and rating to ensure the satisfactory operation of all equipment connected to the system when the principal source of power fails.

46-016 Current Supply

(1) The current supply shall consist of:

(a) A service supply; and
(b) Where a stand-by supply is required:
  (i) A storage battery having sufficient capacity to supply and maintain, at not less than 91 per cent of full voltage, the total load of the emergency circuits for at least ½ hour,
  (ii) A generator driven by a dependable prime mover, or
  (iii) By special permission, a separate service widely separated electrically and physically to minimize the possibility of simultaneous interruption of the supply.

(2) Automobile batteries and lead batteries not of the sealed glass-jar-type are not considered suitable under Sub-rule (1) and shall only be used by special permission.

(3) Where a generator is used, it shall be:

(a) Of capacity sufficient to carry the load; and
(b) Arranged to start automatically without failure and without undue delay upon the failure of the current supply of the principal equipment of the building.

Circuits

46-018 Wiring for Emergency Circuits. The wiring of emergency systems shall be kept entirely independent of all other wiring and equipment and shall not enter a fixture, raceway, box or cabinet occupied by other wiring except where necessary:

(a) In transfer switches; and
(b) In exit or emergency lighting fixtures supplied from two sources.

46-020 Appliances and Lamps. No appliance or lamp, other than those required for the emergency system, shall be supplied by the emergency circuits.

Control

46-022 Control

(1) The current supply for emergency system shall be controlled by an automatic changeover switch accessible only to authorized persons.

(2) An additional switch may be installed:

(a) At the main source of supply or on the control panel of a special current-source; or

(b) Adjacent to the automatic changeover switch to control separately the lights which are not required during daylight hours.

(3) An automatic light-actuated device approved for the purpose may be used to control separately the lights on the exterior of the building which are not required during daylight hours.

(4) The emergency circuits shall not be connected to or controlled by any other devices.

Overcurrent Protection

46-024 Overcurrent Protection

(1) No device other than the overcurrent device for current supply for emergency systems shall be placed ahead of the branch circuit overcurrent devices.

(2) The branch circuit overcurrent devices shall be accessible only to authorized persons.

SECTION 48—MOTION PICTURE STUDIOS, PROJECTION ROOMS, FILM EXCHANGES INCLUDING FILM-VAULTS AND STORE HOUSES FOR PYROXYLIN PLASTIC AND NITROCELLULOSE X-RAY AND PHOTOGRAPHIC FILM

48-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to:

(a) Motion picture studios, projection rooms, exchanges, factories and laboratories; and

(b) Any building or portion of a building in which motion picture films, pyroxylin plastic and nitrocellulose X-ray and photographic films are manufactured, projected, developed, printed, rewound, repaired or stored.

(2) This Section does not apply where only slow-burning (cellulose-acetate or equivalent) film is used.

48-002 Wiring Method. The wiring method, unless specified otherwise in this Section, shall be rigid conduit, steel electrical metallic tubing, or mineral-insulated cable, except that portable cables or flexible cord may be used on studio stages and other locations where fixed wiring methods are impracticable.

48-004 Lamp Outlets. Lamp outlets on walls shall consist of lampholders mounted in outlet boxes and equipped with open-ends guards securely fastened to the cover of the box.

48-006 Pendent Lamps. Pendent lamps shall be suspended by means of reinforced cord, armoured cord or armoured cable, and shall be protected by guards or metal shades.

48-008 Portable Lamps. For portable lamps other than those used as properties in a motion picture set on a studio stage or similar location, the lampholders shall be:

(a) Unswitched;

(b) Of composition or metal-sheathed porcelain; and

(c) Provided with a guard hook and handle.

48-010 Flexible Cords. Types S, SO or ST cord shall be used on portable lamps and equipment.

48-012 Patching Table Fixtures. At film patching tables all lighting fixtures, except lamps forming part of approved patching table equipment, shall be of the totally-enclosed gasketted type.

48-014 Motors and Generators. Motors and generators having brushes or sliding contacts, other than those used on studio stages or installed in accordance with Rule 48-032, shall be of approved dust-tight or enclosed types.

48-016 Storage Batteries. Storage batteries shall comply with the requirements of Rules 26-072 to 26-078.

48-018 Pyroxylin Plastic Storage Rooms. In rooms used for the storage of pyroxylin plastic no receptacle or attachment plugs shall be installed.

Film-Vaults

48-020 Equipment in Film-Vaults. No electrical equipment other than that necessary for fixed lighting shall be installed in film-vaults.

48-022 Film-Vaults Wiring Method

(1) The wiring method in film-vaults shall be rigid conduit or mineral-insulated cable only, with threaded joints at couplings, boxes and fittings.

(2) Conduit or cable shall not run directly from vault to vault, but only from the switch to the lighting fixture within the vault.

(3) Conduit shall be sealed off near the switch enclosure with a fitting and compound approved for the purpose.

48-024 Film-Vault Lighting Fixtures

(1) Lighting fixtures in film-vaults shall be of the explosion-proof type approved for use in Class 1, Group C hazardous locations and shall have metal cages or guards protecting the globes.

(2) The fixtures shall be located as close as practicable to the ceiling so as not to be liable to damage through handling of film containers.

48-026 Film-Vault Circuits

(1) Fixtures shall be controlled by a double-pole switch located outside the film-vault.

(2) A red pilot light shall be provided to indicate when the switch is closed and shall be located outside the film-vault.

(3) Wiring shall be arranged so that when the switch is off, all conductors within the film-vault will be dead.

Motion Picture Projection Rooms

48-028 Flexible Cords in Projection Rooms. Types S, SJ, SO, ST or K flexible cords shall be used on portable equipment in motion picture projection rooms.

48-030 Lamps in Projection Rooms. Incandescent lamps in projection rooms or booths shall be provided with an approved lamp guard unless otherwise protected by incombustible shades or other enclosures.

48-032 Arc Lamp Current Supply. Motor-generator sets, frequency changers, transformers, rectifiers, rheostats and similar equipment for the supply or control of current to arc lamps or projectors shall be located in a room separate from the projection room.

48-034 Ventilation. All projection rooms shall be provided with exhaust ventilation fans sufficient to give a complete change of air every three minutes, and the fan shall be arranged so that it may be controlled from inside the projection room and from a nearby point outside the room.

SECTION 50—ELECTRICALLY-OPERATED PIPE ORGANS

50-000 Scope. This Section applies to:

(a) The electrical circuits and parts of electrically-operated pipe organs which are used to control sounding apparatus and keyboards of pipe organs;

(b) The blower motors for pipe organs;

(c) The lighting of pipe organ lofts.

50-002 Control Circuit Source of Energy. The source of electrical energy for the control circuit shall be:

(a) A self-excited generator;
(b) A primary battery; or
(c) A rectifier.

50-004 Control Circuit Voltage. The operating voltage of the control circuit shall be not more than 15 volts.

50-006 Control Circuit Conductors

(1) Control circuit conductors shall be cabled except:

(a) Conductors inside the organ proper, the organ sections and the organ console; and
(b) Common return conductor which may be run in contact with the cable or be placed under additional covering enclosing both cable and return conductor.

(2) Control circuit cable shall be of a type approved for the purpose.

(3) For the purpose of this Rule, cable means an assembly of insulated conductors.

50-008 Control Circuit Cables, Installation

(1) Control circuit cables shall be neatly and securely held in place.

(2) The cables may be attached directly to the organ structure without insulating supports.

(3) The cable shall not be placed in contact with other conductors.

50-010 Control Circuit Cables, Overcurrent Protection. The control circuits shall be divided and protected at or near the source of current by enclosed fuses of not more than 15 amperes capacity so that every conductor is protected by one or other of the fuses.

50-012 Blower Motor Signal Light. A remotely controlled organ blower motor shall be provided with a pilot lamp of the neon type located at the organ console.

50-014 Blower Motor Installation

(1) Every organ blower motor, unless of the totally-enclosed type, shall be installed in a room or compartment having walls and ceiling constructed so as to retard the spread of fire for at least 45 minutes.

(2) Sub-rule (1) shall be deemed to be complied with where:

(a) The construction of the walls is of 2- by 4-inch (trade size) wood studs with expanded metal lath on each side and ¾-inch thickness of gypsum and sand plaster;
(b) The ceiling is of the double metal lath and plaster type; and
(c) The door to the room or compartment is self-closing, and consists of at least two 1-inch layers of lumber with a membrane of asbestos paper weighing at least 30 pounds per 100 square feet placed between the layers.

50-018 Organ Loft Lighting

(1) The wiring method in organ lofts shall be rigid conduit, electrical metallic tubing, or run as mineral-insulated cable or as aluminum-sheathed cable.

(2) Organ lofts shall be illuminated by a fixture constructed so that particles from a broken lamp bulb will be contained within the fixture.

(3) Conductors used for illumination of organ lofts shall be completely enclosed within the conduit or fitting.

(4) A receptacle shall be provided in the organ loft for the supply of current to an approved portable lamp.

(5) Electric equipment installed in organ lofts shall be suitably enclosed in an approved box or cabinet or fitting.

SECTION 52—X-RAY INSTALLATIONS

52-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to the installation of X-ray equipment operating at any frequency.

(2) Nothing in this Section shall be construed as specifying safeguards against direct, stray or secondary X-ray radiation.

52-002 High-Voltage Guarding

(1) High-voltage parts shall be mounted within enclosures of grounded metal except when installed in separate rooms or enclosures where a suitable switch shall be:

(a) Provided to control the circuit supplying the X-ray equipment; and
(b) Arranged so that it will necessarily be open except while the door of the room or enclosure is locked from the outside.

(2) High-voltage parts of X-ray equipment may be mounted within enclosures of insulating material.

(3) Conductors in the high-voltage circuits shall be of the shock-proof type.

(4) Leads on fluoroscope tables shall be adequately insulated or be provided with barriers which will guard against inadvertent contact.

52-004 Milliameter. If a milliameter is provided it shall be:

(a) Connected, if practicable in the grounded lead; or
(b) Guarded if connected in the high-voltage lead.

52-006 Connections to Supply Circuit

(1) Permanently installed X-ray apparatus shall be connected to the power supply by means of a wiring method meeting the general requirements of this Code, except that apparatus properly supplied by branch circuits not larger than a 30-ampere branch circuit may be supplied through a suitable plug and heavy duty cable or cord.

(2) Transportable X-ray apparatus of any capacity may be connected to its power supply by suitable temporary connections and heavy duty cable or cord.

52-008 Disconnecting Means

(1) A disconnecting means of adequate capacity shall be provided in a location readily accessible from the X-ray control.

(2) For apparatus requiring a 115-volt branch circuit fused at 30 amperes or less, a plug and receptacle of proper size may serve as a disconnecting means.

52-010 Transformers and Capacitors

(1) Transformers and capacitors forming a part of X-ray equipment shall not be required to conform to the requirements of Section 26 of this Code.

(2) Capacitors shall be provided with an automatic means for discharging and grounding the plates whenever the transformer primary is disconnected from the source of supply, unless all current-carrying parts of the capacitors and of the conductors connected therewith are:

(a) At least 8 feet from the floor, and are inaccessible to unauthorized persons; or
(b) Within enclosures of grounded metal or insulating material if within 8 feet from the floor.

52-012 Control

(1) For stationary equipment, the low-voltage circuit of the step-up transformer shall contain a circuit breaker which:

(a) Has no exposed live parts;
(b) Protects the radiographic circuit against fault conditions under all operating conditions;
(c) Is installed as a part of the equipment or directly adjacent thereto; and
(d) Is manually operable or else at least one other manually operable switch is provided in the low-voltage circuit of the step-up transformer, either as part of the equipment or directly adjacent thereto.

(2) Where in Sub-rule (1) the design of the step-up transformer is such that branch fuses having a current rating lower than the current rating of the circuit breaker are required for adequate protection for fluoroscopic and therapeutic circuits, they shall be added for protection of these circuits.

(3) For portable equipment, the requirements of Sub-rules (1) and (2) shall apply but the circuit breaker shall be located in or on the equipment except that no circuit breaker is required when the high voltage parts including the X-ray tube are within a single metal enclosure which is provided with a means for grounding.

(4) Medical X-ray equipment shall, in addition to complying with the requirements of Sub-rules (1), (2) and (3) as applicable, be provided with controlling means as follows:

(a) For the radiographic type, a timer shall be provided and controlled by a switch which shall be designed to open automatically except when held closed by the operator;
(b) For the fluoroscopic type, a switch shall be provided which shall be designed to open automatically except when held closed by the operator;
(c) For the therapeutic type, a timer shall be provided which is not of the repeating type.

(5) Industrial X-ray equipment of the radiographic and fluoroscopic types shall, in addition to complying with the requirements of Sub-rules (1), (2) and (3) as applicable, be provided with a timer or a manual switch to open and close the circuit at the option of the operator.

(6) Where switches operated by foot pressure are used with industrial X-ray equipment, the contact button shall be provided with a shield to avoid accidental closing unless the equipment is of the fully enclosed shockproof type.

(7) Where switches operated by foot pressure are used with equipment for radiographic work, the foot switch shall return automatically to the X-ray off position when foot pressure is removed.

(8) Where more than one piece of equipment is operated from the same high-voltage circuit, each piece or each group of equipment as a unit, shall be provided with a high-voltage switch or equivalent disconnecting means.

52-014 Grounding. Non-current-carrying parts of tube stands, fluoroscopes and other apparatus shall be grounded in conformity with the requirements of Section 10.

SECTION 54—RADIO INSTALLATIONS

54-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to:

(a) Equipment for the reception of radio and television broadcast transmission;
(b) Equipment employed in the normal operation of a radio station licensed by the Government of Canada as an experimental amateur radio station; and
(c) Wire television distribution systems.

(2) This Section does not apply to equipment and antennas used for broadcast transmission and for coupling carrier current to power line conductors.

(3) In Sub-rule (2) "broadcast" means one-way communication in other than wire television distribution systems.

54-002 Receiving Equipment and Amateur Transmitting Equipment Rules. Rules 54-004 to 54-050 apply to:

(a) Radio and television receiving equipment; and
(b) Amateur radio transmitting equipment.

Antenna Systems

54-004 Material

(1) Antenna and counter-poise conductors shall be of hard drawn copper, bronze, aluminum alloy, copper-clad steel or other high-strength, corrosion-resistant material.

(2) Lead-in conductors shall be hard drawn copper, bronze, aluminum alloy, copper-clad steel, or other high-strength corrosion-resistant material, or twin conductor or coaxial cables acceptable for such service, except that soft-drawn or medium-drawn copper may be used for lead-in conductors where the maximum span between points of support is less than 35 feet.

54-006 Supports

(1) Outdoor antenna and counter-poise and lead-in conductors shall not be attached to poles or similar structures carrying electric light or power wires or trolley wires operating at more than 250 volts.

(2) Insulators supporting the antenna or counter-poise conductors shall have sufficient mechanical strength to safely support the conductors.

(3) Lead-in conductors shall be securely attached to the antenna.

54-008 Avoidance of Contact with Other Systems

(1) Outdoor antenna, counter-poise and lead-in conductors from an antenna to a building shall not cross over electric light or power circuits, and shall be kept 10 feet away from all such circuits so as to avoid the possibility of accidental contact, except that where proximity to electric light and power service conductors operating at less than 250 volts cannot be avoided, the installation shall be such as to provide a clearance of at least 2 feet.

(2) It is recommended that antenna and counter-poise conductors be installed so as not to cross under electric light or power conductors.

54-010 Splices

(1) Splices and joints in antenna and counter-poise span shall be made with approved splicing devices or by such other means as will not appreciably weaken the conductors.

(2) Soldering, if employed, shall be independent of the mechanical support.

54-012 Indoor Antennas

(1) Indoor antennas shall have a clearance of at least 4 inches from the conductors of lighting, heating, power or communication circuits unless separated therefrom by conduit or some approved firmly secured non-conducting material such as porcelain tubes or flexible tubing.

(2) If an electric supply circuit is used in lieu of an antenna, the device by which the radio receiving set is connected to the supply circuit shall be specially approved for the purpose.

54-014 Clearances on Buildings

(1) Lead-in conductors of receiving stations, attached to buildings, shall be installed so that they cannot swing closer than:

(a) 4 inches to the conductors of circuits of 150 volts or less, and permanent separation is assured;
(b) 2 feet to the conductors of circuits of more than 150 volts, but not exceeding 250 volts; and
(c) 10 feet to the conductors of circuits of more than 250 volts.

(2) Antenna and counter-poise conductors for transmitting stations, attached to buildings, shall be firmly mounted at least 3 inches clear of the surface of the building on non-absorptive insulating supports, such as treated pins or brackets, equipped with insulators having not less than 3-inch creepage and air-gap distances.

(3) Lead-in conductors to transmitting stations, attached to buildings, shall also conform to the requirements of Sub-rule (2) except when they are enclosed in a continuous metallic shield that is grounded in which case the metallic shield may also be used as a conductor.

54-016 Entrance to Building. Except where protected with a continuous metallic shield which is grounded, lead-in conductors for transmitting stations shall enter buildings through:

(a) A rigid, non-combustible, non-absorptive insulating tube or bushing; or
(b) An opening provided for the purpose in which the entrance conductors are firmly secured so as to provide a clearance of at least 2 inches; or
(c) A drilled pane in a window which cannot be opened.

54-018 Protection Against Accidental Contact. Lead-in conductors to radio transmitters shall be so located or installed as to make accidental contact with them difficult.

Protectors

54-020 Lightning Arresters, Receiving Stations

(1) Lightning arresters shall be provided for each lead-in conductor to receiving stations from an outdoor antenna, except where the lead-in conductors are protected from the antenna to the point of entrance to the building by a continuous metal shield that is:

(a) Grounded; or
(b) Provided with a lightning arrester.

(2) Lightning arresters for receiving stations shall be located outside the building, or inside the building between the point of entrance of the lead-in and the radio set or transformer, and as near as practicable to the entrance of the conductors to the building.

(3) Lightning arresters for receiving stations shall not be located near combustible material nor in a hazardous location.

54-022 Lightning Arresters, Transmitting Stations. Each conductor of a lead-in to a transmitting station from an outdoor antenna shall be provided with a lightning arrester or other suitable means which will drain static charges from the antenna system except:

(a) Where protected by a continuous metallic shield which is grounded; or
(b) Where the antenna is grounded.

Grounding Conductors

54-024 Material for Grounding Conductor. The grounding conductor shall be of copper, aluminum alloy, copper-clad steel, bronze or other corrosion-resistant material unless otherwise specified.

54-026 Insulation of Grounding Conductor. The grounding conductors may be uninsulated.

54-028 Support for Grounding Conductor. The grounding conductors shall be securely fastened in place and may be directly attached to the surface wired over without the use of insulating supports.

54-030 Mechanical Protection of Grounding Conductor. The grounding conductor shall be protected where exposed to mechanical injury.

54-032 Grounding Conductor to be Run in a Straight Line. The grounding conductor shall be run in as straight a line as is practicable from the lightning arresters or antenna mast, or both, to the grounding electrode.

54-034 Ground Electrode. The grounding conductor shall be connected to a grounding electrode as specified in Section 10.

54-036 Grounding Conductors, Inside or Outside Building. The grounding conductors may be run either inside or outside the building.

54-038 Size of Protective Ground. The size of the protective grounding conductor for receiving and transmitting stations providing ground connection for mast and lightning arrester shall be in accordance with Section 10.

54-040 Common Ground. A single grounding conductor may be used for both protective and operating purposes, but must be installed so that disconnection of the operating ground will not affect the protective ground circuit.

54-042 Radio Noise Suppressors. Radio interference eliminators, interference capacitors or radio noise suppressors connected to power supply leads shall be of a type approved for the purpose and shall not be exposed to mechanical injury.

Transmitting Stations

54-044 Enclosure of Transmitters. Transmitters shall be enclosed in a metal frame or grille, or thoroughly shielded or separated from the operating space by a barrier or other equivalent means.

54-046 Grounding of Transmitters. All exposed metallic parts of transmitters including external metallic handles and controls accessible to the operating personnel and accessories such as microphone stands, shall be grounded.

54-048 Interlocks on Doors of Transmitters. All access doors of transmitters shall be provided with interlocks which will disconnect all voltages in excess of 250 volts when any access door is opened.

54-050 Amplifiers. Audio-amplifiers which are located outside the transmitter housing shall be suitably housed and shall be located so as to be readily accessible and adequately ventilated.

Wire Television Distribution Systems

54-052 Wire Television Distribution System Rules. Rules 54-054 to 54-102 apply to wire television distribution systems.

54-054 Material. The coaxial cable or other types of cable or wire used in wire television distribution systems shall be acceptable for the purpose.

54-056 Supports. Where coaxial cable or other types of cable or wire are attached to, or supported on, buildings, the attachment or supporting fixtures shall be acceptable for the purpose.

54-058 Hazardous Locations. Where the circuits or apparatus within the scope of this Section are installed in hazardous locations, they shall also comply with the applicable rules of Section 18.

54-060 Provision of Protectors

(1) A protector acceptable for the purpose shall be provided on each wire television distribution circuit unless:

(a) The television distribution cable has an effectively grounded metallic sheath or effectively grounded outer conductor of a coaxial cable; and

(b) The metallic sheath of the television distribution cable or outer conductor of a coaxial cable is connected to ground at entrances to buildings in accordance with Rules 54-092, 54-094, 54-096 and 54-098.

(2) The protector shall be located in, or on, the building served, as near as practicable to the point at which the cable or wire enters, but, in the case of an underground entrance fed from aerial cable or wires, the protector may be placed at the junction of the underground and the aerial conductors.

(3) The protector shall not be located in any hazardous location as defined in Section 18, nor in the immediate vicinity of flammable or explosive materials.

(4) If the entire street circuit is run underground, no protector need be provided unless that portion of the circuit between the street and the building is liable to accidental contact with electric lighting or power conductors operating at a voltage exceeding 300 volts between conductors.

54-062 Protection Requirements

(1) The protector shall be mounted on an incombustible, absorption-resistant, insulating base except that, where a number of conductors are grouped to serve a building, the protectors may be mounted on a grounded metallic frame.

(2) The protector shall consist of an arrester between each line conductor and the ground, and a fuse connected in each line conductor so as to protect the arrester, except that the fuses may be omitted under the conditions outlined in Sub-rule (4).

(3) The protector terminals shall be plainly marked to indicate "line", "equipment" and "ground".

(4) Fuses protecting the arrester may be omitted:

(a) On circuits entering a building through metal-sheathed cable, provided the metal sheath of the cable is grounded and the conductors in the cable are No. 24 AWG or smaller; or

(b) On circuits served directly by cables with grounded metal sheath or by insulated conductors, in accordance with Rules 54-078 and 54-080, extending from such cable to the building served, provided that the protector is acceptable for this purpose.

54-064 Arrangement of Inside Cables or Conductors

(1) Cables or conductors inside buildings shall be neatly arranged and secured in place in a convenient and workmanlike manner.

(2) The installation of such cables or conductors shall be in conformity with the provisions of Rules 54-066 to 54-068.

54-066 Insulation of Inside Cables or Conductors. The kind of insulation for the cables or conductors of the wire television distribution system, located as in Rule 54-064, shall be acceptable for the particular application, but is not specified in further detail as reliance is placed upon the grounding arrangements or protectors to prevent dangerous voltages and currents where the conductors are liable to contact with power conductors.

54-068 Separation of Inside Cables or Conductors from Other Conductors

(1) The cables or conductors of a wire television distribution system in a building shall be separated at least 2 inches from any conductor of an electric light or power system unless:

(a) One system is in grounded metallic raceways or metal-sheathed cable; or

(b) Both systems are permanently separated by a continuous, firmly fixed non-conductor, other than the insulation on the conductors, such as porcelain tubes or flexible tubing.

(2) The cables or conductors of a wire television distribution system shall not be placed in any outlet box, junction box, raceway or similar fitting or compartment which contains conductors of electric light or power systems or of Class 1 circuits (as defined in Rule 16-004) unless:

(a) The wire television cables or conductors are separated from the other conductors by an acceptable partition; or

(b) The power or Class 1 conductors are placed solely for the purpose of supplying power to the wire television distribution system or for connection to remote-control equipment.

(3) The cables or conductors of a wire television distribution system in a building shall not be placed in a shaft with the conductors of an electric light or power system unless:

(a) The conductors of the two systems are separated by at least 2 inches; or

(b) The conductors of either system are encased in non-combustible tubing.

(4) There is no specific separation requirement for wire television distribution cable or conductors and communication cables or conductors other than the clearance necessary to prevent conflict or abrasion, providing the wire television distribution cables or conductors and the communication cable or conductor adhere to standard clearances from power circuits as defined in this Section and to the satisfaction of an inspector.

54-070 Inside Cables or Conductors in a Vertical Run. Where cables or conductors of a wire television distribution system in a building are in a vertical run in a shaft or partition, they shall:

(a) Have a fire-resistant covering capable of preventing the carrying of fire from floor to floor;

(b) Be encased in tubing or other covering of non-combustible material; or

(c) Be located in a fireproof shaft having fire stops at each floor.

54-072 Outside Overhead Cables or Conductors on Poles. Clearances acceptable to an inspector shall be maintained between overhead wire distribution cables or conductors mounted on the same poles as power or communication cables.

54-074 Outside Overhead Cables or Conductors on Roofs

(1) Wire television cables or conductors passing over buildings shall be kept at least 8 feet above any roof which may be readily walked upon, except that such clearance may be reduced or eliminated by special permission.

(2) Such special permission shall not be necessary where the building is a garage, or other auxiliary building of one storey.

54-076 Outside Cables or Conductors Requiring Protectors. Wire television distribution circuits which require protectors in accordance with Rule 54-060 of this Code, shall comply with Rules 54-078 and 54-084.

54-078 Insulation on Outside Single or Paired Conductors

(1) In a wire television distribution circuit requiring a protector, each conductor from the last outside support to the protector shall be covered, either individually or over the pair, with a substantial fibrous covering or equivalent protection and shall:

(a) Have $\frac{1}{32}$-inch rubber insulation;
(b) Have rubber insulation which need not exceed 1/40 inch in thickness when such conductors are entirely within a block; or
(c) Be acceptable for the purpose, having rubber insulation of a thickness less than specified above, or having other kinds of insulation.

(2) The word "block" as used in this Section of the Code shall be construed to mean a square or portion of a city, town or village, enclosed by streets and including the alleys so enclosed, but not any street.

54-080 Insulation of Outside Cables

(1) Conductors of wire television distribution circuits requiring protectors may have paper or other suitable insulation within a cable having:

(a) A metal sheath; or
(b) A rubber sheath of at least $\frac{1}{32}$-inch thickness and covered with a substantial fibrous covering.

(2) Conductors of wire television distribution circuits requiring protectors, within a cable having a sheath other than specified in Sub-rule (1), shall be insulated as required by Rule 54-078, and the bunched conductors shall be covered with a substantial fibrous covering or equivalent covering.

54-082 Outside Cables or Conductors on Buildings

(1) Wire television distribution cables or conductors on buildings shall be separated from light or power conductors not in cable or conduit by at least 4 inches, unless permanently separated by a continuous and firmly fixed non-conductor in addition to the insulation on the conductors, such as porcelain tubes or flexible conduit.

(2) Wire television distribution cables or conductors exposed to accidental contact with light or power conductors operating at voltages exceeding 300 volts, and attached to buildings, shall be separated from woodwork by being supported on glass, porcelain, or other insulating material acceptable for the purpose, except that such separation is not required where cables or conductors acceptable for the purpose are used to extend circuits to a building from a cable having a grounded metal sheath or grounded outer coaxial cable conductor.

(3) Wire television distribution cables or conductors attached to buildings shall not conflict with the circuits of other communication systems attached to the same building. Sufficient clearances shall be provided that there will be no unnecessary interference to maintenance operations, and in no case should the conductors, cables, strand or equipment of one system cause abrasion to the conductors, cables, strand or equipment of the other system.

(4) Lead-in cables or conductors of a wire television distribution system, attached to buildings, shall be installed so that they cannot swing closer than:

(a) 24 inches to the conductors of circuits of 300 volts or less;
(b) 40 inches to the conductors of circuits of more than 300 volts.

54-084 Outside Cables or Conductors Entering Buildings. Where a protector is installed inside the building, the wire television distribution cables or conductors shall enter the building either through a non-combustible, non-absorptive insulating bushing, or through a metal raceway, except that the insulating bushing or metal raceway may be omitted where the entering conductors:

(a) Are in metal-sheathed cable;
(b) Pass through masonry; or
(c) Are acceptable for the purpose and are used to extend circuits to a building from a cable having a grounded metal sheath.

54-086 Lightning Conductors. A separation of at least 6 feet shall, where practicable, be maintained between cables or conductors of wire television distribution systems on buildings and lightning conductors.

54-088 Underground Ducts

(1) Underground wire television distribution cables or conductors shall not be placed in any duct which contains electric lighting or power conductors.

(2) Duct systems, including laterals, to be occupied by wire television distribution cables or conductors for public use should be separated, where practicable, from duct systems, including laterals, for supply conductors by not less than 3 inches of concrete, 4 inches of brick masonry, or 12 inches of well-tamped earth.

(3) Where wire television distribution conductors or cables occupy ducts terminating in the same manhole or handhole, the two classes of ducts should be separated as widely as practicable and, where practicable, shall enter the manhole from opposite sides.

(4) Wire television distribution cables and supply cables for public use occupying the same manhole should, where practicable, be maintained at opposite sides of the manhole.

54-090 Underground Block Distribution. Where the entire street circuit is run underground and the part of the circuit within the block is placed so that it is not liable to contact with electric lighting or power circuits of more than 300 volts:

(a) No protector as specified in Rule 54-060 is required, and Rule 54-080 shall not apply;
(b) The insulation requirements of Rules 54-078 and 54-080 shall not apply;
(c) Conductors or cables need not be placed on insulating supports as specified in Rule 54-082 (2); and
(d) Where the conductors or cables enter the building, no bushings as specified in Rule 54-084 are required.

54-092 Ground of Cable Sheath or Outer Conductor of a Coaxial Cable. Where aerial cables, which are liable to contact the electric lighting or power conductors, enter buildings, the metal sheath of the cable or outer conductor of a coaxial cable shall be grounded.

54-094 Grounding Conductor

(1) The grounding conductor for a cable sheath, outer conductor of a coaxial cable or protector, shall have rubber insulation not less than $\frac{1}{32}$-inch in thickness, and shall be covered by a substantial fibrous covering except that conductors acceptable for the purpose, having less than $\frac{1}{32}$-inch rubber insulation, or having other kinds of insulation, may be used.

(2) The grounding conductor shall be of copper.

(3) Protector grounding conductors shall be not smaller than No. 18 AWG.

(4) Sheath or outer conductor of coaxial cable grounding conductors shall have a conductivity at least equal to that of the metallic sheath, or the outer conductor of the coaxial cable, and shall be connected to the metallic sheath, or outer conductor of the coaxial cable, by means of pressure connectors or other acceptable means.

(5) The grounding conductor shall be run from the cable sheath, outer conductor of a coaxial cable, or protector to the grounding electrode in as straight a line as possible.

(6) Where necessary, the grounding conductor shall be guarded from mechanical injury.

54-096 Grounding Electrode

(1) The grounding conductor shall be connected to a metallic water pipe electrode, as close to the point of entrance as possible.

(2) Where a metallic water pipe is not available and the grounded conductor of the power service is connected to the water pipe at the building, the cable sheath, outer conductor of a coaxial cable or protector, grounding conductors may be connected to the power service conduit, service equipment enclosures, or to the grounding conductor of the power service.

(3) In the absence of a metallic water pipe, the wire television distribution cable sheath, the outer conductor of a coaxial cable, or the protector may be connected to an effectively grounded metallic structure, or to a ground rod or pipe driven into permanently damp earth, but steam or hot-water pipes, gas pipes or lightning rod conductors shall not be used as grounding electrodes.

(4) In areas where there is no underground metallic water systems, it is most desirable that wire television distribution, telephone and power ground rods, which are normally provided under such circumstances, be interconnected to prevent large differences in potential between the wiring systems in buildings when one of the wiring systems is subjected to a lightning surge or power contact. Interconnection should be made with a bond wire, or wires having greater conductivity than that of the power grounding conductor. Interconnection may be made to the power service equipment enclosure, if this conduit or equipment enclosure is connected to the power service multi-grounded neutral. Interconnection may also be made to the grounding conductor of the power service, if the power service is of the multi-grounded neutral type.

54-098 Grounding Electrode Connection

(1) The grounding conductor shall be attached to a grounding electrode by means of an approved bolt clamp except, in the case of a ground rod, a wire lead may be permanently connected to the rod in an approved manner and this wire lead connected to the grounding conductor by means of pressure connectors or other acceptable means.

(2) Where a bolt clamp is used, the grounding conductor shall be acceptably connected to the clamp in an effective manner.

54-100 Cables or Conductors Extending from Building to Building

(1) This type of construction should only be used within the confines of private property.

(2) Cables or conductors extending between buildings shall always be run below any power conductors which may exist in this space.

(3) Cables or conductors extending between buildings shall be installed so they cannot swing closer than:

(a) 24 inches to the conductors of power or lighting circuits of 300 volts or less;

(b) 40 inches to the conductors of power or lighting circuits of more than 300 volts;

(c) 24 inches to the conductors of any other communication circuits.

(4) Cables or conductors extending between buildings shall have acceptable clearance above ground.

(5) Cables or conductors extending between buildings, and their supports or attachment fixtures, shall be acceptable for the purpose and shall have sufficient strength to withstand the loads to which they may be subjected, except that, when conductors or cables do not have sufficient strength to be self-supporting, they shall be lashed to a supporting strand which, together with its attachment fixtures or supports, shall be acceptable for the purpose, and shall have sufficient strength to withstand the loads to which it may be subjected.

54-102 Wire Television Distribution Amplifiers

(1) Wire television distribution amplifier cabinets and chassis, cable sheath or outer conductor of coaxial cable and the metallic conduit or metallic cable sheath enclosing the power service wire connection to the amplifier, must all be connected to the supply multi-grounded neutral using No. 6 AWG copper wire.

(2) The conduit or metallic cable sheath, enclosing the power service wire connection to the amplifier, may be used as part of this connection to the supply multi-grounded neutral if it has a current-carrying capacity equivalent to No. 6 AWG copper wire.

(3) Wire television distribution amplifier cabinets shall be provided with locks if they are so mounted as to be accessible to the public.

SECTION 56—SMALL ISOLATED PLANTS

56-000 Scope. This Section applies to:

(a) Electric power plants in which:

(i) A prime mover is connected to an electric generator operating at a potential difference of less than 50 volts, or

(ii) A storage battery is the source of supply; and

(b) The control devices used in the plants.

56-002 Lampholders. Lampholders shall be rated 660 watt, 250 volt, and shall be considered to have a maximum current-carrying capacity of 3½ amperes.

56-004 Conductors

(1) No conductors shall have a current-carrying capacity less than that of No. 12 AWG copper wire but a flexible cord which supplies a single lampholder may be of No. 14 AWG.

(2) The sizes of conductors used shall be those specified in Tables 1, 2, 3 or 4.

56-006 Number of Outlets on Branch Circuits. There shall be not more than 8 outlets on a branch circuit.

56-008 Branch Circuit Capacity. In determining the size of conductors required, each lampholder shall be considered as loaded to not less than 2 amperes.

56-010 Branch Circuit Overcurrent Protection. The overcurrent devices which protect branch circuits shall be rated or set at not more than 20 amperes.

56-012 Devices over 5 Amperes

(1) No device rated at more than 5 amperes shall be connected to a branch circuit which supplies incandescent lamps.

(2) A device rated at more than 5 amperes shall be supplied from a branch circuit used for no other purpose and equipped with receptacles rated at not less than 20 amperes.

56-014 Batteries. Batteries shall be kept in rooms or spaces having natural means of ventilation.

SECTION 58—FUR STORAGE VAULTS

58-000 Scope. This Section applies to electrical equipment and installations in fur storage vaults.

58-002 Electrical Equipment in Storage Vaults. Electrical equipment in storage vaults shall be limited to:

(a) Supply conduits or cable;
(b) Lighting fixtures;
(c) Burglary and fire-detection and fire-extinction systems;
(d) Ventilation motors, refrigeration and air conditioning and air circulating or blower motors, all of which shall comply with Rule 58-012; and
(e) Such other equipment as may be necessary to the proper utilization of the storage vault.

58-004 Wiring Method

(1) The wiring method in storerooms shall be rigid conduit, mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable except that, where a flexible connection is required, a short length of flexible conduit may be used.

(2) Conduits shall be joined with threaded fittings.

(3) Outlet or junction boxes or other wiring enclosures shall have threaded hubs which provide at least three full threads for the attachment of conduit or cable fittings.

58-006 Portable Lamps, etc. Portable lamps, portable heaters, extension cords or pendent cords shall not be used in storerooms.

58-008 Lighting Fixtures

(1) Where incandescent lighting fixtures are installed in a storage vault they shall be of the totally-enclosed gasketted type to safeguard against possible discharge of sparks or hot particles.

(2) Lighting fixtures shall be located so that their lamps shall be at least 12 inches from the stored garments and fumigant evaporating trays and shall not be located directly above such trays.

(3) Where fluorescent fixtures are installed, each ballast including its power factor correcting capacitor, shall be inherently protected by suitable temperature limiting devices.

58-010 Lighting Branch Circuits

(1) Lighting branch circuits in a storage vault shall be controlled by a switch located outside the vault, but near the entrance thereto.

(2) A switch controlling a lighting circuit in a storage vault shall be provided with a red-coloured pilot light located outside the vault so as to be visible to an attendant.

(3) Where a master switch is arranged to control all lighting circuits in one or more storage vaults, then only one pilot light shall be required for the master switch.

(4) Where a lighting circuit is protected by a fuse, a Type S tamper-resistant fuse shall be used.

58-012 Motors

(1) Only motors essential to operation shall be located in a storage vault and such motors shall be of the totally-enclosed type, protected integrally against overheating by a manual re-set device approved for use with the particular motor involved.

(2) Refrigeration and air conditioning units, including compressors, and motors shall not be located in a storage vault unless the refrigerant is non-flammable and the unit is approved as a self-contained assembly designed for permanent installation.

(3) Where a motor is used to exhaust fumes or smoke from a vault its controller shall be located outside the vault and its function shall be conspicuously identified for the benefit of the Fire Department.

(4) All refrigeration systems, air conditioning systems, blowers and fans serving a storage vault shall be cut off automatically on actuation of an automatic fire detection or protection system installed within the vault.

SECTION 60—ELECTRICAL COMMUNICATION SYSTEMS

60-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to electrical communication systems, that is to telephone, telegraph, district messenger, fire and burglar alarm, watchman or sprinkler supervisory systems, and other central station systems of a similar nature, which commonly receive the power supply necessary for their operation from central office or local battery sources; and to telephone systems not connected to a central station system but using similar types of equipment, methods of installation and maintenance.

(2) This Section outlines those protective measures which are essential to safeguard electrical communications systems under the various conditions to which they are subjected.

(3) This Section does not apply to radio communication equipment.

60-002 Circuits in Communication Cables. Remote-control circuits and signal circuits which use conductors in a cable assembly with other conductors forming parts of communication circuits are, for the purposes of this Code, deemed to be communication circuits.

60-004 Hazardous Locations. Where the circuits or apparatus within the scope of this Section are installed in hazardous locations, they shall also comply with the applicable rules of Section 18.

60-006 Approval of Inspector

(1) Communication circuits employed by an electrical or communication utility in the exercise of its function as a utility shall not be subject to the approval of an inspector.

(2) Where the communication circuit derives power for operation from a supply circuit, the transformer or other current-limiting device used at the junction of the communication and the supply circuit shall be subject to the approval of an inspector.

60-008 Approved Transformers. Where transformers or other devices supply current to a communication circuit from an electric supply circuit, the transformers or other devices shall be of a type approved for the service.

Protection

60-010 Provision of Protectors

(1) A protector, acceptable for the purpose, shall be provided on each communication circuit, except as provided in Sub-rule (4).

(2) The protector shall be located in or on the building served as near as practicable to the point at which the conductors enter but in the case of an underground entrance fed from aerial cable or wires, the protector may be placed at the junction of the underground and the aerial conductors.

(3) The protector shall not be located in any hazardous location as defined in Section 18, nor in the immediate vicinity of flammable or explosive materials.

(4) If the entire street circuit is run underground, no protector need be provided unless that portion of the circuit between the street and the building is liable to accidental contact with electric lighting or power conductors operating at a potential exceeding 300 volts between conductors.

60-012 Protector Requirements

(1) The protector shall be mounted on an incombustible, absorption-resisting, insulating base except that, where a number of conductors are grouped to serve a building, the protectors may be mounted on a grounded metallic frame.

(2) The protector shall consist of an arrester between each line conductor and the ground, and a fuse connected in each line conductor so as to protect the arrester, except that the fuses may be omitted under the conditions outlined in Sub-rule (4).

(3) The protector terminals shall be plainly marked to indicate "line", "instrument" and "ground".

(4) Protectors without fuses may be used:

(a) On circuits entering a building through metal-sheathed cable, provided the metal sheath of the cable is grounded and the conductors in the cable are No. 24 AWG or smaller;
(b) On circuits served by insulated conductors, in accordance with Rules 60-028 and 60-030, extending to a building from a metal-sheathed cable, provided the metal sheath is grounded and the conductors in the cable or cable stub are No. 24 AWG or smaller; or
(c) On circuits served by insulated conductors, in accordance with Rules 60-028 and 60-030, extending to a building from other than grounded metal-sheathed cable, provided:

(i) The protector is acceptable for this purpose,
(ii) The protector grounding conductor is grounded to a water pipe electrode or to the grounding conductor or grounding electrode of a multi-grounded neutral power system, and
(iii) The connections of the insulated conductors extending from the building to the exposed plant, or the conductors of the exposed plant, shall safely fuse at currents less than the current-carrying capacity of the protector used.

Inside Conductors

60-014 Arrangements of Conductors

(1) Conductors on the consumer's or subscriber's side of the protector and conductors inside buildings in which no protector is provided shall be neatly arranged and secured in place in a convenient and workmanlike manner.

(2) The installation of such conductors shall be in conformity with the provisions of Rules 60-016 to 60-020.

(3) In all buildings where the number of communication conductors warrants such a procedure or where raceways are required for lighting and power, consideration shall be given to the provision of suitable raceways or conduit for the service to and distribution of communication circuits for the building.

60-016 Insulation. The kind of insulation for the conductors of communication systems, located as in Rule 60-014, shall be acceptable for the particular application, but is not specified in further detail as reliance is placed upon the protectors to prevent dangerous voltages and currents where the conductors are liable to contact with power conductors.

60-018 Separation from Other Conductors

(1) The conductors of an electrical communication system in a building shall be separated at least 2 inches from any conductor of an electric light or power system unless:

(a) One system is in grounded metallic raceways or metal-sheathed cable; or
(b) Both systems are permanently separated by a continuous, firmly fixed non-conductor, other than the insulation on the conductors such as porcelain tubes or flexible tubing.

(2) The conductors of an electrical communication system shall not be placed in any outlet box, junction box, raceway, or similar fitting or compartment which contains conductors of electric light or power systems or of Class 1 circuits as defined in Rule 16-004 unless:

(a) The communication conductors are separated from the other conductors by an acceptable partition; or
(b) The power or Class 1 conductors are placed solely for the purpose of supplying power to the communication system or for connection to remote-control equipment.

(3) The conductors of an electrical communication system in a building shall not be placed in a shaft with the conductors of an electric light or power system unless:

(a) The conductors of the two systems are separated by at least 2 inches; or
(b) The conductors of either system are encased in non-combustible tubing.

60-020 Conductors in a Vertical Run. Where conductors of communication circuits in a building are in a vertical run in a shaft or partition, they shall:

(a) Have a flame-retarding covering capable of preventing the carrying of fire from floor to floor; or
(b) Be encased in tubing or other outer covering of non-combustible material; or
(c) Be located in a fireproof shaft having fire stops at each floor.

Outside Conductors

60-022 Overhead Conductors on Poles. The installation of overhead communication conductors on poles in proximity with power conductors shall be established to the satisfaction of an inspector.

60-024 Overhead Conductors on Roofs

(1) Communication conductors passing over buildings shall be kept at least 8 feet above any roof which may be readily walked upon.

(2) Communication conductors shall not be attached to the upper surfaces of roofs or be run within 6 feet, measured vertically, of a roof without special permission.

(3) Special permission shall not be necessary where the building is a garage or other auxiliary building of one storey.

60-026 Circuits Requiring Protectors. Communication circuits which require protectors in accordance with Rule 60-010 of this Code shall comply with Rules 60-028 to 60-034.

60-028 Insulation, Single or Paired Conductors

(1) In a communication circuit requiring a protector, each conductor from the last outdoor support to the protector shall be covered, either individually or over the pair, with a substantial fibrous covering or equivalent protection and shall:

(a) Have 1/32-inch rubber insulation; or
(b) Have rubber insulation which need not exceed 1/40-inch in thickness when such conductors are entirely within a block; or
(c) Shall be conductors acceptable for the purpose, having rubber insulation of a thickness less than specified above, or having other kinds of insulation.

(2) The word "block" as used in this Section of the Code shall be construed to mean a square or portion of a city, town or village enclosed by streets and including the alleys so enclosed but not any street.

60-030 Cable Insulation

(1) Conductors of communication circuits requiring protectors may have paper or other suitable insulation within a cable having:

(a) A metal sheath; or
(b) A rubber sheath at least 1/32-inch thick and covered with a substantial fibrous covering.

(2) Conductors, of communication circuits requiring protectors, within a cable having a sheath other than specified in Sub-rule (1), shall be insulated as required by Rule 60-028, and the bunched conductors shall be covered with a substantial fibrous covering or equivalent covering.

60-032 On Buildings

(1) Communication conductors on buildings shall be separated from light or power conductors not in cable or conduit by at least 4 inches unless permanently separated by a continuous and firmly fixed non-conductor in addition to the insulation on the conductors, such as porcelain tubes or flexible tubing.

(2) Communication conductors exposed to accidental contact with light or power conductors operating at voltages exceeding 300 volts, and attached to buildings, shall be separated from woodwork by being supported on glass, porcelain or other insulating material acceptable for the purpose, except that such separation is not required where fuses are omitted as provided for in Rule 60-012 (4), or where conductors acceptable for the purpose are used to extend circuits to a building from a cable having a grounded metal sheath.

60-034 Entering Buildings. Where a protector is installed inside the building, the communication conductors shall enter the building either through a non-combustible, non-absorptive insulating bushing or through a metal raceway, except that the insulating bushing may be omitted where the entering conductors:

(a) Are in metal-sheathed cable;
(b) Pass through masonry;
(c) Are acceptable for the purpose and fuses are omitted as provided for in Rule 60-012 (4); or
(d) Are acceptable for the purpose and are used to extend circuits to a building from a cable having a grounded metal sheath.

60-036 Lightning Conductors. A separation of at least 6 feet shall, where practicable, be maintained between conductors of communication circuits on buildings and lightning conductors.

Underground Circuits

60-038 Separate Ducts

(1) Underground communication conductors shall not be placed in any duct which contains electric lighting or power conductors.

(2) Duct systems, including laterals, to be occupied by communication conductors for public use should be separated, where practicable, from duct systems, including laterals, for supply conductors by not less than 3 inches of concrete, 4 inches of brick masonry or 12 inches of well-tamped earth.

(3) Where communication and supply conductors or cables occupy ducts terminating in the same manhole or handhole, the two classes of ducts should be separated as widely as practicable and where practicable shall enter the manhole from opposite sides.

(4) Communication cables and supply cables for public use occupying the same manhole should, where practicable, be maintained at opposite sides of the manhole.

60-040 Underground Block Distribution. Where the entire street circuit is run underground and the part of the circuit within the block is so placed that it is not liable to contact with electric lighting or power circuits of more than 300 volts:

(a) No protector is required as specified in Rule 60-010;
(b) The insulation requirements of Rule 60-028 and 60-030 shall not apply;
(c) Conductors need not be placed on insulating supports as specified in Rule 60-032 (2); and
(d) Where the conductors enter the building no bushings are required as specified in Rule 60-034.

Grounding

60-042 Grounding of Cable Sheath. Where aerial cables, liable to contact with electric lighting or power conductors, enter buildings, the metal sheath of the cable shall be grounded, or shall be interrupted close to the entrance to the building by an insulating joint or equivalent device.

60-044 Protector Grounding Conductor

(1) The protector grounding conductor shall have rubber insulation not less than 1/32-inch thick and shall be covered by a substantial fibrous covering, except that conductors acceptable for the purpose, having less than 1/32-inch rubber insulation, or having other kinds of insulation, may be used.

(2) The grounding conductor shall be of copper, not smaller than No. 18 AWG.

(3) The grounding conductor shall be run from the protector to the grounding electrode in as straight a line as possible.

(4) Where necessary, the grounding conductor shall be guarded from mechanical injury.

60-046 Grounding Electrode

(1) The grounding conductor shall preferably be connected to a water pipe electrode, as close to the point of entrance as possible.

(2) Where a water pipe is not readily available and the grounded conductor of the power service is connected to the water pipe at the building, the protector grounding conductor may be connected to the power service conduit, service equipment enclosures or to the grounding conductor of the power service.

(3) In the absence of a water pipe, the communication protector grounding conductor may be connected to an effectively grounded metallic structure, or to a ground rod or pipe driven into permanently damp earth, but:

(a) Steam or hot water pipes, or lightning rod conductors shall not be used as grounding electrodes; and
(b) A driven rod or pipe used for grounding power circuits shall not be used as a communication protector grounding electrode unless it is connected to the grounded conductor of a multi-grounded power neutral.

60-048 Grounding Electrode Connection

(1) The grounding conductor shall be attached to a grounding electrode by means of an approved bolt clamp except that, in the case of a ground rod, a wire lead may be permanently connected to the rod in an approved manner, and this wire lead connected to the grounding conductor by means of pressure connectors or other acceptable means.

(2) Where a bolt clamp is used, the grounding conductor shall be soldered or otherwise acceptably connected to the clamp in an effective manner.

SECTION 62—FIXED ELECTRIC SPACE AND SURFACE HEATING SYSTEMS

62-000 Scope. This Section applies to:

(a) Fixed electric space heating systems for heating rooms and similar areas; and

(b) Fixed surface heating systems for pipe heating, melting of snow or ice on roofs or concrete or asphalt surfaces, soil heating and similar applications other than space heating.

62-002 General Rules. Rules 62-004 to 62-030 apply to both fixed space and surface heating installations.

62-004 Special Terminology. In this Section the following definitions apply:

(a) "cable" means an insulated heating conductor;

(b) "cable set" means a heating conductor and includes the non-heating portion connected to the heating portion;

(c) "central unit" means any heating unit, or group of units assembled so as to form a complete unit, permanently installed in such a way that it can convey heat to rooms or areas using air, liquid or vapour flowing through pipes or ducts, and includes duct heaters;

(d) Fixture means any heating unit, or group of units assembled so as to form a complete unit, permanently installed in such a manner that it can be removed or replaced without removing or damaging any part of the building structure.

62-006 Special Locations. Heating equipment installed in hazardous locations or where subject to wet or corrosive conditions shall be of a type approved for the particular location.

62-008 Terminal Connections

(1) Connections to heating equipment shall be made in terminal fittings or boxes, and equipment shall be installed so that the connections between circuit conductors and equipment conductors are accessible without disturbing any part of the wiring.

(2) Where the temperature at the point of connection between branch circuit conductors and heating equipment exceeds 60° C. (140° F.), the branch circuit conductors shall be installed in accordance with Rule 30-054.

62-010 Branch Circuits

(1) Branch circuits used for the supply of energy to heating equipment shall be used solely for such equipment.

(2) For the purpose of this Rule, an approved unit which combines heating with ventilating or lighting equipment or both, shall be considered to be heating equipment.

62-012 Overcurrent Protection and Grouping

(1) Every fixture, cable or cable set having an input of more than 30 amperes shall be supplied by a single branch circuit used for no other purpose.

(2) Two or more fixtures, cables or cable sets may be grouped on a single branch circuit protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at not more than 15 amperes provided that the sum of the inputs of all units on the circuit does not exceed 1500 watts at 115 volts or 3000 watts at 230 volts.

(3) Two or more fixtures, cables or cable sets may be grouped on a single branch circuit protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at more than 15 amperes provided that:

(a) The sum of the inputs of all units does not exceed the rating or setting of the overcurrent device;

(b) The input of the smallest unit is not less than 25 per cent of the rating or setting of the overcurrent device; and

(c) The rating or setting of the overcurrent device does not exceed:

(i) 30 amperes for dwelling occupancies, and

(ii) 60 amperes for surface heating cables or cable sets embedded in noncombustible material.

(4) The following units shall not be connected to circuits protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at more than 15 amperes:

(a) Plug-in type cables or cable sets;

(b) Cables or cable sets for space heating applications; and

(c) Surface heating cables not embedded in noncombustible material.

62-014 Circuit Voltage, Dwelling Occupancies. Branch circuits supplying energy to heating equipment in dwelling occupancies shall not have a voltage exceeding 150 volts to ground.

62-016 Thermal Insulation. Where heating equipment is installed on or within any surface such as walls or ceilings, only thermal insulation of the non-corrosive, noncombustible type shall be used.

62-018 Installation of Fixtures

(1) Fixtures shall be installed so that:

(a) The proper radiation of heat shall not be obstructed by any portion of the building structure;

(b) Adjacent combustible material shall not be subjected to temperatures in excess of 90° C. (194° F.).

(2) Where a fixture is recessed in noncombustible material in a building of concrete, masonry or equal fire-resisting construction, the noncombustible material may be subjected to temperatures not exceeding 150° C. (302° F.), but the fixture shall be plainly marked as approved for the service.

(3) Fixtures weighing more than 10 pounds shall be installed so that the wiring connections in the outlet box or its equivalent will be accessible for inspection without removing the fixture supports.

(4) Fixtures weighing more than 25 pounds shall not be supported directly by an outlet box which is mounted on a bar hanger.

(5) Fixtures weighing more than 50 pounds shall be supported independently of the outlet box.

62-020 Fixtures as Raceways. No fixture shall be used as a raceway for circuit conductors unless the fixture meets the requirements of an approved raceway.

62-022 Construction of Cable Sets

(1) Cable sets shall be complete approved assemblies including the non-heating end leads, and shall have permanent markings as required not more than 3 inches from the supply terminal ends of the non-heating leads.

(2) Non-heating end leads shall have distinctive coloring, yellow for 120 volts nominal, blue for 208 volts nominal and red for 240 volts nominal, to indicate the voltage for which the assembly is approved.

62-024 Installation of Cables and Cable Sets

(1) The heating portion of a cable set shall not be shortened and any cable set which does not bear its original markings shall be considered to have been shortened and will be rejected unless the installer can prove to the satisfaction of the inspection department, by instrument measurements, that the characteristics of the approved cable set have not been altered.

(2) The entire length of the heating portion, including connections to non-heating leads, shall be installed within the heating area.

(3) Cable sets shall be installed so that the temperature on any part will not exceed 90° C. (194° F.) except as permitted in Rule 62-054 (3).

(4) The heating portions of cables or cable sets shall not be run closer than 8 inches to any outlet to which a lighting fixture or other heat-producing equipment is liable to be connected.

(5) Cables and cable sets shall have metallic shields or sheaths where:

(a) They are in contact with conductive material which in itself is not effectively grounded; and
(b) The cable or cable set is liable to accidental contact.

(6) Metallic shields and sheaths of cables and cable sets shall be grounded.

62-026 Non-heating End Leads of Cable Sets. Where the heating element of a cable set is embedded in a concrete or similar floor the non-heating end leads, if not of the metal-sheathed type shall be run from within the concrete to the junction box in rigid conduit which shall terminate in a horizontal run within the concrete and have a bushing or equivalent fitting to prevent abrasion of the conductors where they emerge from the conduit.

62-028 Demand Factors for Service Conductors and Feeders

(1) Where service conductors or feeders are used solely for the supply of energy to heating equipment they shall have a current-carrying capacity equal to the sum of the current ratings of all the equipment they supply, subject to the application of the following demand factors:

(a) Where the installation is provided with automatic thermostatic control devices in each room or heating area for space heating, or for each device or area for surface heating the demand factors shown in Table 30 may be applied;
(b) Where the installation consists of one central unit only or is not provided with automatic thermostatic control as outlined in Paragraph (a) of this Rule, a demand factor of 100 per cent shall be applied.

(2) Where service conductors or feeders supply a combined load of heating and other equipment, they shall have a current-carrying capacity equal to the sum of the heating load as computed by Sub-rule (1) of this Rule plus the combined loads of the other equipment with demand factors as applicable.

62-030 Temperature Control Devices

(1) Temperature control devices rated to operate at line voltage shall have a current rating at least equal to the sum of the current ratings of the equipment they control.

(2) Temperature control devices which can be turned automatically or manually to an indicated or otherwise marked "OFF" position and which either interrupt line current directly or control a contactor or similar device which interrupts line current shall open all ungrounded conductors of the controlled heating circuit when in the "OFF" position.

(3) In the case of heaters installed in the bathrooms, the temperature control devices referred to in Sub-rule (2) shall open both grounded and ungrounded conductors of the controlled heating circuit when in the "OFF" position.

Electric Space Heating Systems

62-032 Electric Space Heating. Rules 62-034 to 62-048 apply to fixed electric space heating systems for heating rooms and similar areas.

62-034 Temperature Control. Each enclosed area shall have a temperature control device.

62-036 Connections to Circuit Conductors. Cable sets used for interior space heating shall have non-heating end leads for connection to circuit conductors.

62-038 Location of Cable Sets. The heating portions of cable sets shall not be:

(a) Installed in or behind any wall surface, nor in any other location where they may be subject to mechanical injury either during or after construction;
(b) Installed in, nor concealed behind any surface having wood lath, wood panelling or similar combustible material;
(c) Run through walls, partitions, floors or similar structures; or
(d) Run in or through any thermal insulation.

62-040 Proximity of Other Wiring. Wiring of other circuits located above heated ceilings shall be spaced not less than 2 inches above the ceiling and shall be considered as operating at an ambient temperature of 50° C. (112° F.) unless thermal insulation having a minimum thickness of 2 inches is interposed between the wiring and the ceiling.

62-042 Wattage Per Square Foot

(1) The total wattage of all cable sets installed in any heating area shall not exceed 25 watts per square foot over any portion of the area.

(2) There shall be a spacing of not less than 1½ inches between adjacent turns of the heating portion.

62-044 Cable Sets in Cement or Plaster

(1) Cable sets installed in cement or plaster shall be secured in place on the undercoat, gypsum board or plaster lath at not over 2-foot intervals by acceptable fastening devices suitable for the temperature involved, and of such nature as not to damage the cable.

(2) Fastening devices may consist of adhesive tape, cotton tape or of staples secured with an acceptable driving device.

(3) The entire length of the heating portion including the connections to the non-heating leads, shall be completely embedded in noncombustible material.

62-046 Cable Sets in Ceiling Spaces

(1) Cable sets installed in the spaces between joists or rafters shall be secured to an adequate supporting surface of gypsum board or similar fire-resisting material at the lower face of the joists or rafters.

(2) Heating portions shall be run parallel to the joists or rafters with a minimum separation of 1 inch from any combustible material.

(3) Where it is necessary for heating portions to pass from one space to another through any combustible structural member, they shall be encased in sleeves or tubing of noncombustible non-absorptive material not less than ½ inch internal diameter, filled with cement or plaster and securely fastened in place and the hole in the joist or rafter shall be not more than 1 inch from the lower face of the member.

(4) Heating portions shall be installed not more than 1 inch above the ceiling.

(5) Cable sets shall be covered throughout the heating area to a depth of not less than ½ inch with sand or equivalent heat-radiating material.

62-048 Installation of Central Units

(1) Central units shall be installed so that there is reasonable accessibility for repair and maintenance.

(2) Central units shall be installed:

(a) In an area which is large compared with the physical size of the unit unless specifically approved for installation in an alcove or closet; and

(b) So as to comply with the clearances from combustible materials as specified on the nameplate.

Electric Surface Heating Systems

62-050 Electric Surface Heating. Rules 62-052 to 62-060 apply to fixed surface heating systems for pipe heating, melting of snow or ice on roofs or concrete or asphalt surfaces, soil heating and similar applications other than space heating.

62-052 Installation of Fixtures

(1) If located so as to be exposed to rainfall, fixtures shall be provided with a weatherproof enclosure.

(2) All exposed metallic surfaces of fixtures shall be grounded.

62-054 Installation of Cables and Cable Sets, General

(1) Except by special permission, no cable or cable set shall be connected to any circuit operating at a voltage in excess of 300 volts.

(2) Cables and cable sets shall be installed so that adjacent materials will not be subjected to temperatures in excess of 90° C. (194° F.) unless special permission is obtained for the use of higher temperatures and the cable is approved for such higher temperature.

(3) No cable or cable set shall be installed closer than ½ inch to any exposed combustible surface unless the cable has a metallic shield or sheath and is provided with a positive temperature control which will limit the surface temperature of the cable to a value not exceeding 72° C. (160° F.).

62-056 Cables and Cable Sets Installed Below the Heated Surface

(1) Cables installed outdoors under driveways, sidewalks and similar locations shall:

(a) Have a metallic shield or sheath;

(b) Be embedded to a depth of at least 2 inches in concrete, reinforced except in sidewalks, having a minimum depth of 6 inches where subject to vehicular traffic or 4 inches where subject to pedestrian traffic;

(c) Be surrounded by noncombustible material throughout their length including the point of connection to the non-heating leads.

(2) Non-metallic cables installed indoors shall be not less than 1 inch from any uninsulated metallic bodies located below the surface to be heated.

(3) All uninsulated metallic bodies located at or below the surface to be heated shall be grounded.

62-058 Cables and Cable Sets Installed On or Wrapped Around Surfaces

(1) Cables and cable sets installed on or wrapped around surfaces shall be secured in place by suitable fastening devices which will not damage the cable.

(2) Cables and cable sets wrapped over valves or expansion joints in pipes shall be installed in such a manner as to avoid damage when movement occurs at these areas.

62-060 Cables and Cable Sets Installed in Pipes, Tanks, Etc.

(1) Cables and cable sets installed in pipes, tanks and similar locations shall be of a type suitable for immersion in the liquid to be heated.

(2) Where practicable, cables or cable sets installed in pipes, tanks and similar locations shall be secured in place by suitable fastening devices which will not damage the cable.

(3) Where the cable or cable set passes through the pipe or tank wall, it shall pass through a suitable liquid-tight gland.

(4) Where a metal raceway is required for the non-heating leads of a cable or cable set installed in a pipe, tank or similar location it shall be installed so that it will not become flooded in the event of failure of the liquid-tight gland required by Sub-rule (3).

SECTION 64—INDUCTION AND DIELECTRIC HEATING EQUIPMENT

General

64-000 Scope. This Section applies to the construction and installation of induction and dielectric heating equipment and accessories.

64-002 Special Terminology. In this Section the following definitions apply:

(a) "generating equipment" means any equipment used to change the voltage or frequency or both of the power supplied to such equipment; and

(b) "therapeutic equipment" means equipment whose output frequency is not less than 2 megacycles per second.

Wiring

64-004 Wiring Method

(1) Wiring from the source of power to generating equipment shall comply with the requirements of Sections 2, 4, 12, 14 and 28.

(2) Circuits and equipment operating on a supply circuit of more than 750 volts shall comply with the requirements of Section 36.

64-006 Capacity of Supply Conductors for Motor-Generator Equipment. The size of supply conductors for motor-generator equipment shall conform with the requirements of Section 28.

64-008 Capacity of Supply Conductors for Other than Motor-Generator Equipment. The size of supply conductors for other than motor-generator equipment shall be determined as follows:

(a) The current-carrying capacity of the circuit conductors shall be at least 100 per cent of the nameplate current rating of the equipment;

(b) The current-carrying capacity of conductors supplying two or more equipments shall be equal to at least 100 per cent of the sum of the nameplate current ratings on all equipment involved except that when two or more equipments are supplied from the same feeder and simultaneous operation of the equipments is not possible, the capacity of the feeder shall be at least 100 per cent of the sum of the nameplate currents for the largest group of machines capable of simultaneous operation, plus 100 per cent of the standby currents of the remaining machines supplied.

64-010 Overcurrent Protection for Motor-Generator Equipment. Overcurrent protection shall be provided for motor-generator equipment as specified in Section 14.

64-012 Overcurrent Protection for Other than Motor-Generator Equipment

(1) Overcurrent protection for other than motor-generator equipment shall be provided, if not supplied as part of the equipment, to protect the equipment as a whole.

(2) The overcurrent device shall have a rating or setting of not more than 200 per cent of the nameplate current rating.

64-014 Disconnecting Means

(1) A readily accessible disconnecting means shall be provided by which each generating equipment can be isolated from the supply circuit.

(2) The current-carrying capacity of this disconnecting means shall be at least 100 per cent of the nameplate current rating of the equipment.

(3) The supply circuit switch may be used as the generating equipment disconnecting means if the circuit supplies only one equipment.

64-016 Output Circuits

(1) Output circuits shall be considered to include all high frequency components external to the generators, including interconnecting radio frequency transmission lines, load tuning networks and work applicators.

(2) With respect to guarding, all parts of the output circuit shall be considered with the generating equipment as a complete assembly.

(3) Output circuits shall conform to the following:

(a) The work applicator shall be so guarded that safe operation of the equipment will be assured;

(b) When the connections between the generator and work applicator exceed 2 feet in length the connections shall be enclosed or guarded with noncombustible material;

(c) The generator output shall be at direct-current ground potential (coupled outputs alone, without other precautions, will not suffice because of the danger existing during possible flashovers).

64-018 Protective Cages and Shielding. Protective cages, adequate shielding or the equivalent, shall be used to guard work applicators, where practicable.

64-020 Grounding and Bonding

(1) Grounds for inter-unit bonding shall be used wherever required for circuit operation and for limiting to a safe value radio frequency potentials between all exposed non-current-carrying parts of the equipment and earth ground, also between all equipment parts and surrounding objects and between such objects and earth ground.

(2) Such grounding and bonding shall be installed in accordance with Section 10.

64-022 Low Frequency A-C in Generating Equipment Output. Commercial frequencies of 25 to 60 cycles per second output may be coupled for control purposes, but shall be limited to a value of 150 volts available only during periods of circuit operation.

64-024 Hazardous Locations. Induction and dielectric heat generating equipment shall not be installed in hazardous locations as defined in Section 18, unless the equipment is designed and approved for use in hazardous locations.

64-026 Enclosure of Generating Apparatus

(1) The generating apparatus including the dc, low- and high-frequency electrical circuits, but excluding the output circuits, shall be completely contained in an enclosure of noncombustible material.

(2) The metal housings of motors, generators and the like may serve as a part of this enclosure.

64-028 Transformers. Transformers which are part of high-frequency apparatus, even though they contain oil, shall be considered and treated as part of the device, and need not conform to the requirements of Rule 26-040.

64-030 Panel Controls. All panel controls shall be of "dead front" construction.

64-032 Access to Internal Equipment. Enclosures shall be constructed so that:

(a) Parts operating at potentials above 30 volts shall not be accessible directly;

(b) Parts operating at 31 to 750 volts shall not be accessible through doors, panels or covers unless:

(i) A key or tool is required to open such doors and a caution which reads "DISCONNECT SUPPLY CIRCUIT BEFORE OPENING" is attached to such doors, or

(ii) Shields or barriers are provided so that all operating adjustments and controls may be accomplished without access to live parts, and

(c) Parts operating at potentials above 750 volts shall not be accessible through doors, panels or covers unless such doors are provided with interlocks which remove all potentials above 30 volts when the doors are open.

64-034 Warning Labels. Warning labels, definitely indicating danger, shall be attached to doors, access panels or at other vantage points on equipment, so that the labels will be plainly visible when doors are opened or panels are removed from compartments containing voltages above 250 volts ac or dc.

64-036 Foot Switches. Switches operated by foot pressure shall be provided with a shield over the contact button to avoid accidental closing.

64-038 Remote Control. When remote controls are used for applying power, a "Local-Remote" switch shall be provided and interlocked so as to prevent the possibility of applying power from other than one selected control point.

64-040 Capacitors

(1) When capacitors in excess of 0.1 microfarad are used as rectifier filter compounds, arc suppressors, etc., in dc circuits having circuit voltages exceeding 230 volts to ground, bleeder resistors or grounding switches shall be used as grounding devices.

(2) Where auxiliary rectifiers are used with filter capacitors in the output for bias supplies, tube keyers, etc., bleeder resistors shall be used even though the dc voltage may not exceed 230 volts.

64-042 Keying. Where high speed keying circuits dependent on the effect of "oscillator blocking" are employed, the peak radio frequency output voltage during the blocked portion of the cycle shall not exceed 100 volts.

64-044 Power Supply for Therapeutic Equipment

(1) Where portability is not essential, equipment shall be permanently installed.

(2) Where portability is essential, the power supply cord shall be 3-conductor at least Type SJ cord, having a current-carrying capacity not less than the marked rating of the equipment, and it shall be provided with an approved, 3-prong attachment plug cap, except that a 2-conductor cord and a 2-prong, parallel-blade cap may be used on a device rated at 115 volts, 15 amperes or less and intended for use in offices, homes or similar locations.

64-046 Applicators for Therapeutic Equipment. Current-carrying parts of applicators shall be insulated or enclosed so that reliable isolation of the patient shall be assured.

SECTION 66—SOUND-RECORDING, REPRODUCTION AND SIMILAR EQUIPMENT

66-000 Scope. This Section applies to installations of equipment and wiring used for sound recording and reproduction, centralized distribution of sound, public address, speech-input systems and electronic organs.

66-002 Wiring Methods

(1) Except as modified by this Section, wiring and equipment from the source of power to and between devices connected to an interior wiring system shall comply with the requirements of this Code covering the particular locations involved.

(2) Conductors of different systems grouped in the same conduit or other metallic enclosure, or in portable cords or cables, shall comply with the following requirements:

(a) Power-supply conductors shall be properly identified and shall be used solely for supplying power to the equipment to which the other conductors are connected;

(b) Input leads to a motor-generator or rotary-converter shall be run separately from the output leads;

(c) The conductors shall be insulated either individually, or collectively in groups, by insulation at least equivalent to that on the power-supply and other conductors, except where the power-supply and other conductors are separated by a lead sheath or other continuous metallic covering;

(d) Flexible cords and cables shall be Type S, SJ, K, P or other type specifically approved for the purpose for which they are to be used;

(e) The conductors of flexible cords, other than power-supply conductors, may be of a size not smaller than No. 26 AWG provided that such conductors are not in direct electrical connection with the power-supply conductors and are equipped with current limiting means so that the maximum power under any conditions will not exceed 150 watts;

(f) Terminals shall be marked to show their proper connections;

(g) Terminals for conductors other than power-supply conductors shall be separated from the terminals of the power-supply conductors by a spacing at least as great as that between power-supply terminals of opposite polarity.

66-004 Storage Batteries. Storage batteries shall comply with the requirements of Rules 26-072 to 26-080.

SECTION 68—MOBILE HOME COURTS, MOBILE HOMES, AND SIMILAR MOBILE UNITS

68-000 Scope

(1) Rules 68-002 to 68-008 apply to services, service equipment, and metering equipment for installation in mobile home courts open to the public for rental purposes.

(2) Rules 68-010 to 68-030 apply to the electrical wiring and equipment used in mobile homes or similar mobile units which are intended to be connected to a source of electrical supply.

Mobile Home Courts

68-002 Feeders. Feeders between the court service equipment and the court distribution centres shall be considered as sub-services and shall be installed in accordance with the applicable requirements of Section 6 of this Code.

68-004 Receptacles at Court Distribution Centres

(1) Each mobile home space shall be provided with a polarized grounding type receptacle which shall be:

(a) Of weatherproof construction or suitably protected from the weather; and

(b) Made of such material and constructed so that it will withstand the mechanical abuses to which it may be subjected.

(2) Strain relief shall be provided at each receptacle, to prevent strain on the mobile home supply cord from being transmitted to the connections between the plug of the supply cord and the receptacle.

68-006 Overcurrent Devices and Disconnecting Means

(1) Each receptacle shall be preceded by an individual overcurrent protective device not exceeding the rating of the receptacle and by a suitable disconnecting means.

(2) Overcurrent devices protecting receptacles shall be accessible only to the mobile home court operator.

(3) The disconnecting means shall be accessible.

68-008 Demand Factor for Service Conductors

(1) For the purpose of determining conductor sizes for services and for feeders to distribution centres, the nominal demand per unit shall equal the total capacity in volt-amperes of all receptacles installed in the circuit in the court divided by the number of units.

(2) The capacity of each receptacle shall be the ampere rating of the receptacle multiplied by the nominal supply voltage connected to it, which for purposes of computation shall be 115 or 230 volts, as applicable.

(3) The following demand factors shall be applied to the nominal demand:

(a) 65 per cent of the nominal demand of the first two units;

(b) 25 per cent of the nominal demand of the next 18 units; and

(c) 10 per cent of the nominal demand of the remaining units.

Mobile Homes and Similar Mobile Units

68-010 General

(1) The applicable rules of other sections of this Code shall apply to equipment covered by Rules 68-012 to 68-030, except as may be otherwise noted.

(2) Electrical equipment shall be of types which will not be adversely affected by the vibration that is liable to be encountered in normal service.

(3) Electrical equipment shall be mounted and secured so that it is not liable to come loose or be displaced during normal operation.

(4) Material used to protect wiring or other electrical equipment shall be protected against rusting or other injurious effects caused by exposure to the weather.

68-012 Service Conductors

(1) Except where a type of service specified in Section 6 is provided, the service conductors from the point of attachment to the mobile unit, to the point of attachment to the power supply shall:

(a) Consist of rubber-insulated flexible cord, power-supply cable, or the equivalent which is suitable for extra hard usage in outdoor locations;

(b) Have an identified conductor;

(c) Have a bare or insulated grounding conductor; and

(d) Be not less than 25 feet long.

(2) The cord or cable shall either be permanently secured within the unit to a distribution panel or shall end at a receptacle attached to the unit.

(3) Where a receptacle is used, the wiring from the receptacle to the distribution panel may be cable as required by Sub-rule (1).

(4) The service conductor size for 115-volt mobile units shall be not less than the following for a given number of circuits:

(a) 1 circuit —No. 14 AWG;
(b) 2 circuits—No. 12 AWG;
(c) 3 or 4 circuits—No. 10 AWG; or
(d) 5 or more circuits—No. 8 AWG.

(5) The service conductor size for 230-volt mobile units shall be not less than:

(a) No. 10 AWG if there are no fixed 230-volt loads in excess of 30 amperes; or
(b) No. 8 AWG if there are fixed 230-volt loads in excess of 30 amperes.

68-014 Service Connectors

(1) At the point of connection to the power supply, the cord shall terminate in a male member of a weatherproof plug.

(2) Where the cord or cable is detachable from the trailer, it shall be provided with a weatherproof cord connector having a contact arrangement which will mate with the receptacle on the trailer.

(3) Where a receptacle is provided on the trailer, it shall be:

(a) Of the polarized male type with grounding contact; and
(b) Weatherproof or else adequately protected or enclosed.

(4) The rating of the plug, connector and receptacle shall be the same and shall be not less than the current-carrying capacity of the cord.

68-016 Service Conductor Storage. The unit shall have a suitable space wherein the service cord may be stored when not in use, which will protect the cord from mechanical injury.

68-018 Distribution Panel

(1) Each unit shall have a dead front distribution panel providing overcurrent protection for each branch circuit.

(2) The distribution panel shall be located in accordance with sub-paragraphs (a), (b) and (e) of Rule 6-028, but may be installed in a cupboard, providing there is ready access to the equipment and there are no obstructions in front of it.

68-020 Branch Circuits

(1) The total number of branch circuits provided shall be in accordance with the general requirements of Section 8.

(2) Where a kitchen is provided as a part of the trailer, a separate branch circuit used for no other purpose shall be provided in the kitchen for the supply of receptacles constructed to accommodate parallel blade caps.

(3) Additional outlets provided on a circuit supplying a 115-volt permanently connected appliance shall be:

(a) For stationary lighting fixtures only;
(b) Considered to have a demand of 1 ampere each, except where the load is known to be greater; and
(c) Such that the total load does not exceed that permitted by other Sections of this Code.

(4) Branch circuits supplying lighting or receptacles constructed to accommodate parallel blade caps shall be protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at not more than 15 amperes.

(5) Branch circuits protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at more than 15 amperes shall supply only one outlet for each branch circuit.

(6) Every appliance rated at more than 1,500 watts shall be supplied from a branch circuit used solely for one appliance except that more than one appliance may be connected to a single branch circuit, provided that the following is used:

(a) A multiple-throw manually-operated device which will permit only one such appliance to be energized at one time; or
(b) An automatic device which will limit the total load to a value which will not cause operation of the overcurrent devices protecting the branch circuit.

68-022 Receptacles. Receptacles of the grounding type only shall be used.

68-024 Wiring Methods

(1) The wiring method shall be:

(a) Non-metallic sheathed cable;
(b) Rigid or flexible conduit; or
(c) Armoured cable.

(2) Where non-metallic sheathed cable is used, the cable shall be adequately protected from mechanical injury.

(3) Where rigid conduit, flexible conduit or armoured cable is used, all mechanical joints and connections in the conduit or cable shall be accessible for inspection to ensure that the grounding continuity is not interrupted.

68-026 Conductor Joints and Splices

(1) Soldered joints shall be made so that there will be no liability to sharp points or edges working through the insulation due to vibration or other causes.

(2) Where solderless connectors are used which may be adversely affected by vibration, additional means for securing the connector cap in place shall be provided.

68-028 Grounding

(1) All exposed metal parts, including the chassis, on the exterior of the unit shall be in good electrical contact with one another and with the termination of the service grounding conductor at the distribution panel for the purpose of grounding.

(2) Where bonding jumpers are used, they shall be made of extra flexible copper cable having a current-carrying capacity not less than that of the service grounding conductor and shall be located or protected so that they will not be subject to mechanical injury.

68-030 Marking. The marking shall be in accordance with Rule 2-028.

SECTION 71—VAULTS

71-000 Scope. Where this Code requires electrical equipment, including transformers, to be installed in a vault the construction of the vault shall meet the requirements of this section.

71-002 Use. The use of vaults shall be confined to housing the electrical equipment and they shall not be used for storage or other purposes.

71-004 Walls and Roofs

(1) Where the total installed capacity of transformers to be installed therein exceeds 100 kilovolt-amperes the walls and the roof of a vault shall consist of:

(a) Concrete not less than 6 inches thick;

(b) Brick not less than 8 inches thick; or

(c) Load-bearing hollow tiles not less than 12 inches thich coated on the inside with cement plaster.

(2) Where the total installed capacity of the transformers does not exceed 100 kilovolt-amperes, reinforced concrete not less than 4 inches thick may be used by special permission.

71-006 Circuit Breakers. Where circuit breakers are installed in separate vaults from their associated transformers Rule 71-004 shall apply to the construction of the vaults.

71-008 Outside Walls. Where the outside wall of a building meets the requirements of Rule 71-004 it may form one wall of the vault.

71-110 Pipes and Ducts. Pipes and ducts not required for fire protection or proper operation of the electrical installation shall not be present in a vault unless unavoidable, in which case precautions shall be taken to avoid condensation leaks or breaks in the pipes and ducts and in no case shall appurtenances requiring operation or maintenance at regular intervals be present in a vault.

71-112 Ventilation

(1) Adequate ventilation shall be provided to ensure that the temperature in the vault will not exceed 40° C.

(2) Where transformer vaults are ventilated directly to the outside air by natural ventilation without the use of ducts the combined net area of inlet and outlet openings shall be not less than 3 square inches per kilovolt-ampere of transformer capacity, with a minimum area of 1 square foot.

(3) Each inlet for fresh air referred to in Sub-rule (2) shall consist of a flue or iron pipe leading from the outside air and terminating in the vault at a point not more than 3 feet above the floor-level.

(4) Where ventilating openings are not connected to chimneys, flues or directly to the outside air they shall be provided with automatic metal dampers not less than 0.1225 inch (No. 10 MSG) thick having a control capable of being operated outside the vault.

(5) All openings for illumination or ventilation shall be protected by louvres and substantial fixed metal screens with mesh not larger than ½ inch square and constructed so that snow or rain cannot reach wiring or apparatus of other than weatherproof construction.

(6) Ventilating ducts shall be constructed of fireproof materials and shall be suitably fire retarded when required by an inspector.

71-114 Drainage

(1) Suitable means shall be provided for draining or retaining oil and water which may be present on the vault floor.

(2) Where the total installed transformer capacity exceeds 100 kilovolt-amperes a drain shall be provided and:

(a) The floor shall slope not less than ¼ inch per foot to the drain;

(b) The drain shall slope not less than ¼ inch per foot to its outlet; and

(c) The drain shall empty into a sewer or into a covered sump or pit installed out-of-doors capable of holding all the oil from the largest transformer installed in the vault and having means for emptying and cleaning the sump or pit.

(3) Where the total installed transformer capacity does not exceed 100 kilovolt-amperes no drain need be provided unless the vault is incapable of retaining all the oil from the largest transformer installed.

(4) Where circuit breakers are installed in a vault drainage shall be provided in accordance with the oil capacity of the circuit breakers as if they were transformers.

71-116 Doors

(1) A doorway giving access to a vault shall be provided with an approved fire door except, with the permission of an inspector, doorways giving direct access to the out-of-doors.

(2) All doorways shall be provided with a concrete sill of sufficient height to confine within the vault all the oil from the largest transformer installed therein but in no case less than 4 inches in height.

(3) All doors shall open outward from the vault and shall be kept locked so that only authorized persons shall have access to the vault.

71-118 Illumination

(1) Each vault shall have a plug receptacle suitably located outside the vault near the entrance.

(2) Each vault shall be provided with an adequate lighting system controlled by a switch and a pilot light suitably located outside the vault near the entrance.

SECTION 73—FENCES

73-000 Scope. This Section covers fences for guarding transformers and other electrical equipment located outdoors.

Construction

73-002 Clearances. Clearances between the fence and the frame or enclosure of any electrical equipment shall be not less than 8 feet, except that where space is limited lesser clearances may be permitted by an inspector, with a corresponding increase in fence height, but in no case shall the clearance be less than 3½ feet.

73-004 Height of Fence. A fence, excluding barbed wire, shall be at least 6 feet high and where the clearance is less than 8 feet shall be increased by 1 foot in height for each foot of reduced clearance.

73-006 Barbed Wire. The fence shall be topped with at least three strands of barbed wire.

73-008 Setting of Posts

(1) Posts shall be set at a depth of 3½ feet for end, gate and corner posts and 3 feet for line posts wherever ground conditions permit.

(2) Where ground conditions will not permit the depth specified by Sub-rule (1), extra bracing or concrete footings shall be provided.

(3) Concrete footings may be required by an inspector for metal posts regardless of ground conditions.

(4) Posts shall be spaced not less than 10 feet apart.

(5) End, gate and corner posts shall be adequately braced against strain.

73-010 Gates

(1) Gates shall open outwardly but where necessary they may open inwardly provided they do not come into contact with the frame or enclosure of any electrical equipment when open.

(2) Gates shall be adequately braced and, where practicable, double gates shall be used where the width opening exceeds 5 feet.

(3) Centre stops shall be provided for double gates.

(4) Gates shall have provision for securing with padlocks.

73-012 Chain Link Fabric

(1) Chain link fabric shall be securely attached to all posts and gate frames.

(2) Chain link fabric shall be adequately reinforced at top and bottom to prevent distortion of the fabric.

(3) Chain link fabric shall extend to within 2 inches of the ground.

73-014 Use of Wood

(1) Wood shall not be used as a fence material without special permission.

(2) Where wooden fencing is permitted the slats shall:

(a) Extend to within 2 inches of the ground;
(b) Be placed on the outside of the stringers; and
(c) Be spaced not more than 1½ inches apart, except that where the frame or enclosure of any electrical equipment is less than 6 feet from the fence no spacing will be permitted.

Materials

73-016 Posts

(1) Metal posts shall be of 3-inch nominal pipe size for corner, end and gate posts and 2-inch nominal pipe size for line posts.

(2) The cross-section of each wood post shall be at least 6 inches by 6 inches.

73-018 Chain Link Fabric. Chain link fabric shall be made of wire not less than 0.144 inches in diameter, have a mesh not greater than 2 inches by 2 inches and be at least 6 feet in width.

73-020 Top Rails. Top rails shall be of 1¼ inch nominal pipe size and shall be provided with suitable expansion joints where necessary.

73-022 Wood Stringers. Wood stringers shall have a cross-section of at least 2 by 6 inches if two stringers are used and at least 2 by 4 inches if three stringers are used.

73-024 Wood Slats. Wood slats shall have a cross-section of at least 1 by 4 inches.

73-026 Use of Aluminum. Aluminum may be used for all metal parts.

Preservative Treatment

73-028 Steel or Iron. Steel or iron parts shall be either hot-dip galvanized or electro-plated with non-ferrous metal.

73-030 Aluminum. Aluminum parts shall be suitably treated against corrosion where in contact with the earth or with concrete.

73-032 Wood

(1) Wood shall be impregnated or otherwise suitably treated against decay where in contact with the earth or concrete.

(2) Where practicable, wood shall be impregnated, treated or well painted before assembly, for protection against weather.

SECTION 75—GROUNDING

75-000 Scope. This Section applies to outdoor stations operating at potentials of more than 750 volts.

75-002 Station Ground Electrode

(1) Every station shall be grounded by means of an electrode consisting of at least 3 ground rods 10 feet long and ¾ inch in diameter, or alternative devices approved for the purpose, suitably interconnected by a soft-drawn copper conductor not smaller than No. 2/0 AWG.

(2) Where lightning arresters rated at from 10,000 volts to 69,000 volts are installed on a supporting structure at least 2 of the ground rods or alternative devices shall be located directly below the supporting structure.

(3) The electrode shall have a resistance to ground of not more than:

(a) 15 ohms for any station operating at not more than 1,500 kilovolt-ampere capacity;
(b) 10 ohms for any station operating at 1,501 to 10,000 kilovolt-ampere capacity; and
(c) 2 ohms for any station operating at more than 10,000 kilovolt-ampere capacity.

75-004 Connections to Station Ground Electrode

(1) Where an extensive, continuous, metallic water main is located on the property served by the station it shall be connected to the station ground electrode by a soft-drawn copper grounding conductor of not less than No. 2/0 AWG.

(2) Where an extensive, continuous, metallic water main is located on lands adjacent to but not on the property served by this station, it may be connected to the station ground electrode by a soft-drawn copper grounding conductor of not less than No. 2/0 AWG if it has a resistance to ground less than that of the station ground electrode.

(3) The following items shall be grounded to the station ground electrode by copper grounding conductors not smaller than the sizes specified:

(a) Lightning arresters rated at:
  (i) Below 10 kilovolts — No. 4 AWG,
  (ii) 10 kilovolts to 30 kilovolts — No. 2 AWG,
  (iii) 30 kilovolts to 69 kilovolts — No. 2/0 AWG;
(b) Line sky-wires—copper equivalent of sky-wire;
(c) All neutrals—copper equivalent of neutrals;
(d) Supporting legs of metal structures—No. 2/0 AWG;
(e) Non-current-carrying metal parts consisting of:
  (i) Transformers, generators, motors, circuit breakers, and current transformers—No. 2/0 AWG,
  (ii) Frames of gang-operated switches located within the station enclosure, frames of disconnecting switches, and bases of fuses—No. 2/0 AWG unless they are mounted on a metal structure the supporting legs of which are grounded in accordance with Paragraph (d) and continuity of bonding is ensured;
  (iii) Gradient-control mats specified by Rule 75-006 for gang-operated switches within the station fence enclosure—No. 2/0 AWG,
  (iv) Cable sheaths, raceways, pipe work, screen guards, switchboards and potential transformers—No. 4 AWG,
  (v) Meter and relay cases—No. 10 AWG,
  (vi) Exposed metal work on buildings—No. 2/0 AWG;
(f) Water mains referred to in Rule 75-004—No. 2/0 AWG.

(4) The copper conductors required by Paragraph (a) of Sub-rule (3) shall be as short as possible.

(5) Suitable means shall be provided for isolating the items specified in Paragraphs (b), (c) and (f) of Sub-rule (3) for testing purposes.

Gradient-Control Mats

75-006 General

(1) Where a gang-operated switch is installed, a gradient-control mat shall be installed.

(2) The gradient-control mat shall:

(a) Be at least 4 feet wide and 6 feet long and shall consist of steel wires not less than 0.25 of an inch in diameter welded into meshes not larger than 6 inches square;

(b) If installed within the station enclosure, have an approved connector stud for one No. 3/0 AWG extra-flexible copper conductor and two No. 2/0 AWG copper conductors, welded to the mat at the junction of two cross wires of the mesh;

(c) Be located so that the operator must stand directly above the mat at all times while operating the switch; and

(d) Be buried to a depth of 3 inches in 6 inches of building sand which shall subsequently be treated to discourage the growth of vegetation.

75-008 Where the gradient-control mat is located outside the station enclosure, the location shall be such that the mat will be at least 10 feet distant from the station fence.

75-010 Where a gang-operated switch is located inside the station fence enclosure, it shall be grounded as follows:

(a) The switch operating rod shall be connected to the handle base by a No. 3/0 AWG extra-flexible copper conductor which shall continue as one piece to terminate on the connector stud of the gradient-control mat, specified by Rule 75-006 (2) (b);

(b) The connector stud of the gradient-control mat shall be connected by two separate No. 2/0 AWG soft-drawn copper conductors to the station ground electrode;

(c) The switch frame shall be connected to the station ground electrode by a No. 2/0 AWG copper conductor.

75-012 Where a gang-operated switch is located outside the station fence enclosure, it shall be grounded as follows:

(a) A ground rod 10 feet long and ¾ inch in diameter shall be installed at, and welded to, each of the four corners of the gradient-control mat, and two of these rods shall carry clamps for connecting grounding conductors;

(b) The switch operating rod shall be connected to the handle base by a No. 3/0 AWG extra-flexible copper conductor which shall continue as one piece to terminate on one of the two clamps on the gradient-control mat ground rods;

(c) If the system neutral conductor is present, the switch frame shall be connected to the neutral conductor by a copper conductor of at least the same size as the neutral conductor;

(d) If the system neutral conductor is not present, the switch frame shall be connected to the second clamp on the gradient-control mat ground rods;

(e) The grounding arrangement shall not be interconnected with the fence or station grounding electrodes.

75-014 Grounding Conductors. Grounding conductors on wood poles shall be protected by wood moulding.

75-016 Fence Enclosures

(1) Fence enclosures of outdoor stations shall be grounded independently of the station ground electrode in the following manner:

(a) At least four ground rods 10 feet long and ¾ inch in diameter, one of which shall be located at each gate post on the hinge side, shall be spaced as uniformly as possible around the fence at the fence posts with the distance between any two rods not exceeding 40 feet;

(b) A soft-drawn copper conductor at least No. 2/0 AWG shall connect each ground rod to:

(i) The fence post if it is metal,

(ii) The fence rails if they are metal,

(iii) All other metal fence fabrics, and

(iv) The barbed wire on top of the fence.

(2) The exposed metal work of any building wall forming a part of the station enclosure will be considered as part of the fence and shall be grounded in the following manner:

(a) Ground rods 10 feet long and ¾ inch in diameter, one of which shall be located at each junction of the fence and building shall be spaced as uniformly as possible along the wall with the distance between any two rods not exceeding 40 feet;

(b) Two soft-drawn copper conductors at least No. 2/0 AWG shall be connected to each ground rod located at the junction of the fence and building, one of which shall make the connections required by Sub-rule (1) (b) and the other shall be run up the wall to connect to the exposed metal work of the building;

(c) A soft-drawn copper conductor at least No. 2/0 AWG shall be connected to each ground rod along the building wall which shall be run up the wall to connect to the exposed metal work of the building.

(3) A continuous grounding path along the fence shall be ensured by inter-connecting:

(a) Metal fence panels, rails and posts by a soft-drawn copper conductor not smaller than No. 2/0 AWG;

(b) Adjoining metal fence rails across each joint by a soft-drawn copper conductor not smaller than No. 2/0 AWG;

(c) Two gate posts, if they are of metal, or the grounding conductors at the two gate posts if they are not of metal, by an underground soft-drawn copper conductor not smaller than No. 2/0 AWG;

(d) The fence gate grounding conductor to the grounding conductor rising from the rod at the hinge gate post by a No. 3/0 AWG extra-flexible copper conductor.

(4) An electrode connected to the fence on one side of the enclosure and an electrode connected to the fence on the opposite side of the enclosure shall be connected to the station ground electrode if:

(a) The fence, or the gate when open, is not more than 5 feet from the station electrode, structure, buildings or gradient-control mat; or

(b) The wall of a building having exposed metal work forms a part of the station enclosure or is not more than 5 feet from the enclosure.

SECTION 77—REVOCATION

77-000 Regulation 490 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960, as amended by Ontario Regulation 200/62, is revoked.

The current-carrying capacity of single conductor aluminum-sheathed cable is based on the type of insulation used on the copper conductor.*

†These are maximum allowable conductor temperatures for single conductors run in free air and may be used in determining the current-carrying capacity of other conductor types in Table 19, which are so run, as follows: From Table 19 determine the maximum allowable conductor temperature for that particular type; then from the above Table determine the current-carrying capacity under the column of corresponding temperature rating.

‡These ratings are based on the use of 85° C. insulation on the emerging conductors and for sealing. By special permission, mineral-insulated cable may be used at higher temperatures without decrease in allowable current-carrying capacity, provided that insulation and sealing material approved for such higher temperature is used.

NOTE: The ratings of Table 1 may be applied to a conductor mounted on a plane surface of masonry, plaster, wood or any material having a conductivity not less than 5 BTU per hour, per square foot, per degree centigrade, per inch. Where from 2 to 4 conductors are present and in contact, see correction factors after Table 4.

The current-carrying capacity of aluminum-sheathed cable is based on the type of insulation used on the copper conductors.*

†These are maximum allowable conductor temperatures for 1, 2 or 3 conductors run in a raceway or 2 or 3 conductors, run in a cable and may be used in determining the current-carrying capacity of other conductor types in Table 19, which are so run, as follows: From Table 19 determine the maximum allowable conductor temperature for that particular type; then from the above table determine the current-carrying capacity under the column of corresponding temperature rating.

‡These ratings are based on the use of 85° C. insulation on the emerging conductors and for sealing. By special permission, mineral-insulated cable may be used at higher temperatures without decrease in allowable current-carrying capacity, provided that insulation and sealing material approved for such higher temperature is used.

NOTES:

1. In certain cases the thickness of rubber or thermoplastic insulation is indicated by the type designation, e.g. PO-64 indicates the insulation to be 1/64 inch. In other cases the thickness in inches is shown in brackets following the type designation, e.g. C (1/32).
2. Suitable for damp locations only in construction having a moisture-resistant braid.
3. In No. 20 AWG size, Types POSJ-64 and POT-64 are rated 125 volts.
4. These types may be provided with heat-resistant rubber insulation rated at 75° C. (167° F.) and this is indicated by a green thread under the insulation or by surface marking. The temperature rating of a non-fibrous jacket is 60° C. (140° F.).
5. The jackets on Types ATJ, HSJ, AFS, AFSO, AFSJ and AFSJO are limited to 60° C. (140° F.); the 90° C. (194° F.) limit applying only to the conductor insulation.
6. The cotton or rayon braid on Type AFC and the cotton or rayon outer covering on Types AFPO, AFPD, GTFPO and GTFPD are limited to 90° C. (194° F.); the 125° C. (257° F.) rating applying only to the conductor insulation.
7. The cotton or rayon outer covering on Type PDT is limited to 90° C. (194° F.); the 105° C. (221° F.) rating applying only to the conductor insulation on which it is surface marked.
8. When Types POT-64, POT-32, SPT-3, SVT and SJT are provided with thermoplastic conductor insulation and thermoplastic jacket material both rated at 105° C. (221° F.) this overall temperature rating is surface marked on the jacket in addition to the type designation. Type SPT-3 may also be provided with either 75° C. (167° F.) or 90° C. (194° F.) conductor insulation and jacket material and this overall rating is similarly surface marked on the jacket.
9. The conductor insulation and jacket of Type HSJO have a temperature rating of 90° C. (194° F.) except that when the jacket is exposed to oil, the temperature rating of the jacket is limited to 60° C. (140° F.).
10. These types may be used in raceways, other than cabletroughs, as permitted in Section 16.
11. When Types SJO, SO, SWO and SGO are provided with conductor insulation and polychloroprene jacket material both rated at 90° C. (194° F.) this overall temperature rating is surface marked on the jacket in addition to the type designation. When the jacket is exposed to oil, the temperature rating of the jacket is limited to 60° C.

Types S, SO, ST, SJ, SJO and SJT 3-conductor cords in which the one conductor serves as the grounding medium may have increased current-carrying capacities as follows: 10, 13 and 18 amperes for Nos. 18, 16 and 14 AWG respectively. This applies also to types SV, SVO and SVT, 3-conductor cords which are available in No. 18 AWG only.*

NOTES: [1]Types ACV and TECK cables are approved for industrial applications only.
[2]Aluminum-sheathed cable and mineral-insulated cable, unless provided with suitable corrosion resistant protection, shall not be used where materials having a deteriorating effect on the metal sheath may come in direct contact with the cable.
[3]A maximum copper sheath temperature of 250° C. is permissible for mineral-insulated cable, provided the temperature at the terminations does not exceed that specified in Tables 1 and 2.
[4]Type TECK cable may be used where the armour and/or outer covering is suitable for exposure to the weather.
[5]May be used where exposed to heat, grease, or corrosive fumes, if suitable for the corrosive condition.
[6]For bare or tinned copper conductors having individual strands smaller in diameter than 0.015 inch, the maximum allowable conductor temperature is 150° C. (320° F.).
[7]Types RHH and RHW–75C: RHH–90C wires when used in vertical runs, are restricted to the sizes and maximum distances between supports specified in the Note to Table 21.
[8]Types T, TW and TWU when provided with insulation having improved low-temperature properties, are suitable for installation, and if applicable, for use where flexing may occur at temperatures down to minus 40° F. Such wires are surface marked "T-minus 40° F.", "TW-minus 40° F." and "TWU-minus 40° F." respectively.
[9]Conductors or cable assemblies acceptable for direct earth burial may be used, by special permission, for underground services in accordance with Rule 6-006.
[10]Types TW and TWU when provided with a nylon jacket are also approved for use where adverse conditions may exist, such as in oil refineries and around gasoline storage or pump areas (e.g. where subjected to alkaline conditions in the presence of petroleum solvents).

Advertisements of tax sales must be received by the Queen's Printer at least TWO WEEKS PRIOR TO THE DATE OF PUBLICATION IN THE ONTARIO GAZETTE.

ADVERTISING RATES FOR TAX SALES

2.—(1) The rates payable for publication of matters in THE ONTARIO GAZETTE shall be,—

(a) for a double-column insertion of,—

(i) a notice of the sale of land for arrears of taxes, $5; and

(ii) a list of lands liable to be sold for arrears of taxes, 25 cents a line or fraction thereof;

EXAMPLE

For each insertion—The minimum fee is $5.00 for each Warrant and 25 cents for each line or part line after the Warrant.

Cheques should be made payable to THE TREASURER OF ONTARIO and forwarded to THE ONTARIO GAZETTE.

No exchange required on cheques.

Advertisements should be typewritten or printed legibly, separate from covering letter, number of insertions required must be stated and all signatures should be typed or printed.

All correspondence should be addressed in full "THE ONTARIO GAZETTE", Queen's Printer Office, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario.

THE OFFICIAL NOTICES PUBLICATION ACT

THE OFFICIAL NOTICES PUBLICATION ACT

1. In this Regulation "line" means agate line. R.R.O. 1960, Reg. 456, s. 1.

2.—(1) The rates payable for publication of matters in THE ONTARIO GAZETTE are,

(a) for a double-column insertion of,

(i) a notice of the sale of land for arrears of taxes, $5, and

(ii) a list of lands liable to be sold for arrears of taxes, 25 cents a line or fraction thereof; and

(b) for a single-column insertion of all other matter,

(i) on the first insertion, 20 cents a line or fraction thereof, and

(ii) on each additional insertion, 10 cents a line or fraction thereof.

(2) The rates in subsection 1 shall be paid as follows:

1. Upon submitting the copy of a matter for publication, $5 for the first insertion and $2.50 for each additional insertion requested.

2. Except for the rates payable under subclause i of clause a of subsection 1, the balance, after crediting the amount paid under clause a, upon receipt of an account from the Queen's Printer.

(3) Where the amount paid under paragraph 1 of subsection 2 exceeds the rates payable, the person making that payment is entitled to a refund of the amount by which the amount paid exceeds the rates payable. R.R.O. 1960, Reg. 456, s. 2.

3.—(1) The rates payable for THE ONTARIO GAZETTE are,

(a) by subscribers for a subscription of 52 weekly issues, $6; and

(b) by others for a single copy, 15 cents.

(2) The rates in subsection 1 shall be paid in advance. R.R.O. 1960, Reg. 456, s. 3.

THE ONTARIO GAZETTE is published each Saturday and advertisements must be received before Thursday 11 a.m. to ensure publication in the next issue.

Advertisements should be typewritten or printed legibly, separate from covering letter. Number of insertions required must be stated and the names of all signing officers typewritten or printed.

A copy of THE ONTARIO GAZETTE will be sent free to each advertiser for each week that his advertisement appears.

All remittances should be made payable to The Treasurer of Ontario and forwarded to THE ONTARIO GAZETTE.

All correspondence should be addressed:

ELIZABETH THE SECOND, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom, Canada and Her other Realms and Territories Queen, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith.

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME,

GREETING :

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS by an Act passed at the Fourth Session of Our Twenty-sixth Legislature for Our Province of Ontario convened on the twenty-seventh day of November, 1962 and prorogued on the twenty-sixth day of April, 1963 intituled "An Act respecting Children's Institutions" it is enacted by section 13 thereof that the said Act shall come into force on a day to be named by Our Lieutenant Governor by his Proclamation;

AND WHEREAS it has appeared expedient that a Proclamation should now issue bringing the said Act into force;

NOW THEREFORE KNOW YE that, having taken the premises into Our Royal consideration, WE, by and with the advice of Our Executive Council of Our Province of Ontario and in the exercise of the power in US vested in this behalf by the said Act or otherwise howsoever, DO, by this Our Royal PROCLAMATION hereby NAME Sunday the first day of September, 1963 as the day on which the said Act intituled "An Act respecting Children's Institutions" shall come into force.

OF ALL WHICH PREMISES all Our loving subjects and all others whom it doth or may in anywise concern are hereby required to take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF We have caused these Our Letters to be made Patent and the Great Seal of Our Province of Ontario to be hereunto affixed.

WITNESS :

THE HONOURABLE WILLIAM EARL ROWE, A Member of Our Privy Council for Canada, LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR OF OUR PROVINCE OF ONTARIO,

Application to Parliament Private Bills

PUBLIC NOTICE

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO

The attention of Municipal Officials, Solicitors and all other persons who may be interested in the preparation of Private Bills for submission to the Legislative Assembly of Ontario is directed particularly to the following Rules of the House governing the submission of such Bills:

RULES RE SUBMISSION OF PRIVATE BILLS

63.—(1) No petition for any Private Bill is received by the House after the first two weeks of each Session nor may any Private Bill be presented to the House after the first three weeks of each Session; nor may any report of any Standing or Select Committee upon a Private Bill be received after the first six weeks of each Session; and no motion for the general suspension or modification of this Rule shall be entertained by the House unless after reference made thereof, at a previous sitting of the House, to the several Standing Committees charged with the consideration of Private Bills upon Report submitted to two or more of such committees.

64.—(1) Any person desiring to obtain a Private Bill shall deposit with the Clerk of the House at least eight (8) days before the meeting of the House a copy of such Bill together with a fee of $150, and if such Bill is not deposited by that time the applicant shall pay $10 for each and every day which intervenes between the said eighth day and the date of the filing of the Bill.

(2) After the first reading of the Bill and before its consideration by the Committee to which it is referred, the applicant in every case shall pay the cost of printing the Act in the Statutes.

(3) The following charges shall also be levied and paid in addition to the foregoing:

(a) When any rule of the House is suspended with reference to a Bill or the Petition therefor, for each suspension, $50.

(b) When a Bill is presented to the House after the first three weeks of the Session and before the end of the fourth week, $75.

(c) When a Bill is presented after the fourth week of the Session, $100.

(4) In the case of any Bill incorporating a company or increasing the capital stock of a company already incorporated, there shall be paid to the Clerk of the House, by or on behalf of the applicant, before the same is reported to the House, the same fee as would be payable to the Provincial Secretary in the case of an incorporation or increase of capital under the provisions of The Corporations Act, less the sum of $150 already paid to the Clerk of the House.

(5) When a Bill is for the purpose of confirming by-laws, bonds, debentures or other securities, or authority is asked to borrow money or to increase borrowing powers, the following additional fees shall be paid according to the amount of money involved:

On amounts less than $10,000, $25; on amounts over $10,000 and up to $25,000, $50; on amounts over $25,000 and up to $40,000, $75; on amounts over $40,000 and up to $75,000, $100; on amounts over $75,000 and up to $125,000, $125; on amounts over $125,000 and up to $175,000, $150; on amounts over $175,000 and up to $250,000, $200; on amounts over $250,000 and up to $350,000, $250; and an additional fee of $50 for every $100,000 over $350,000.

66. All applications for Private Bills properly the subject of legislation by the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, within the purview of "The British North America Act, 1867", shall require a Notice, clearly and distinctly specifying the nature and object of the application and, where the application refers to any proposed work, indicating generally the location of the work, and signed by or on behalf of the applicants, such Notice to be published as follows, viz.:

A notice inserted in THE ONTARIO GAZETTE and in one newspaper published in the Municipality affected, or, if there be no newspaper published therein, then in a newspaper in the next nearest municipality in which a newspaper is published.

Such notice shall be continued in each case for a period of at least six weeks, during the interval of time between the close of the next preceding Session and the consideration of the Petition.

If the application is by a Municipal Corporation for authority to issue debentures, the notice shall set out the particulars of the existing debentures debt and the amount of rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised assessment roll of the Corporation, and in brief and general terms the object for which the new issue of debentures is required.

67. Before any Petition praying for leave to bring in a Private Bill for the erection of a Toll Bridge is received by the House, the person or persons intending to petition for such Bill shall, upon giving the Notice required by the preceding Rule, also, at the same time and in the same manner, give Notice of the rates which they intend to ask, the extent of the privileges, the height of the arches, the interval between the abutments or piers for the passage of rafts and vessels, and mentioning also whether they intend to erect a drawbridge or not, and the dimensions of the same.

68. Before any Petition praying for leave to bring in a Bill for the construction of Railways, Tramways or canals is received by the House, the person or persons petitioning for such Bill shall deposit with the Clerk the following documents:

1. A map or plan upon a scale of not less than half an inch to the mile, showing the location upon which it is intended to construct the proposed work, and showing also the line of existing or authorized works of a similar character within, or in any way affecting, the district or any part thereof which the proposed work is intended to serve. Such map or plan shall be signed by the Engineer or other party making the same.

2. A book of reference in which shall be clearly set out the following information in separate schedules, namely:

SCHEDULE A.—The name of each municipality within which the proposed works or any part thereof are intended to be constructed; the population of each such municipality as returned by the next preceding census; the rateable value of the property within each such municipality, as returned by the next preceding assessment rolls thereof; and this schedule may contain in a separate statement similar information as to the adjoining districts intended to be served by the proposed work.

SCHEDULE B.—A general description of the nature, extent and proposed character of the contemplated works, and an estimate of the probable cost thereof, distinguishing the general items of construction and the cost thereof respectively, as well as the nature, extent and probable cost of all engines and car stock or other outfit or equipment necessary to the use and operation of the proposed undertaking, such schedule to be signed by the Engineer or other person preparing the same.

SCHEDULE C.—An exhibit showing the total amount of capital proposed to be raised for the purposes of the undertaking and the manner in which it is proposed to raise the same, whether by ordinary shares, bonds, debentures or other securities, and the amounts of each respectively.

SCHEDULE D.—An estimate of the probable revenues of the proposed undertaking, showing the sources whence the same are expected to be derived; the annual earnings thereof respectively; the probable annual cost of operation or working expenditure, and the annual net revenue applicable to the payment of interest on the proposed investments.

Such schedules shall be signed by the person preparing the same.

72. When any Bill for confirming any Letters Patent, or Agreement, is presented to the House, the copy of such Letters Patent, or Agreement, shall be attached to it.

74. Every Private Bill, when read a first time, unless it be an Estate Bill or a Bill providing for the consolidation of a floating debt or for the consolidation or renewal of debentures (other than local improvement debentures) of a Municipal Corporation, shall stand referred to the proper Standing Committee, and all petitions before the House, for or against the Bill, are considered referred to such Committee.

75. Every Private Bill, in so far as it provides for the consolidation of a floating debt or for the consolidation or renewal of debentures (other than local improvement debentures) of a Municipal Corporation, when a Bill has been read the first time, shall, without special reference, stand referred to The Ontario Municipal Board for their report; and a copy of such Bill and of the Petition on which the same is founded shall be forthwith transmitted by the Clerk of the House to the Board, in order that the Board may, after an inquiry into the allegations set out in the Bill, and into any other matters which the Board may deem necessary in connection therewith, report to the House whether or not it is reasonable that such Bill or part thereof relating to the matters aforesaid shall be passed; and what alterations, if any, should be made in the same; and the Board shall make such inquiry accordingly and shall sign the same; and the said Report, Bill and Petition shall be transmitted to the Clerk, and the Report shall be read by the Clerk at the Table and shall be entered on the Journals of the House, and the Bill, together with the Report, shall stand referred to the Standing Committee on Private Bills.

76. Every Estate Bill, when read a first time, shall without special reference stand referred to the Commissioners of Estate Bills, for their Report, and a copy of such Bill, and of the Petition on which the same is founded, shall be forthwith transmitted by the Clerk of the House to the said Commissioners, or one of them, in order that they, or any two of them, may, after perusing the Bill, without requiring any proof of the allegations thereof, report to the House their opinion thereon under their hands; and whether, presuming the allegation contained in the preamble to be proved to the satisfaction of the House, it is reasonable that such Bill do pass into a Law; and whether the provisions thereof are proper for carrying its purposes into effect, and what alterations or amendments, if any, are necessary in the same, and in the event of their approving the said Bill they are to sign the same; and the said Report, with the said Bill and Petition, are to be transmitted by the said Commissioners to the Clerk; and the Report shall be read by the Clerk at the Table and shall be entered on the Journals of the House; and the Bill together with the Report shall stand referred to the Standing Committee on Private Bills, which is not to consider the said Bill before the delivery of the said Report, Bill and Petition to the Chairman of the said Committee.

77. In the event of the Commissioners of Estate Bills reporting that, in their opinion, it is not reasonable that the Bill submitted to them shall pass into law, such Bill shall not be further considered.

RODERICK LEWIS, Q.C.,
Clerk of Legislative Assembly of Ontario.

CITY OF TORONTO

Application for Special Legislation

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on behalf of The Corporation of the City of Toronto, application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next Session, for special legislation to provide:

1. That by-laws may be passed by the Council of the Corporation to permit the owner of the lands at the northwest corner of Carlton and Church Streets in the City of Toronto to construct, maintain and use extensions over, upon and under the public highways known as Carlton Street and Wood Street of the building now standing on the said lands and known as Maple Leaf Gardens and to permit the Corporation to enter into an agreement with such owner prescribing the terms and conditions upon which such extensions may be constructed, maintained and used and without in any way limiting the foregoing, for prescribing the duration of such permission, such annual or other charges for the giving of such permission as the Council deems reasonable, the indemnification of the Corporation against any loss occasioned thereby and the giving of security therefor, the provision and maintenance of such parking facilities as may be deemed desirable, the payment of amounts in lieu of taxes in respect of real property and business taxes on the parts of the highways over, upon or under which the said extensions encroach, the payment of the said charges for the permission given and the amounts to be paid in lieu of taxes in like manner as real property taxes and the enforcement of payment of such charges and amounts to be paid in lieu of real property taxes in like manner as the payment of real property taxes may be enforced, the approval of plans of the said extensions by Council and by any Committee thereof, the payment to the Corporation in the manner to be prescribed or to any board, commission or corporation concerned of the cost of relocating, removing or altering any utilities or other public services resulting from or incidental to such extensions and the additional cost of constructing or laying down any such utilities or services in the future when such additional cost is made necessary by the extensions.

2. For the authorization and confirmation of the making of a grant by the Corporation to the Canadian Red Cross for the purpose of assisting in providing relief to the citizens of the City of Skopje.

3. That the Corporation may lease to John Inglis Co., Limited, any part of the lands in the Ordnance Reserve Plan, bounded on the north by the Frederick G. Gardiner Expressway lands, on the south by Fleet Street, on the west by Strachan Avenue and on the east by the west limit of Garrison Road, clear of and free from the limitation for park or industrial exhibition purposes only imposed by Section 10 of An Act respecting the City of Toronto, being Chapter 86, Statutes of Ontario, 1903.

4. For the amendment of Section 4 of The City of Toronto Act, 1960-61, relating to the levying of special charges in one or more defined areas for the capital cost or part thereof of off-street parking lots and the erection of buildings thereon, by the addition thereto of subsections providing in effect that when a by-law has been passed for levying charges as aforesaid, and the Council is of the opinion that lands in any other defined area or areas have begun or may begin to derive a special benefit from such work following the passing subsequent to the said levy of a by-law or amendment to a by-law pursuant to Section 30 of The Planning Act, the Council may by a further by-law passed with the approval of The Ontario Municipal Board levy charges against the lands in the said last-mentioned area or areas of such amounts as would have been charged against such lands if the Council had been of the opinion that the lands derived a special benefit therefrom at the time of the passing of the first-mentioned by-law, and further providing that the charges levied pursuant to the above shall be due and payable in equal annual instalments commencing the year next following the year in which the by-law imposing such levy was passed and shall continue for such term of years as the charges were imposed by the first-mentioned by-law, and shall be a lien upon the land and may be recovered in the same manner as real property taxes may be recovered, and further providing that such charges shall when paid be credited to any portion of the capital cost of the work assumed by the Corporation and to principal and interest payments upon any debentures issued in respect of such portion, and any surplus shall be used for the purposes set out in subclauses (ii) and (iii) of clause (f) of paragraph 67 of Section 377 of The Municipal Act.

Dated at Toronto, this 19th day of November, 1963.

THE PUBLIC HOSPITALS ACT

O. Reg. 308/63.
Grants—Capital.
Made—November 7th, 1963.
Filed—November 15th, 1963.

REGULATION MADE UNDER
THE PUBLIC HOSPITALS ACT

GRANTS—CAPITAL

1. In this Regulation,

(a) "auxiliary-services accommodation" means the part of a hospital that is established and maintained by the hospital,

(i) as autopsy facilities,

(ii) as a laboratory,

(iii) as a dispensary,

(iv) for diagnosis or treatment by X-ray,

(v) for treatment by occupational therapy and that is not in a psychiatric unit,

(vi) for treatment by physiotherapy,

(vii) for emergency services,

(viii) for community health services,

(ix) for hospital training facilities,

(x) as an operating room or a suite of operating rooms,

(xi) as a delivery room or a suite of delivery rooms,

(xii) for examining and treatment rooms in nursing units,

(xiii) for a dietary department, including dining rooms, cafeterias, snack bars and coffee shops that are not in a psychiatric unit,

(xiv) for a central supply service, or

(xv) for a laundry service;

(b) "bed unit" means,

(i) three nursery cubicles for the care of new-born infants, or

(ii) 300 square feet of interior floor space of auxiliary-services accommodation;

(c) "building project" means,

(i) the acquisition of existing buildings and the alteration thereof,

(ii) new construction, or

(iii) renovation of or alterations to hospital buildings;

(d) "capital grant" means a grant to a hospital toward the capital cost of,

(i) a building project for hospital construction for beds for patients, nurses' residence, interns' residence, or accommodation for an organized out-patient department or auxiliary-services accommodation, or

(ii) a renovation project;

(e) "central supply service" means a circumscribed area used for the accumulation, preparation, supervision, storage and distribution of medical and surgical supplies to the hospital;

(f) "cost" means the cost of a building project, including architectural fees, but excluding the cost of land and equipment that is shareable for depreciation purposes under the Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Act (Canada);

(g) "detention unit" means the part of a hospital that is established and maintained by the hospital for the temporary care of mentally ill and mentally defective persons;

(h) "hospital training facilities" means accommodation for training facilities for health and hospital personnel;

(i) "interns' residence" means living accommodation for interns who are on the staff of the hospital;

(j) "nurses' residence" means living accommodation for student nurses and employees who are engaged in nursing patients of a hospital;

(k) "psychiatric unit" means the part of a public hospital,

(i) that is established and maintained by the hospital for the purpose of examining, diagnosing, consulting for diagnosing, and treating patients suffering from psychiatric disorders, and

(ii) that is provided with equipment and facilities and the services of a legally qualified medical practitioner who holds a specialist's certificate in psychiatry issued by The Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada;

(l) "renovation project" means a project to provide adequate accommodation therein by the major renovation or alteration of a hospital, a nurses' residence, an interns' residence, an organized out-patient department, auxiliary-services accommodation, or any part thereof that has become obsolete or otherwise inadequate;

(m) "suite of delivery rooms" means a group of rooms and a corridor within a circumscribed area that is used for deliveries and other obstetrical procedures, and that is isolated from the rest of the hospital in a manner acceptable to the Commission; and

(n) "suite of operating rooms" means a group of rooms and a corridor within a circumscribed area that is used for surgical operations, other than deliveries and obstetrical operations, and that is isolated from the rest of the hospital in a manner acceptable to the Commission.

2.—(1) A capital grant for beds for patients shall not be paid to a hospital except upon application in Form 1.

(2) A capital grant for a nurses' residence or an interns' residence shall not be paid to a hospital except upon application in Form 2.

(3) A capital grant for an organized out-patient department or auxiliary-services accommodation shall not be paid to a hospital except upon application in Form 3.

(4) A capital grant for a renovation project shall not be paid to a hospital except upon application in Form 4.

3.—(1) A capital grant shall not exceed in the case of,

(a) a psychiatric unit of a Group A hospital, or of a Group B hospital having a total bed capacity exceeding 200 beds; or

(b) a detention unit,

$8,500 for each bed, or the difference between the grant payable by Her Majesty in right of Canada and the actual cost that is not in excess of $10,500, whichever is the lesser.

(2) Subject to subsections 1 and 3, where a building project was commenced but not completed before the 15th day of August, 1963, in the case of,

(a) a Group A, B, C or D hospital, the capital grant shall not exceed $2,000 for each bed included in the project, plus an amount which shall bear the same relation to $1,200 for each bed as the cost of the portion of the building project still to be completed after the 14th day of August, 1963, bears to the total cost of the building project when finally determined;

(b) an organized out-patient department or any auxiliary-services accommodation, the capital grant shall not exceed $2,000 for each bed unit included in the project, plus an amount which shall bear the same relation to $1,200 for each bed unit as the cost of the portion of the building project still to be completed after the 14th day of August, 1963, bears to the total cost of the building project when finally determined, or 50 per cent of the cost of the building project, whichever is the lesser.

(3) Where a building project was commenced but not completed before the 15th day of August, 1963, in the case of,

(a) a Group E, F or G hospital, the capital grant shall not exceed $3,000 for each bed included in the project;

(b) a nurses' residence, the capital grant shall not exceed $2,000 for each bed included in the project;

(c) an interns' residence, the capital grant shall not exceed $2,000 for each bed included in the project, or 50 per cent of the cost of the building project, whichever is the lesser.

(4) Subject to subsections 1 and 5, where a building project was commenced on or after the 15th day of August, 1963, in the case of,

(a) a Group A, B, C or D hospital, the capital grant shall not exceed $3,200 for each bed included in the project;

(b) an organized out-patient department or any auxiliary-services accommodation, the capital grant shall not exceed $3,200 for each bed unit included in the project;

(c) a Group E, F or G hospital, the capital grant shall not exceed $3,000 for each bed included in the project;

(d) a nurses' residence, the capital grant shall not exceed $2,000 for each bed included in the project;

(e) an interns' residence, the capital grant shall not exceed $2,000 for each bed included in the project, or 50 per cent of the cost of the building project, whichever is the lesser.

(5) In the case of a renovation project, the capital grant for each bed or bed unit improved by such renovation or alteration shall not exceed one-third of the cost of the renovation project or $2,000, whichever is the lesser, or such lesser amount as is deemed by the Commission sufficient for the public interest.

4.—(1) For the purpose of computing the amount of a capital grant for a suite of delivery rooms or a suite of operating rooms, the suite may include change rooms for doctors and nurses if such change rooms lie outside the circumscribed area of the suite but are adjacent to it and open directly into the suite.

(2) No capital grant is payable for a room that comes within the definition of auxiliary-services accommodation if it contains beds on which a bed grant is payable.

5.—(1) When an application is made for a capital grant a preliminary sketch-plan in triplicate shall be submitted to the Commission showing any existing buildings acquired or proposed to be acquired for the purposes of the hospital and the alterations necessary thereto, or showing the new construction, additions or alterations, as the case may be.

(2) No tenders shall be called for any proposed new construction, additions or alterations until the plans submitted under subsection 1 have been approved by the Commission.

(3) The Commission shall give the Minister notice of any application for a capital grant for a psychiatric unit.

6. (1) No capital grant shall be paid to a hospital in Group A, B, C or D where the total number of beds in all the hospitals in the area served by the applicant hospital, including the proposed additional beds, exceeds 5.5 beds for each thousand of the population of the area.

(2) In computing the number of beds in the hospitals for the purpose of subsection 1, beds in a psychiatric unit shall not be included.

7. No capital grant for a nurses' residence shall be paid for beds in excess of the ratio of one nurses' residence bed for each two beds for patients.

8. A capital grant towards the cost of a renovation project, an alteration of an existing hospital building or an addition of one or more storeys to an existing hospital building and the necessary alterations thereof shall be paid in instalments as follows:

1. One-quarter when one-quarter of the work is completed.
2. One-quarter when one-half of the work is completed.
3. One-quarter when three-quarters of the work is completed.
4. The balance when the alteration or addition is completed, furnished and equipped and ready to receive patients.

9. Where an applicant hospital has,

(a) secured approval to the building project under subsection 4 of section 4 of the Act; and

(b) complied with the provisions that are applicable to the building project, the Commission shall pay the grant in accordance with this Regulation.

NORTHERN ONTARIO GRANT

10.—(1) In addition to the grants referred to in section 3, the Commission may pay to a public hospital located in a municipality with a population of not more than 12,000 in a territorial district, a special capital grant which shall not exceed,

(a) an amount equal to the total amount of all contributions, other than grants made by Her Majesty in right of Canada and in right of Ontario, made to a building project; or

(b) in the case of,

(i) a Group B or C hospital, $2,000 for each bed, or

(ii) a Group E, F or G hospital, $1,000 for each bed,

whichever is the lesser.

(2) In addition to the grants referred to in section 3, the Commission may pay to a public hospital located in a municipality with a population of more than 12,000 in a territorial district, a special capital grant which shall not exceed,

(a) an amount equal to the total amount of all contributions, other than grants made by Her Majesty in right of Canada and in right of Ontario, made to a building project; or

(b) in the case of,

(i) a Group B or C hospital, $500 for each bed, or

(ii) a Group E, F or G hospital, $250 for each bed,

whichever is the lesser.

(3) A special grant made under this section shall be paid in instalments in accordance with section 8.

11. Regulation 521 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960, as amended by Ontario Regulation 224/63, is revoked.

THE POWER COMMISSION ACT

O. Reg. 309/63.
Pension Plan.
Made—July 17th, 1963.
Approved—November 7th, 1963.
Filed—November 15th, 1963.

REGULATION MADE UNDER
THE POWER COMMISSION ACT

1. Regulation 491 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960, as amended by Ontario Regulations 213/61, 16/62 and 212/62, is further amended by adding thereto the following section:

25*a*.—(1) If the plan is terminated or the full current costs thereof have not been met on any date prior to the 22nd day of January, 1972 or prior to ten years after any amendment to the plan which increases pensions thereunder, the contributions made by the Commission to the fund which may be used to provide benefits for any member who was among the twenty-five highest paid employees on the 22nd day of January, 1962 or on the date of such amendment shall not exceed the greater of,

(a) the contributions, or funds attributable thereto, which would have been applied to provide pension benefits if the plan as it existed immediately before the date of such amendment, had been continued without change;

(b) the sum of,

(i) the contributions, or funds attributable thereto, which would have been applied to provide pension benefits for the member if the plan had been terminated on the day before the date of such amendment, and

(ii) an amount equal to 20 per cent of the member's average base annual earnings for the last five years of service, or $10,000 whichever is less, multiplied by the number of full years after the 22nd day of January, 1962 or the date of such amendment, whichever is applicable, for which the current costs of the plan are met;

(c) $20,000; or

(d) an amount which would be required to provide an annual pension for such member of $1,500.

(2) Subsection 1 shall not restrict the payment of a pension to any member so long as the plan remains in force and the current costs are met.

(3) Such sums as may be recovered by reason of subsection 1 shall be used proportionately to provide additional benefits for members other than those referred to in subsection 1.

(4) Subject to subsections 1 and 3 in the event the plan is at any time terminated a member is entitled to 100 per cent of his pension ascertained and payable in accordance with the Regulation in effect on his retirement date or the date of termination of the plan, whichever is earlier.

Application to Parliament Private Bills

PUBLIC NOTICE

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO

The attention of Municipal Officials, Solicitors and all other persons who may be interested in the preparation of Private Bills for submission to the Legislative Assembly of Ontario is directed particularly to the following Rules of the House governing the submission of such Bills:

RULES RE SUBMISSION OF PRIVATE BILLS

63.—(1) No petition for any Private Bill is received by the House after the first two weeks of each Session nor may any Private Bill be presented to the House after the first three weeks of each Session; nor may any report of any Standing or Select Committee upon a Private Bill be received after the first six weeks of each Session; and no motion for the general suspension or modification of this Rule shall be entertained by the House unless after reference made thereof, at a previous sitting of the House, to the several Standing Committees charged with the consideration of Private Bills upon Report submitted to two or more of such committees.

64.—(1) Any person desiring to obtain a Private Bill shall deposit with the Clerk of the House at least eight (8) days before the meeting of the House a copy of such Bill together with a fee of $150, and if such Bill is not deposited by that time the applicant shall pay $10 for each and every day which intervenes between the said eighth day and the date of the filing of the Bill.

(2) After the first reading of the Bill and before its consideration by the Committee to which it is referred, the applicant in every case shall pay the cost of printing the Act in the Statutes.

(3) The following charges shall also be levied and paid in addition to the foregoing:

(a) When any rule of the House is suspended with reference to a Bill or the Petition therefor, for each suspension $50.

(b) When a Bill is presented to the House after the first three weeks of the Session and before the end of the fourth week, $75.

(c) When a Bill is presented after the fourth week of the Session, $100.

(4) In the case of any Bill incorporating a company or increasing the capital stock of a company already incorporated, there shall be paid to the Clerk of the House, by or on behalf of the applicant, before the same is reported to the House, the same fee as would be payable to the Provincial Secretary in the case of an incorporation or increase of capital under the provisions of The Corporations Act, less the sum of $150 already paid to the Clerk of the House.

(5) When a Bill is for the purpose of confirming by-laws, bonds, debentures or other securities, or authority is asked to borrow money or to increase borrowing powers, the following additional fees shall be paid according to the amount of money involved:

On amounts less than $10,000, $25; on amounts over $10,000 and up to $25,000, $50; on amounts over $25,000 and up to $40,000, $75; on amounts over $40,000 and up to $75,000, $100; on amounts over $75,000 and up to $125,000, $125; on amounts over $125,000 and up to $175,000, $150; on amounts over $175,000 and up to $250,000, $200; on amounts over $250,000 and up to $350,000, $250; and an additional fee of $50 for every $100,000 over $350,000

66. All applications for Private Bills properly the subject of legislation by the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, within the purview of "The British North America Act, 1867", shall require a Notice, clearly and distinctly specifying the nature and object of the application and, where the application refers to any proposed work, indicating generally the location of the work, and signed by or on behalf of the applicants, such Notice to be published as follows, viz.:

A notice inserted in THE ONTARIO GAZETTE and in one newspaper published in the Municipality affected, or, if there be no newspaper published therein, then in a newspaper in the next nearest municipality in which a newspaper is published.

Such notice shall be continued in each case for a period of at least six weeks, during the interval of time between the close of the next preceding Session and the consideration of the Petition.

If the application is by a Municipal Corporation for authority to issue debentures, the notice shall set out the particulars of the existing debentures debt and the amount of rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised assessment roll of the Corporation, and in brief and general terms the object for which the new issue of debentures is required.

67. Before any Petition praying for leave to bring in a Private Bill for the erection of a Toll Bridge is received by the House, the person or persons intending to petition for such Bill shall, upon giving the Notice required by the preceding Rule, also, at the same time and in the same manner, give Notice of the rates which they intend to ask, the extent of the privileges, the height of the arches, the interval between the abutments or piers for the passage of rafts and vessels, and mentioning also whether they intend to erect a drawbridge or not, and the dimensions of the same.

68. Before any Petition praying for leave to bring in a Bill for the construction of Railways, Tramways or canals is received by the House, the person or persons petitioning for such Bill shall deposit with the Clerk the following documents:

1. A map or plan upon a scale of not less than half an inch to the mile, showing the location upon which it is intended to construct the proposed work, and showing also the line of existing or authorized works of a similar character within, or in any way affecting, the district or any part thereof which the proposed work is intended to serve. Such map or plan shall be signed by the Engineer or other party making the same.

2. A book of reference in which shall be clearly set out the following information in separate schedules, namely:

SCHEDULE A.—The name of each municipality within which the proposed works or any part thereof are intended to be constructed; the population of each such municipality as returned by the next preceding census; the rateable value of the property within each such municipality, as returned by the next preceding assessment rolls thereof; and this schedule may contain in a separate statement similar information as to the adjoining districts intended to be served by the proposed work.

SCHEDULE B.—A general description of the nature, extent and proposed character of the contemplated works, and an estimate of the probable cost thereof, distinguishing the general items of construction and the cost thereof respectively, as well as the nature, extent and probable cost of all engines and car stock or other outfit or equipment necessary to the use and operation of the proposed undertaking, such schedule to be signed by the Engineer or other person preparing the same.

SCHEDULE C.—An exhibit showing the total amount of capital proposed to be raised for the purposes of the undertaking and the manner in which it is proposed to raise the same, whether by ordinary shares, bonds, debentures or other securities, and the amounts of each respectively.

SCHEDULE D.—An estimate of the probable revenues of the proposed undertaking, showing the sources whence the same are expected to be derived; the annual earnings thereof respectively; the probable annual cost of operation or working expenditure, and the annual net revenue applicable to the payment of interest on the proposed investments

Such schedules shall be signed by the person preparing the same.

72. When any Bill for confirming any Letters Patent, or Agreement, is presented to the House, the copy of such Letters Patent, or Agreement, shall be attached to it.

74. Every Private Bill, when read a first time, unless it be an Estate Bill or a Bill providing for the consolidation of a floating debt or for the consolidation or renewal of debentures (other than local improvement debentures) of a Municipal Corporation, shall stand referred to the proper Standing Committee, and all petitions before the House, for or against the Bill, are considered referred to such Committee.

75. Every Private Bill, in so far as it provides for the consolidation of a floating debt or for the consolidation or renewal of debentures (other than local improvement debentures) of a Municipal Corporation, when a Bill has been read the first time, shall, without special reference, stand referred to The Ontario Municipal Board for their report; and a copy of such Bill and of the Petition on which the same is founded shall be forthwith transmitted by the Clerk of the House to the Board, in order that the Board may, after an inquiry into the allegations set out in the Bill, and into any other matters which the Board may deem necessary in connection therewith, report to the House whether or not it is reasonable that such Bill or part thereof relating to the matters aforesaid shall be passed; and what alterations, if any, should be made in the same; and the Board shall make such inquiry accordingly and shall sign the same; and the said Report, Bill and Petition shall be transmitted to the Clerk, and the Report shall be read by the Clerk at the Table and shall be entered on the Journals of the House, and the Bill, together with the Report, shall stand referred to the Standing Committee on Private Bills.

76. Every Estate Bill, when read a first time, shall without special reference stand referred to the Commissioners of Estate Bills, for their Report, and a copy of such Bill, and of the Petition on which the same is founded, shall be forthwith transmitted by the Clerk of the House to the said Commissioners, or one of them, in order that they, or any two of them, may, after perusing the Bill, without requiring any proof of the allegations thereof, report to the House their opinion thereon under their hands; and whether, presuming the allegation contained in the preamble to be proved to the satisfaction of the House, it is reasonable that such Bill do pass into a Law; and whether the provisions thereof are proper for carrying its purposes into effect, and what alterations or amendments, if any, are necessary in the same, and in the event of their approving the said Bill they are to sign the same; and the said Report, with the said Bill and Petition, are to be transmitted by the said Commissioners to the Clerk; and the Report shall be read by the Clerk at the Table and shall be entered on the Journals of the House; and the Bill together with the Report shall stand referred to the Standing Committee on Private Bills, which is not to consider the said Bill before the delivery of the said Report, Bill and Petition to the Chairman of the said Committee.

77. In the event of the Commissioners of Estate Bills reporting that, in their opinion, it is not reasonable that the Bill submitted to them shall pass into law, such Bill shall not be further considered.

RODERICK LEWIS, Q.C.,
Clerk of Legislative Assembly of Ontario.

CITY OF TORONTO

Application for Special Legislation

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on behalf of The Corporation of the City of Toronto, application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next Session, for special legislation to provide:

1. That by-laws may be passed by the Council of the Corporation to permit the owner of the lands at the northwest corner of Carlton and Church Streets in the City of Toronto to construct, maintain and use extensions over, upon and under the public highways known as Carlton Street and Wood Street of the building now standing on the said lands and known as Maple Leaf Gardens and to permit the Corporation to enter into an agreement with such owner prescribing the terms and conditions upon which such extensions may be constructed, maintained and used and without in any way limiting the foregoing, for prescribing the duration of such permission, such annual or other charges for the giving of such permission as the Council deems reasonable, the indemnification of the Corporation against any loss occasioned thereby and the giving of security therefor, the provision and maintenance of such parking facilities as may be deemed desirable, the payment of amounts in lieu of taxes in respect of real property and business taxes on the parts of the highways over, upon or under which the said extensions encroach, the payment of the said charges for the permission given and the amounts to be paid in lieu of taxes in like manner as real property taxes and the enforcement of payment of such charges and amounts to be paid in lieu of real property taxes in like manner as the payment of real property taxes may be enforced, the approval of plans of the said extensions by Council and by any Committee thereof, the payment to the Corporation in the manner to be prescribed or to any board, commission or corporation concerned of the cost of relocating, removing or altering any utilities or other public services resulting from or incidental to such extensions and the additional cost of constructing or laying down any such utilities or services in the future when such additional cost is made necessary by the extensions.

2. For the authorization and confirmation of the making of a grant by the Corporation to the Canadian Red Cross for the purpose of assisting in providing relief to the citizens of the City of Skopje.

3. That the Corporation may lease to John Inglis Co., Limited, any part of the lands in the Ordnance Reserve Plan, bounded on the north by the Frederick G. Gardiner Expressway lands, on the south by Fleet Street, on the west by Strachan Avenue and on the east by the west limit of Garrison Road, clear of and free from the limitation for park or industrial exhibition purposes only imposed by Section 10 of An Act respecting the City of Toronto, being Chapter 86, Statutes of Ontario, 1903.

4. For the amendment of Section 4 of The City of Toronto Act, 1960-61, relating to the levying of special charges in one or more defined areas for the capital cost or part thereof of off-street parking lots and the erection of buildings thereon, by the addition thereto of subsections providing in effect that when a by-law has been passed for levying charges as aforesaid, and the Council is of the opinion that lands in any other defined area or areas have begun or may begin to derive a special benefit from such work following the passing subsequent to the said levy of a by-law or amendment to a by-law pursuant to Section 30 of The Planning Act, the Council may by a further by-law passed with the approval of The Ontario Municipal Board levy charges against the lands in the said last-mentioned area or areas of such amounts as would have been charged against such lands if the Council had been of the opinion that the lands derived a special benefit therefrom at the time of the passing of the first-mentioned by-law, and further providing that the charges levied pursuant to the above shall be due and payable in equal annual instalments commencing the year next following the year in which the by-law imposing such levy was passed and shall continue for such term of years as the charges were imposed by the first-mentioned by-law, and shall be a lien upon the land and may be recovered in the same manner as real property taxes may be recovered, and further providing that such charges shall when paid be credited to any portion of the capital cost of the work assumed by the Corporation and to principal and interest payments upon any debentures issued in respect of such portion, and any surplus shall be used for the purposes set out in subclauses (ii) and (iii) of clause (f) of paragraph 67 of Section 377 of The Municipal Act.

Dated at Toronto, this 19th day of November, 1963.

CITY OF TORONTO

NOTICE OF SUPPLEMENTARY APPLICATION FOR SPECIAL LEGISLATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on behalf of The Corporation of the City of Toronto, application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next Session, for special legislation to provide:

1. The Council of the Corporation may pass by-laws to authorize The Parking Authority of Toronto on behalf of the Corporation to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of land or buildings under the control of the Authority when the same are no longer required for the purposes of the Authority, and to authorize the Corporation or the Authority to acquire land and construct buildings and maintain the same upon or under land under the control of the Authority notwithstanding that such land or buildings are not required for the purposes of the Authority or the Corporation, or to construct and maintain buildings upon or under such land having a greater capacity than is required for the foregoing purposes, and to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of any such building or portion thereof not so required; and further to provide that the Corporation may in any by-law permitting the Authority to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of land, impose limitations and conditions upon the exercise of such powers by the Authority; and further to provide that any instruments required to convey, lease or otherwise dispose of land or buildings under such special legislation shall be executed by the Corporation, and that all moneys obtained from any sale, lease or other disposition as aforesaid shall be paid to the City Treasurer and after payment of expenses incidental thereto shall be deposited in a reserve fund and shall be applied, firstly, for the payment of interest and principal falling due in each year in respect of the acquisition of such land and the erection of buildings thereon or thereunder and, secondly, for the acquisition, laying out or improvement of additional parking lots or facilities and the construction of buildings thereon or thereunder and, thirdly, for such other purposes as the Department of Municipal Affairs may approve and further to provide that the Corporation may incur debts and issue debentures for the purposes set out in such special legislation.

2. That the omission of the Corporation and its officers or any of them to give the notice required by Section 115 of The Assessment Act to any person liable pursuant to By-law No. 21857 of the Corporation, being "A By-law to levy and collect further taxes in the year 1963 in the City of Toronto" to business taxes on a business assessment of $8,065.00 or less, and to collect the taxes levied by the said by-law on any such assessment of $8,065.00 or less, shall be authorized and confirmed.

3. That the Corporation may by by-law authorize agreements with any other municipality for the construction, improvement, alteration, enlargement or extension of sewage works either by the Corporation or by such other municipality to service lands owned by the Corporation, and may provide for the payment of the cost thereof or for payment to such other municipality therefor of such amount as may be agreed upon, and any such construction, improvement, alteration, enlargement or extension of the said works shall be deemed to be a purpose of the Corporation.

4. That the Corporation may make a grant to the widow of the late Mayor Donald D. Summerville to cover public funeral expenses of the said Donald D. Summerville.

Dated at Toronto this 28th day of November, 1963.

THE CONFEDERATION CENTENNIAL ACT, 1962-63

O. Reg. 322/63.
Grants.
Made—November 21st, 1963.
Filed—November 22nd, 1963.

REGULATION MADE UNDER THE CONFEDERATION CENTENNIAL ACT, 1962-63

GRANTS

1. In this Regulation,

(a) "applicant" means the municipality or group of municipalities applying for a grant under the Act;

(b) "contribution by Ontario" means the part of a grant for which Ontario is not reimbursed under the National Centennial Act (Canada).

2.—(1) An applicant for a grant under section 2 of the Act shall file with the Secretary of the Centennial Advisory Committee, 801 Bay Street, Toronto, on or before the 1st day of August, 1964, an application signed by the clerk of each applicant setting out,

(a) a description, with as much detail as possible, of the project or event that the applicant proposes to undertake in observance or commemoration of the Centennial;

(b) the estimated capital cost of the project or event, itemized, and the method of financing such cost; and

(c) where the project or event requires the acquisition of lands or existing buildings or structures or the construction of new buildings or structures or the renovation or enlargement of existing buildings or structures, a general description of such lands, buildings or structures, including the approximate dimensions and the name of the owner thereof at the date of application together with an outline of plans for the maintenance and upkeep thereof, including the financing of the cost of the maintenance and upkeep.

(2) An application for a grant under subsection 1 shall be accompanied by,

(a) a certified copy of the by-law providing for the undertaking of the project or event;

(b) the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board where it is required under The Ontario Municipal Board Act in regard to a by-law referred to in clause a; and (c) where two or more municipalities have entered into an agreement for a joint project, a copy of the agreement approved by the councils of the municipalities.

3.—(1) A contribution by Ontario shall not exceed,

(a) an amount equal to $1 per capita of the population of the applicant determined in the same manner as provided in The Municipal Unconditional Grants Act; or

(b) an amount which, when added to the contributions to the project or event from other sources, does not exceed the actual cost of the project or event, whichever is the lesser.

(2) A grant under the Act is made on the conditions that,

(a) the applicant makes a contribution to the project or event of money, or such land, material or labour as is approved by the Minister, in an amount at least equal to the contribution by Ontario, and any amounts granted by the Government of Ontario or Canada under any Act other than the National Centennial Act (Canada) shall not be computed for the purpose of determining the applicant's contribution;

(b) the applicant uses only Canadian labour and material to the extent that it is procurable, consistent with proper economy and the expeditious carrying out of the work;

(c) every contract entered into by the applicant provides that time is of the essence;

(d) the applicant maintains full records of all expenditures relating to the project or event together with all documents and vouchers referrable thereto for a period of five years after the completion of the project or event and makes the records, documents and vouchers available for examination and audit by any person authorized by the Minister or the National Centennial Administration or any person authorized by it;

(e) in the case of a project, the applicant does not dispose of the project but permanently maintains the project in good condition after the Centennial; and

(f) Ontario is entitled to contribution in respect of the grant under the National Centennial Act (Canada).

PUBLIC NOTICE

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO

The attention of Municipal Officials, Solicitors and all other persons who may be interested in the preparation of Private Bills for submission to the Legislative Assembly of Ontario is directed particularly to the following Rules of the House governing the submission of such Bills:

RULES RE SUBMISSION OF PRIVATE BILLS

63.—(1) No petition for any Private Bill is received by the House after the first two weeks of each Session nor may any Private Bill be presented to the House after the first three weeks of each Session; nor may any report of any Standing or Select Committee upon a Private Bill be received after the first six weeks of each Session; and no motion for the general suspension or modification of this Rule shall be entertained by the House unless after reference made thereof, at a previous sitting of the House, to the several Standing Committees charged with the consideration of Private Bills upon Report submitted to two or more of such committees.

64.—(1) Any person desiring to obtain a Private Bill shall deposit with the Clerk of the House at least eight (8) days before the meeting of the House a copy of such Bill together with a fee of $150, and if such Bill is not deposited by that time the applicant shall pay $10 for each and every day which intervenes between the said eighth day and the date of the filing of the Bill.

(2) After the first reading of the Bill and before its consideration by the Committee to which it is referred, the applicant in every case shall pay the cost of printing the Act in the Statutes.

(3) The following charges shall also be levied and paid in addition to the foregoing:

(a) When any rule of the House is suspended with reference to a Bill or the Petition therefor, for each suspension $50.

(b) When a Bill is presented to the House after the first three weeks of the Session and before the end of the fourth week, $75.

(c) When a Bill is presented after the fourth week of the Session, $100.

(4) In the case of any Bill incorporating a company or increasing the capital stock of a company already incorporated, there shall be paid to the Clerk of the House, by or on behalf of the applicant, before the same is reported to the House, the same fee as would be payable to the Provincial Secretary in the case of an incorporation or increase of capital under the provisions of The Corporations Act, less the sum of $150 already paid to the Clerk of the House.

(5) When a Bill is for the purpose of confirming by-laws, bonds, debentures or other securities, or authority is asked to borrow money or to increase borrowing powers, the following additional fees shall be paid according to the amount of money involved:

On amounts less than $10,000, $25; on amounts over $10,000 and up to $25,000, $50; on amounts over $25,000 and up to $40,000, $75; on amounts over $40,000 and up to $75,000, $100; on amounts over $75,000 and up to $125,000, $125; on amounts over $125,000 and up to $175,000, $150; on amounts over $175,000 and up to $250,000, $200; on amounts over $250,000 and up to $350,000, $250; and an additional fee of $50 for every $100,000 over $350,000.

66. All applications for Private Bills properly the subject of legislation by the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, within the purview of "The British North America Act, 1867", shall require a Notice, clearly and distinctly specifying the nature and object of the application and, where the application refers to any proposed work, indicating generally the location of the work, and signed by or on behalf of the applicants, such Notice to be published as follows, viz.:

A notice inserted in THE ONTARIO GAZETTE and in one newspaper published in the Municipality affected, or, if there be no newspaper published therein, then in a newspaper in the next nearest municipality in which a newspaper is published.

Such notice shall be continued in each case for a period of at least six weeks, during the interval of time between the close of the next preceding Session and the consideration of the Petition.

If the application is by a Municipal Corporation for authority to issue debentures, the notice shall set out the particulars of the existing debentures debt and the amount of rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised assessment roll of the Corporation, and in brief and general terms the object for which the new issue of debentures is required.

67. Before any Petition praying for leave to bring in a Private Bill for the erection of a Toll Bridge is received by the House, the person or persons intending to petition for such Bill shall, upon giving the Notice required by the preceding Rule, also, at the same time and in the same manner, give Notice of the rates which they intend to ask, the extent of the privileges, the height of the arches, the interval between the abutments or piers for the passage of rafts and vessels, and mentioning also whether they intend to erect a drawbridge or not, and the dimensions of the same.

68. Before any Petition praying for leave to bring in a Bill for the construction of Railways, Tramways or canals is received by the House, the person or persons petitioning for such Bill shall deposit with the Clerk the following documents:

1. A map or plan upon a scale of not less than half an inch to the mile, showing the location upon which it is intended to construct the proposed work, and showing also the line of existing or authorized works of a similar character within, or in any way affecting, the district or any part thereof which the proposed work is intended to serve. Such map or plan shall be signed by the Engineer or other party making the same.

2. A book of reference in which shall be clearly set out the following information in separate schedules, namely:

SCHEDULE A.—The name of each municipality within which the proposed works or any part thereof are intended to be constructed; the population of each such municipality as returned by the next preceding census; the rateable value of the property within each such municipality, as returned by the next preceding assessment rolls thereof; and this schedule may contain in a separate statement similar information as to the adjoining districts intended to be served by the proposed work.

SCHEDULE B.—A general description of the nature, extent and proposed character of the contemplated works, and an estimate of the probable cost thereof, distinguishing the general items of construction and the cost thereof respectively, as well as the nature, extent and probable cost of all engines and car stock or other outfit or equipment necessary to the use and operation of the proposed undertaking, such schedule to be signed by the Engineer or other person preparing the same.

SCHEDULE C.—An exhibit showing the total amount of capital proposed to be raised for the purposes of the undertaking and the manner in which it is proposed to raise the same, whether by ordinary shares, bonds, debentures or other securities, and the amounts of each respectively.

SCHEDULE D.—An estimate of the probable revenues of the proposed undertaking, showing the sources whence the same are expected to be derived; the annual earnings thereof respectively; the probable annual cost of operation or working expenditure, and the annual net revenue applicable to the payment of interest on the proposed investments.

Such schedules shall be signed by the person preparing the same.

72. When any Bill for confirming any Letters Patent, or Agreement, is presented to the House, the copy of such Letters Patent, or Agreement, shall be attached to it.

74. Every Private Bill, when read a first time, unless it be an Estate Bill or a Bill providing for the consolidation of a floating debt or for the consolidation or renewal of debentures (other than local improvement debentures) of a Municipal Corporation, shall stand referred to the proper Standing Committee, and all petitions before the House, for or against the Bill, are considered referred to such Committee.

75. Every Private Bill, in so far as it provides for the consolidation of a floating debt or for the consolidation or renewal of debentures (other than local improvement debentures) of a Municipal Corporation, when a Bill has been read the first time, shall, without special reference, stand referred to The Ontario Municipal Board for their report; and a copy of such Bill and of the Petition on which the same is founded shall be forthwith transmitted by the Clerk of the House to the Board, in order that the Board may, after an inquiry into the allegations set out in the Bill, and into any other matters which the Board may deem necessary in connection therewith, report to the House whether or not it is reasonable that such Bill or part thereof relating to the matters aforesaid shall be passed; and what alterations, if any, should be made in the same; and the Board shall make such inquiry accordingly and shall sign the same; and the said Report, Bill and Petition shall be transmitted to the Clerk, and the Report shall be read by the Clerk at the Table and shall be entered on the Journals of the House, and the Bill, together with the Report, shall stand referred to the Standing Committee on Private Bills.

76. Every Estate Bill, when read a first time, shall without special reference stand referred to the Commissioners of Estate Bills, for their Report, and a copy of such Bill, and of the Petition on which the same is founded, shall be forthwith transmitted by the Clerk of the House to the said Commissioners, or one of them, in order that they, or any two of them, may, after perusing the Bill, without requiring any proof of the allegations thereof, report to the House their opinion thereon under their hands; and whether, presuming the allegation contained in the preamble to be proved to the satisfaction of the House, it is reasonable that such Bill do pass into a Law; and whether the provisions thereof are proper for carrying its purposes into effect, and what alterations or amendments, if any, are necessary in the same, and in the event of their approving the said Bill they are to sign the same; and the said Report, with the said Bill and Petition, are to be transmitted by the said Commissioners to the Clerk; and the Report shall be read by the Clerk at the Table and shall be entered on the Journals of the House; and the Bill together with the Report shall stand referred to the Standing Committee on Private Bills, which is not to consider the said Bill before the delivery of the said Report, Bill and Petition to the Chairman of the said Committee.

77. In the event of the Commissioners of Estate Bills reporting that, in their opinion, it is not reasonable that the Bill submitted to them shall pass into law, such Bill shall not be further considered.

CITY OF TORONTO

Application for Special Legislation

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on behalf of The Corporation of the City of Toronto, application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next Session, for special legislation to provide:

1. That by-laws may be passed by the Council of the Corporation to permit the owner of the lands at the northwest corner of Carlton and Church Streets in the City of Toronto to construct, maintain and use extensions over, upon and under the public highways known as Carlton Street and Wood Street of the building now standing on the said lands and known as Maple Leaf Gardens and to permit the Corporation to enter into an agreement with such owner prescribing the terms and conditions upon which such extensions may be constructed, maintained and used and without in any way limiting the foregoing, for prescribing the duration of such permission, such annual or other charges for the giving of such permission as the Council deems reasonable, the indemnification of the Corporation against any loss occasioned thereby and the giving of security therefor, the provision and maintenance of such parking facilities as may be deemed desirable, the payment of amounts in lieu of taxes in respect of real property and business taxes on the parts of the highways over, upon or under which the said extensions encroach, the payment of the said charges for the permission given and the amounts to be paid in lieu of taxes in like manner as real property taxes and the enforcement of payment of such charges and amounts to be paid in lieu of real property taxes in like manner as the payment of real property taxes may be enforced, the approval of plans of the said extensions by Council and by any Committee thereof, the payment to the Corporation in the manner to be prescribed or to any board, commission or corporation concerned of the cost of relocating, removing or altering any utilities or other public services resulting from or incidental to such extensions and the additional cost of constructing or laying down any such utilities or services in the future when such additional cost is made necessary by the extensions.

2. For the authorization and confirmation of the making of a grant by the Corporation to the Canadian Red Cross for the purpose of assisting in providing relief to the citizens of the City of Skopje.

3. That the Corporation may lease to John Inglis Co., Limited, any part of the lands in the Ordnance Reserve Plan, bounded on the north by the Frederick G. Gardiner Expressway lands, on the south by Fleet Street, on the west by Strachan Avenue and on the east by the west limit of Garrison Road, clear of and free from the limitation for park or industrial exhibition purposes only imposed by Section 10 of An Act respecting the City of Toronto, being Chapter 86, Statutes of Ontario, 1903.

4. For the amendment of Section 4 of The City of Toronto Act, 1960-61, relating to the levying of special charges in one or more defined areas for the capital cost or part thereof of off-street parking lots and the erection of buildings thereon, by the addition thereto of subsections providing in effect that when a by-law has been passed for levying charges as aforesaid, and the Council is of the opinion that lands in any other defined area or areas have begun or may begin to derive a special benefit from such work following the passing subsequent to the said levy of a by-law or amendment to a by-law pursuant to Section 30 of The Planning Act, the Council may by a further by-law passed with the approval of The Ontario Municipal Board levy charges against the lands in the said last-mentioned area or areas of such amounts as would have been charged against such lands if the Council had been of the opinion that the lands derived a special benefit therefrom at the time of the passing of the first-mentioned by-law, and further providing that the charges levied pursuant to the above shall be due and payable in equal annual instalments commencing the year next following the year in which the by-law imposing such levy was passed and shall continue for such term of years as the charges were imposed by the first-mentioned by-law, and shall be a lien upon the land and may be recovered in the same manner as real property taxes may be recovered, and further providing that such charges shall when paid be credited to any portion of the capital cost of the work assumed by the Corporation and to principal and interest payments upon any debentures issued in respect of such portion, and any surplus shall be used for the purposes set out in subclauses (ii) and (iii) of clause (f) of paragraph 67 of Section 377 of The Municipal Act.

Dated at Toronto, this 19th day of November, 1963.

NOTICE OF SUPPLEMENTARY APPLICATION FOR SPECIAL LEGISLATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on behalf of The Corporation of the City of Toronto, application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next Session, for special legislation to provide:

1. The Council of the Corporation may pass by-laws to authorize The Parking Authority of Toronto on behalf of the Corporation to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of land or buildings under the control of the Authority when the same are no longer required for the purposes of the Authority, and to authorize the Corporation or the Authority to acquire land and construct buildings and maintain the same upon or under land under the control of the Authority notwithstanding that such land or buildings are not required for the purposes of the Authority or the Corporation, or to construct and maintain buildings upon or under such land having a greater capacity than is required for the foregoing purposes, and to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of any such building or portion thereof not so required; and further to provide that the Corporation may in any by-law permitting the Authority to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of land, impose limitations and conditions upon the exercise of such powers by the Authority; and further to provide that any instruments required to convey, lease or otherwise dispose of land or buildings under such special legislation shall be executed by the Corporation, and that all moneys obtained from any sale, lease or other disposition as aforesaid shall be paid to the City Treasurer and after payment of expenses incidental thereto shall be deposited in a reserve fund and shall be applied, firstly, for the payment of interest and principal falling due in each year in respect of the acquisition of such land and the erection of buildings thereon or thereunder and, secondly, for the acquisition, laying out or improvement of additional parking lots or facilities and the construction of buildings thereon or thereunder and, thirdly, for such other purposes as the Department of Municipal Affairs may approve and further to provide that the Corporation may incur debts and issue debentures for the purposes set out in such special legislation.

2. That the omission of the Corporation and its officers or any of them to give the notice required by Section 115 of The Assessment Act to any person liable pursuant to By-law No. 21857 of the Corporation, being "A By-law to levy and collect further taxes in the year 1963 in the City of Toronto" to business taxes on a business assessment of $8,065.00 or less, and to collect the taxes levied by the said by-law on any such assessment of $8,065.00 or less, shall be authorized and confirmed.

3. That the Corporation may by by-law authorize agreements with any other municipality for the construction, improvement, alteration, enlargement or extension of sewage works either by the Corporation or by such other municipality to service lands owned by the Corporation, and may provide for the payment of the cost thereof or for payment to such other municipality therefor of such amount as may be agreed upon, and any such construction, improvement, alteration, enlargement or extension of the said works shall be deemed to be a purpose of the Corporation.

4. That the Corporation may make a grant to the widow of the late Mayor Donald D. Summerville to cover public funeral expenses of the said Donald D. Summerville.

Dated at Toronto this 28th day of November, 1963.

Pfaff, defendants, at the suit of Pacific Finance Acceptance Company Limited, plaintiff, I have seized and taken in execution all the right, title, interest and equity of redemption of the said Roy A. Pfaff and Dorothy E. Pfaff in, to and out of:

All and Singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the City of Guelph, in the County of Wellington, and in the Province of Ontario, being composed of part of Lots numbered twenty-one (21), twenty-two (22), twenty-three (23) and twenty-four (24) according to Registered Plan No. 23 for the said City, containing an area of twenty-one one-hundredths (.21) of an acre, more or less, and which said parcel or tract of land and premises may be more particularly described as follows:

Commencing at a point in the northerly limit of Paisley Road distant, south forty-five (45) degrees west eighty-six (86) feet from the point where the said northerly limit of Paisley Street is intersected by the easterly limit of Lot No. twenty-five (25); thence north forty-six (46) degrees and thirty-four (34) minutes west, one hundred and seventy-four (174) feet; thence south forty-five (45) degrees west, fifty-one and seven-tenths (51.7) feet; thence south forty-five (45) degrees and thirty-five (35) minutes east one hundred and seventy-four (174) feet to the said northerly limit of Paisley Road, said course passing along the centre line of the centre wall in a double dwelling house on said lots numbered twenty-one (21) and twenty-three (23); thence north forty-five (45) degrees east along the said northerly limit of Paisley Road, fifty-four and seven-tenths (54.7) feet to the place of beginning; Together with a right-of-way seventeen (17) feet wide, immediately adjoining the easterly limit of the above-described lands, on the easterly side thereof, and extending from Paisley Road, north forty-six (46) degrees and thirty-four (34) minutes west, one hundred and fifty-four (154) feet; Subject to the lines of occupation in the said double dwelling house until such time as the said dwelling shall be made to conform to the dividing line as laid down in the above-described lands. The present owners of the lands adjoining the lands herein described both on the east and the west sides thereof, and their heirs, executors, administrators and assigns are to have the right to take water from the well on the lands herein described, and for that purpose are to have free access thereto over the lands herein described.

On the said premises there is said to be erected a large frame dwelling house with two self-contained apartments.

All of which said right, title, interest and equity of redemption of the said Roy A. Pfaff and Dorothy E. Pfaff in the said lands and tenements I shall offer for sale by public auction at my office in the Court House in the City of Guelph, on Wednesday, the 18th day of March, 1964, at 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Dated at the Court House, Guelph, this 10th day of December, 1963.

Application to Parliament Private Bills

PUBLIC NOTICE

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO

The attention of Municipal Officials, Solicitors and all other persons who may be interested in the preparation of Private Bills for submission to the Legislative Assembly of Ontario is directed particularly to the following Rules of the House governing the submission of such Bills:

RULES RE SUBMISSION OF PRIVATE BILLS

63.—(1) No petition for any Private Bill is received by the House after the first two weeks of each Session nor may any Private Bill be presented to the House after the first three weeks of each Session; nor may any report of any Standing or Select Committee upon a Private Bill be received after the first six weeks of each Session; and no motion for the general suspension or modification of this Rule shall be entertained by the House unless after reference made thereof, at a previous sitting of the House, to the several Standing Committees charged with the consideration of Private Bills upon Report submitted to two or more of such committees.

64.—(1) Any person desiring to obtain a Private Bill shall deposit with the Clerk of the House at least eight (8) days before the meeting of the House a copy of such Bill together with a fee of $150, and if such Bill is not deposited by that time the applicant shall pay $10 for each and every day which intervenes between the said eighth day and the date of the filing of the Bill.

(2) After the first reading of the Bill and before its consideration by the Committee to which it is referred, the applicant in every case shall pay the cost of printing the Act in the Statutes.

(3) The following charges shall also be levied and paid in addition to the foregoing:

(a) When any rule of the House is suspended with reference to a Bill or the Petition therefor, for each suspension. $50.

(b) When a Bill is presented to the House after the first three weeks of the Session and before the end of the fourth week, $75.

(c) When a Bill is presented after the fourth week of the Session, $100.

(4) In the case of any Bill incorporating a company or increasing the capital stock of a company already incorporated, there shall be paid to the Clerk of the House, by or on behalf of the applicant, before the same is reported to the House, the same fee as would be payable to the Provincial Secretary in the case of an incorporation or increase of capital under the provisions of The Corporations Act, less the sum of $150 already paid to the Clerk of the House.

(5) When a Bill is for the purpose of confirming by-laws, bonds, debentures or other securities, or authority is asked to borrow money or to increase borrowing powers, the following additional fees shall be paid according to the amount of money involved:

On amounts less than $10,000, $25; on amounts over $10,000 and up to $25,000, $50; on amounts over $25,000 and up to $40,000, $75; on amounts over $40,000 and up to $75,000, $100; on amounts over $75,000 and up to $125,000, $125; on amounts over $125,000 and up to $175,000, $150; on amounts over $175,000 and up to $250,000, $200; on amounts over $250,000 and up to $350,000, $250; and an additional fee of $50 for every $100,000 over $350,000.

66. All applications for Private Bills properly the subject of legislation by the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, within the purview of "The British North America Act, 1867", shall require a Notice, clearly and distinctly specifying the nature and object of the application and, where the application refers to any proposed work, indicating generally the location of the work, and signed by or on behalf of the applicants, such Notice to be published as follows, viz.:

A notice inserted in THE ONTARIO GAZETTE and in one newspaper published in the Municipality affected, or, if there be no newspaper published therein, then in a newspaper in the next nearest municipality in which a newspaper is published.

Such notice shall be continued in each case for a period of at least six weeks, during the interval of time between the close of the next preceding Session and the consideration of the Petition.

If the application is by a Municipal Corporation for authority to issue debentures, the notice shall set out the particulars of the existing debentures debt and the amount of rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised assessment roll of the Corporation, and in brief and general terms the object for which the new issue of debentures is required.

67. Before any Petition praying for leave to bring in a Private Bill for the erection of a Toll Bridge is received by the House, the person or persons intending to petition for such Bill shall, upon giving the Notice required by the preceding Rule, also, at the same time and in the same manner, give Notice of the rates which they intend to ask, the extent of the privileges, the height of the arches, the interval between the abutments or piers for the passage of rafts and vessels, and mentioning also whether they intend to erect a drawbridge or not, and the dimensions of the same.

68. Before any Petition praying for leave to bring in a Bill for the construction of Railways, Tramways or canals is received by the House, the person or persons petitioning for such Bill shall deposit with the Clerk the following documents:

1. A map or plan upon a scale of not less than half an inch to the mile, showing the location upon which it is intended to construct the proposed work, and showing also the line of existing or authorized works of a similar character within, or in any way affecting, the district or any part thereof which the proposed work is intended to serve. Such map or plan shall be signed by the Engineer or other party making the same.

2. A book of reference in which shall be clearly set out the following information in separate schedules, namely:

SCHEDULE A.—The name of each municipality within which the proposed works or any part thereof are intended to be constructed; the population of each such municipality as returned by the next preceding census; the rateable value of the property within each such municipality, as returned by the next preceding assessment rolls thereof; and this schedule may contain in a separate statement similar information as to the adjoining districts intended to be served by the proposed work.

SCHEDULE B.—A general description of the nature, extent and proposed character of the contemplated works, and an estimate of the probable cost thereof, distinguishing the general items of construction and the cost thereof respectively, as well as the nature, extent and probable cost of all engines and car stock or other outfit or equipment necessary to the use and operation of the proposed undertaking, such schedule to be signed by the Engineer or other person preparing the same.

SCHEDULE C.—An exhibit showing the total amount of capital proposed to be raised for the purposes of the undertaking and the manner in which it is proposed to raise the same, whether by ordinary shares, bonds, debentures or other securities, and the amounts of each respectively.

SCHEDULE D.—An estimate of the probable revenues of the proposed undertaking, showing the sources whence the same are expected to be derived; the annual earnings thereof respectively; the probable annual cost of operation or working expenditure, and the annual net revenue applicable to the payment of interest on the proposed investments.

Such schedules shall be signed by the person preparing the same.

72. When any Bill for confirming any Letters Patent, or Agreement, is presented to the House, the copy of such Letters Patent, or Agreement, shall be attached to it.

74. Every Private Bill, when read a first time, unless it be an Estate Bill or a Bill providing for the consolidation of a floating debt or for the consolidation or renewal of debentures (other than local improvement debentures) of a Municipal Corporation, shall stand referred to the proper Standing Committee, and all petitions before the House, for or against the Bill, are considered referred to such Committee.

75. Every Private Bill, in so far as it provides for the consolidation of a floating debt or for the consolidation or renewal of debentures (other than local improvement debentures) of a Municipal Corporation, when a Bill has been read the first time, shall, without special reference, stand referred to The Ontario Municipal Board for their report; and a copy of such Bill and of the Petition on which the same is founded shall be forthwith transmitted by the Clerk of the House to the Board, in order that the Board may, after an inquiry into the allegations set out in the Bill, and into any other matters which the Board may deem necessary in connection therewith, report to the House whether or not it is reasonable that such Bill or part thereof relating to the matters aforesaid shall be passed; and what alterations, if any, should be made in the same; and the Board shall make such inquiry accordingly and shall sign the same; and the said Report, Bill and Petition shall be transmitted to the Clerk, and the Report shall be read by the Clerk at the Table and shall be entered on the Journals of the House, and the Bill, together with the Report, shall stand referred to the Standing Committee on Private Bills.

76. Every Estate Bill, when read a first time, shall without special reference stand referred to the Commissioners of Estate Bills, for their Report, and a copy of such Bill, and of the Petition on which the same is founded, shall be forthwith transmitted by the Clerk of the House to the said Commissioners, or one of them, in order that they, or any two of them, may, after perusing the Bill, without requiring any proof of the allegations thereof, report to the House their opinion thereon under their hands; and whether, presuming the allegation contained in the preamble to be proved to the satisfaction of the House, it is reasonable that such Bill do pass into a Law; and whether the provisions thereof are proper for carrying its purposes into effect, and what alterations or amendments, if any, are necessary in the same, and in the event of their approving the said Bill they are to sign the same: and the said Report, with the said Bill and Petition, are to be transmitted by the said Commissioners to the Clerk; and the Report shall be read by the Clerk at the Table and shall be entered on the Journals of the House; and the Bill together with the Report shall stand referred to the Standing Committee on Private Bills, which is not to consider the said Bill before the delivery of the said Report, Bill and Petition to the Chairman of the said Committee.

77. In the event of the Commissioners of Estate Bills reporting that, in their opinion, it is not reasonable that the Bill submitted to them shall pass into law, such Bill shall not be further considered.

RODERICK LEWIS, Q.C.,
Clerk of Legislative Assembly of Ontario.

CITY OF TORONTO

Application for Special Legislation

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on behalf of The Corporation of the City of Toronto, application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next Session, for special legislation to provide:

1. That by-laws may be passed by the Council of the Corporation to permit the owner of the lands at the northwest corner of Carlton and Church Streets in the City of Toronto to construct, maintain and use extensions over, upon and under the public highways known as Carlton Street and Wood Street of the building now standing on the said lands and known as Maple Leaf Gardens and to permit the Corporation to enter into an agreement with such owner prescribing the terms and conditions upon which such extensions may be constructed, maintained and used and without in any way limiting the foregoing, for prescribing the duration of such permission, such annual or other charges for the giving of such permission as the Council deems reasonable, the indemnification of the Corporation against any loss occasioned thereby and the giving of security therefor, the provision and maintenance of such parking facilities as may be deemed desirable, the payment of amounts in lieu of taxes in respect of real property and business taxes on the parts of the highways over, upon or under which the said extensions encroach, the payment of the said charges for the permission given and the amounts to be paid in lieu of taxes in like manner as real property taxes and the enforcement of payment of such charges and amounts to be paid in lieu of real property taxes in like manner as the payment of real property taxes may be enforced, the approval of plans of the said extensions by Council and by any Committee thereof, the payment to the Corporation in the manner to be prescribed or to any board, commission or corporation concerned of the cost of relocating, removing or altering any utilities or other public services resulting from or incidental to such extensions and the additional cost of constructing or laying down any such utilities or services in the future when such additional cost is made necessary by the extensions.

2. For the authorization and confirmation of the making of a grant by the Corporation to the Canadian Red Cross for the purpose of assisting in providing relief to the citizens of the City of Skopje.

3. That the Corporation may lease to John Inglis Co., Limited, any part of the lands in the Ordnance Reserve Plan, bounded on the north by the Frederick G. Gardiner Expressway lands, on the south by Fleet Street, on the west by Strachan Avenue and on the east by the west limit of Garrison Road, clear of and free from the limitation for park or industrial exhibition purposes only imposed by Section 10 of An Act respecting the City of Toronto, being Chapter 86, Statutes of Ontario, 1903.

4. For the amendment of Section 4 of The City of Toronto Act, 1960-61, relating to the levying of special charges in one or more defined areas for the capital cost or part thereof of off-street parking lots and the erection of buildings thereon, by the addition thereto of subsections providing in effect that when a by-law has been passed for levying charges as aforesaid, and the Council is of the opinion that lands in any other defined area or areas have begun or may begin to derive a special benefit from such work following the passing subsequent to the said levy of a by-law or amendment to a by-law pursuant to Section 30 of The Planning Act, the Council may by a further by-law passed with the approval of The Ontario Municipal Board levy charges against the lands in the said last-mentioned area or areas of such amounts as would have been charged against such lands if the Council had been of the opinion that the lands derived a special benefit therefrom at the time of the passing of the first-mentioned by-law, and further providing that the charges levied pursuant to the above shall be due and payable in equal annual instalments commencing the year next following the year in which the by-law imposing such levy was passed and shall continue for such term of years as the charges were imposed by the first-mentioned by-law, and shall be a lien upon the land and may be recovered in the same manner as real property taxes may be recovered, and further providing that such charges shall when paid be credited to any portion of the capital cost of the work assumed by the Corporation and to principal and interest payments upon any debentures issued in respect of such portion, and any surplus shall be used for the purposes set out in subclauses (ii) and (iii) of clause (f) of paragraph 67 of Section 377 of The Municipal Act.

Dated at Toronto, this 19th day of November, 1963.

CITY OF TORONTO

NOTICE OF SUPPLEMENTARY APPLICATION FOR SPECIAL LEGISLATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on behalf of The Corporation of the City of Toronto, application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next Session, for special legislation to provide:

1. The Council of the Corporation may pass by-laws to authorize The Parking Authority of Toronto on behalf of the Corporation to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of land or buildings under the control of the Authority when the same are no longer required for the purposes of the Authority, and to authorize the Corporation or the Authority to acquire land and construct buildings and maintain the same upon or under land under the control of the Authority notwithstanding that such land or buildings are not required for the purposes of the Authority or the Corporation, or to construct and maintain buildings upon or under such land having a greater capacity than is required for the foregoing purposes, and to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of any such building or portion thereof not so required; and further to provide that the Corporation may in any by-law permitting the Authority to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of land, impose limitations and conditions upon the exercise of such powers by the Authority; and further to provide that any instruments required to convey, lease or otherwise dispose of land or buildings under such special legislation shall be executed by the Corporation, and that all moneys obtained from any sale, lease or other disposition as aforesaid shall be paid to the City Treasurer and after payment of expenses incidental thereto shall be deposited in a reserve fund and shall be applied, firstly, for the payment of interest and principal falling due in each year in respect of the acquisition of such land and the erection of buildings thereon or thereunder and, secondly, for the acquisition, laying out or improvement of additional parking lots or facilities and the construction of buildings thereon or thereunder and, thirdly, for such other purposes as the Department of Municipal Affairs may approve and further to provide that the Corporation may incur debts and issue debentures for the purposes set out in such special legislation.

2. That the omission of the Corporation and its officers or any of them to give the notice required by Section 115 of The Assessment Act to any person liable pursuant to By-law No. 21857 of the Corporation, being "A By-law to levy and collect further taxes in the year 1963 in the City of Toronto" to business taxes on a business assessment of $8,065.00 or less, and to collect the taxes levied by the said by-law on any such assessment of $8,065.00 or less, shall be authorized and confirmed.

3. That the Corporation may by by-law authorize agreements with any other municipality for the construction, improvement, alteration, enlargement or extension of sewage works either by the Corporation or by such other municipality to service lands owned by the Corporation, and may provide for the payment of the cost thereof or for payment to such other municipality therefor of such amount as may be agreed upon, and any such construction, improvement, alteration, enlargement or extension of the said works shall be deemed to be a purpose of the Corporation.

4. That the Corporation may make a grant to the widow of the late Mayor Donald D. Summerville to cover public funeral expenses of the said Donald D. Summerville.

Dated at Toronto this 28th day of November, 1963.

THE LAND TITLES ACT

IN THE MATTER OF Parts of Lots 30, 31 and 32 and part of Road Allowance between Lots 30 and 31, Concession 2, and part of Road Allowance between Concessions 2 and 3, and parts of Lots 63, 64, 65, 66 and 73, and part of Napoleon Street, Farewell, Wallace and Keller's Plan, Township of Whitby, County of Ontario.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Rama Investments Limited has made an application to the Local Master of Titles at Whitby for a certificate of title to this land of which they claim to be the owner in fee simple free from all encumbrances.

Wherefore any other person having or claiming to have any title to or interest in the land or any part thereof is required on or before the 31st day of December, 1963, to file a statement of his claim in my office at the Town of Whitby, and to serve a copy on the Applicant.

The address of the Applicant for service is: Bloomenfeld, Bomza & Bender, Barristers, etc., Suite 1304, Royal Bank Building, King and Yonge Streets, Toronto 1, Ontario.

Dated at Whitby, this 11th day of December, 1963.

W. H. MOORHOUSE,
Deputy Local Master of Titles.

THE BOUNDARIES ACT
(R.S.O. 1960, C. 38)

NOTICE OF CONFIRMATION

TAKE NOTICE that upon an application by Philip Ross, I did, on the 6th day of December, 1963, pursuant to Section 12 of The Boundaries Act, confirm the true location on the ground of the boundaries of the lands described in Instrument No. 49897, Township of Toronto, registered in the Registry Office for the Registry Division of the County of Peel, as shown on a draft plan deposited in my office of a survey of the said lands made by W. Jackson, Ontario Land Surveyor, dated July 15th, 1963.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that any person objecting to the confirmation may appeal to a judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario and notice of such appeal must be served upon me within twenty days after the date of publication of this notice in THE ONTARIO GAZETTE.

Dated at my office at 90 Albert Street, Toronto, this 18th day of December, 1963.

SYDNEY SMITH,
Director of Titles.

THE BOUNDARIES ACT

NOTICE OF HEARING

TAKE NOTICE that an application has been made by Margaret Gordon Hanlan and John Douglas Hanlan for the purpose of confirming the true location on the ground of the eastern boundary of the lands described in Instrument No. 6726 E.N., registered in the Registry Office for the Registry Division of Toronto in Book E.N., being part of the eastern boundary of Lot E according to Registered Plan 357 registered in the said Registry Office.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that a draft plan of survey of the said boundary made by John Van Nostrand, Ontario Land Surveyor, dated July 19th, 1963, is deposited in my office, 90 Albert Street, City of Toronto, and may be inspected by any party or parties interested therein on any week-day, between the hours of 9.30 a.m. and 4.30 p.m., Monday through Friday, or at the office of the surveyor at 372 Bay Street, Toronto, Ontario.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that any person desiring to object to the confirmation of the said boundary as shown on the draft plan is required to deliver to me by registered mail or by personal service on or before the 7th day of January, 1964, a written statement setting forth the nature and grounds of the objection and to serve a copy thereof on the applicant.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that I have appointed the 10th day of January, 1964, at 10.30 o'clock in the forenoon to hear this application in my office, at which time any person or persons who have filed an objection may appear either personally or through their solicitors to present the evidence in support thereof.

The address of the applicant for service is: W. R. Wadsworth, Q.C., 6 Adelaide Street East, Toronto 1, Ontario.

Dated at my office at 90 Albert Street, Toronto, this 18th day of December, 1963.

S. SMITH,
Director of Titles.

THE FACTORY, SHOP AND OFFICE BUILDING ACT

O. Reg. 332/63.
Foundries.
Made—December 5th, 1963.
Filed—December 11th, 1963.

REGULATION MADE UNDER THE FACTORY, SHOP AND OFFICE BUILDING ACT

FOUNDRIES

INTERPRETATION

1. In this Regulation,

(a) "cleaning a casting" means the act of removing any adhering scale, moulding or core material from the surface of the casting;

(b) "die casting" means a casting process in which the molten metal is forced into the mould cavity of a metal die;

(c) "foundry" means the part of a building, or premises, or the workshop, structure, room or place in which base metals or their alloys are cast in moulds or where core-making, shake-out or cleaning of any casting or other dust-causing operation ancillary to the casting process is carried on;

(d) "gangway" means a defined passageway between a metal melting unit and a metal pouring area;

(e) "general ventilation" means the replacement of a part of the contaminated air by uncontaminated air in the working space of the foundry by fans, or by fans and other means, and includes both the exhausting and supplying of air from and to the working space;

(f) "innoculation process" means the adding of any material to molten metal to control the crystalline structure of the molten metal;

(g) "local exhaust" means exhaust ventilation so designed that the air contaminant is picked up by the ventilation system at or near its point of origin and removed in such a manner that it does not enter the breathing zone of a worker or the working space;

(h) "pouring aisle" means a passageway leading from a gangway and where metal is poured into a mould or box;

(i) "shaking-out" means the removal of the casting from its mould and the core material from the casting;

(j) "working space" means any space where workers are actively engaged in the performance of their duties within a foundry, but does not include offices, lunch-rooms, locker-rooms, change-rooms, rest-rooms, washrooms, shower rooms, toilet rooms, pattern shops, maintenance shops, laboratories, shipping areas, the storage space occupied by equipment or materials not regularly in use, or the enclosed space where core sands and moulding sands are stored.

2.—(1) Every employer is responsible to ensure compliance with this Regulation, unless otherwise provided.

(2) Every person employed in a foundry shall use anything provided under this Regulation for the purpose for which it is provided and shall follow any procedure required by this Regulation.

3. This Regulation does not apply to,

(a) die casting;

(b) any premises or part thereof where steel ingots only are cast;

(c) the printing industry; or

(d) metal refineries.

4.—(1) No foundry,

(a) in which any part of the lowest floor level of any working space is below the adjacent ground level shall be established or put into operation for the first time; or

(b) where established or put into operation for the first time before this Regulation comes into force and in which any part of the lowest floor level of any working space is below the adjacent ground level, shall continue to operate, after this Regulation comes into force unless otherwise authorized in writing by the chief inspector.

(2) No foundry or any addition to any foundry shall be established or put into operation for the first time or constructed unless the ceiling height above the floor of every working space is at least sixteen feet.

PARTING MATERIALS

5. No parting material shall contain more than 2 per cent free silica, unless approved in writing by the chief inspector.

MELTING UNITS

6.—(1) A clear space, adequate for safe operating and maintenance purposes, shall be provided between the outer shell of any cupola or other melting unit and any wall, structure, equipment, or any operation.

(2) The width of any passageway or aisle adjacent to a melting unit shall not be less than four feet where the melting unit is installed after this Regulation comes into force.

(3) The firing portion and fuel supply controls of each melting unit shall be accessible from an aisle or be in a location remote from a melting unit.

(4) The dimensions of the working space at any melting unit installed after this Regulation comes into force shall not be less than six feet measured horizontally from the furnace shell or pouring spout, or such additional clearance as is required for safe working.

CARE OF PREMISES, EQUIPMENT AND MATERIAL

7. In every foundry all equipment and materials shall be kept in such a place and in such a manner so as not to interfere with free movement of persons or materials, and so as not to constitute a safety, health, fire or explosion hazard therein.

8.—(1) Any waste material shall be removed from the working space of a foundry at least daily.

(2) Any sand, of no further use, shall be removed from the foundry at a time and in a manner so as not to create a hazard to the employees.

9. Every pouring aisle, cleaning room floor or other area where dust is likely to accumulate and the surface of any sand pile shall be kept sufficiently damp with water at all times to prevent the dissemination of dust into the general air of the foundry but not dampened to such an extent that molten metal in contact with such dampened sand or water is a hazard to persons in the vicinity.

10. Every gangway and pouring aisle shall be kept clear of obstructions at all times.

11. Any accumulation of dust shall be removed from equipment, material and the interior of the foundry in a manner so as not to create a hazard to persons employed therein.

SANITATION

12.—(1) In every foundry the employer shall provide a shower room having not less than one shower bath connected to sources of hot and cold water for every ten foundry employees leaving at the end of any shift.

(2) One or more locker rooms shall be provided in every foundry adjacent to a shower room and washroom and any such locker room shall be equipped with a locker or other suitable facilities for the working and street clothes of each employee in the foundry.

(3) Adequate drying facilities shall be provided in every foundry for the work clothing of all employees engaged in duties where perspiration or the type of work may cause the employees' clothing to become damp or wet.

(4) Where a locker room, change room, washroom or shower room is established after this Regulation comes into force in a building separated from the foundry, the building shall be connected to the foundry by an enclosed, heated passageway, maintained at a temperature not less than the minimum temperature required for the working spaces of the foundry.

(5) The walls and ceilings of any room referred to in subsection 4 shall be finished in a light colour and the floor shall have a smooth waterproof surface and the room shall be maintained by the employer in a clean and sanitary condition.

GENERAL FLOOR CONDITIONS

13. The floor and any water system immediately surrounding any melting unit shall be so constructed as to prevent any accumulation of moisture under or near the melting unit.

14. All moulding floors, gangways, passageways and aisles shall have a firm surface without holes or depressions and without slopes having a gradient of more than one in sixteen.

15. Permanent gangways shall be clearly marked.

16. Where tracks are laid at or about floor level within the foundry building, the floor adjoining and between them shall be firm and level with the top of the rails.

17.—(1) Where molten metal is handled on a gallery or other area having any working space below it, the gallery or area shall have a solid floor that will prevent molten metal from leaking or burning through it and the gallery shall have a solid barrier of not less than three feet, six inches in height on all exposed sides to prevent metal spillage from the gallery.

(2) A cupola charging floor shall be solid to prevent any material or object passing through it.

18. Any gangways not used for carrying molten metal shall be three feet or more in width.

19.—(1) Subject to subsections 2 and 3, the minimum width of a gangway for one-way traffic only over which molten metal is conveyed shall be as follows:

TABLE

Type of Metal Container	Number of workers conveying metal	Minimum width
Hand shank ladles and crucibles	2 or less	3 feet
Hand shank ladles and crucibles	More than 2	4 feet
Ladle or crucible on truck, buggy, or overhead track		2 feet wider than greatest width of ladle, crucible, truck, buggy or container support.

(2) Where a gangway is used for traffic in both directions but molten metal is conveyed in one direction only, the width required by subsection 1 shall be increased by three or more feet.

(3) Where a gangway is used for carrying molten metal in both directions, the width required by subsection 1 shall be doubled.

(4) Where any ladle is carried by an overhead crane, adequate warning shall be given before the ladle is moved and all employees shall forthwith vacate the area over which the ladle is to be transported.

20. The minimum width of any pouring aisle where a hand ladle or crucible is used to pour metal shall be as follows:

TABLE

Height of mould above aisle level	Number of workers allocated to the pouring operation	Minimum width of a pouring aisle
Less than 20 ins.	Not more than 2	15 ins.
20 ins. or greater	Not more than 2	2 feet
Any height	More than 2	3 feet

21. Where any molten metal is poured from a crane, trolley or truck ladle, the minimum width of any pouring aisle shall not be less than one foot greater than the greatest width of the ladle equipment, except where a bottom-pour ladle is used in which case the aisle width shall be three feet or more.

22. Any pit exceeding twenty-four inches in depth shall have its internal walls reinforced with brick, concrete, steel plate or other non-combustible material capable of resisting cave-in.

23.—(1) When in use every pit shall be securely protected with railings or chains secured to stanchions or with a solid wall, and the top of the railing, chain or wall shall not be less than three feet six inches above the surrounding floor.

(2) When not in use every pit shall be kept securely covered with substantial material or protected in the manner set out in subsection 1.

LADLES

24. Every ladle shall be dried,

(a) before use; and

(b) in a location having ventilation so as to prevent the entry of any smoke or gas into the working space.

25. Every single-shank foundry ladle shall be fitted with a metal shield to protect the person carrying the ladle.

26. Every tilting ladle of a capacity of 500 or more pounds shall be gear-operated or the equivalent.

27.—(1) Every gear-operated foundry ladle and every mechanically or electrically operated ladle shall be so designed and constructed as to prevent its overturning and shall be fitted with a safety lock approved by an inspector.

(2) Every gearing or tilting mechanism on a ladle shall be enclosed with machinery guards of solid material.

PERSONAL PROTECTIVE EQUIPMENT

28.—(1) Every employer for a foundry shall,

(a) furnish any employee, whose eyes are exposed to injury from dust, flying chips or molten metal, with a protective device or equipment manufactured for the purpose of protecting persons from such injury;

(b) furnish any employee engaged in the handling of molten metal with leggings manufactured for the purpose of protecting persons from injury due to molten metal, or more adequate protective clothing if required in writing by an inspector;

(c) furnish any employee who is subject to direct or reflected arcs or radiation from electric arc furnaces, welding operations or similar sources of harmful radiation with stationary or moveable guards, goggles or eye shields manufactured for the purpose of protecting persons from such arcs and radiation;

(d) where persons are engaged in occasional or infrequent operations that produce noxious dusts, gases, vapours or fumes, and where an inspector is satisfied that the operations do not lend themselves to the installation of permanent mechanical ventilation equipment, furnish proper respiratory equipment manufactured for the purpose of protecting persons from such dusts, gases, vapours or fumes;

(e) ensure that no person shall normally work between a source of dust or fumes and the inlet of the local exhaust system that removes the dust or fumes from that source unless the person is wearing a suitable air-supplied breathing apparatus.

(2) Every employee in a foundry who handles molten metal shall wear gaiter-type boots that are designed to prevent injury from molten metal.

(3) Every employee in a foundry who is engaged in the handling of heavy objects shall wear boots or shoes with protective toe boxes or steel toes.

(4) Every employer in a foundry shall,

(a) ensure that no person employed by him works and no person so employed shall work in connection with any operation requiring the protective equipment or clothing prescribed in clauses a, b, c and d of subsection 1 and in subsections 2 and 3 unless such person is using or wearing such protective equipment and clothing; and

(b) before requiring or permitting any person in his employ to perform such work, notify such person of the requirements of this section.

GENERAL SAFETY

29.—(1) Every employer for a foundry shall ensure that,

(a) the legs and supports of every cupola are protected from damage by molten metal;

(b) any coke, slag and unmelted metal from the dropping of the cupola bottoms is removed by a mechanical rake or other mechanical means as soon as is practicable after the cupola is emptied;

(c) before the bottom of a cupola is dropped, a visual and audible signal is given for at least three minutes, after which the prop or props are removed by a winch or similar device operated from outside a wall or shield at the cupola or from another safe location;

(d) no material containing ice or moisture, or to which ice or moisture is adhering, is charged into any furnace containing molten metal except a cupola;

(e) no completely enclosed vessel is knowingly charged into any furnace without first being broken open;

(f) care sufficient to ensure the safety of persons is taken of chains, slings, wire-ropes and other hoisting equipment having regard to the temperatures to which such hoisting equipment is exposed and the uses to which it may be put;

(g) the bottom of every cupola is supported by one or more adequate metal props with metal bases and wedges supported on concrete or other solid footing;

(h) shields or solid screens are provided to protect employees at the slag-holes, spouts and tap-holes of every cupola or furnace;

(i) every cupola with a closed top has doors on the top of the cupola hinged to act as explosion vents to the outdoors;

(j) every wheel moving on tracks at floor level is shielded so as to prevent injury to the feet of employees;

(k) every skylight is fitted with wired or shatter-proof glass or non-shatterable translucent material or with protective wire netting attached to its underside;

(l) where metal castings or scrap are broken by means of a dropping device or similar device, a permanent shield of wood planking two inches thick or equivalent protection, adequately supported, is provided to protect persons from flying metal fragments;

(m) every tumbling mill is equipped with a positive locking device to prevent any movement of the mill when being loaded or unloaded, and every moving part of the mill is either fully enclosed or guarded to a height of six feet or more above the adjacent walking surface;

(n) when work is performed in a cupola or similar place an overhead protective wooden or metal cover or screen satisfactory to an inspector and that is supported by props or overhead slings is used for the purpose of protecting persons from falling objects;

(o) every cupola is provided with a blast gate or automatic damper in the air supply pipe to the cupola, or with other positive means of preventing the accumulation of combustible gases in the air supply system when the air supply fails;

(p) a continuous open flame or other positive means of ignition is maintained above the charging level of the cupola while the cupola is in operation and until all combustible material in the cupola is consumed; and

(q) all buildings, equipment and machinery are maintained in safe working condition and are inspected by the employer or any person designated by him, regularly and with such frequency as will ensure safe working conditions for persons in the foundry.

(2) Every employee in a foundry is responsible equally with the employer for compliance with clauses a to f of subsection 1.

VENTILATION

30.—(1) Every foundry shall be ventilated by a local exhaust system or by a general ventilation system or both, so designed, fabricated, installed and maintained as to remove, as far as is practicable, every gas, vapour, dust, fume, mist or other impurity produced by the operations in the foundry that may be injurious to the health or safety of persons in the foundry.

(2) Every ventilation system shall discharge the air outside the building so that it does not re-enter the building.

31.—(1) Every employer for a foundry shall ensure that adequate provision is made for the entry of air into the foundry to replace the air discharged from the building and that this air,

(a) is heated when necessary to maintain in each working space at least the minimum temperature required by the Act and this Regulation;

(b) is taken from a region not contaminated with silica or other noxious dust, fumes, gas, smoke or mist;

(c) enters the foundry in such a manner as not to create a dusty condition in the atmosphere of the foundry; and

(d) subject to subsection 2, enters the working space through air inlets of sufficient number and area, and so arranged, located, and equipped, as to give a reasonably uniform air flow across the working space without subjecting workers to air velocities exceeding 200 feet per minute.

(2) Where the velocity of the incoming air is adequately controlled so as to not adversely affect the health or comfort of an employee, in the opinion of an inspector, it may exceed 200 feet per minute.

LOCAL EXHAUST VENTILATION

32. Subject to sections 33 to 44, where any machine or process is operated so as to form a localized source of dust, fume, gas, smoke or mist, the machine or process shall be provided with local exhaust, where practicable, so that the noxious material does not enter the general atmosphere of the building.

33.—(1) The rate of local exhaust of every power shake-out shall conform with the following provisions:

1. Where a power shake-out is completely enclosed except for inlet and outlet openings, at least 200 cubic feet of air per minute per square foot of grate or shake-out area shall be exhausted and the minimum air velocity into the enclosure shall be 200 feet per minute.

2. Where a power shake-out has a side draft hood, at least 500 cubic feet of air per minute per square foot of grate or shake-out area shall be exhausted.

3. Where a power shake-out has a double side hood, at least 400 cubic feet of air per minute per square foot of grate or shake-out area shall be exhausted.

4. Where a power shake-out has a hood enclosing at least two adjoining sides and at least one-third of the top area, at least 300 cubic feet of air per minute per square foot of grate or shake-out area shall be exhausted.

5. Where none of the methods of exhausting the power shake-out in paragraphs 1 to 4 is feasible, a down draft exhaust of at least 600 cubic feet of air per minute per square foot of grate or shake-out area shall be provided, and the length and width of the grate or shake-out shall be greater than the length and width of the largest flask used.

6. The minimum height for a side exhaust hood above the surface of the grate or shake-out shall be equivalent to the grate or shake-out length or 50 per cent higher than the height of any casting, whichever is greater, and the minimum length of the exhaust hood shall be 50 per cent greater than the grate or shake-out length.

7. The minimum quantities of air prescribed by this section shall be increased upon the direction of an inspector if castings are abnormally hot when shaken out, the sand to metal ratio is low, or external cross drafts at the power shake-out are present.

(2) Every flat deck or cylindrical screen shall be enclosed, so far as is practicable, and shall be locally exhausted,

(a) in the case of a flat deck screen, with a minimum inward air velocity of 200 feet per minute through all openings in the screen enclosure and in any case, with a minimum of 50 cubic feet of air per minute per square foot of gross screen area;

(b) in the case of a cylindrical screen, with a minimum inward air velocity of 400 feet per minute through all openings in the screen enclosure and, in any case, with a minimum of 100 cubic feet of air per minute per square foot of the cylinder's end.

(3) Every bucket elevator shall be enclosed and exhausted so as to provide,

(a) an inward air velocity of at least 150 feet per minute at every opening of its enclosure where the maximum bucket speed does not exceed 200 feet per minute; and

(b) an inward air velocity of at least 200 feet per minute at every opening of its enclosure where the bucket speed exceeds 200 feet per minute.

(4) Subject to subsection 8, every conveyor belt shall be provided with exhaust hoods which shall enclose every loading point, discharge point and every other point at which dust may be produced.

(5) Subject to subsection 8, every exhaust hood referred to in subsection 4 shall be ventilated as follows:

1. Where the maximum speed of the belt does not exceed 200 feet per minute, the rate of ventilation shall not be less than 350 cubic feet per minute for each foot of the width of the belt and there shall be an inward air velocity through the net open area of each exhaust hood of not less than 150 feet per minute.

2. Where the speed of the belt exceeds 200 feet per minute, the rate of ventilation shall not be less than 500 cubic feet per minute for each foot, or fraction thereof, of the width of the belt and there shall be an inward air velocity through the net open area of each exhaust hood of not less than 200 feet per minute.

(6) Subject to subsection 8, every sand muller shall be enclosed, so far as is practicable, and shall be exhausted at a velocity of not less than 150 feet per minute through every opening in the enclosure, including the loading and inspection openings, and there shall be not less than 150 cubic feet of air per minute for each foot of the horizontal diameter of the muller.

(7) Subject to subsection 8, every sand storage bin shall be enclosed and exhausted when sand is being supplied to the bin at an inward air velocity of at least 200 feet per minute through the net open area of every opening to the bin.

(8) Subsections 4 to 7 do not apply to any conveyor belt, sand muller or sand storage bin transporting or containing sand that contains moisture in sufficient quantity to prevent the dissemination of dust, but in no case shall the moisture content be less than 2 per cent of the total weight of sand and moisture.

(9) Every tumbling mill having an inside length not exceeding seventy inches shall be ventilated so as to exhaust at least the volume of air shown for that type and size of mill in the following Table:

TABLE

Round Mill inside diameter (inches)	Square Mill inside width of side (inches)	Minimum volumes of Exhaust air
		Hollow-Trunion (cfm)	Stave Type (cfm)
Up to 24	.....	430	800
Over 24 to 30	Up to 24	680	900
Over 30 to 36	Over 24 to 30	980	980
Over 36 to 42	Over 30 to 36	1330	1330
Over 42 to 48	Over 36 to 42	1750	1750
Over 48 to 54	Over 42 to 48	2200	2200
Over 54 to 60	Over 48 to 54	2730	2730
Over 60 to 66	Over 54 to 60	3300	3300
Over 66 to 72	Over 60 to 66	3920	3920
.....	Over 66 to 72	4600	4600

(10) Every tumbling mill having an inside length exceeding 70 inches shall be ventilated at a rate equivalent to the quotient of the inside length of the mill in inches divided by seventy, multiplied by the minimum volume of exhaust air specified in the Table in subsection 9 for a mill of the same type and the same inside diameter or inside width of side.

(11) Every tumbling mill having an inside diameter or width of side exceeding seventy-two inches shall be ventilated at a rate of exhaust satisfactory to an inspector.

(12) Every stave-type tumbling mill shall be enclosed with solid material when operating and shall, in addition to the minimum volume specified in subsections 9, 10 and 11 have an inward air velocity of 400 feet per minute through every opening in the enclosure.

34.—(1) Any dry, abrasive blasting shall be done,

(a) in a room enclosed with suitable solid materials and ventilated to provide a downdraft air supply and exhaust at a velocity of not less than eighty feet per minute over the gross floor area, or to provide a horizontal air supply and exhaust at an air velocity of not less than 100 feet per minute normal to the side of the room from which the air is being exhausted, and with the air velocity through all openings from the foundry into the room of not less than 300 feet per minute;

(b) in a hand cabinet constructed of suitable solid material and that is exhausted to provide an inward air velocity of not less than 500 feet per minute through all openings; or

(c) on a rotary blasting table that is enclosed with solid material with curtains on every opening and ventilated at a rate to provide an inward air velocity that is not less than 200 feet per minute into every opening in the enclosure on which the curtains are installed.

(2) Any abrasive equipment not using compressed air shall be enclosed with solid material and exhausted to provide an inward air velocity of not less than 125 feet per minute through all openings including the loading door opening.

35. Wherever annealing boxes are filled or dumped, local exhaust ventilation shall provide an air velocity of 200 feet per minute at the source of dust or fumes and directed away from the breathing zone of any worker.

36. Ventilation shall be provided at every core and annealing oven at such a rate as will prevent smoke and gas from entering into the working space.

37.—(1) Every shell moulding and shell core machine shall be provided with as complete an enclosure or canopy as is practicable, and exhausted so that a minimum inward air velocity of,

(a) 100 feet per minute is provided through the enclosure openings; or

(b) 150 feet per minute is provided into the canopy opening.

(2) Where a canopy but no enclosure is used for a machine, the canopy shall extend five inches laterally on each side beyond the horizontal perimeter of the machine for each foot that the bottom of the canopy is located above the chief source of dust or fumes in the machine.

38.—(1) Every power driven hand tool such as a brush, portable grinder or chipping tool, used for the cleaning of castings shall be used in a booth or on a downdraft table or grille or shall have an adequate local exhaust system attached to the tool.

(2) Where a booth is used, an inward air velocity of 150 feet per minute shall be provided at every opening of the booth.

(3) Where a downdraft table or grille is used,

(a) the horizontal dimensions of the table or grille shall exceed the horizontal dimensions of the casting or that part of the casting being cleaned; and

(b) a volume of air of not less than 300 cubic feet per minute per square foot of the gross area of the table or grille shall be exhausted downwardly through its surface.

39. A local exhaust system shall be provided, where practicable, for any innoculation process or any process where magnesium is mixed with any other metal.

40.—(1) Subject to subsections 3 and 4, no stationary grinding wheel, abrasive cutting-off wheel or buffing and polishing wheel shall be used unless it is enclosed as completely as is practicable and locally exhausted.

(2) The enclosure for a stationary grinding wheel or abrasive cutting-off wheel shall be of sufficient strength and so located as to prevent bodily injury to any person in the immediate vicinity of the wheel.

(3) Subject to subsections 4 and 5, no stationary grinding wheel, abrasive cutting-off wheel or buffing and polishing wheel shall be used unless it is at least three-quarters enclosed and the clearance between each side of the wheel and its enclosure is not more than 1½ inches in the case of a grinding wheel, abrasive cutting-off wheel or a hand buffing and polishing wheel and three inches in the case of a soft buffing and polishing wheel and it is locally exhausted with not less than the volume of air shown in the following Table:

TABLE

Column 1 Wheel Diameter (inches)	Column 2 Wheel Width (inches)	Column 3 Exhaust Air Volume in cubic feet per minute
to 9	not more than 2	300
Over 9 to 16	not more than 3	500
Over 16 to 19	not more than 4	610
Over 19 to 24	not more than 5	740
Over 24 to 30	not more than 6	1040
Over 30 to 36	not more than 6	1400

(4) Any wheel that is,

(a) of a type mentioned in subsection 3;

(b) at least three-quarters enclosed; and

(c) wider than the maximum width shown in column 2 of the Table in subsection 3 for any diameter of wheel shown in column 1, shall have a volume of air locally exhausted at least equal to that shown in column 3 of the Table multiplied by the ratio of the wheel's width divided by the maximum width shown in column 2 for that diameter of wheel in column 1.

(5) Any wheel that is,

(a) of a type mentioned in subsection 3;

(b) not at least three-quarters enclosed;

(c) has any clearance between the side of the wheel and its nearest enclosure greater than the clearance specified in subsection 3; or shall have a volume of air exhausted that will produce an air velocity at the exposed face of the wheel at least equivalent to the velocity produced at the exposed face of a wheel of similar diameter multiplied by the exhaust volume of air shown in column 3 of the Table and, in the case of a wheel mentioned in clause d multiplied by 1400 cubic feet of air per minute.

(d) a diameter greater than any diameter shown in column 1 of the Table in section 3,

41.—(1) Every grinding or polishing belt shall be enclosed except at the working area and shall be locally exhausted in accordance with subsections 2 and 3 so that the air movement is in the direction of belt travel at the working area.

(2) Where the clearance between any side of the belt and the enclosure is less than one inch, the volume of air to be locally exhausted shall not be less than that shown in the following Table:

TABLE

Belt Width (inches)	Exhaust Air Volume (cubic feet per minute)
up to 3	220
over 3 to 5	300
over 5 to 7	390
over 7 to 9	500
over 9 to 11	610
over 11 to 13	740

(3) Where the clearance between any side of the belt and the enclosure is one inch or more, the volume of air to be locally exhausted shall be such that the velocity of the air at the working face of the belt is not less than the velocity of the air that results from the exhaust air volume shown in column 2 of the Table in subsection 2 for the width and enclosure of the belt as set forth in subsection 2.

42.—(1) Every swing grinder shall be provided with mechanical ventilation by means of an exhaust hood or an exhaust booth approved by an inspector.

(2) Every exhaust booth that contains a swing grinder shall be,

(a) enclosed at the back, top and sides and with as small an opening at its front as the nature of the grinding operation will permit; and

(b) so located that the swing grinding wheel operates inside the booth.

(3) The velocity of the air through the front opening of the booth shall be not less than 150 feet per minute.

43. Every operation of pouring,

(a) brass or other metal having noxious fumes; or

(b) any metal into shell moulds, shall be provided with an adequate system of local exhaust ventilation when directed by an inspector.

44.—(1) Every melting unit shall be provided with ventilation to remove from the working space all dusts, fumes, gases, smokes and vapours produced by the melting of the metal and the combustion of the fuel.

(2) Where brass or other metals having noxious fumes are melted, an enclosure, canopy hood, baffles or other means for the collection of the fumes, dusts, gases, smokes or vapours produced in the melting process, shall be provided as directed by an inspector.

(3) Where lead, cadmium or alloys containing beryllium or other metals of similar or greater toxicity are melted, the furnace shall be as completely enclosed as is practicable and the tapping spout shall be locally exhausted.

GENERAL VENTILATION

45.—(1) The use of general ventilation to ventilate a foundry may be supplementary to but shall not be in substitution for the use of local exhaust ventilation required by this Regulation.

(2) Subject to subsection 6, every foundry,

(a) in which iron, steel or aluminum is cast into sand moulds or moulds using sand cores shall be provided with general ventilation equipment that will ventilate the foundry with a volume of at least 2500 cubic feet of air per minute for each ton of the maximum number of tons of metal poured in an eight hour period and 500 cubic feet per minute of air for each person employed in that eight hour period in the working space of the foundry; or

(b) in which brass, bronze or magnesium is cast into sand moulds or moulds using sand cores shall be provided with general ventilation equipment that will ventilate the foundry at a rate of at least 5,000 cubic feet of air per minute for each ton of the maximum number of tons of metal poured in an eight-hour period and 1,000 cubic feet of air per minute for each person employed in that eight hour period in the working space of the foundry.

(3) Every foundry in which,

(a) any metal other than iron, steel, aluminum, brass, bronze or magnesium is cast; and

(b) any mould or core of other than sand is used, shall be ventilated at a rate satisfactory to the chief inspector.

(4) Where in a foundry the provisions of clause a or b of subsection 2 or subsection 3 apply in any combination, the total rate of ventilation required shall be the sum of the rates applicable under each provision.

(5) Any local exhaust ventilation while in operation may be computed in determining the rate of general ventilation at a value of twice the volume of the local exhaust ventilation.

(6) Every foundry in operation when this Regulation comes into force and that has a ceiling height of less than sixteen feet above the working space and in which,

(a) iron, steel or aluminum is cast into sand moulds or with the use of sand cores shall be provided with general ventilation at a rate that is,

(i) the rate prescribed in clause a of subsection 2, plus

(ii) 5 per cent of the rate prescribed in clause a of subsection 2 for each foot or part thereof of the difference between sixteen feet and the ceiling height of the foundry in feet;

(b) brass, bronze or magnesium is cast into sand moulds or with the use of sand cores shall be provided with general ventilation at a rate that is,

(i) the rate prescribed in clause b of subsection 2, plus

(ii) 5 per cent of the rate prescribed in clause b of subsection 2 for each foot or part thereof of the difference between sixteen feet and the ceiling height of the foundry in feet.

46. Moulding material that adheres to any casting shall not be removed by the use of compressed air or other means whereby dust particles may be disseminated into the air of the working space and are not controlled by local exhaust ventilation.

47. Subject to section 48, every exhaust or dust collection system, stack or outlet used for the discharge of contaminated air shall be so located, designed and constructed as to prevent the entry or return of contaminated air into any building.

48. Where a dust or fume of lead, cadmium or other toxic material is exhausted from a foundry, an inspector may require that equipment be installed to remove the toxic material from the air that is being exhausted.

49.—(1) Subject to subsection 2, no part of any dust collecting system, local exhaust or air cleaning system within any building, except an air-tight discharge duct from a dust collector to the exterior of the building, shall be under positive pressure.

(2) Subsection 1 does not apply to a room in a foundry that is,

(a) used solely for the housing of dust-collecting equipment; and

(b) separated from the foundry by a dust-tight partition.

(3) Subject to subsection 4, every collector that collects aluminum or magnesium dust shall be located outside the foundry or any other building unless the collector is located in a room,

(a) used solely for the housing of dust-collecting equipment; and

(b) separated from the rest of the foundry by a dust-tight partition that is so constructed that it is fire resistive for at least one hour; and

(c) constructed to provide adequate explosion relief to the outdoors.

(4) Subsection 3 does not apply to any collector using water to collect aluminum or magnesium dust.

50. The velocity of air in the ducts of every dust collection system shall not be less than 3500 feet per minute except where the air is leaving the dust collector.

51. While any process producing any noxious dust, fume, gas, smoke, vapour or heat in a foundry is in operation, the exhaust system installed to remove such emanation or emanations shall be operated continuously.

52. Where, after installation of any foundry ventilation system, the foundry atmosphere or any part thereof is found, upon being tested by any competent person, to contain dangerous amounts of dusts, gases or fumes or to be otherwise unsatisfactory to the chief inspector, the employer, upon direction of the chief inspector, shall make such modifications in the ventilation as will eliminate the unsatisfactory condition in the foundry.

HEATING

53.—(1) Subject to subsection 2, an inspector may authorize in writing a minimum temperature of 50° F. to be maintained in any working space in any foundry in a building but, where the foundry is heated by means of the heat generated from any process, the temperature for one hour at the beginning of the main operating shift may be less than 50° F.

(2) The temperature of every washroom, locker room, change room or shower room for a foundry shall be kept at not less than 70° F.

54. Any product of combustion from any heating unit for a foundry building shall be directly vented to the outside atmosphere, except where otherwise approved by the chief inspector or by an engineer of the Department.

55. The flow of air from any unit heater or positive pressure hot-air system that heats a foundry shall be so directed that it will not increase the concentration of dust in the breathing zone of any worker or re-circulate dust-laden air in the working space.

56. The effect of radiant heat upon persons shall be eliminated or reduced by means of heat shields, heat absorbent or heat reflective panels, cooling coils, air cooling or other means.

57. Any type or arrangement of equipment, method of operation or building construction that does not strictly comply with this Regulation but that provides protection equivalent to that prescribed may be used if its use is approved in writing by the chief inspector.

58. Where, under special circumstances, strict compliance with this Regulation is not adequate for the protection of persons working in a foundry, the chief inspector may require such modifications of equipment, material or method as he considers necessary.

59.—(1) No person shall install or alter a system of air handling or air replacement, a local or general exhaust system or air heating system other than minor repairs or adjustment or identical replacement unless the drawings and specifications thereof have been first approved by an engineer of the Department in the same manner as that provided by section 13 of the Act.

(2) The drawings and specifications of anything referred to in subsection 1 shall,

(a) contain full particulars of,

(i) any operation producing any dust, fumes, gas, smoke, mists or vapour,

(ii) the location of any source of the dust, fume, gas, smoke, mists or vapour, and

(iii) any method proposed for the control of any dust, fume, gas, smoke, mists or vapour referred to in subclause i; and

(b) be prepared by a suitably qualified person.

(3) The installation or alteration may be proceeded with only in accordance with the drawings and specifications as approved.

60.—(1) Subject to subsection 2, the fees to be paid for the approval by an engineer of the Department of drawings and specifications for a system of air handling or air replacement, a local exhaust system or air heating system shall be, where the estimated cost approved by him is,

(a) not more than $100, nil;

(b) more than $100 but not more than $1,000, $10; and

(c) more than $1,000, the sum of,

(i) $10, and

(ii) $2 for each additional $1,000, or fraction thereof in excess of the first $1,000.

(2) No fee greater than $1,000 shall be payable in any event.

61. This Regulation comes into force ten days after publication thereof in The Ontario Gazette.

Advertisements of tax sales must be received by the Queen's Printer at least TWO WEEKS PRIOR TO THE DATE OF PUBLICATION IN THE ONTARIO GAZETTE.

ADVERTISING RATES FOR TAX SALES

2.—(1) The rates payable for publication of matters in THE ONTARIO GAZETTE shall be,—

(a) for a double-column insertion of,—

(i) a notice of the sale of land for arrears of taxes, $5; and

(ii) a list of lands liable to be sold for arrears of taxes, 25 cents a line or fraction thereof;

EXAMPLE

For each insertion—The minimum fee is $5.00 for each Warrant and 25 cents for each line or part line after the Warrant.

Cheques should be made payable to THE TREASURER OF ONTARIO and forwarded to THE ONTARIO GAZETTE.

No exchange required on cheques.

Advertisements should be typewritten or printed legibly, separate from covering letter, number of insertions required must be stated and all signatures should be typed or printed.

All correspondence should be addressed in full "THE ONTARIO GAZETTE", Queen's Printer Office, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario.

THE OFFICIAL NOTICES PUBLICATION ACT

REGULATION MADE UNDER THE OFFICIAL NOTICES PUBLICATION ACT

1. In this Regulation "line" means agate line. R.R.O. 1960, Reg. 456, s. 1.

2.—(1) The rates payable for publication of matters in THE ONTARIO GAZETTE are,

(a) for a double-column insertion of,

(i) a notice of the sale of land for arrears of taxes, $5, and

(ii) a list of lands liable to be sold for arrears of taxes, 25 cents a line or fraction thereof; and

(b) for a single-column insertion of all other matter,

(i) on the first insertion, 20 cents a line or fraction thereof, and

(ii) on each additional insertion, 10 cents a line or fraction thereof.

(2) The rates in subsection 1 shall be paid as follows:

1. Upon submitting the copy of a matter for publication, $5 for the first insertion and $2.50 for each additional insertion requested.

2. Except for the rates payable under subclause i of clause a of subsection 1, the balance, after crediting the amount paid under clause a, upon receipt of an account from the Queen's Printer.

(3) Where the amount paid under paragraph 1 of subsection 2 exceeds the rates payable, the person making that payment is entitled to a refund of the amount by which the amount paid exceeds the rates payable. R.R.O. 1960, Reg. 456, s. 2.

3.—(1) The rates payable for THE ONTARIO GAZETTE are,

(a) by subscribers for a subscription of 52 weekly issues, $6; and

(b) by others for a single copy, 15 cents.

(2) The rates in subsection 1 shall be paid in advance. R.R.O. 1960, Reg. 456, s. 3.

THE ONTARIO GAZETTE is published each Saturday and advertisements must be received before Thursday 11 a.m. to ensure publication in the next issue.

Advertisements should be typewritten or printed legibly, separate from covering letter. Number of insertions required must be stated and the names of all signing officers typewritten or printed.

A copy of THE ONTARIO GAZETTE will be sent free to each advertiser for each week that his advertisement appears.

All remittances should be made payable to The Treasurer of Ontario and forwarded to THE ONTARIO GAZETTE.

Application to Parliament
Private Bills

PUBLIC NOTICE

Legislative Assembly of Ontario

The attention of Municipal Officials, Solicitors and all other persons who may be interested in the preparation of Private Bills for submission to the Legislative Assembly of Ontario is directed particularly to the following Rules of the House governing the submission of such Bills:

Rules re Submission of Private Bills

63.—(1) No petition for any Private Bill is received by the House after the first two weeks of each Session nor may any Private Bill be presented to the House after the first three weeks of each Session; nor may any report of any Standing or Select Committee upon a Private Bill be received after the first six weeks of each Session; and no motion for the general suspension or modification of this Rule shall be entertained by the House unless after reference made thereof, at a previous sitting of the House, to the several Standing Committees charged with the consideration of Private Bills upon Report submitted to two or more of such committees.

64.—(1) Any person desiring to obtain a Private Bill shall deposit with the Clerk of the House at least eight (8) days before the meeting of the House a copy of such Bill together with a fee of $150, and if such Bill is not deposited by that time the applicant shall pay $10 for each and every day which intervenes between the said eighth day and the date of the filing of the Bill.

(2) After the first reading of the Bill and before its consideration by the Committee to which it is referred, the applicant in every case shall pay the cost of printing the Act in the Statutes.

(3) The following charges shall also be levied and paid in addition to the foregoing:

(a) When any rule of the House is suspended with reference to a Bill or the Petition therefor, for each suspension. $50.

(b) When a Bill is presented to the House after the first three weeks of the Session and before the end of the fourth week, $75.

(c) When a Bill is presented after the fourth week of the Session, $100.

(4) In the case of any Bill incorporating a company or increasing the capital stock of a company already incorporated, there shall be paid to the Clerk of the House, by or on behalf of the applicant, before the same is reported to the House, the same fee as would be payable to the Provincial Secretary in the case of an incorporation or increase of capital under the provisions of The Corporations Act, less the sum of $150 already paid to the Clerk of the House.

(5) When a Bill is for the purpose of confirming by-laws, bonds, debentures or other securities, or authority is asked to borrow money or to increase borrowing powers, the following additional fees shall be paid according to the amount of money involved:

On amounts less than $10,000, $25; on amounts over $10,000 and up to $25,000, $50; on amounts over $25,000 and up to $40,000, $75; on amounts over $40,000 and up to $75,000, $100; on amounts over $75,000 and up to $125,000, $125; on amounts over $125,000 and up to $175,000, $150; on amounts over $175,000 and up to $250,000, $200; on amounts over $250,000 and up to $350,000, $250; and an additional fee of $50 for every $100,000 over $350,000

66. All applications for Private Bills properly the subject of legislation by the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, within the purview of "The British North America Act, 1867", shall require a Notice, clearly and distinctly specifying the nature and object of the application and, where the application refers to any proposed work, indicating generally the location of the work, and signed by or on behalf of the applicants, such Notice to be published as follows, viz.:

A notice inserted in The Ontario Gazette and in one newspaper published in the Municipality affected, or, if there be no newspaper published therein, then in a newspaper in the next nearest municipality in which a newspaper is published.

Such notice shall be continued in each case for a period of at least six weeks, during the interval of time between the close of the next preceding Session and the consideration of the Petition.

If the application is by a Municipal Corporation for authority to issue debentures, the notice shall set out the particulars of the existing debentures debt and the amount of rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised assessment roll of the Corporation, and in brief and general terms the object for which the new issue of debentures is required.

67. Before any Petition praying for leave to bring in a Private Bill for the erection of a Toll Bridge is received by the House, the person or persons intending to petition for such Bill shall, upon giving the Notice required by the preceding Rule, also, at the same time and in the same manner, give Notice of the rates which they intend to ask, the extent of the privileges, the height of the arches, the interval between the abutments or piers for the passage of rafts and vessels, and mentioning also whether they intend to erect a drawbridge or not, and the dimensions of the same.

68. Before any Petition praying for leave to bring in a Bill for the construction of Railways, Tramways or canals is received by the House, the person or persons petitioning for such Bill shall deposit with the Clerk the following documents:

1. A map or plan upon a scale of not less than half an inch to the mile, showing the location upon which it is intended to construct the proposed work, and showing also the line of existing or authorized works of a similar character within, or in any way affecting, the district or any part thereof which the proposed work is intended to serve. Such map or plan shall be signed by the Engineer or other party making the same.

2. A book of reference in which shall be clearly set out the following information in separate schedules, namely:

Schedule A.—The name of each municipality within which the proposed works or any part thereof are intended to be constructed; the population of each such municipality as returned by the next preceding census; the rateable value of the property within each such municipality, as returned by the next preceding assessment rolls thereof; and this schedule may contain in a separate statement similar information as to the adjoining districts intended to be served by the proposed work.

Schedule B.—A general description of the nature, extent and proposed character of the contemplated works, and an estimate of the probable cost thereof, distinguishing the general items of construction and the cost thereof respectively, as well as the nature, extent and probable cost of all engines and car stock or other outfit or equipment necessary to the use and operation of the proposed undertaking, such schedule to be signed by the Engineer or other person preparing the same.

SCHEDULE C.—An exhibit showing the total amount of capital proposed to be raised for the purposes of the undertaking and the manner in which it is proposed to raise the same, whether by ordinary shares, bonds, debentures or other securities, and the amounts of each respectively.

SCHEDULE D.—An estimate of the probable revenues of the proposed undertaking, showing the sources whence the same are expected to be derived; the annual earnings thereof respectively; the probable annual cost of operation or working expenditure, and the annual net revenue applicable to the payment of interest on the proposed investments.

Such schedules shall be signed by the person preparing the same.

72. When any Bill for confirming any Letters Patent, or Agreement, is presented to the House, the copy of such Letters Patent, or Agreement, shall be attached to it.

74. Every Private Bill, when read a first time, unless it be an Estate Bill or a Bill providing for the consolidation of a floating debt or for the consolidation or renewal of debentures (other than local improvement debentures) of a Municipal Corporation, shall stand referred to the proper Standing Committee, and all petitions before the House, for or against the Bill, are considered referred to such Committee.

75. Every Private Bill, in so far as it provides for the consolidation of a floating debt or for the consolidation or renewal of debentures (other than local improvement debentures) of a Municipal Corporation, when a Bill has been read the first time, shall, without special reference, stand referred to The Ontario Municipal Board for their report; and a copy of such Bill and of the Petition on which the same is founded shall be forthwith transmitted by the Clerk of the House to the Board, in order that the Board may, after an inquiry into the allegations set out in the Bill, and into any other matters which the Board may deem necessary in connection therewith, report to the House whether or not it is reasonable that such Bill or part thereof relating to the matters aforesaid shall be passed; and what alterations, if any, should be made in the same; and the Board shall make such inquiry accordingly and shall sign the same; and the said Report, Bill and Petition shall be transmitted to the Clerk, and the Report shall be read by the Clerk at the Table and shall be entered on the Journals of the House, and the Bill, together with the Report, shall stand referred to the Standing Committee on Private Bills.

76. Every Estate Bill, when read a first time, shall without special reference stand referred to the Commissioners of Estate Bills, for their Report, and a copy of such Bill, and of the Petition on which the same is founded, shall be forthwith transmitted by the Clerk of the House to the said Commissioners, or one of them, in order that they, or any two of them, may, after perusing the Bill, without requiring any proof of the allegations thereof, report to the House their opinion thereon under their hands; and whether, presuming the allegation contained in the preamble to be proved to the satisfaction of the House, it is reasonable that such Bill do pass into a Law; and whether the provisions thereof are proper for carrying its purposes into effect, and what alterations or amendments, if any, are necessary in the same, and in the event of their approving the said Bill they are to sign the same; and the said Report, with the said Bill and Petition, are to be transmitted by the said Commissioners to the Clerk; and the Report shall be read by the Clerk at the Table and shall be entered on the Journals of the House; and the Bill together with the Report shall stand referred to the Standing Committee on Private Bills, which is not to consider the said Bill before the delivery of the said Report, Bill and Petition to the Chairman of the said Committee.

77. In the event of the Commissioners of Estate Bills reporting that, in their opinion, it is not reasonable that the Bill submitted to them shall pass into law, such Bill shall not be further considered.

CITY OF TORONTO

Application for Special Legislation

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on behalf of The Corporation of the City of Toronto, application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next Session, for special legislation to provide:

1. That by-laws may be passed by the Council of the Corporation to permit the owner of the lands at the northwest corner of Carlton and Church Streets in the City of Toronto to construct, maintain and use extensions over, upon and under the public highways known as Carlton Street and Wood Street of the building now standing on the said lands and known as Maple Leaf Gardens and to permit the Corporation to enter into an agreement with such owner prescribing the terms and conditions upon which such extensions may be constructed, maintained and used and without in any way limiting the foregoing, for prescribing the duration of such permission, such annual or other charges for the giving of such permission as the Council deems reasonable, the indemnification of the Corporation against any loss occasioned thereby and the giving of security therefor, the provision and maintenance of such parking facilities as may be deemed desirable, the payment of amounts in lieu of taxes in respect of real property and business taxes on the parts of the highways over, upon or under which the said extensions encroach, the payment of the said charges for the permission given and the amounts to be paid in lieu of taxes in like manner as real property taxes and the enforcement of payment of such charges and amounts to be paid in lieu of real property taxes in like manner as the payment of real property taxes may be enforced, the approval of plans of the said extensions by Council and by any Committee thereof, the payment to the Corporation in the manner to be prescribed or to any board, commission or corporation concerned of the cost of relocating, removing or altering any utilities or other public services resulting from or incidental to such extensions and the additional cost of constructing or laying down any such utilities or services in the future when such additional cost is made necessary by the extensions.

2. For the authorization and confirmation of the making of a grant by the Corporation to the Canadian Red Cross for the purpose of assisting in providing relief to the citizens of the City of Skopje.

3. That the Corporation may lease to John Inglis Co., Limited, any part of the lands in the Ordnance Reserve Plan, bounded on the north by the Frederick G. Gardiner Expressway lands, on the south by Fleet Street, on the west by Strachan Avenue and on the east by the west limit of Garrison Road, clear of and free from the limitation for park or industrial exhibition purposes only imposed by Section 10 of An Act respecting the City of Toronto, being Chapter 86, Statutes of Ontario, 1903.

4. For the amendment of Section 4 of The City of Toronto Act, 1960-61, relating to the levying of special charges in one or more defined areas for the capital cost or part thereof of off-street parking lots and the erection of buildings thereon, by the addition thereto of subsections providing in effect that when a by-law has been passed for levying charges as aforesaid, and the Council is of the opinion that lands in any other defined area or areas have begun or may begin to derive a special benefit from such work following the passing subsequent to the said levy of a by-law or amendment to a by-law pursuant to Section 30 of The Planning Act, the Council may by a further by-law passed with the approval of The Ontario Municipal Board levy charges against the lands in the said last-mentioned area or areas of such amounts as would have been charged against such lands if the Council had been of the opinion that the lands derived a special benefit therefrom at the time of the passing of the first-mentioned by-law, and further providing that the charges levied pursuant to the above shall be due and payable in equal annual instalments commencing the year next following the year in which the by-law imposing such levy was passed and shall continue for such term of years as the charges were imposed by the first-mentioned by-law, and shall be a lien upon the land and may be recovered in the same manner as real property taxes may be recovered, and further providing that such charges shall when paid be credited to any portion of the capital cost of the work assumed by the Corporation and to principal and interest payments upon any debentures issued in respect of such portion, and any surplus shall be used for the purposes set out in subclauses (ii) and (iii) of clause (f) of paragraph 67 of Section 377 of The Municipal Act.

Dated at Toronto, this 19th day of November, 1963.

CITY OF TORONTO

NOTICE OF SUPPLEMENTARY APPLICATION FOR SPECIAL LEGISLATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on behalf of The Corporation of the City of Toronto, application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next Session, for special legislation to provide:

1. The Council of the Corporation may pass by-laws to authorize The Parking Authority of Toronto on behalf of the Corporation to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of land or buildings under the control of the Authority when the same are no longer required for the purposes of the Authority, and to authorize the Corporation or the Authority to acquire land and construct buildings and maintain the same upon or under land under the control of the Authority notwithstanding that such land or buildings are not required for the purposes of the Authority or the Corporation, or to construct and maintain buildings upon or under such land having a greater capacity than is required for the foregoing purposes, and to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of any such building or portion thereof not so required; and further to provide that the Corporation may in any by-law permitting the Authority to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of land, impose limitations and conditions upon the exercise of such powers by the Authority; and further to provide that any instruments required to convey, lease or otherwise dispose of land or buildings under such special legislation shall be executed by the Corporation, and that all moneys obtained from any sale, lease or other disposition as aforesaid shall be paid to the City Treasurer and after payment of expenses incidental thereto shall be deposited in a reserve fund and shall be applied, firstly, for the payment of interest and principal falling due in each year in respect of the acquisition of such land and the erection of buildings thereon or thereunder and, secondly, for the acquisition, laying out or improvement of additional parking lots or facilities and the construction of buildings thereon or thereunder and, thirdly, for such other purposes as the Department of Municipal Affairs may approve and further to provide that the Corporation may incur debts and issue debentures for the purposes set out in such special legislation.

2. That the omission of the Corporation and its officers or any of them to give the notice required by Section 115 of The Assessment Act to any person liable pursuant to By-law No. 21857 of the Corporation, being "A By-law to levy and collect further taxes in the year 1963 in the City of Toronto" to business taxes on a business assessment of $8,065.00 or less, and to collect the taxes levied by the said by-law on any such assessment of $8,065.00 or less, shall be authorized and confirmed.

3. That the Corporation may by by-law authorize agreements with any other municipality for the construction, improvement, alteration, enlargement or extension of sewage works either by the Corporation or by such other municipality to service lands owned by the Corporation, and may provide for the payment of the cost thereof or for payment to such other municipality therefor of such amount as may be agreed upon, and any such construction, improvement, alteration, enlargement or extension of the said works shall be deemed to be a purpose of the Corporation.

4. That the Corporation may make a grant to the widow of the late Mayor Donald D. Summerville to cover public funeral expenses of the said Donald D. Summerville.

Dated at Toronto this 28th day of November, 1963.
